

Careening car kills twp. man

A Plymouth Township man was killed late Saturday afternoon on Ann Arbor Road by an out-of-control car that bounced against a guardrail before hitting him, Wayne County Sheriffs report.

Wayne County Sheriff gave the following account of the accident which is still under investigation:

Alex McTaggart, 32, of 264 W. Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth, was hit by a west bound recent model Ford station wagon at 4:25 p.m. Saturday while riding his bike on Ann Arbor Road. He was followed by his 10-year old daughter, who was not injured in the accident, the sheriff department said.

Sheriffs report that the driver of the car, going westbound on Ann Arbor Road, had just passed another car and was coming into the westbound right lane, where another car was beginning to brake.

The driver of the Ford tried to stop, police report, but lost control of the car, struck a guardrail, bounced, and hit the bicycle and its rider.

McTaggart was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital, sheriffs report.

City gives central parking lot green light

A HELICOPTER TOUR was just one of the activities enjoyed by a group of Isbister students during a tour of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department last Wednesday. The City Commission approved a request by City Manager Fred Yockey to begin work on re-ramping the Central Parking Lot Monday night.

"It is my recommendation that we go immediately to the concrete portion (along S. Harvey st.) of the lot and take bids on the cement work," said Yockey.

"The asphalt portion can be done up till October so we will ask the contractor not to do it during Fall Festival, but any time after that."

Yockey also referred to merchants' objections to the relocation of the ticket spitter on Ann Arbor Trail and 90-degree parking.

"The merchants asked that the ticket spitter on Ann Arbor Trail not be moved, but left in approximately the same location," Yockey said.

"In reviewing it, the unloading would be more difficult so the new location will be about where it is now."

Yockey said that a decision on 90-degree parking would have to wait until the city finished engineering on the lot.

"Last September in a report we found that the engineering had not been done on this lot," said Yockey. "In talks with the City Engineer, Alan Gove, he tells me that we will not be able to have this done until August 1."

Yockey also said that the toll booth equipment the city already ordered would not be received until July 1.

The commissioners approved the request unanimously.

Recall charges labeled 'absurd'

BY CHAS CHILD

The two Canton officials who will probably be added to the recall ballot in Canton have labeled the charges against them as "absurd" and unfounded.

Lynn LaBell, the leader of the recall effort, handed in 1,709 signatures asking for Treasurer Anne Bradley's recall and 1,700 for Trustee Eugene Daley, collected over the last two weeks to Clerk John Flodin.

To put Daley and Bradley on the recall ballot, 1,251 valid signatures are required. It now seems likely that Bradley and Daley will face a vote of Canton residents to recall them, along with the third member of their slate, Supervisor Harold Stein. The Bradley and Daley recall signatures have not been validated by the Canton clerks office yet.

The leader of the Stein recall forces, Peter Gabbert, already has enough valid signatures to force a recall election for Stein.

The recall petitions charge the two have caused "a school tax crisis by failing to pursue voter approved concept of limited development and consistently proposed and supported policies and programs to undermine the progressive development of Canton."

Mrs. Bradley said she could not have caused a school tax crisis because she took office just about six months ago.

"We took office Nov. 20 and the taxes were already in the works and sent out just the next month, December," she said.

As for the platting moratorium on all new subdivisions recently proposed by Stein, Daley said he supported it, provided it was legal.

Bradley said it was hard for her to decide whether to call a platting halt.

"I don't want to see 200,000 people in the township, but Rome wasn't built in a day. We need time to plan what to do."

Stein has also asked for a study to determine the cost of buying development rights of farmland in the township. The farmer would still own the land, but could not then sell it to a developer.

Both Bradley and Daley said they supported the farmland study.

"The study is imperative," Daley said.

"We have to know just how much it will cost to save the farmland," Bradley said. "Then if the people know how much it is, and approve it by a vote, then I'll support it."

The petitions also charge that Bradley and Daley have limited the "public input at township meetings."

Thirty minutes are set aside for public discussion at all township meetings, "this has been in practice for two years now," Daley said.

The third charge on the recall ballots is that the two officials have "refused to support the interest of homeowners from incompatible land uses that will undermine the property values

Slain officer raised in Plymouth

Mac Donnelly Jr., 35, a patrolman-detective for the Lansing Police Department and a former Plymouth resident, was shot to death Thursday during an attempted bank robbery in East Lansing.

Donnelly was shot twice after he pulled his unmarked police car in front of the get-away car with the alleged bank robbers and hostages inside.

He ran toward the car with his gun drawn, police said, and fired three shots, wounding one bandit before he was fatally hit. Donnelly was taken to Sparrow Hospital, where he died a half hour later.

Married and the father of five children, Donnelly went to a parochial school in Plymouth and graduated from St. Thomas High School in Ann Arbor. He served with the U.S. Coast Guard after high school and had been with the Lansing Police Dept. for nine years.

He was the first officer to be killed in the Lansing Department. A black and white flag was flown at half-mast Friday and Lansing police wore black velvet bars above their badges.

In Sept. 1974 Donnelly joined the Organized Crime Unite of the Lansing Dept. with the rank of detective. He often worked under cover assignments for narcotics bureau.

In 1975, he received several letters of recommendation and recognition for helping prevent a homicide in Lansing.

Donnelly is survived by his wife, Margaret, and five children, Anne E., Ruth M., Mary M., Mac Jr. III., and Joseph E., aged three to nine years old.

He was the son of Elizabeth and Mac Donnelly Sr. of Plymouth. His mother recently retired from teaching in the Plymouth-Canton school district.

Donnelly is also survived by sisters, Mrs. Gail Druillard, of Canton; Mrs. Kathleen Martin of Troy; Mrs. Mary Smith of Olathe Kan.; Mrs. Elizabeth Barker of Plymouth; brothers Thomas of Wayne and Brian of Lansing.

Crane kills man in Canton

For the second time in recent months, an industrial accident involving cranes has occurred in Canton, the latest fatal to a young man from Livonia. According to Wayne County Sheriff reports, Charles D. Kennedy, 23, of Livonia was crushed last Friday morning between a turning counterweight and frame on a construction crane in a new subdivision in Canton.

He was rushed to Wayne County General Hospital at 11:10 a.m., and pronounced dead at 11:26 a.m. after doctors there tried to revive him, sheriffs report.

"It was a kind of a basic inductural accident," said Wayne County Sheriff Det. Walter Holowka. "This is the second accident of this type I've had in Canton recently."

The Sheriff department gave the following account of the accident:

Kennedy was an employe of the Acitelli Peterman Co., of Farmington, who were doing a job for the Crescendo Homes at lot 619 in the new Sunflower Sub on Warren Road east of Canton-Center Road.

According to the crane operator, the report said, the operator was in the cab and said he saw Kennedy a short way off, and seeing no one else around, started the crane swinging the counterweight around. He said that he stopped the crane when he heard someone yell to him.

A witness in the sheriff report said that Kennedy was close to the crane and talking to someone and didn't see the counterweight swinging around.

"The crane was unloading wooden frames," said Det. Holowka.

"The men are so used to working on the site with these machines day after day, I saw no reason to believe the crane operator was negligent.

"There's no way to fool-proof it unless you redesign the entire machine."

Det. Holowka said the earlier crane mishap, in which a man was injured, involved an older crane with a larger clearance. The crane that crushed Kennedy was newer and had a six inch clearance below the counterweight, Holowka said.

The accident is still under investigation by the Sheriff's Department.

Kennedy lived with his parents in Livonia and had attended Clarenceville High School.

He is survived by his parents, Kenneth and Ellen; sisters, Donna 24, Kathy 19, and Pam, 14; brothers, Frank 12 and Michael 11; and a grandmother, Mrs. Martha Grose of Livonia.

Canton casts wary eye on land bill

BY CHAS CHILD

A bill aimed at preserving Canton farmland near urban areas was met with skepticism by local farmers and landowners Monday.

The owner of a 10-acre tract in western Canton Township, said she had paid taxes of up to $1,200 per acre for 44 years, and now wanted to sell the land for her retirement.

"I paid taxes for all these years to help make Canton what it is today," she said, "and I think I should be able to get a decent price for it now."

She told the sponsor of the bill, State Rep. Thomas Brown, whose district includes Plymouth and Canton Townships, that she feared his bill would lower the price she might get for her land.

Brown's bill is designed to lower the tax burden on farmland next to expanding urban areas. Farmland in Michigan is taxed on its potential or speculative value, not on its actual use value as farmland.

The bill calls for the farmer to give up the "development rights" to his land to the state in exchange for the lower taxes.

If the farmer or landowner signs the voluntary agreement with the state, he could not sell to a developer for the next ten years without penalties.

Canton is currently considering a plan that would buy development rights from the landowners, in an effort to preserve the township's open spaces.

Bart Berg, chairman of Canton's Land Use Study Committee, told Brown's committee of state representatives that he hoped the legislature would enact enabling legislation to make Canton's program possible.

Duane Bordine, of 48956 Saltz Rd., Canton, said not only did farming near urban areas drive up the taxes, but just plain people made farming difficult.

"This bill won't keep horses out of my wheat field and soybeans," Bordine told the committee. "You can't fence in everything."

Another farmer, told the committee to ask the farmers how many of them are interested in giving up their development rights for 10 years. "I'm not interested in selling my development rights at any price," he said.

Brown said the program was strictly voluntary. "We want you to use your property the way you want but not give away all your rights," he said.

G'Stein cleared of driveway charge

BY CHAS CHILD

A State Police investigator said he could find no evidence that former Canton Supervisor Robert Greenstein's driveway was improved at township expenses.

Sargeant George Bays said after looking at the driveway, "there's no conceivable way" 15 tons of limestone could have been spread on it, as charged by Tom Hunt, a former Canton Department of Public Works employe.

Hunt also charged that he was reimbursed "through what appeared as overtime pay on my township paycheck."

Bays said he could find no evidence of this, either.

"There would have to have been about $100 added to his paycheck of that time (April '76) and I didn't see it," Bays said.

Hunt made the charges in a letter signed and given to The Crier Sept. 6, 1976. Bays said Hunt now stands by the letter, but refused to come into the police office and discuss the charges. He also refused to take a lie detector test, Bays said.

Bays also officially closed investigation of possible wrongdoings stemming from the township's over-billing from weed-cutting done in Canton last summer.

No official charges were ever made but two persons, Bruce Phillips, the township's ordinance officer, and A.R. Vanclve, a private contractor who did the cutting, were cleared by virtue of negative lie detector tests, Bays said.

There was sloppy bookwork, Bays said, but "I could find no evidence of criminal intent in the weed-cutting case."

Greenstein said he was glad "an intelligent police officer finally made a decent investigation of the case."

He also said the charges should never have been made in the first case and were politically motivated. He had said earlier that the charges "were made during the campaign last fall and Hunt was a friend of Bob Myers, one of my critics."

Bays said he is still investigating charges that former Treasurer Carl Parsell bought and charged to the township part of $1,200 worth of baseball equipment for the Canton Recreation Department leagues.

City workers to get a salary increase

The City Commission approved a seven per cent salary increase for general salaried city employees Monday night.

"This is the seven per cent adjustment effective July 1st, which is the same amount negotiated for public works employees," said City Manager Fred Yockey.

"It also includes an optical program and changes in the sick leave program. We're trying to bring our different groups more in line with each other."

Commissioner Norbert Battermann objected to the increase, calling it unfair.

"We're talking about a percentage, not a flat rate," said Battermann. "I would much rather see the city take five per cent of the total payroll and give them a flat increase plus a percentage. I think the lower-paid employees of the city should benefit as much as the higher paid employees."

Commissioner Beverly McAninch agreed.

"I agree with Norb in principle because I think we're giving them a very small increase," said McAninch. "I feel that this thing becomes more and more inequitable."

McAninch moved that a consultant from the Michigan Municipal League come in and review the city's salary structure.

Her motion passed five to two with Mayor Joe Bida and Commissioner Tom Turner voting no.

The Commission then approved the salary increase by a vote of six to one. Batterman cast the single no vote.

Nine men vie for police post

BY CHAS CHILD

The search for Canton's new police chief has been narrowed to nine men.

The Michigan Municipal League, a state-wide municipal service organization, is testing the candidates. They've completed the written tests and will now give them oral interviews.

The nine men are:

Clattie M. Berryman, Jr., lieutenant in the Detroit Police Department; Russell G. Blanchard, lieutenant in the Detroit Police Department; Arlee A. Dansfield, lieutenant, Washtenaw Sheriff Department; Elliott D. Fredland, former captain in the Washtenaw Sheriff Department; Robert Hislop, executive lieutenant, Detroit Police Department; Walter D. MacGregor, former police chief of the City of Wayne; Harold N. Meldrum, lieutenant, Wayne Police Department; Carl Silvers, commander, Canton Police Department; and James F. Spickard, former undersheriff, Washtenaw County Sheriff Department.

After the league finishes its testing, it will rank the candidates in order—and Canton's Board of Trustees will make the final selection, Clerk John Flodin said.

The position will pay $21,000.

School voters have short memory

The voters in the Plymouth-Canton district have a very short memory.

We find it hard to believe that only 11 per cent of the voters showed up at the polls last Monday, especially when just a year ago, the millage was decided by a single vote.

If anything could disprove the old drop-in-the-bucket theory - that every vote does count - last year's millage vote should have been it.

Granted, there wasn't a millage on the ballot last week, but whomever sits on the school board is every bit as important.

Board members make the day-to-day decisions that go a long way in determining the quality of our schools.

For a community that often complains that their needs are not met by the school board, we wonder why only 11 per cent voiced these needs.

Don't split up the CEP marching band

EDITOR:

I read your article June 8 about splitting the Plymouth Centennial Park Marching Band.

I'm in the Marching Band and enjoy it every much. Why don't you leave the band the way it is or let the band decide - not the paper or Board of Education.

You are not the ones who have to perform - we do!

What's the matter with the band? Even though there's two schools, it's a honor to be in the Marching Band.

Ever since I heard of the band I've wanted to be in it but wondered whether I was good enough because you really have to work hard and I made it. The band, because of performances, gets invited to a lot of places. This year we were invited to Mexico City to represent the State of Michigan in a marching contest and the winning band would get around $15,000.

Now for next year. We have already been invited for a marching competition in Flint, Michigan's Band Day, Westerns Band Day and we get to go to Pontiac Stadium to perform after the game for the Lions along with three other invitations.

I can't think now why you want to ruin what we have going for us just because we have two schools and one band.

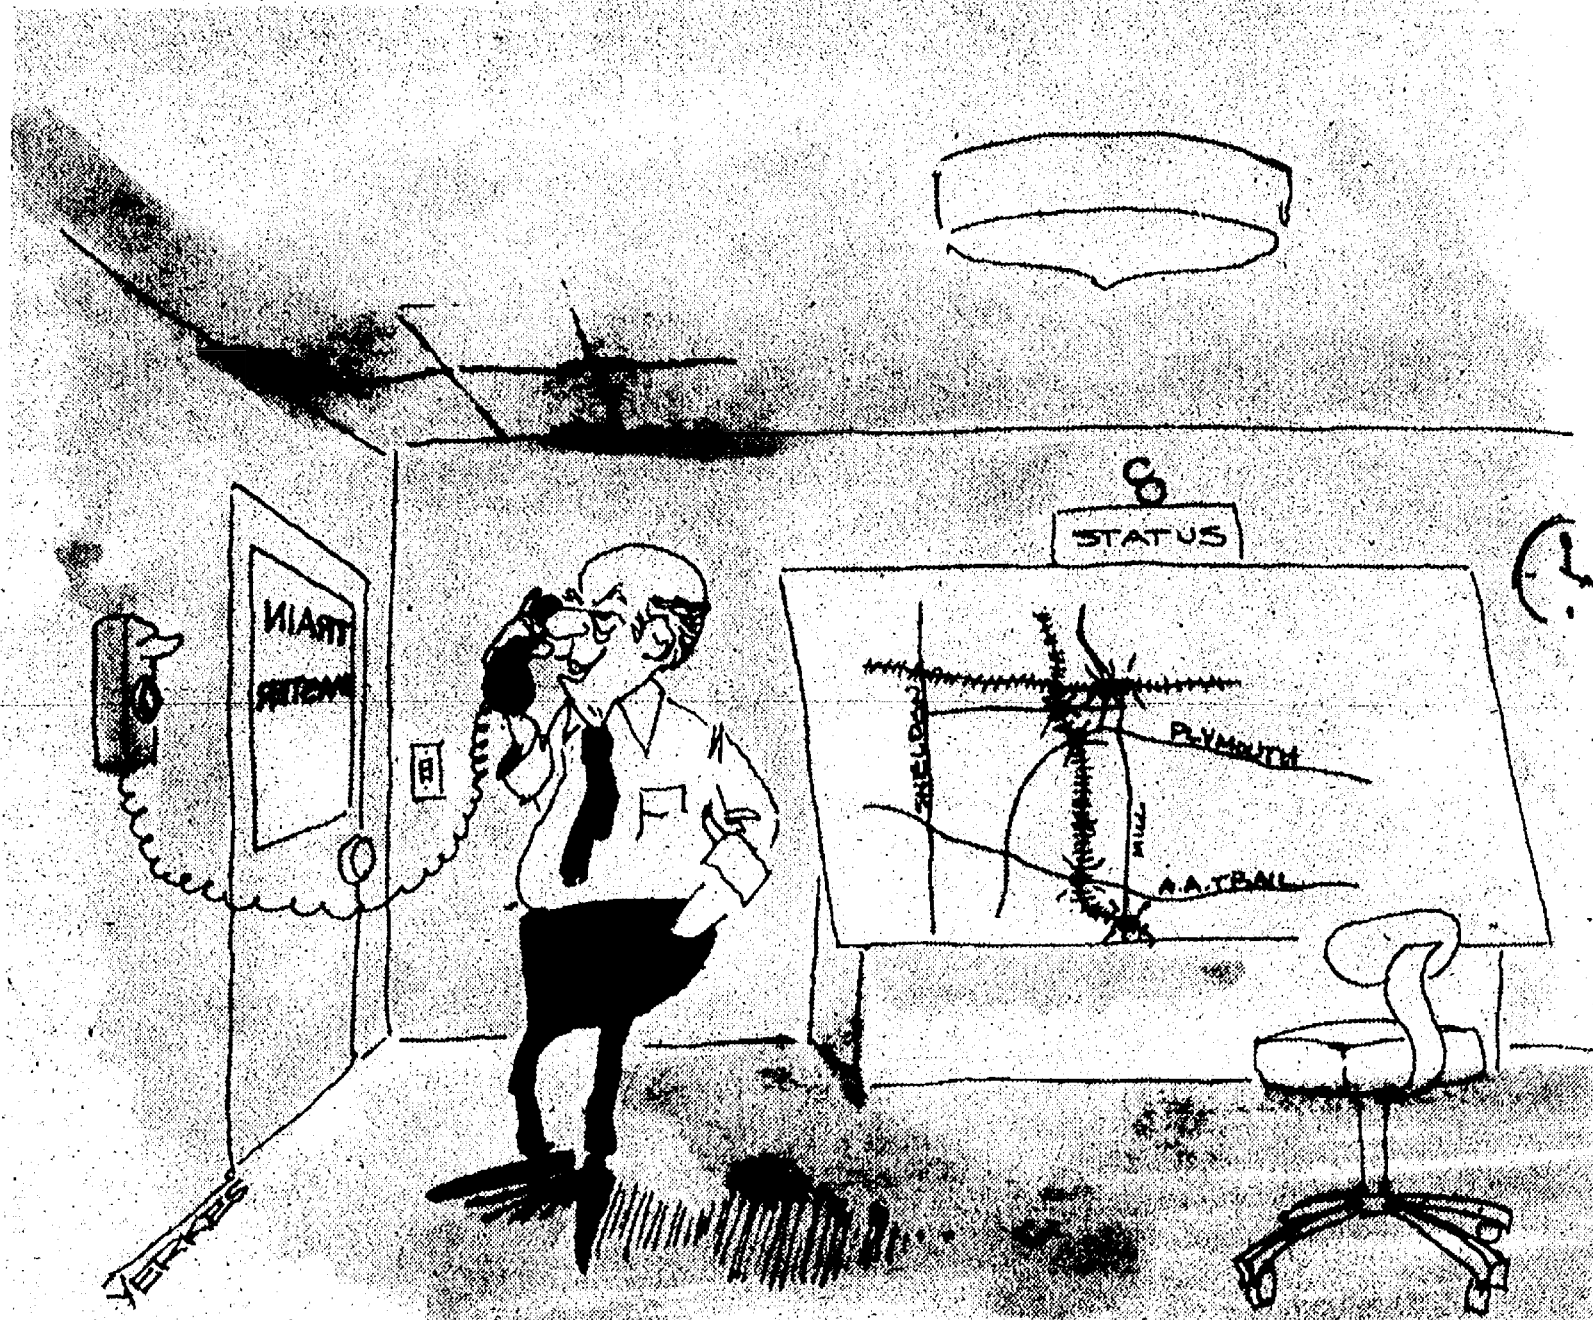

Also, splitting up the band means they would have to buy new uniforms and the uniforms now cost about $225 a piece. So you combine that with 195 members in the band and that's $44,100 not counting the money for about eight more snare drums, three triples, seven tubas and flags and rifles - that's a lot of money right there.

There would also be less football games to perform for and we wouldn't get invited to anything because the Plymouth Marching Band would be broken up.

You also added in the paper about how there are now adequate facilities, well soon there won't be because of the way Canton Township is growing and then what we have now won't even be enough!

If you took a poll in the Marching Band, they wouldn't want it because we discussed this earlier in Band and the majority said "no".

Canton growth plan raises moral and money issues

The land use issue in Canton is now centered on the proposal for the township to buy the "development rights" of the remaining farm and open land.

Under this proposal, the farmer or landowner would still have title to his land, he just couldn't develop it. The township would buy and own the right to develop the land.

If adopted, the plan would be breaking new legal ground. Nowhere else in the country is the plan in use.

The cost of buying the development rights would be high - roughly estimated at $12-15 million by Canton's Assistant Treasurer, Mike Gorman.

Township Planner George Peek is waiting for approval from the Canton board of trustees to undertake a study to determine the exact cost of buying the development rights and the cost of providing services to the land if it was developed. The biggest supporters of the plan are the newer residents of the township - new subdivision residents.

This raises an interesting point: if the township had bought the development rights to their lots, the new residents would still be back in Detroit, Livonia, or wherever they came from.

The owners of the land due to be preserved pay high taxes, because the state assesses the land according to its potential or speculative value, not its actual value as farmland.

The landowners, many of whom are senior citizens, have put up with the high taxes in anticipation of selling to a developer for a tidy retirement nest egg.

Under the proposed plan, the landowner would no longer be able to command the higher speculative price for his land. He would get the financial shot-in-the-arm from the township, however, and the land would be taxed as farmland.

The township government, then, would be in the position of excluding future residents and limiting the use of the landowner's property.

Aside from these moral considerations, the big issue is money. Are the present residents willing to pay for the open spaces?

The plan and its funding will undoubtedly come to a vote, probably within a year.

Finally, it is ironic that many developers are avoiding Canton because of the anti-development sentiment in the township.

Development may stop with or without government action.

City needs a dog catcher

EDITOR:

I had to re-read the letter Mrs. McCain wrote at least three times to actually make myself believe that such a cruel thing could happen.

My what a fine example these people of authority give to everyone, especially young people, by shooting dogs and cats in the street and not even bothering to find out what the consequences could be!

Even Canton has a dog catcher! What about Plymouth? The least they could do is pick the dog or cat up and take it to the humane society where it could be disposed of more humanely if need be.

I hope they are proud of their "fine deed". I suppose they felt they were doing a service to the community! I am behind Mrs. McCain 100%.

Who will they start shooting next? Undersirable people? Or will they just stick to shooting poor defenseless animals?

I wonder how they might feel as Mrs. McCain mentioned, if that injured dog had bitten a child or anyone, but then I feel that if they could do something so cruel in the first place, they have no conscience about anything else either.

MRS. MICHAELINE WIER
P.S. The only time I "might" condone such an act would be if the animal were rabid, but that was not the case as I understood the facts - the animal was "just a stray".

Twp. firefighters to hold all-star circus

The Plymouth Township Firefighters, Local 1496, is sponsoring the 1977 edition of the International All-Star Circus at the Plymouth Cultural Center on Mon. June 27.

The circus, a 90-minute live indoor extravaganza, marks the first time the firefighters have sponsored such a show.

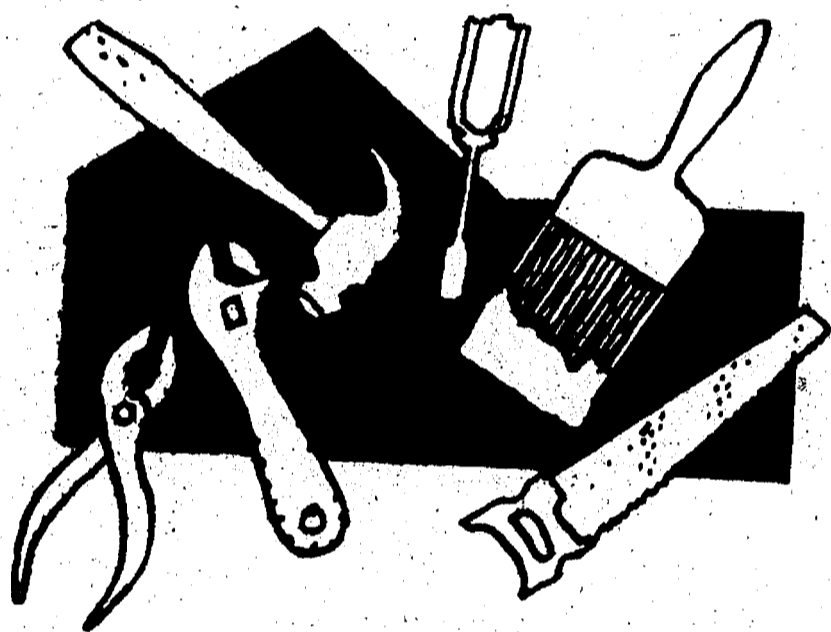

"Part of the money we earn will go to the Burn Center in Ann Arbor," said Bob Caloia, Circus Chairman.

"The rest will go to the Little League in the township and to our firefighters 'Loan Out' Closet."

The circus will feature a number of razzle-dazzle acts, including the exotic "Uncle Heavy's Pork Chop Review," "Targa the Performing Leopard," who will be uncaged; and the "Diamond Duo", a trapeze team who will perform their daring feats without the aid of nets or safety devices. Foot juggling and a locked trunk escape will be other highlights of the circus.

Caloia reports that ticket sales are doing "OK". Tickets may be purchased at the Township Hall Fire Station after Saturday or at the gate.

General admission is $3 for adults, $2 for children and a family and group passes are available. A number of sponsor passes have been made available to underprivileged and handicapped groups.

Cupler teaches pioneer crafts

BY ELAINE GUREGIAN

What craft is creative, painstaking, and a distinctive part of our Pioneer heritage?

Quilting, that's what, and it's thriving in Plymouth party because of the enthusiasm of Thelma Cupler in Plymouth.

Mrs. Cupler, a native Detroit has been quilting for about six years of the eight years she's lived here, and has taught quilting in Plymouth Community Adult Education classes for the last four years.

The classes are open to all adults and attract enthusiasts of a wide range of ages.

The classes have usually run for eight weeks, but for one group of students, that just wasn't enough. After the class ended, they formed their own quilting club, which is still active.

Part of the appeal of quilting may be in the satisfaction of crafting something completely by hand.

Mrs. Cupler says that although there are patterns available she encourages those who are inspired, to design their own. Deciding on a pattern, however, is only the first step.

The pattern must be traced onto a board (like poster board) then traced onto the material.

Individual pieces are sewn together - by hand, then assembled into blocks forming the top of the quilt.

Next, the bottom layer of the quilt is stretched on a frame, filler is put on top, and the top layers of the quilt is stretched over both. After these layers are basted together, the final step is the actual quilting.

Besides teaching classes, Mrs. Cupler has enjoyed giving demonstrations for the Christian Women's Clubs and churches in the area.

An experienced seamstress, she also likes to crochet, embroider, and knit.

But quilting isn't all Mrs. Cupler enjoys. She is also a great-grandmother and enjoys visiting her great grandchildren as well, and can't wait until they're old enough so she can teach them to quilt too.

THELMA CUPLER of Plymouth displays a few examples of her handcrafted quilts and needlepoint. Mrs. Cupler teaches in the Plymouth-Canton schools adult education program. (Crier photo by Brian Watkins).

C of C okays parking plan-almost

BY SUSAN NICHOLAS

Despite a vote of approval for the city's latest plan to revamp the Central Parking Lot, the Downtown Development Committee of the Chamber of Commerce still has doubts about it.

Ninety-degree parking stalls and the relocation of the toll gate on Ann Arbor Trail were the chief complaints cited by the committee during an early morning meeting last Wednesday at the chamber offices.

"I happen to have three stores in three shopping centers," said downtown merchant Hugh Jarvis. "May I ask why Todman, Dayton-Hudson, and Rouse, Co., don't use 90-degree parking if this is such a hot idea?"

"Well, they have considerably more land than we do," replied Tim Roache of the City of Plymouth Department of Public Works (DPW).

"Sure, a small car getting into this would have no problem, but I can see that pulling a station wagon in there is going to be difficult," said Claude Cornwall of Detroit Edison. "You're going to have bent fenders and dented doors."

Dody Kennedy of Pick o' the Wick store on Ann Arbor Trail, thought that angular parking would be easier.

"I think that when it comes to parking, angular parking is easier," said Ms. Kennedy. "It's easier for a man, it's easier for a woman."

But despite their concerns, committee members said they were eager to see construction on the lot begin.

"I think we know there is a political hassle involved in this," said Roache. "I think most of us would like to see this resolved this year."

"I think we should recommend that construction begin immediately," said Jarvis. "We may have concerns with striping and so forth, but let's get this thing off dead center."

The committee approved the plan, save for the concerns listed above. They also approved a motion to request a special meeting with the City Commission on June 27.

FACTS ON PLYMOUTH'S SENIOR CITIZENS are now being key-punched by Liz Atkinson at Accountant Computer Service on Penniman Ave. The results will give the city's Blue Ribbon Study Committee on Aging data on the needs of the city's seniors. (Crier photo by Brian Watkins.)

Senior study progressing

The Blue Ribbon Study Committee senior citizens survey is progressing, according to Scott Levely, study committee member.

The information gathered from the survey is being programmed this week by Accountant Computer Service Co. of 823 Penniman.

Bill Morrison, of Accountant Computer Service, is programming the survey information and developing programs through the computers through which specific information will be available from the survey.

The survey was taken in May from more than 800 persons in the city who were 60 years of age or over.

Questions were asked about age, housing status, transportation needs, and medical needs by 100 volunteers of the Blue Ribbon Study Committee.

The survey will be used to "make recommendations for social programs for seniors, and to help determine some course of action of housing for seniors," said Levely.

Bartnick named school labor assistant

Walter J. Bartnick, Jr. has been named administrative assistant for labor relations for the Plymouth-Canton School District.

Bartnick, who is from Dearborn Heights, will begin his duties July 1 at the newly created administrative position at a salary of $18,100 yearly.

He will be reporting to Norman Kee, administrative assistant for employee relations. Kee will remain in charge of labor relations and personnel.

There are now seven bargaining units for Plymouth-Canton School District employees - including the addition this year of a union for administrators.

Bartnick will assist Kee in personnel for the schools and in negotiations for cafeteria, secretarial, custodial employes, teacher aides and non-union employes and administrators.

Kee, however, will continue to represent the school board in negotiations with the Plymouth Education Assoc. (PEA), the only bargaining agent for teachers.

The new labor relations director comes to the school district from Flint Ink where he was corporate director of personnel. While there, he administered the wage and salary programs, negotiated and interpreted collective bargaining, and administered safety and insurance programs.

School announces summer hours

Beginning Monday, June 27, the Plymouth-Canton School Board will have new summer hours.

The new hours are 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Handy booklet helps

PLUS eases first day jitters

BY ELAINE GUREGIAN

The first day of school does not necessarily have to be a traumatic experience - for either the child or the parents.

With the proper preparation, a child can adjust easily and happily from the familiar environment of home to the unfamiliar and at first frightening surroundings of kindergarten.

Those ideas are from kindergarten teachers from Field, Eriksson and Starkweather schools, and members of the PLUS (Pupils Learning Useful Skills) staff who, working cooperatively with the Title I program which operates in these schools, prepared a handbook for parents of prospective kindergarteners.

According to Mary Fritz, director of PLUS, "Kindergarten teachers in the area felt the need for a booklet to give comprehensive tips to mothers to help make the transition from home to school more pleasant."

The booklet, entitled 'Off We Go' is organized to give information about what the child should bring to school the first day, and to give parents suggestions of various activities in which they can participate with their child to prepare him or her for school activities.

Parents who have recently moved to the Plymouth-Canton area may find the booklet, outlining basic operating policies of the schools and the list of community resources (including libraries, museums, and fire stations) especially helpful.

Although staff members from only three schools helped produce the booklet, it will be used in the entire school system in conjunction with a school visitation day that takes place each spring.

As the children explore the classrooms and playgrounds, parents will talk to teachers and administrators and receive the booklet.

PLUS, says Fritz, is primarily a pre-school program which has operated in Field, Eriksson, and Starkweather Schools with the Title I program, which is federally funded.

Along with PLUS director Fritz, Roxanne Sparkman and Sue Steele, teachers and Marilyn Anason, Secretary-Aide, developed the booklet. Teachers Bev Bloom, Jeanne Bowman, Barbara Doyle, and Gregory Maloney also helped in the project.

A Starkweather alumnus, Dan Chambers, now a student at Salem High School, has done volunteer work at Starkweather's kindergarten and illustrated the booklet.

With the support of parents who follow the tips outlined in the booklet, more kids may be able to remember their school days as happy days - right from the start.

Summer vacation is sun, baseball, swimming, and - reading. For many students, it's magical what reading can do in summer.

Schools to aid gifted kids

BY ELAINE GUREGIAN
Gifted children in the Plymouth-Canton School District will have new opportunities to broaden their intellectual and cultural horizons with the implementation of a Gifted and Talented Program scheduled to begin September.

The program, to service children in all elementary schools in the district, is designed to provide mentally stimulating activities beyond those found in normal classroom situations for exceptionally gifted students according to spokesmen.

What criteria will be used to select students for this program? According to Patricia Gibbons, Asst. Principal at Pioneer Middle School, and a member of the program's committee, the first step toward selection will probably be recognition of talent by the parents and teachers.

Academic test results, as well as problem solving tests or evaluations by specialists, will be used to screen applicants. Different methods may be used to test children whose talent is artistic and unmeasurable by traditional tests.

Children selected for the program will proceed through the normal succession of grades, but will have the opportunity to take more advanced courses than are normally offered at their levels. One example of the need for this type of accelerated program was provided by Gibbons. She cited a student moving to Plymouth-Canton in the fall, scheduled to attend Pioneer, who has already completed calculus studies.

Central to the philosophy of the program, according to Gibbons, is the input of the children.

They will be able to discuss their goals with counselors (one in each school) as well as with the program director, according to current tentative plans. In addition to taking challenging courses, the children may also participate in field trips; for example, to learn about business operations, said Gibbons.

As another source of enrichment, Gibbons envisions a mobile resource center, run like a bookmobile, which would contain special interest material for both students and teachers.

As Gibbons sees it, the van could be used three ways: As a resource center, as a method of moving a resource person between schools, and as a vehicle to take children on field trips.

Further explaining the ways children in the program would spend their time, Gibbons said, "We feel that a child should be mainstreamed with his peers part of the day and with people of his own ability part of the day."

The program's budget for school year 1977-78 is estimated at $55,000. One program director is to be hired, at a salary of $16,000. Materials, including those used in a resource center, contracted services or consultants, evaluations, building budgets for each pupil and equipment costs, complete the list of expected expenditures, according to figures submitted to the Board of Education.

Following initial approval by the school board last Monday, committee members hope that Plymouth-Canton schools will expand existing programs and develop new programs, opportunities and resources for the gifted and talented children in the community.

Pupils meet author via long-distance

BY SUSAN NICHOLAS

Have you ever been so moved by a book that you wish you could meet its author?

That's what a group of Gallimore students did recently when they placed a long-distance phone call to author Paula Fox winner of the 1974 Newberry Award for outstanding children's literature.

The students, all fourth and fifth graders, were members of SPRINGS (Self-Propelled Readers In Gallimore School), a group designed for advanced readers.

"These are kids who read a lot, but maybe the girls were reading Nancy Drew and the boys were reading sports books," said Gallimore librarian Kathy Schmidt. "We knew they could read a wider range of literature."

The group met once a week and chose as its topic the Civil War, which led them to Ms. Fox's book, "Slave Dancer".

"Slave Dancer" is about a boy named Jessie who plays a fife in New Orleans. He is kidnapped and placed on a slave ship where he plays his fife whenever the slaves are brought up on deck to exercise.

Mrs. Schmidt said the students were very moved by the book.

"They were appalled that one of Jessie's jobs was to empty buckets of refuse and how lowly the slaves were treated," she said.

The student's interest in the book led to the idea of a telephone call.

"I wrote to Ms. Fox first and asked if we might do this," recalled Mrs. Schmidt. "She said, 'I'm not much of a telephone talker but okay.'"

The students then placed a 30-minute conference call to Ms. Fox at her home in Brooklyn, N.Y.

During the call, the students questioned Ms. Fox about both "Slave Dancer" and her writing. One student asked her where she got the idea for the book.

"There was a little footnote on the page of a history book which said that there were little children in London who were often kidnapped to work on slave ships," said Ms. Fox over the phone. "I had that footnote on my mind for about three years before I wrote 'Slave Dancer.'"

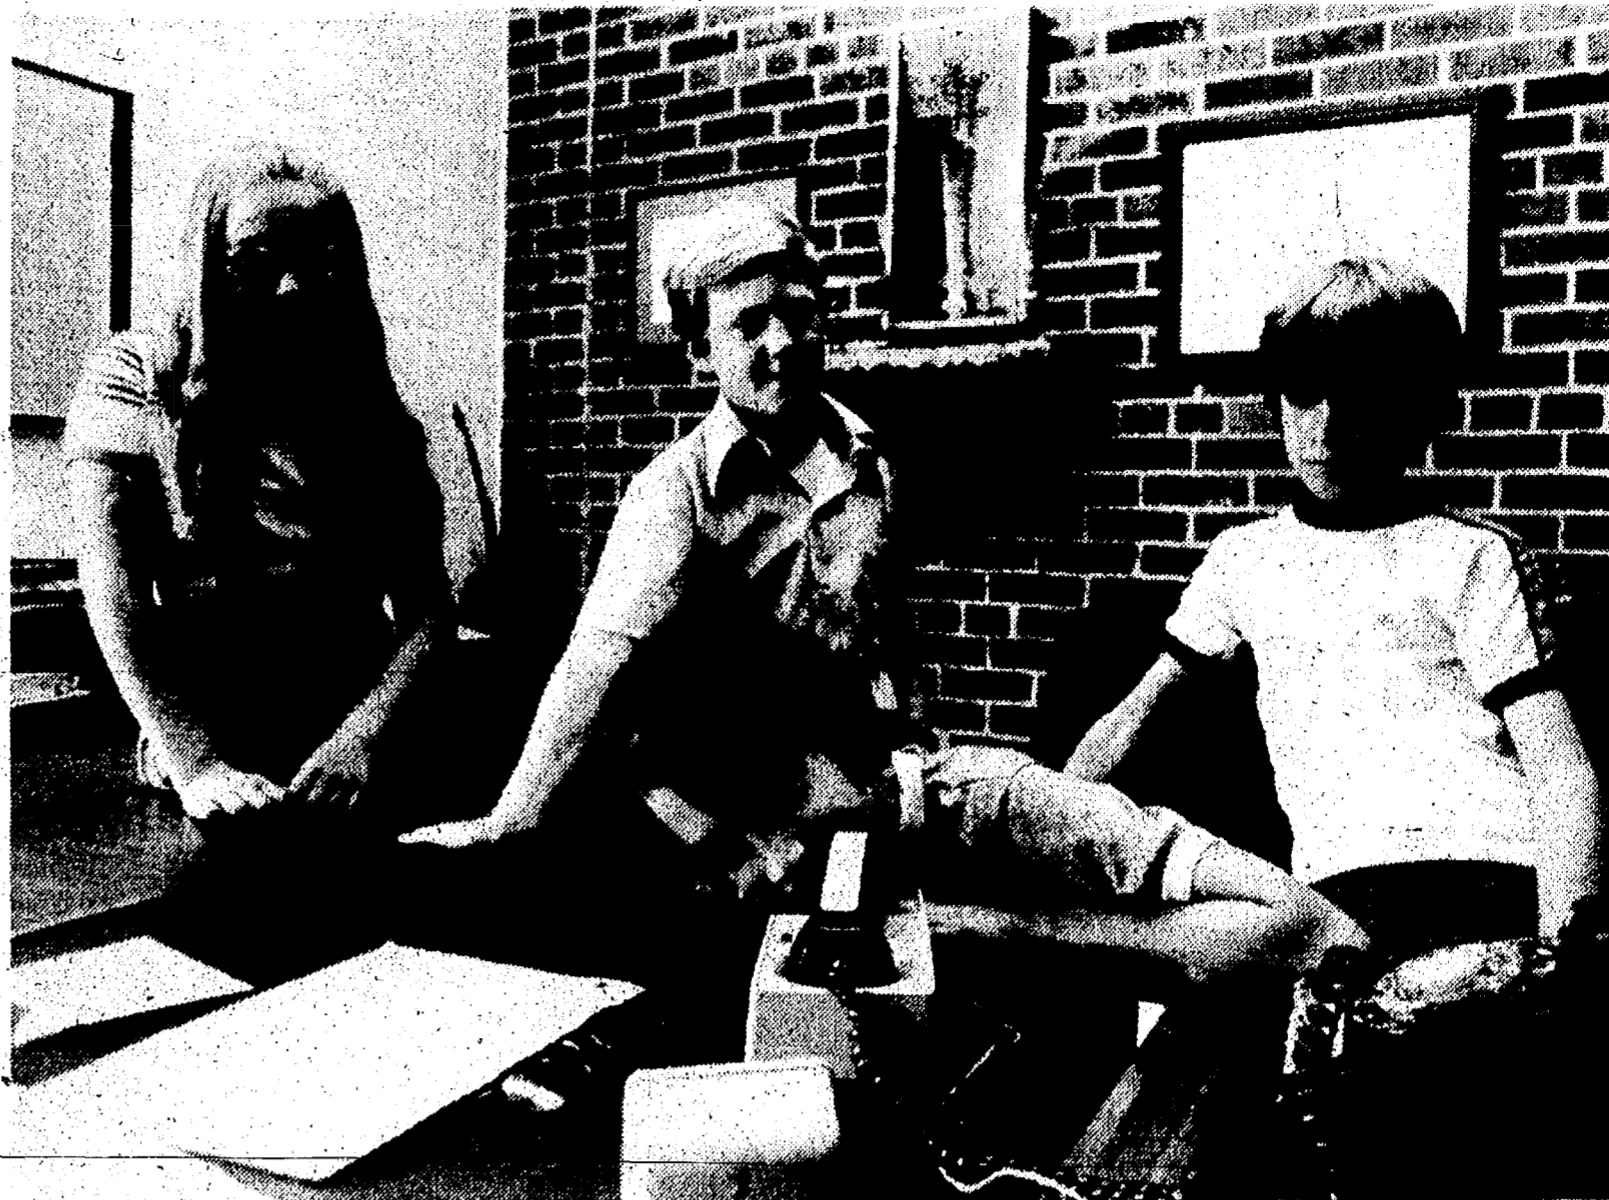

Another student wanted to know if the author had lived in any of the settings for her books.

"I lived in New Orleans for awhile - about six months - but I've never been to Africa," said Ms. Fox. "I passed Tangier once on a ship."

When asked how long it took her to write "Slave Dancer" Ms. Fox said it was about two-years.

"I took a year reading history and making notes," recalled Ms. Fox. "Then it took me seven months to write the first draft. I had to re-write the section on sailing because I didn't know much about it."

"Some of the kids' questions were really excellent," said Mrs. Schmidt. "I don't know what the telephone bill is going to be, but I don't care. It was worth it."

A LONG DISTANCE PHONE CALL recently brought prizewinning author Paula Fox closer to a group of Gallimore students in the school's SPRING (Self-Propelled

Area group buys station

A former Plymouth resident and Chamber of Commerce manager has reached agreement with a local group to purchase WBCK - AM radio station in Battle Creek.

Nat Sibbold, 51, was involved in the Plymouth-Canton community in the mid-50's when he was chamber manager. He is credited with promoting the colonial theme in Plymouth and involving industrial firms in community activities.

Sibbold will be president and general manager of the station, and present WBCK station manager Gene Cahill will become vice-president and stockholder in the new company, named Wolverine Broadcasting Co. Sibbold and Cahill will be the only stockholders active in running the station.

Other stockholders with Sibbold and Cahill in the Wolverine Broadcasting Co., are James Jabara, Harry Crawford, Dave Sibbold and Dr. John Stathakis of Plymouth. A newspaper publisher from Northville is also a stockholder.

Child center gets more study

Proposed open market sale of the former Wayne County Child Development Center has been halted, and the issue is back before the Public Works Committee of the County Board of Commissioners for more study and recommendation.

While considering a $9 million offer from the State of Michigan for use of the facility as a prison, the Public Works Committee had in addition recommended sale to the highest acceptable bidder.

Two weeks ago the issue was put before the board under its rules for emergency consideration, but failed to get enough votes required for action in less than 72 hours after Committee approval.

The matter was reconsidered by the board, June 16, and referred back to the Committee which was asked for deliberation emphasizing "human needs" and non-profit limitations on use of the property.

Help is just a phone call away

Referral center aids seniors

BY DAWN M. BOEGLER
A helping hand is available to Senior Citizens in the Plymouth-Canton area and it's just one phone call away.

"One phone call to us and the Senior Citizen Referral Center can put anyone in touch with 140 or more services, agencies and programs all geared toward helping the senior citizen with any number of problems," said Bill Henry, Director of "Our House" in Plymouth.

"We can put them in touch with anything from meals on wheels to having wills written." Referrals for Senior Citizens is an extension of "Our House" and Growth Works. It was established in the Plymouth-Canton area in January and has been handling 23 to 30 calls per month, but would like to see more people use the service.

"We encourage anyone to call us," Henry said, "they don't have to be a senior to ask us for a helping hand for someone they know who is a senior." Henry said that families who are caring for senior citizens (friends, family, etc.) can call the non-profit center and get help for them.

"Many times the family wants to go on vacation but can't or won't because they are worried about leaving a senior alone and unattended," Henry said.

"We can even help with that by calling and checking with the seniors, arranging for temporary meals on wheels, transportation, or whatever is required to help care for that senior until his or her family comes back."

The center can offer aid to find financial assistance "such as death benefits from social security," free transportation to and from doctor's visits, and help in locating a home or apartment geared just for senior citizens in the community.

"We look for apartments that have no stairs, children, reasonable rent and that sort of thing," Henry said.

"The Plymouth-Canton area is in short supply of housing especially for senior citizens.

"Tonquish is ideal and the setting is lovely, but the funding we were hoping for didn't materialize and many people are hard-put for housing that meets their particular needs."

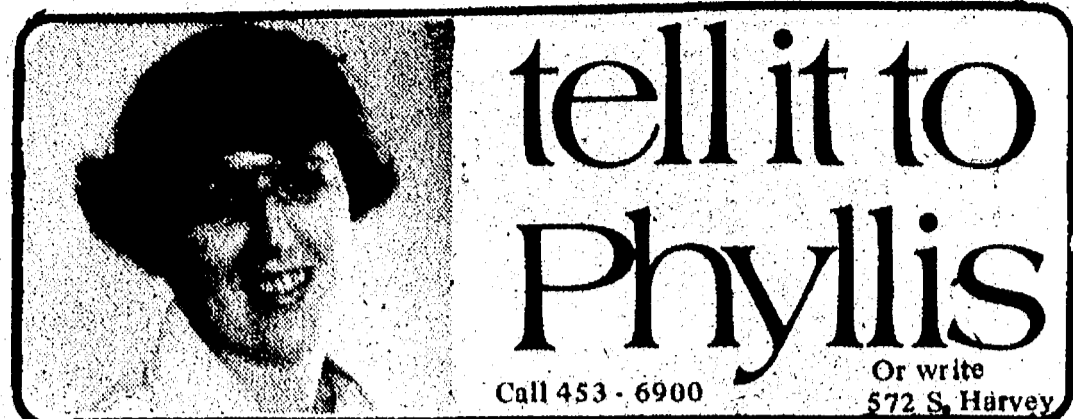

If you are a senior citizen, or know of one who has not yet made out their will, the Senior Citizen Referral Center can help with that too.

"We have a lawyer who will help make out a will free of charge for those who cannot afford to pay," said Henry. "Or arrangements can be made for a senior to pay according to his ability."

What can't the center help with? "I can't honestly think of anything we can't help with," Henry said. "We have only been posed with one or two questions we couldn't answer right away but we took their name and number and did a little checking and sure enough - help was arranged."

The center has an answer about doctors, lawyers, transportation, the loaning of medical equipment - such as walkers, wheel chairs, hospital beds - and nutrition programs for those who might need it.

"When we get a call we try to check out all the areas in which that senior might need help," Henry said. "We often find that they have a medical problem that they're calling a-

At last! The day you've been waiting for has finally arrived, and you're off to camp for the very first time. Just think, no moms and dads around to check up on you, and you get to spend two nights in a cabin with a lot of your friends.

The excitement was running high last weekend when 13 area boys and girls had their first camp experience.

The campers - Kathy Brown, Philip and Jeff Bochy, Ricky Cummings, Jennifer Goldsmith, Brian Horen, Julie and Jennifer Knapp, Susie Postell, Debbie and Ron Redfern, Cheryl Roesler, and Dawn Wright all had a great time at Camp Sarah Grindley.

"We got to stay up til almost midnight, went swimming three times, learned how to shoot a real bow and arrow, and sang lots of neat songs around the campfire."

After talking to the kids, it sounds like the only ones who may have been a little lonesome were the moms and dads (unless they were lucky enough not to have any other children at home and enjoyed a nice peaceful weekend.)

The Plymouth Christian Academy on Joy Road has announced the principal's honor roll. Those having all A's are: first graders, Angelyn Carmer, Laurie Forsyth, and Laura Rowe; third graders, Lynnette Carmer, and Greg Collins; and sixth grader Laura Tomaszewski. Students achieving perfect attendance this year are Pam Allen, Lynnette Carmer, Ron Cadaret, Damon Green, and Tim LeFever.

Ann Houran, a second grade teacher at Hulsing Elementary received a surprise gift last week. After hearing that their teacher would be getting married soon, the students took up a collection (with a little help from a few mothers) and presented her with a wedding gift.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Koon from Maquokta, Iowa were in town last weekend visiting their son and daughter-in-law, Mike and Ginny Koon of Canton. They enjoyed celebrating Mike's birthday and Father's Day at Greenfield Village. Next year Mike will really be able to celebrate Father's Day since he and Ginny are expecting their first child this fall.

Congratulations to Bob and Kathy Spencer of Palisades in Canton on the birth of their daughter, Amber MacKenzie. Amber was born Saturday June 11, weighing 7 lbs., 13 ozs. Anxiously waiting to help take care of her baby sister is five-year-old Heather.

Ken and Arlene Geisler of Versailles are the proud parents of a daughter, Jennifer Renee. Jennifer was born June 12, weighing 9½ pounds. Her brother, Chris, is happy with the idea of a new playmate.

"Portraits of Myself: and expanded look at Walt Whitman's Song of Myself through Poetry, song, drama and movement" by Charles S. Burr will be presented at The First Methodist Church of Plymouth. The program will be held Thursday, June 23 at 8 p.m.

about and by asking some indirect questions, we find out that there is also a transportation problem or a nutrition problem - all of which we can help with."

The center is located in Plymouth and is available to anyone who knows of, is, or cares about a senior citizen. The hours are Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and if you receive no answer - Henry asks that you please call back. "We find some people are put off because they don't get an answer but we ask them to please try again and not give up on us," Henry said.

"We've had a staffing problem and are very short of volunteers who would be willing to donate four hours or more a week to help our senior citizens - and they do need help."

If you are in need of help, or know someone who is - or would like to volunteer a few hours a week to a worthwhile cause - The Senior Citizen Referral Center is waiting for your call at 455-4907.

Insurance adjusters say that the first step in preventing your RV from being robbed is to be aware that thieves exist almost everywhere and they come in all kinds, so different types of precautions can be taken to ward them off. The professional, who is after not just the contents of your home, but the whole thing, is the hardest to stop and catch. Luckily, there aren't that many skilled professionals. But the good ones know how long it takes to enter your vehicle and drive away with it. And he is not interested in borrowing it as many car thieves are. He wants to resell it. The recovery rate for stolen RV's is very low and a real professional can produce false registration papers for a cash sale. So, make sure you lock your R.V. whenever you leave it.

Hamilton St. factory 88 years in Plymouth industry

THE HAMILTON ARMS CO., as it appeared in the early 1900's is still in operation today on Hamilton St., although the structure today is much different. Clarence Hamilton, invented with his son, Coello Hamilton, a .22 calibre rifle. In 1901 they went into a co-partnership at the building pictured above. The Hamiltons built the plant in 1889, and after enlargements were made over the years, it was sold in 1945 to Frank Arlen, 322 Hamilton, a local businessman. The plant now houses a firm which produces parts for trucks. (Photo courtesy of Frank Arlen).

Plymouth Twp. donates $200 to fund Sewer split deadline near

BY CHAS CHILD

By the middle of next month, the communities threatening to break away from Wayne County to build the "super sewer" have to either "fish or cut bait."

Harold Stein, Supervisor of Canton Township, said July 15 is the deadline for the affected communities to ratify the articles proposed for the new authority.

The date was set at a meeting of representatives from the super sewer governments in Romulus City Hall Monday. As proposed, the sewer will run from White Lake in Oakland County down through Novi, Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Van Buren Townships and then follow along the Huron River to Lake Erie. There the waste would be treated by a new treatment plant.

The new authority, call the Huron Valley Wastewater System Authority, will replace Wayne County's Department of Public Works (DPW), Stein said. The DPW originally planned to build the sewer, but the communities affected have said they don't want the county to control it and the rates.

Stein, who chairs the committee organizing the super sewer governments, said if the articles are ratified the authority need only publish them and file them with the state.

Then the authority will have the power to issue bonds and build the sewer, Stein said.

Plymouth Township Board of Trustees has authorized a $200 contribution "toward expenses" to the new sewer authority.

Last term for Irene Graham Adult ed. classes filled

"We're going crazy! Just about everything is filled up!" said Irene Graham, Continuing Education Coordinator of night school in Plymouth-Canton.

Summer school enrollment in classes like ballet and wrestling are almost filled completely, she said.

Swimming, tennis for kids and adults, baseball, racquetball and gymnastics report equally enthusiastic figures.

"It's been a terrific response this spring," said Graham. "I feel it has been the best we've had in a long time."

But regretfully, Mrs. Graham, who has been the night coordinator for Continuing Education in Plymouth-Canton for 19 years, won't see such "enthusiastic response" again - she retired last week.

The sheriff's department say that the two youths threw the smoke bomb into a 1974 Fiat sedan causing a fire which gutted the interior of the car. The sheriff reports that the two youths were then seen fleeing on foot in the direction of Sheldon Rd. They described the youths as being 14 to 15 years old with brown hair. The police report says one was wearing an orange t-shirt and blue jeans while the other wore a blue shirt and blue jeans.

A search of the surrounding area turned up nothing, the sheriff department reported.

No injuries were reported.

Isbister students visit the Sheriff

BOOKED AND FINGERPRINTED by deputy Dave Wygonik the students are then led to their jail cells - if only for a few minutes.

BY ELAINE GUREGIAN

The setting was peaceful enough - a beautiful spring day at a small pleasant elementary school.

So why - with no apparent provocation, did a Wayne County Sheriff buss pull into the driveway and load up with three classes of first, second and third graders?

Because those hardworking kids and their ambitious teachers from Isbister School had won grand prize in the first annual Wayne County Sheriff Department's safety contest, and prize included a ride in the paddy wagon to the sheriff department.

A mid excited cries of "Mr. Sheriff, sit with me!" and some disgruntled groans of "I'm surrounded by girls", the group set off for a tour of the departments offices and labs, a look at the sheriff helicopter, and lunch at a local restaurant all courtesy of the sheriff department.

A sheriff's helicopter hovered above as the bus pulled into the department driveway, then landed for an impromptu lecture on how helicopters are used by the sheriffs. Two lucky class representatives, sat in the two seats of the chopper; (an honor they took seriously) sitting still and careful not to touch any equipment.

Sgt. Ron Brown, director of the day's events, explained that contest officials specified only that most of the work be done by the young students which they had done.

Teachers were free to guide the students on their project and apparently their help was much appreciated. According to student Debbie Graham, "Mrs. Martinez (Nancy Martinez, teacher) comes up with a lot of really good ideas," and the kids added their own inspiration and hard work to produce an animated display model titled "Summer Safety Slogans"

It won first prize in the schools then in Wayne County, competing with a total of 13,000 students.

The students won a $100 prize and the tour, lunch, and 50 sheriff's association circus

Methodist Church to host local actors

The first United Methodist Church of Plymouth is presenting Charles S. Burr's "Portraits of Myself: an expanded look at Walt Whitman's 'Song of Myself' through poetry, song, drama and movement."

The program will be held in the sanctuary of the Methodist Church on Thursday, June 23, at 8 p.m.

"Portraits of Myself" is an original compilation of pieces by such diverse authors as Shakespeare, E. E. Cummings, and Eugene O'Neill.

"Portraits of Myself" was compiled by Burr in his spare moments last winter. He is now performing, as well as directing three other Plymouth residents in the production: Tod Barker, Kathi VanAernum and Holly Wagner.

Burr is a 1975 graduate of Canton High School, and is currently attending Eastern Michigan University, where he has directed and performed in many plays.

Barker, a recent recipient of the Hulce Award, is a 1977 graduate of Salem High School and the 1977 recipient of EMU Board of Regents Scholarship.

VanAernum is a 1976 graduate from Salem, and received the 1976 EMU Board of Regents Scholarship. She now attends Eastern and is technical assistant in dramatics.

Wagner is another Salem Class of '76 graduate, she is attending Albion College majoring in religion and is involved in the music department there.

LOCATED IN MAYFLOWER HOTEL 455-3311

Canton may get rec center

BY CHAS-CHILD

Fairlane and Ren Cen - move over! The Center may be coming to Canton.

Plans for a huge recreation, sports and entertainment complex in Canton containing seven tennis and 21 racquetball courts, and 72 bowling lanes were given a green light by the Canton Board of Trustees last Tuesday.

A liquor license was granted to a group of five investors from Dearborn, Wayne, and Highland Park who hope to start construction of the 4.3 acre complex on Haggerty Road near Ford Road in mid-August.

"This will be the place to go not only in Canton, but in Western Wayne County," said architect Ned Apigian.

The license is contingent, however, on completion of Phase I of the complex. Phase II consists of four movie houses.

Apigian said the movie houses will be built when a commitment is made with one of the major movie exhibitors in the Detroit area. No such agreement exists now, he said.

The complex will provide about 100 jobs and yield over $150,000 in annual tax revenue to the township, Apigian said in his presentation to the board.

He also said, "The Center" might be open 24 hours a day and would be for people of all ages.

Brian Schwall was the only trustee to vote against the liquor license. He said letters from two bowling lane manufacturers, Brunswick and AMF, indicated that 72 more lanes in this area would be "super saturation" of the bowling market.

"The complex must be solvent to provide a solid tax source," Schwall said.

The building will also have four restaurants, saunas, nurseries, game rooms, and meeting rooms. A glass enclosed walkway will encircle the inside of the complex for spectators.

The entire project will cost about $5 million, Apigian said. Construction would take between nine and 11 months to complete.

The developers still need site-plan approval from the township before they can begin construction.

Twp. to buy PA system

The Plymouth Township Board of Trustees has authorized the purchase of a public address and speaker system.

The system, to cost the township some $2,866, will be transferable to a bigger township meeting hall - should one ever be built - according to Trustee Richard Gornick. It includes 80 speakers.

A total amount earmarked from the township funds for the public address system $3,000, leaving enough for the township to buy a cassette recorder, "well within the budget," said Supervisor Tom Notebaert.

Hoben's heroes blast Eriksson staff bats

THE STATUE OF SOCRATES served as a trophy for the school administration after it beat Eriksson School in a softball game, 16-6. School Supt. Mike Hoben stands next to the piece, which was sculpted years ago by Carol Welsh's fifth-grade class at Allen School. (Crier photo by Brian Watkins.)

BY CHAS CHILD
The challenge was met, but lost.

The staff of Eriksson Elementary School met the challenge of the school's central administration staff in softball, but Eriksson was mauled, 16-6 last Wednesday at Gallimore.

The winner's trophy is a little out of the ordinary.

It's a five foot statue sculpted a couple of years ago by Carol Welsh's fifth grade class at Allen School.

It's something of a mystery how the statue became the game's trophy, but Supt. of Plymouth-Canton schools, Mike Hoben said that the statue will eventually be returned to Allen School.

"The elementary school principals also took our challenge, and we'll play them when we recover from the Eriksson game," Hoben said.

INVESTING IN LAND

One of the nice things about investing in land is that it rarely presents management problems. However, since it will produce no income, it should be bought only if you are financially able to carry the debt.

For the typical investment, you have to put down cash amounting to 25% to 50% of the total cost of the land, with regular payments on the remainder until the entire debt is paid. But if you prefer to pay taxes on a long-term capital gain, rather than ordinary income, then land can be an attractive investment.

The key to a good land investment is predicting land needs of the future. Here is where the experience of a good, local Realtor comes in. He has intimate knowledge of community needs, and can forecast, far better than the layman, what will be required for future land use and the best areas for growth potential.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at REALTY WORLD, Wm. Decker, Inc. Realtors, 670 S. Main St. Plymouth. Phone: 455-8400. We're here to help!

Recall vote looms

Bradley, Daley rebut charges

of their homes."

Bradley assumed the petition referred to the Willow Trail subdivision case where the builder proposed to build homes that the residents thought were "cheaper" and would undermine their property values.

Daley said he voted to urge the builder to construct similar homes and the builder, Smokler Homes, agreed to withdraw the least expensive model. (Smokler later pulled out of Willow Trails in an out-of-court settlement with the homeowners association.)

Bradley is also charged with "blatantly ignoring the Attorney General's legal opinions to the detriment of the township."

Referring to the Zoning Board of Appeals case, Bradley said the staff of the attorney general office could be wrong, and that the Circuit Court recently ruled against his opinion in the case.

Daley is also charged with two additional offenses:

"He, a Wayne County Sheriff lieutenant, has demonstrated substantial conflict of interest by repeatedly voting against the local police force," and "he has continually supported huge tax expenditures for Wayne County Sheriff road patrol."

Daley said both charges were totally false. "Where have I supported huge tax expenditures for the sheriffs?" he replied.

Wayne County Clerk Orville Tungate has said that the validated Stein recall petitions must be turned into the county by June 25.

The Bradley-Daley petitions must also be turned in by that date in order for all three recalls to show up on the same ballot, Tungate said.

Township Clerk John Flodin said the Canton clerk's office would "do their very best" to see that they would be completed by the June 25 deadline.

Local dentist leads crusade against taxes

BY CHAS CHILD

Is America following the lead of England, where personal initiative is stifled by high taxes, welfare, government rules and regulations, and state of ownership of industries like the railroads?

A local dentist, Dr. Daniel Foote, thinks so.

And as part of a personal and religious drive to halt our decline, Foote has organized a group called the Americans for Constitutional Taxation and a church, The Church of the Liberty Mission.

"Starting a church to avoid taxes is both immoral and illegal," Foote said. "I am doing this as a result of years of study of economics, politics, and religion. We are losing our God-given freedom and heritage in this country."

There will be a meeting of the Americans for Constitutional Taxation all day Saturday at the Mayflower Meeting-Room.

Featured will be a national lecturer on taxes, William E. Drexler. The author of two books, "Tax Handbook for Pa-trials," and "Happiness is Having a Swiss Bank Account," Drexler will speak on tax court strategy, "Fifth Amendment Tax Return," and more, according to a flyer prepared by Dr. Foote.

"As I read history, all progress has been made by personal initiative," Foote said. "The government should do nothing to interfere. There should be no public ownership."

Asked how a public problem like pollution in Lake Erie would be solved, Foote said, "Let's say the property of the beachfront owners extended out into the middle of the lake. Then they could sue the industrial polluters for destroying their property."

Foote said risk has been removed from modern business. Government regulations have taken competition out of many industries like automobile manufacturing and steel, he said. "When you eliminate failure, you eliminate success," he said.

"We've accepted the notion of the separation of church and state. We also should accept the idea that the government and the economy should be separate," Foote said.

He said he does not have a building for his church but is looking for one through a local real estate agent.

"We must stop legislating morality," he said. "For example, government regulation of heroin has caused the gangster element to reap huge profits."

"The government is playing God by interfering with the freedom He gave us," Foote said.

"I used to think there was nothing one man could do. But I was wrong. My work has given me something to feel tall about."

Rafferty tapped

Earl Rafferty of Plymouth, Michigan who is president of Walker-Rafferty Company in Dearborn, has been elected show chairman for the 1978 Detroit Camper Show at the Detroit Artillery Armory, West Eight Mile near Northland.

Rafferty is president of the Michigan Association of Recreational Vehicles and Campgrounds (MARVAC) which sponsors the show.

Area residents move to RenCen

Four Plymouth residents have begun working high in the sky beside the Detroit River in the new downtown Renaissance Center.

Fred J. Markman, Linda J. Matson, Robert E. Nelson, and Roger C. Nevin moved with the central office of the AC-Delco Division of General Motors to a tower in the riverfront complex.

The Plymouth residents are among 458 men and women in AC-Delco's ultra-modern new headquarters.

tickets for their safety slogan project.

The children demonstrated mixed feelings during the tour of labs, a cell, and the communications control center.

Fascination with the facilities was tempered by the realization (and a whispered comment that in jail, criminals only get bread and water) of the seriousness of the place.

After viewing a cell, young Jeff Foley said, "It was neat but I wouldn't want to be in there," but added that he was anxious to see the detectives.

Seeing a large display case of guns, Lisa Meterko turned away, explaining she "just didn't like them very much." She did like the lab rooms where fingerprints were made and she was not alone, judging from the delighted expressions when Herb Lutz - a criminal photographer - made a fingerprint of each child on a card for them to keep as a souvenir.

Another keepsake was ticker tape from the communications control center where teacher Marge Drallos' driving record was checked electronically (and whew! - was found to be spotless).

Outside, Patrolman Don Cox demonstrated how to use a radar gun to time the speeds of passing cars, and Tony Humberger, student tester, pronounced the device "neat."

The radar gun, however, didn't generate nearly as much excitement as did the final step on the four-hour long schedule of events - lunch.

Entering the restaurants driveway with lusty cheers, the hungry crowd waited while the manager of the restaurant who donated lunch for the group, and patrolmen Dave Wygonik, Cox, Sgt. Brown, teachers and mothers doled out hamburgers, fries and soft drinks.

Sgt. Brown expressed his pleasure that the day had run so smoothly. He explained that funds for the contest had come through at the last minute: as a conclusion to a series of safety lectures the sheriff department had given to elementary schools in the county.

But what was the most fun part of the day?

For Jeff Foley, it was the chemistry lab. Linda Doumanic voted for the lab, too, while Rita Hesse, seconded by Bobby Draper, chose the bus ride. Paula Szilagyi was a fingerprint fan and some simply "liked all of it" best.

Sgt. Brown said at the beginning of the trip, "Those kids did a lot of work and we want to give them the best treat we can."

The reward was a treat for after a day of happy smiles, the enthusiastic answer to the question, "Are you glad you won?" was simple and to the point - "Yeah!"

Ms. Wright resigned "to help preserve the independence and objectivity of the group," James Tyo of Blunk St., in Plymouth is the new chairperson of PROGRESS.

Recycled mall mixes old and new on Penniman Ave.

BY SUSAN NICHOLAS

A colorful mix of the old and new has come to downtown Plymouth in the form of the Penniman Mall on Penniman Ave.

Penniman Mall is the result of the combined efforts of David and Sharon Pugh, and Rod and Sue Cannon, joint owners of the enterprise.

Inside, the mall features two levels of shops set in rooms that combine the open, airy look of today with features of the past, such as old, wooden floors and arched doorways.

"We went to Eric (Eric Carne of Carne Assoc. architects) and said we wanted the store to look as it would have looked in the beginning," said Mrs. Pugh.

"We found a picture of the place in Same Hudson's book (Plymouth Past and Present: A Midwest Microcosm) dating back to 1905. We told him we wanted it open and airy, yet warm and comfortable. Then he came over with the first print and all four of us went 'ooh!' at the same time."

After bidding was completed, the enterprising foursome selected George Florin, Jr. as their contractor.

"He (Florin) not only found out from the city what we had to do, he spent time with Eric in order to get the flavor of the place," said Mrs. Pugh.

"He's just done a super job and this was his first job," said Sue Cannon.

"They did the building and we did the finishing, like the painting and staining. The job was completed a week ahead of time because he was so diligent."

Eventually, the owners hope to open a third level.

"Within the next two or three years we hope to develop our third level," said Mrs. Pugh. "We have some ideas, but we'd like to get this one running smoothly before we think about that."

In the meantime, the owners are enjoying the favorable comments the mall draws from visitors.

"People have come in and said things like, 'My goodness, I can't believe what they have done to this place,'" said Mrs. Pugh. "I have not heard one bad comment and we have been in a position to hear them."

Before it became a mall, the old building had had a long and varied history.

"It was a post office at one time, then it became Mills Paugh, a furniture store when Penniman Ave. was still called Sutton Ave.," recalled Mrs. Pugh. "Then it became Schrader, then Blunk's, then Schrader again, then the Top Drawer, and now our building."

The building hosts a total of nine different shops.

Facing Penniman Avenue on the first floor is Marti's Antiques and Exotic Plants, owned by Carrol and John Corrunker.

The shop came about when Carrol Corrunker found that her home was being overrun with antiques.

"The furniture overcame the house so it was either me or the antiques," recalls Mrs. Corrunker. "Since the boys were in school, I decided I wasn't married to my house - so this is my bag here."

Across the hall is the Family Emporium, a toy and game store owned by Ken and Geri Bjornbak.

"We got into business because we wanted to have fun at whatever we wanted to do," said Bjornbak, adding, "Basically I'm still a kid at heart."

Down the hall is Hands On Leather, a leather shop owned by Mike and Nancy Ball of Ann Arbor.

"My main thing in life is writing," said Mike Ball. "I have a novel that's waiting for a rewrite and if I can get the store to the point where I can work on it evenings I'll be happy."

Next door is The Shirt Works, owned by Chuck and Bon Bashawaty. The Bashawatys' also own several auto re-conditioning shops, but they were unavailable for comment.

At the end of the first floor is Sue Ann Fabrics owned by Sue Ann Eberline of Trenton who says she specializes in sewing classes which are open to men as well as women.

"A lot of men express interest in sewing," said Ms. Eberline. "More and more men would do it if there wasn't such a stigma attached to sewing."

"A lot of men have trouble with fit and my teacher provides shortcuts to a really professional look."

Downstairs is the Alphabet Gallery owned by Wilma Halliburton, Nancy Sheehan, Mary Wollens, and Joan Gerigk.

The Gallery, which features handcrafted items, has moved three times since it opened.

"We used to be where Plymouth Square is now," said Ms. Halliburton. "Then we were above John Smith and now here. It all started out as a bunch of women saying, 'Hey, why don't we open a shop?'"

Next to the Alphabet Gallery is the Health Shoppe owned by Mary Lee Hosey. The Health Shoppe used to be located on Ann Arbor Trail, but at Penniman Mall it features a unique working relationship.

"Sue Cannon, one of the owners of the Mall, works for me," said Mrs. Hosey.

The Balliwick, a gift shop owned by Beverly Goss of Detroit, has its origins in - of all things - a telephone call.

"My husband worked with Dave Pugh and he called one day and said, 'Would you like a shop?'" recalls Mrs. Goss. "I said 'sure'. We gave it about 20-minutes' thought. It was something we tossed around, but never seriously."

Across from the Balliwick, is the Reflections Boutique, a jewelry and cosmetics store owned by Jeane Eggenberger of Plymouth.

Mrs. Eggenberger says she got the idea for her shop's name from the mirrors that hang on the wall.

The first to benefit from the efforts of the owners and shopkeepers is the old furniture store itself, transformed into the sleek new Penniman Mall - with yet another lease in a long life.

Massey drives away with softball title, 18-14

the Crier Sports

TOURNAMENT MVP TOM BATTISTONE of Massey of Plymouth sprints to first in Sunday's championship game of the Plymouth-Canton softball tournament.

BY CHAS CHILD
Finlan Insurance had the lead for most of the championship game, but in the end it was Massey Cadillac who had the insurance runs and the premium win.

The Cadillac squad scored seven runs in the bottom of the fifth to hold the lead for good, and went on to win the third annual Plymouth-Canton softball tournament, 18-14.

It was a heart-breaking loss for Finlan, as they were ahead 11-5 in the third inning.

It was something of a moral victory, though, because Massey thrashed Finlan earlier in the weekend tournament, 22-6.

The insurers' loss made them bridesmaids for the second year in a row. Last year they finished second to McMurray Insurance of Canton.

Two-time defending champion McMurray was eliminated by Finlan in the finals of the loser's bracket, 6-4.

Tom Battistone of Massey locked up the tournament MVP award by knocking in the go-ahead run in the fifth with a solid single to center.

He had a perfect three-for-three afternoon in the championship game and batted .750 for the tournament (12 for 16).

Massey was down by six runs in the third, 11-5, but then erupted for two big innings: the fourth inning with four runs and the big fifth with seven.

This 11-run outburst in back-to-back innings put the Cadillacacers ahead to stay.

When they got behind, Finlan seemed to succumb to the swing-for-the-fences strategy that is so tempting in slow-pitch.

But slow-pitch is won by the team that has the discipline to hit single after single after single.

In the first round of the tourney, McMurray fell in an upset to Massey of Canton, 8-7 in the eighth inning.

There were 19 teams in the double-elimination tournament - the most ever - and the championship game was the first ever all Plymouth final.

Rupert hosts golfers

The annual Hank Rupert Golf Tournament will be this Saturday - and even if Jack Nicklaus won't be there, plenty of Salem and Canton High School alumnae and present students will be.

"Jim Ellinghausen is coming in from Ohio State," said Rupert. "I think we have about 30 persons coming out, maybe more."

Ellinghausen is a former all-state basketball player from Salem.

There will be a $1 fee to enter the tourney, and participants must pay their own green fees.

The day will begin with breakfast at the Hilltop Golf Course and tee-off will be at 8 a.m. Trophies will also be awarded for the 18-hole low score.

"It's just a get-together and some golfing," said Rupert. "It's for fun mostly."

DONNA'S LOCKER

With the end of the spring sports season and the school year come the inevitable good-byes.

The Crier is going to miss the likes of Assistant Sports Editor Matt Norris and sportswriter Craig Brass, who have helped The Crier with its complete year-round sports coverage.

Matt has been an invaluable help to us throughout the year, taking time out from his busy school and work schedule to cover both Salem and Canton sporting events.

Craig Brass has also been an asset, using an insider's knowledge to report on the Canton baseball team and other sports for The Crier.

Both Matt and Craig graduated from Canton High School this spring and plan to go to college in the fall.

Matt will be attending Michigan State University in East

Lansing and Craig will be traveling to the Buckeye metropolis of Bowling Green University in Ohio.

While we are sure they thought that working for The Crier was hectic - even crazy - at times, we hope that, for them, the early journalistic experience was worth it (although the pay may not have been).

Their hard work and responsibility was an indispensable part of putting out The Crier Sports section each week and we thank them for it. Good luck to you both.
