'Pride and spirit' start Fund drive

BY PHYLLIS REDFERN

The Plymouth Community Fund held a "Pride and Spirit" kick-off dinner Monday night at the Mayflower Meeting House. Jim Boyce, chairman of this year's Community Fund drive announced the goal for this year is $285,000.

"We will meet and serve all the needs the best way we can - those needs are human needs," said Boyce.

Members of this year's staff include: Daisy Proctor, in charge of business; John Howe, chairman of education with co-chairman Ed Kleinsmith; Dana Szanti is governmental chairman; John Hargrave is head of industry with co-chairman David Snell and Dan Hyatt; Roger Haslick is in charge of professional with co-chairman Dale Yagiela; and Bill Mahoney is chairman for special gifts.

The Plymouth Community Fund started in 1944 with a goal of $7,000. Through the years, due to increased costs and needs, the amount collected has increased till it

Greene wins ballot spot against Pursell

U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, whose district includes Plymouth and Plymouth Township, will have an opponent on the November ballot after all.

The Michigan Court of Appeals ordered Sept. 20 that Earl Greene, Democratic candidate for Congress in the Second District, appear on the November ballot.

The Court decision overturns an Aug. 29 ruling by the State Board of Canvassers which denied Greene a place on the ballot.

Greene, an Ann Arbor City Council member, said "I am pleased with the ruling of the Court. We had enough signatures to be on the August primary ballot, so we regret the long delay in getting on the November ballot."

The diverse Second Congressional District includes a variety of geographical areas. From Wayne County, the District contains Northville, Plymouth, and Livonia. Eastern Washtenaw County is also included, with Ann Arbor, Ypsilanti, and part of Saline. Most of Monroe County falls within the district lines as well.

Pursell, of Plymouth, won the seat two years ago when he defeated Dr. Edward Pierce by 344 votes.

Canton's choppers must fly soon-pg. 3

Downtown will be fowl at noon this Sunday

BY EGGMAR BIRDMAN

May the Rites of Chicken begin.

Plymouth's third annual Fowl Festival, featuring the nationally famous chicken flying contest, is ready to go.

Throughout the basements and backyards of the city, secret chicken training sessions are underway, with some birds reportedly undergoing round-the-clock exercises.

Fowl honor will be on the line Sunday when 150 chickens, with biceps bulging, will step up to the starting perch. While the owners of the birds will have their eyes on the horizon, the contestants will probably be eyeing the plunger behind them that is usually necessary to nudge them off to glory.

As everyone knows, the winner of the event is the chicken that flies the farthest from the perch.

The grand prize will be $200, while second place will claim $50. Also, a special third place prize has been added this year: an all expense-paid weekend trip to Fowlerville.

Chicken-flying won't be the only competition Sunday. This year, $100 will go toward the best float in the parade which precedes the contest. The parade begins at noon at the East Central parking lot behind the library.

Another addition to this year's festivities is a grand marshal. The lucky person is Ken Garrett, the friendly United Parcel Service delivery man for downtown Plymouth.

Informed last week of the honor, Garrett was speechless after the announcement.

The Plymouth Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the event, and has limited the number of contestants to 150. Applications are coming in fast to the Chamber offices so don't delay if you want to join the fun. To apply, call

The chicken challenges are flying fast - probably faster than the chickens will on Sunday. Scarlet O'Chicken and Rhett Clucker at the Penniman Shops has challenged the Damn Yankees at Forest Place Shops. While Chicken A La King of Gourmet Gallerie has warned the Mayflower Chicken Ship to get its ship together.

One chicken is entered from Korea. Under the supervision of Don Bidwell, the Korean Kamikaze Cackler is the official entrant of the U.S. Army 55th Aviation Unit (Stationed in Korea) and has been dodging anti-air craft fire there. The bird was shipped back for Sunday's event by Privates First Class Rob Stevens, of Salem Township, and Mike Braun of Phoenix, Ariz. Odds-makers are giving the Kamikaze pilot exceptional points for combat training.

The Crier flier - Tabloid - is in secret training in Ionia and has been too busy to issue any challenges. Sources close to the fowl, however, are confident that it will fly wings around the competition.

Canton copters get one year to fly

BY CHAS CHILD

Contrary to the claims of Canton Supervisor Harold Stein, a state official said Monday that the township must return within one year the helicopters it plans to buy if they aren't used.

Chet Czubko of the State of Michigan's Federal Property Section said Canton will also forfeit the $500 price tag on each of the three helicopters if they don't get off the ground.

Stein had maintained that the township had five years to hold the choppers before they were used, and that if a helicopter program failed to get off the ground in that time, they could be sold at a profit.

"I don't know where he got the five years," said Czubko. Under an old set of federal government rules, local governments could keep helicopters and other aircraft for 10 years, he said. But under regulations of the General Services Administration, passed Oct. 17, 1977, they must be returned with one year from acquisition if they aren't used, said he.

The board authorized on Sept. 12 about $3,500 for Stein and Barney Stutzman of Canton's Hi-Lift Helicopters to travel to the crafts' surplus storage depot in Arizona. There, the pair will inspect the choppers and purchase them if they are in good shape.

The funds also cover the cost of shipping them back to Canton.

Stein, in Washington D.C., with three other township officials, was unavailable for comment on Czubko's revelations.

Plymouth C of C taps manager

The Plymouth Chamber of Commerce has a new manager - Jean Kee, of Plymouth Township.

Pending formal approval by the chamber board, Mrs. Kee will assume her new duties at the chamber on Oct. 9. She was appointed by the chamber's executive officers to fill a vacancy left by the resignation of previous chamber manager, Chris Kresta.

"Her (Mrs. Kee's) background in organization and presentation are just what we needed," said Chamber President Margaret Wilson.

"She's going to be very good for our public relations. I really think she's going to be a dynamite person," Mrs. Wilson added.

For the balance of 1978, the chamber manager position will be a part time position, Mrs. Wilson said, "but we're hoping the new (1979) budget allows us to expand that."

Crier ads win three top state press awards

The Community Crier has won three top advertising awards for the past year from the Michigan Press Association.

Announced at the MPA Advertising Conference held last weekend near Traverse City, the three first place awards were for:

*Best use of multi-color in advertising for a Famous Men's Wear ad in the 1977 Fall Festival Guide.

*Best use of spot color in advertising for a Fish Barrel ad.

The awards competition categories were open to all Michigan dailies, semi-weeklies and weeklies under 25,000 circulation.

This marks the second year in a row The Crier won the top prize for best use of spot color. Last year, a First National Bank of Plymouth ad in The Crier was judged best single color ad among all Michigan dailies and weeklies.

"We're obviously pleased to have walked away with so many top prizes," said Crier Publisher W. Edward Wendover.

"The credit for the excellence that won these awards belongs to our advertising and production staffers who have been working hard to produce the best community weekly newspaper in the state.

"Our blizzard section was a real monument to the efforts of our staffers - most of whom, like everyone else, were snowbound. The over-the-phone sales blitz reached most Crier advertisers, who were also hit by the storm, and provided the basis for expanded news coverage of the disaster as well.

"Also sharing in the credit are the pressroom crews at the Jackson Citizen Patriot and Incographics of Mason, who printed the winning advertisements.

"It's no small achievement for a paper of our size to win more awards than any offset-produced newspaper in Michigan," Wendover concluded.

The three first place awards came from The Crier's entries in five categories in its second year of eligibility for the awards.

Most accidents happen at Canton Center, Geddes junction

What are Canton-Township's most dangerous intersections? According to police statistics kept from Jan. 1, the most accidents have occurred at Canton Center and Geddes roads, Sheldon Road at Michigan Avenue, and Ford and Sheldon roads.

Canton Center and Geddes is probably the worst intersection. Not only has a bicyclist died there, but five personal-injury accidents and five other accidents where no one was hurt have been recorded there since the year started. The township's other fatal accident, in which a motorcyclist died, occurred on Michigan Ave., just east of Haggerty Road.

The intersection at Sheldon and Michigan has been the scene of three personal injury accidents and eight other accidents. "Most of these are caused by persons entering the high-speed traffic on Michigan Avenue from Sheldon," said Barbara McEwen of the Canton police department.

At Ford and Sheldon, there have been five personal-injury crashes and six other accidents. Ford and Canton Center is right behind with five accidents where persons were hurt, and five other crashes.

There is a high concentration of pins along Ford Road on the police map, but most of these are minor "fender denters" in the parking lots of the shopping centers along the thoroughfare, McEwen said. A lot of minor accidents have occurred in the lots of Honeytree Apartments, she said.

Surprisingly, there have been few accidents on I-275, but the majority of them have been serious because of the high speed on the interstate.

Thief fills up, nabs $150

A man fled west on Canton Center Road after stealing $150 from a Canton gas station at gunpoint on Monday morning, police report.

Driving a light green, 1967 Camaro, the subject pulled into the Total station on Canton Center and Ford roads and had his tank filled, said police.

When the attendant asked for payment, the man produced a nickel-plated revolver and said, "I want all your money," according to the report.

The gunman drove west on Canton Center with about $150 from the attendant, said police.

Stein asks building probe

BY CHAS CHILD

Supervisor Harold Stein asked the State Police to investigate the records of Canton's Building Department Monday.

Citing the possibility of missing files in a letter to the Board of Trustees, Stein called Lt. William Tomczyk of the Northville post of the State Police Monday morning and asked for a probe.

Stein telephoned not only Tomczyk, but many members of the press, on Monday morning from Washington, D.C., where he is meeting with federal officials.

"I haven't seen any of the files, and was just notified by Stein this morning," Tomczyk said. "I don't know if any charges are warranted."

Tomczyk said he is planning to meet with Stein later this week after the supervisor returns to Washington to discuss the investigation. "He didn't tell me what might be wrong," said Tomczyk.

The only reference to the nature of the problems with the Building Department was in Stein's letter to the trustees. He said that some files might be missing.

Twp. slams prober's conclusions

Plymouth Township officials have called for a "public apology" from Thomas Fidge, the husband of township trustee Lee Fidge who was hired by the township to study its personnel policies.

Fidge, whose report had not been made public as of Tuesday, commented last week that township personnel policies were inexact and left open the possibility that township employees could be paid for work performed. No specific cases of fraud were cited by Fidge.

"If you fear that our residents are being cheated out of certain monies and our records are so sloppy then we would question why it has taken so long to get the procedures to us in written form," said Supervisor Tom Notebaert, Clerk Helen Richardson and Treasurer Joe West in a letter to Fidge.

"Your statements have been made with the intent to undermine, discredit and expose the administrative officers and the office of personnel to public ridicule and with the intention of injuring reputations," the letter stated.

It's GOOD

Plymouth Community Fund

GIVE! to The Fund

Once each year, Plymouth Community residents are asked to give once for many purposes through the Community Fund.

And every year, our community lives up to its tradition of supporting its responsibilities.

Few communities have their own community funds where what you give is what you get. The advantage of eliminating a distantly controlled distribution agency is that less money is lost in the trickle down and that our programs are tailored more to suit our community's unique needs.

Obviously it takes money to fund such worthwhile programs as: American Red Cross, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Family Services, Campfire Girls, Growth Works, Michigan Cancer Foundation, Plymouth Dental Fund, Plymouth-Canton Junior Athletic Association, Salvation Army, Senior Citizens, Plymouth Opportunity Center, United Way of Michigan, Plymouth Nurses Association and YM-YWCA.

And rather than have each of those groups undertake individual fund raising efforts, the Plymouth Community Fund does it all.

So you have to give just once and you can even use the convenience of payroll deduction in many cases (even if you work elsewhere).

Make your dollars count for more than most of your other contributions - Give to the Plymouth Community Fund.

School schedules make taxpayers angrier

The Plymouth-Canton School Board, in trying to show the voters what happens when millages are not increased, shortened the elementary school day. All they succeeded in doing was to make more taxpayers angry.

Possibly the board would better understand a taxpayer's point of view if they were asked to put up with my schedule: With one child on traditional and one on the ESY (year-round) program, I get up at 6:30 p.m. with one child to make sure she's out the door by 7:10. Then I wait a half hour to wake the other child and start breakfast and lunch making all over again.

Add to that my work schedule which has me off to work at the same time the youngest leaves for school, except on Tuesday when that youngest starts school an hour later. Top it off with an 11-year-old who has a vacation now with nobody to stay with and little to do.

This is just my situation, but there are other families faced with similar and worse problems. Maybe the taxpayers would rather see their children go without handball courts in high school and get a full day's school in elementary school.

I realize the administration and the school board are faced with difficult problems, but if they want the taxpayers to increase their taxes they have to win their trust and support.

Now, it seems we have a vicious circle. The school board needs more money to increase services, while citizens want more services before they'll increase taxes.

With good communications and understanding between the board, administration and parents, the students could come out ahead.

Donations show need for voter awareness, research of choices

In listing campaign expenses for candidates in the August primary in last week's Crier, it was revealed that some pro-growth incumbents in Canton received contributions from some area builders.

This shows that voters can't take a lackadaisical attitude towards politics.

Mention politics in some circles of conversation, and mouths open in polite yawns. Some find proposals distracting, propositions a bore, and speeches all the same.

But citizenship is a time-consuming role that is crucial during an election year.

Tuesday, Nov. 7, is election day and the ballot in Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton will be crammed with candidate's names and propositions.

Start making names and positions familiar now.

Study the roster of candidates and develop standards and expectations about the candidate and the position. Read the newspapers and campaign literature with a discerning eye. Learn about the ramifications of the proposals. Tune in on debates and discussions in your neighborhood. Follow the campaigns carefully.

Nov. 6 is too late to begin. An educated choice is far superior to whimsical lever-pulling and your vote helps shape the direction of our community, state and country. Back your vote with a reason and make it an educated one.

Flock's leader cries foul

EDITOR:

Fowl? FOUL! As a member, and an officer, of the First United Presbyterian Church of Plymouth, I feel that noon is an inappropriate time to begin the Fowl Festival. Many churches have services that end at, or soon after, noon.

The Chamber of Commerce should consider a later starting time, especially since Oct. 1 is World-wide Communion Sunday. An activity created for fun shouldn't create bad feelings in any segment of our community.

Where's Canton on state map?

The official State of Michigan map overlooks Canton. While the state's official policy on highway signs and its maps is to list only cities and villages, the current state map lists "Denton" in Canton although it is not an incorporated area.

Since the map lists such thriving metropolises as Salem, a village, and the larger Redford Township (which is not even a charter township like Canton is), why not Canton?

The Plymouth community is represented, although the township is not specifically listed.

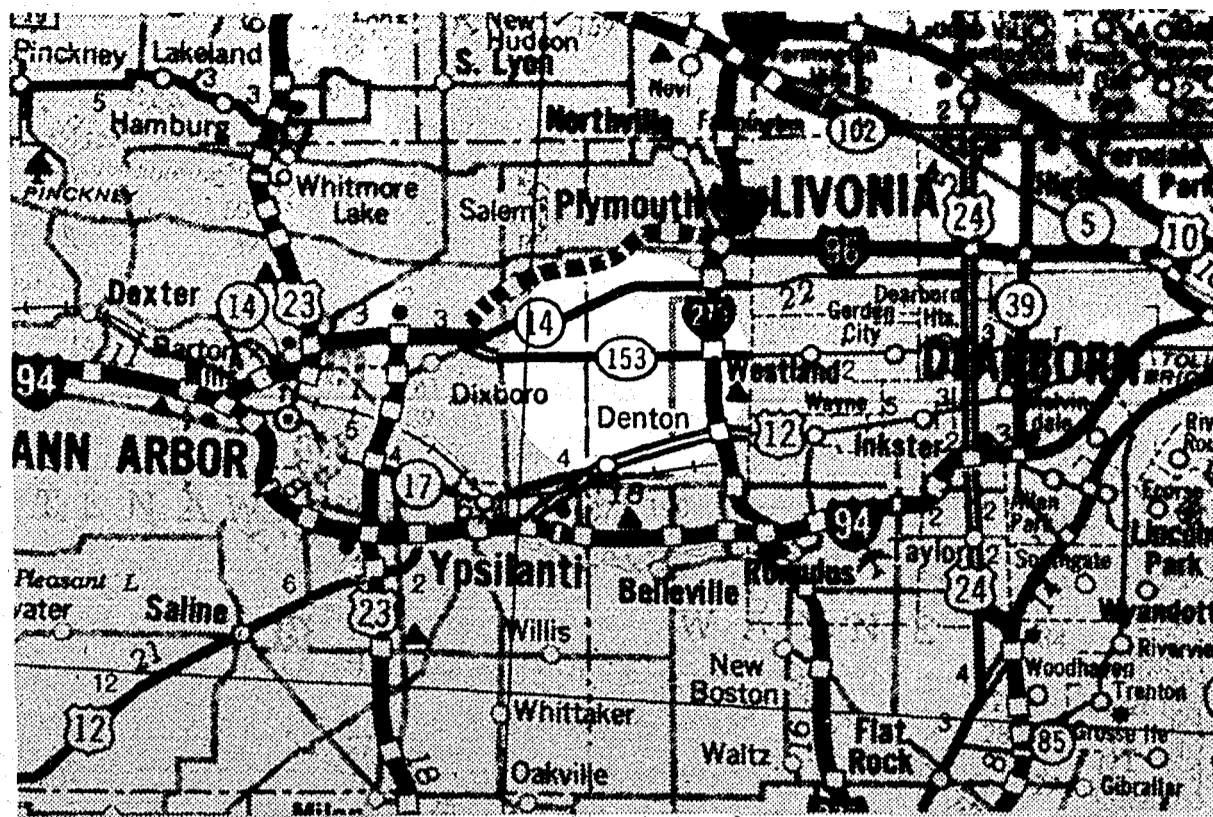

State Sen. William Faust,

Community opinions

who as majority leader of the Senate should have some extra clout represents Canton and is working on getting the rapidly growing area listed on the I-275 exit signs, but he should also see that we're on the map as well.

Even if "Denton" is removed to add Canton, we'd like to be listed on the official 1979 map.

Regarding Chas Child's editorial in Sept. 25th's Crier: Being a member of the United Democratic Club, I resent the allegations that we received large contributions from big business men, developers and realtors.

These were not contributions but payment for tickets purchased for our fundraisers — collectively. Each ticket was used by either an employe or family member of the purchaser for a dinner, dance, free beer and floor show. Each person had value received for the price of his ticket.

After all, if you buy a loaf of bread at the supermarket you don't call the money you paid for the bread a "donation," do you?

What's with all this downgrading of Stein and his 'slates' just because he filed an honest report as usual.

Anyway after all disbursements I'm sure you would find that Stein didn't have as great a campaign "contribution" as one would suppose.

Parental neglect leads to crime

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD
"On the surface, kids who get in trouble are rich with bikes, cars, televisions and swimming pools, but underneath all their possessions, their parents have given them little time, little dignity, and little self-respect."

This view of juvenile criminals comes from Executive Judge Y. Gladys Barsamian of Wayne County Juvenile Court, who lives in Plymouth Township.

"Young offenders are hostile, alienated, and most have poor academic records in school and a poor self-image," she said. "They don't expect to succeed and eventually give up trying."

Between 20-25 Plymouth-Canton youths under the age of 16 are seeing probation officers after committing serious crimes such as breaking and entering, assault, attempted robbery and larceny.

"Their parents are too busy with their own lives to give their children emotional support and the kids come home after school to empty houses," said Judge Barsamian.

She also cited peer pressure as a major influence on young people. Most kids want to impress each other rather than seek their parent's approval, she said.

According to Judge Barsamian, combatting the minor's problems in court isn't easy. There, the judge tries to identify the youth's problem, establish its relation to the family situation and circumstances, and then construct rehabilitative measures to rectify the situation.

Various alternatives which depend on the seriousness of the crime may include putting the youth on probation, sending the offender to counseling at centers like Our House Crisis Center in Plymouth, finding jobs to help the victim of the crime, or at last resort, committing the offender to a training school or foster home.

"Unemployment among young people is one of our biggest problems," said Barsamian. She cited cases where union regulations or insurance rules prevented offenders from working - even as part of their rehabilitation program.

Part of the counseling may include attendance at JOLT (Juvenile Offenders Learn Truth). This program involves visiting inmates at Jackson State Prison face-to-face.

"Even coming to court in downtown Detroit is a shock for most suburban kids, but going to Jackson State is a real eye-opener. They are exposed to everything from how youthful inmates are the most vulnerable to homosexual attacks, to how depressed you can become when you know you'll be locked up for 15 or 20 years," said Barsamian.

JOLT is based on a similar program in New Jersey where the percentage of juveniles returning to crime after their first offense dropped from 70 to six per cent, she said.

Judge Barsamian had seven years' experience as a private attorney before being elected to the Wayne County Juvenile Court in 1975 on a nonpartisan ticket.

association voted unanimously to oppose the voucher plan and Tisch amendment.

These positions were reported to the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education Monday night during the MAISL report made by Yack. In representing the board, Yack said he had talked to other board members informally before taking his position on the Headlee.

Other schools included in MAISL are: Cherry Hill, Dearborn, Garden City, Inkster, Livonia, Redford Union, Taylor and Wayne-Westland.

Will voters pay price to save farms?

Editor's note: This is the first of a two-part series on Canton's Farmland Preservation program. Next week, the legality of the plan will be explored.

BY CHAS CHILD

A proposal to preserve a large number of acres in the western half of Canton township was officially placed on the November ballot last week.

Unfortunately, it has a large price tag.

If approved by township voters, the proposal will raise the limit on the number of mills which the township can assess by four - from five to nine mills.

The increase will enable the Board of Trustees to raise about $16 million, the estimated price tag of buying the development rights of the 5,100 acres targeted for preservation.

According to Finance Director Mike Gorman, the township will not need to assess four mills throughout the 20 years of proposal. He said the full four mills will only be needed from 1979 through 1989. Three mills will be necessary from 1990 through 1992, while two mills will be assessed from 1993-1996, if things go according to plan.

In the final two years of the preservation program, (1997 and 1998), one, and 0.5 mills respectively, will be needed, said Gorman. This averages over the 20 years to 3.25 mills per year.

Asked why the township couldn't start the program by assessing fewer than four mills and then build up, Gorman said that with any less than four, the program would be out of money in a couple of years.

Although the $16 million cost includes administration and possible legal expenses, virtually all of the money would go toward buying development rights of the land.

The landowner would still hold title to his property. If he sold his development rights to the township, he just couldn't develop his land or sell to a developer.

The price of the development rights is determined like this: Two assessments of the land are made - one to determine its value as agricultural property, and another to determine its value if it were sold on the open or speculative market.

The difference between the two prices would be paid to the landowner in return for his binding pledge to not develop his land.

Proponents of the preservation plan argue that in the long run, township taxpayers will actually save money. The taxes will be high in the first years of the plan, but taxpayers will eventually be spared the expense of paying for services - sewers, schools, water, roads, etc. - in the undeveloped land, say supporters.

"In about the eighth year," estimates the Farmland Preservation Education Committee, "property owners would begin to enjoy a lower tax rate than would be the case under assumptions of continued full development. The peak savings would be realized in the 10th through 12th years of the program when the required millage would be about five mills lower under the preservation program."

For a homeowner in Canton with a $50,000 house, one mill per year equals $25 in taxes.

Many persons have asked township officials if state or federal funds are available for the preservation program. Apparently, the answer is no. "Numerous state and federal agencies were contacted by the Land Use Study Committee without results or leads," wrote the education committee, which has prepared a complete question and answer booklet on the program. The booklet is available at Canton Township Hall.

746 Starkweather 459-5444

If the program is approved, what will it do to property values in the residential areas of Canton?

"In the short run, a higher tax rate may make Canton property less attractive to potential purchasers.

However, the level of property taxes in Canton relative to taxes in adjacent communities may be an equally important consideration for most home buyers. Canton taxes are currently lower than many communities," said the education committee.

"In the long run, the farmland preservation program may make living in Canton more desirable." The "restriction on the supply of homes should result in higher prices for the units that are built," said the committee. "In addition, the relative tax savings which may eventually be realized as a result of the farmland preservation program would make Canton homes more marketable."

Bus subs needed

The Plymouth-Canton schools need substitute bus drivers to speed up the arrival of buses to Tanger, Bird and West Middle schools.

Asst. Supt. Ray Hoedel said five drivers are being trained now and if three of these drivers pass a written test and road test, then the problem will be resolved -- at least if no one gets sick.

Hoedel made his report to the Board of Education Monday night in response to the Jim Segal, representing the parents of kindergartners at Bird Elementary School. The parents complained to the board on Sept. 11 about long waiting periods between the school dismissal time and bus arrival time.

Extra drivers would allow new routes to be set up for students in the Quail Hollow and Trailwood subdivisions. Hoedel said they would like to train about 15 substitute drivers.

School apples may sour

The practice of selling apples for athletics will be discussed at the next Board of Education workshop on Monday, Oct. 2.

Board member Carol Davis said parents have objected to students selling calendars door-to-door in some neighborhoods to raise money for their classes or school projects.

Fund-raising policies will be reviewed to determine their educational reasons and procedures for keeping track of the money.

Eleven ballot issues will be discussed at the League of Women Voters, Plymouth, Northville, Novi and Canton, meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 4 at 7:30 p.m. at Mead's Mill School, Six Mile and Bradner, Northville.

Should the drinking age be raised from 18 to 21?

Should bail be denied to certain "career criminals" or repeat offenders?

Should prisoners serve a minimum sentence before becoming eligible for parole?

Should a new constitutional convention be called to rewrite Michigan's basic laws, last revised in 1963?

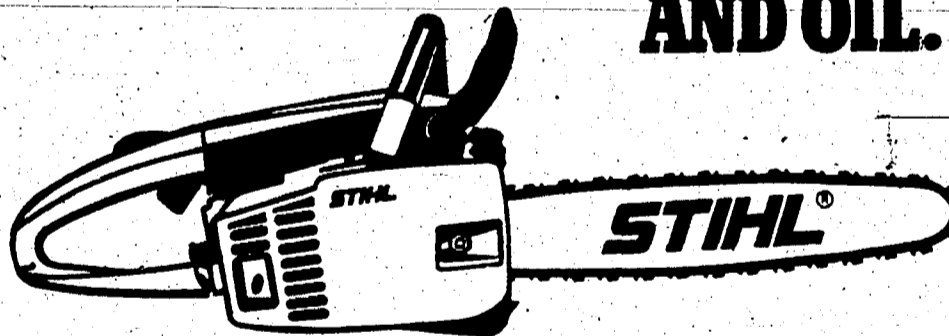

Should property taxes be cut by half, while allowing a one percentage point increase in the state income tax? (Tisch Amendment)

Should we eliminate the use of property taxes for financing schools and provide for state financing of public and private schools? (the voucher plan)

These are some of the questions voters will be asking themselves. The League, as a part of their Financing and Government Services Study, will be discussing the pros and cons of issues that Michigan voters will decide in the November election.

Hobbyist copies Plymouth landmark friends & neighbors

BY PHYLLIS REDFERN

An historic landmark in Plymouth - the Baker House on Main Street - is being rebuilt. Not in Plymouth, though. And by a single person.

Connie Clark of Rockford, Mich., is duplicating the building as a doll house.

Connie, who has a sister, Janet Gerish, and a brother, Ed Hancock living in Plymouth, said she had been looking at houses and found the Baker House to be very appealing. She spotted the house when she was here visiting her sister.

Before starting the project last January, Connie toured the first floor and the front hall of the house, and talked to Mrs. Cassidy the niece of the original owner.

From Mrs. Cassidy, she learned some of the details of the history of the house. It was built in 1875, using the English architectural style of putting the kitchen and dining areas in the basement. According to Mrs. Cassidy, the house was built by Mr. Baker, president of Daisy Air Rifle Co.

In designing the doll house, Connie has made a few changes from the original floor plan in the real house. The doll house, which stands three feet high, will have three levels, but will not include a basement level.

Built on a scale of one inch for every foot of the original house, the doll house will have the kitchen and dining room on the main level, along with the entrance hall, parlor and sitting room.

Connie plans to put three bedrooms, a sewing room and a bathroom on the second floor and use the third floor for an attic.

"The house will be a reproduction of what a Victorian home would look like around 1910, complete with a bathroom and lights," said Connie.

She still hasn't decided what material to use on the outside of the house. "I want something that looks like brick but isn't too heavy," said Connie. The exterior of the house will also include detailed trim, and a double door entrance with etched windows.

Using acetate for glass, the windows are constructed with wood borders and will open and close. She plans to install electricity in the house, using flat wire underneath the wall paper.

NO DETAIL is too small for Connie Clark as she builds a scale model of Plymouth's Baker House. She was visiting her sister in Plymouth when she saw the house. (Photo by Molly Bremmer.)

Along with doing all the house construction, Connie is also making all the furnishings and decorations. She has made some needlepoint rugs, and the furniture so far includes a high boy chest, a pie safe with a miniature cherry pie, a rocker and a Shaker cradle.

Interested in doll houses all her life, Connie said she got started a couple of years ago when helping her sister build a doll house.

She took a wood-working class at Rockford High School, so she is familiar with the tools. She learned to make the doll house furniture at a class offered by a local shop, and is able to scale down furniture to the size she wants.

As for coming up with the idea of electrical wiring, she said she learned that from electric train lay outs.

This is the third doll house she has made, but it is the first time she has reproduced a real home. "It takes a lot of time and patience," according to Connie. "It's like an endless hobby." She is sculpturing 42 posts for the stairway, and each post takes 45 minutes. "I'm in no hurry to finish," she added. "The fun is in the construction and furnishing."

A wife and mother, Connie says she gets cooperation from her family. "My husband, Don is my consulting engineer," she said. She added, "I don't know what I'll do when I finish, I haven't looked that far ahead yet."

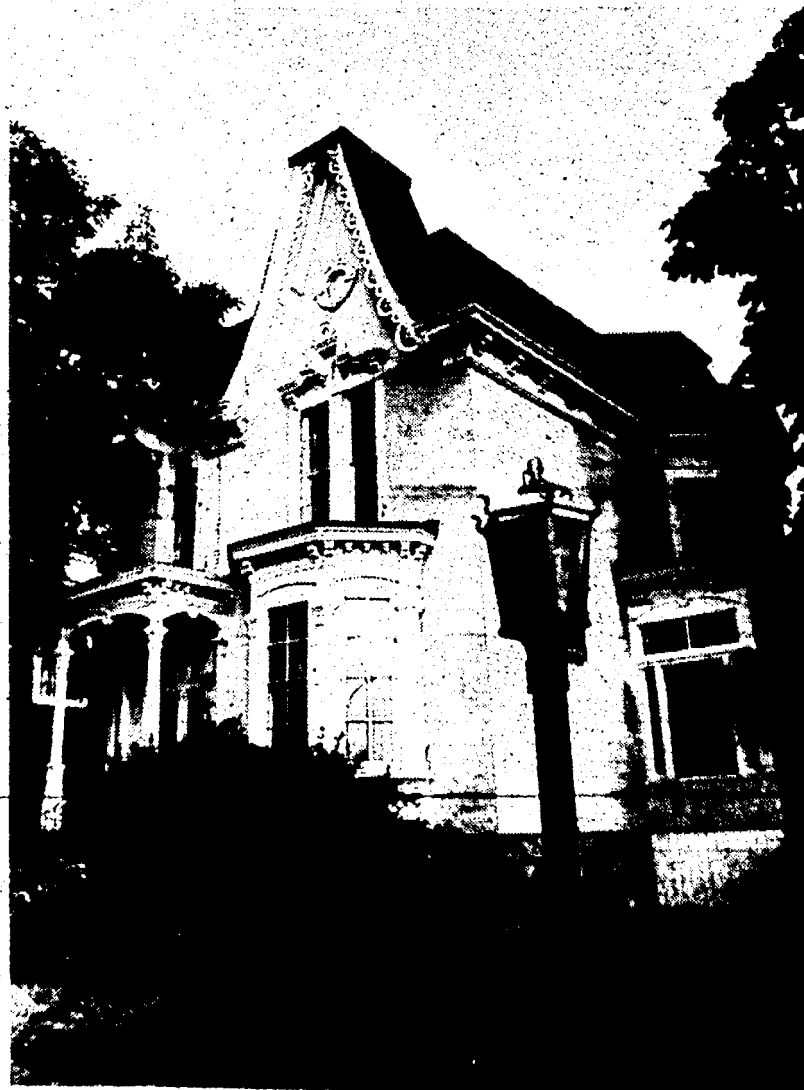

Again, the 124 Plymouth Rotarians depended on volunteers to amplify their efforts at the Fall Festival. Without help, the task would be impossible. This year, Plymouth-Canton area swimmers applied 70 strong helpers to the total of 189 volunteers who registered.

Not only do Rotarians appreciate the physical help, but also the willing enthusiasm that lifted spirits when bodies weakened.

Many of the volunteers have helped in previous years. One youngster asked if he could sign up for next year, saying, "I didn't know that grownups had so much fun getting smokey and dirty."

Rotarians and the community join in thanking these volunteers who truly are "the best of Plymouth".

Mother of 4 wins scholarship, heads for U of M

Plymouth artist Alicia Lesko has received the ninth annual scholarship of the Plymouth Branch, American Association of University Women to attend the University of Michigan.

However, with four children, she's not the average undergraduate student. "You just have to be very organized to fit everything in," she said.

Alicia came to the United States from her native Chile where she had studied three years at the University of Concepcion.

"The schedules are very rigid in Chile universities," she said. "In the United States, there are many more facilities for part-time education."

After she settled in Plymouth she enrolled at Schoolcraft Community College. Seven years later, with a completed Associated Degree and an outstanding academic record, she began this fall at Michigan's School of Art.

She plans to specialize in printmaking and applied arts, and already looks forward to putting her talents to work in new ways. She's exhibited at Plymouth's annual Fall Festival and various galleries.

Asked if any other artists have inspired her, Alicia said writers have influenced her more.

Besides going to school, and finding time for her four children, from ages two and one-half to eleven, Alicia also finds time to do volunteer work for a domestic violence task force. "It takes a lot of planning," she emphasized.

250 to guzzle beer at Oktoberfest party

Celebrating a beer-drinking tradition that was initiated in Germany during the early part of the 19th century, more than 250 people will gather at the Plymouth Cultural Center on Saturday, Sept. 30 to participate in Oktoberfest.

The Melodias will play music for dancing and German potato salad, knackwurst, and sauerkraut will be served during the evening.

Tickets are sold out for the event, according to Edith Scherer, and she advised participants to arrive early for a good seat. The event begins at 9 p.m., and doors open at 8 p.m.

Other members of German-American Club who helped organize the event are: Roger Feller, Mary Ann Sudhoff, Maria Mulzer, Bob Fitzner, Chuck Ploughman, and John L. Miller.

PCAC art for rent

Three original paintings, a photograph and reproductions by Peter Brueghel, Morris Graves and Renoir are among the new items which will soon be available for rent from the Plymouth Community Arts Council Art Rental Gallery.

Located on the second floor of the Dunning Hough library at 223 Main St., Plymouth, the rental gallery is open every Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Area residents may rent originals and reproductions for $2 per month.

"Dance School" by Edie Joppich and "From the A. and P. With Love" by Barb Turney, both originals, are currently on display and will be available for rent on Oct. 11. Also available will be "The Fall of Icarus," a reproduction by Peter Brueghel and "Two Girls at Piano" by Renoir.

Other new acquisitions on display soon include: "Man - Civilization," an original oil painting by Plymouth resident Jean Herr; "Daffodil Morn" a photograph by Phil Rusten; and "Bird with Offspring" a reproduction by Morris Graves.

In addition to its regular service, the rental gallery also offers original art on consignment from Michigan artists. These pieces can be rented, with an option to buy, for $5 a month. Up to four months in rental fees may be applied to the purchase price.

The consignment program currently offers works by George Jull, Celia Kelly, Johnnie Crosby, Jessie Hudson, Albert Decker, Caroline Dunphy, Kay Leman, Jane Rochleau, Marjorie Chellstorp and Ellen Wallis. New artists and new pieces will be added in November.

During the next three months the rental gallery committee will be making trips to several area galleries and art shows to purchase other new items for the gallery collection.

Cardsharks send kids to college

The weatherman may have trouble deciding what season it is, but according to the calendar, fall is officially here. That means it's football time again.

It's great exercise to get out in the park with all the neighborhood kids for a little game of touch football. I admit, I can't run as fast as some of the 10-year-olds, but I can still catch a pass as well as they can -- until I trip on my shoelace and fall flat on my face.

After a vigorous day of playing or watching football on Saturday, Sunday should be a fantastic day for the annual Fowl Festival. Remember to get to the parade site early; you don't want to miss the chickens strutting and winging down Main Street. The chicken flying contest promises to be as exciting this year as in the past, with challengers competing for high stakes.

I tried to call Bob Talbert, but his phone was out of order. He must have seen the Crier Flier, Tabloid, in training, and was afraid to accept the challenge. Come on Bob, don't be a chicken.

With the Fowl Festival only four days away, many chickens have gone into seclusion, in preparation for the big day. I was allowed a brief interview last Sunday with Vincent Van Cluck, sponsored by The Plymouth Community Arts Council. Unlike his predecessor from last year, Toulouse La Chick, Vincent was born and raised in this country.

"That French chick they had last year was good looking," said Vincent, "but she suffered from jet lag when it came time to fly."

Although he hasn't met his main challenger, Chickowsky, sponsored by The Plymouth Symphony League, Vincent is confident that he can out-fly him. "I've heard he's a pretty big bird," said Vincent, "the bigger they are, the faster they fall."

According to Sharon Belobraidich, Vincent's trainer, he's little, but he's fast.

Chickowsky was unavailable for comment, and his trainer refused to answer questions. The only statement coming out of his training camp read, "We gladly accept all challenges, but we don't want to give away any secrets."

News Flash! A reliable source from the League of Women Voters training camp has just announced that their entry, Susan-B. Chicken has been scratched from the competition. According to the statement, "Susan was arrested and thrown in the cooler for squawking too loudly about the Equal Chicken Rights Amendment."

May the best chicken win -- come on Tabloid!

Fall is also a beautiful time of year for weddings and bridal showers. Dorothy McNamara of Penniman Avenue and her niece, Kathleen McNamara, were hostesses at a luncheon and bridal shower for Maureen Ann McNamara, Kathleen's sister. The shower was held Sunday, Sept. 17.

Following lunch at the Plymouth Hilton, guests gathered in Mrs. McNamara's back yard which was decorated for the occasion. The gazebo, decked out with orange blossoms and small white bells and doves, was the perfect setting for the bride-to-be, to receive her gifts. Guests were seated at tables in the beautifully landscaped yard.

Maureen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McNamara. She and her fiancée, John Christian Bonner, Jr. are planning a November wedding.

The Plymouth Branch of the American Association of University Women met last week to kick off a busy and exciting year. Members will have an opportunity to sample many interest groups, study topics and get involved in various activities during the year.

Any woman with a degree from a four year college or university is encouraged to attend and learn more about the activities and interests that the Plymouth AAUW has to offer. For more information, prospective members may call Mrs. Phyllis Johnson at 455-2907.

*The first flying contest was certainly absurd,
*On the wrong side of the starting line finished our bird,

Canton land use plan to save farms

BY CHAS CHILD

A Canton zoning map and ordinance aimed at preserving as much farmland as possible is nearing completion by the Planning Commission.

Based on the 1976 Master Land Use Plan, the new zoning map and ordinance has been under study for two years.

The new ordinance uses many new land-use classifications to more closely monitor and control development in the township. In the agricultural areas in the western half of Canton, for example, two classifications will replace the one in the present ordinance.

The new classification, labeled AGI, limits houses on 40-acre lots, and is slated for the property designated for the township's Farmland Preservation program. Five-acre lots are permitted in the second agricultural district, which is the same as the only farm district in the present ordinance.

"A citizen land use committee may want to study new directions for the western half of the township," said Canton Planner Jim Kosteva. "Large lot zoning for the area may be one alternative, while reducing the number of acres in the Farmland Preservation program may be another," he said.

"Also, we might want to pursue other techniques that would accomplish our goals," he said.

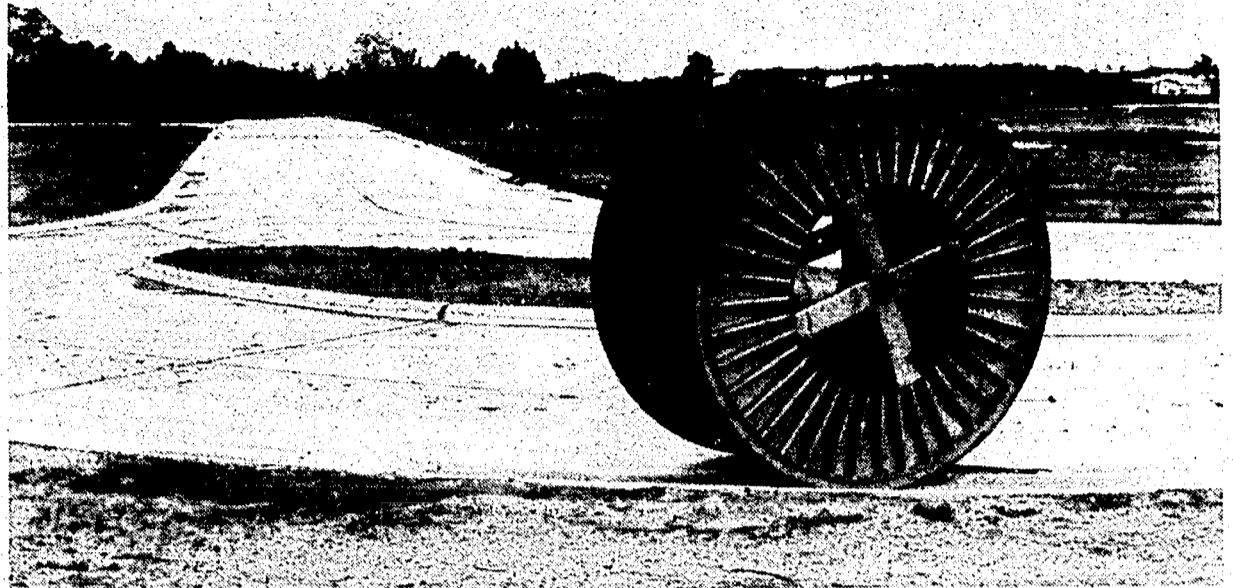

In the commercial category, the classifications are expanded from three to six.

Local or neighborhood businesses, C-1, stays the same in the new ordinance. C-2 in the present ordinance covers all general business, but in the proposed text, this is broken down into three new categories - C-2, C-3, and C-4.

C-2 in the proposed ordinance designates extended neighborhood shopping centers, and C-3 is for larger convenience and comparison shopping centers at the intersection of two major roads in the township.

C-4 is reserved for large-scale, regional shopping malls such as Fairlane or Briarwood. Although the classification will be included in the text, no property in Canton is scheduled for the zoning now.

Also, no major shift in the business districts is planned in the new zoning ordinance, as most C-2 and C-3 districts are scheduled for Ford Road and Michigan Avenue.

A NEW CANTON land use plan seeks to stop new subdivisions like this one from spreading throughout the township. (Crier photo by Chas Child)

Of the final two business classifications, C-5 will designate business districts that will serve motor traffic (fast food, gas stations), while C-6 will indicate large narrow lots along heavily traveled highways that will be used for such things as the Super Bowl and self-storage complexes.

Again, both C-5 and C-6 are mainly proposed for Ford Road and Michigan Avenue.

An extra office category that provides for research buildings along Michigan Avenue and I-275 is also included in the proposed ordinance.

Wetlands conservation is also slated for the lower

Rouge River and a stretch of the Tonquish Creek in the eastern edge of Canton in the proposed ordinance.

Kosteva said the Planning Commission will discuss and possibly approve the ordinance in October and formal public hearings on it will probably be held in January and February.

This Crier ad was like a lifeline (pardon the pun). The sail for our boat, a one-of-a-kind item was stolen from our van. It obviously wasn't what the thief thought it was or he didn't want it after all. So he dumped it in the middle of Main St. A kind family found it, held on to it and made many inquiries about it, to no avail. We never expected to see it again, but an ad couldn't hurt. We tried and received a call the very next day. Thanks again to the Floyd Pembertons who not only found the sail but restored our faith in people and thanks to The Crier, the paper that brought us together.

Limited parking draws fire

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

A couple of dozen parents have complained about a high school policy limiting parking permits to students who participate in school-sponsored activities requiring them to stay after school, said Ken Jacobs, high-school area coordinator.

About 100-150 parking spaces have been added to the lot, "but it's difficult to honor all requests," said Jacobs.

That policy may eliminate some permits from being issued to students with afterschool jobs who need to get to work right after school, Jacobs said.

Although 550 permits have been issued this year, the parking lot cannot be filled because extra space must be allotted for snow removal, said Jacobs.

Meanwhile, students driving to school are simply one part of a traffic problem that coincides with the commencement and dismissal of high school classes every day.

Measures to alleviate the congestion include: the installation of a four-way stop at McClumpha and Joy roads; the addition of a second driveway at the student parking lot; and diverting 20 buses to Canton High School to load and unload students.

A fourth measure - to manually control the traffic light at Joy and Canton Center roads - depends on deputies from the Wayne County Sheriff's Office, however, officers from Wayne County have not appeared to operate the light for the last few days. "Apparently, they've had other priorities," said Jacobs.

School officials are currently investigating more permanent solutions to the traffic problem with representatives from the Wayne County Sheriff's Office, Wayne County Road commission, and Canton Police.

School administrators expected parents to complain at the Board of Education meeting Monday night, however no parents addressed this issue.

Four teachers hired

Four replacement teachers were hired by the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education Monday night and a fifth teacher was hired to teach half-time.

The half-time teacher was hired due to increased enrollment, according to Norm Kee, asst. supt. for business, and President Tom Yack noted that all the teachers were experienced but are starting at the lowest pay for their degrees.

In related action, the board accepted the resignation of Ronald Ciccirelli from Pioneer Middle School and granted a leave of absence to Patricia Reese of Salem High School for the second semester.

Geake elected Whip

The Michigan Senate Republican Caucus elected State Senator R. Robert Geake, whose district includes the City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township, the youngest and newest member of the caucus, to serve in the position of Assistant Minority Leader.

Geake, 41, served in the Michigan House of Representatives from 1973 to March, 1977, when he was elected by special election to the State Senate. He currently serves as a member of the Committees on Health, Social Services and Retirement, Education, and Energy.

Religious values shape area parochial schools

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

Almost 1,000 noses weren't tallied when administrators counted heads for state aid allocation in the Plymouth-Canton schools last Friday.

That figure represents the number of students enrolled in the private schools in the Plymouth-Canton community, Our Lady of Good Counsel Catholic School, Plymouth Christian Academy, and St. Peter's Lutheran Day School.

What special values do they offer and what guarantees their survival in these days of spiraling inflation?

These parochial schools teach the same bulk of reading, writing, math, science and extracurricular activities as the public schools, however all the schools are connected both financially and philosophically with churches, so 30-45 minutes of religious education is added to the student's day.

"The school is the arm of the Church, and religious education is why the school exists," said Gerold Meir, principal of St. Peter's.

Religious education permeates the day at each school and all three principals viewed their teachers as more religious instructors for 45 minutes each day. James Dyer, principal of Our Lady of Good Counsel, said, "Our teachers are examples in the classroom, at home and in the community and we look for dedication and commitment from them."

The schools emphasize disciplining and both Meir and Dyer said they had no open classrooms, and students were encouraged to raise their hands to speak. "We're in the best position to determine the structure of their activities," said Meir.

Parents seeking to send their children to either Good Counsel, Christian Academy, or St. Peter's are expected to be church members before enrolling their children in school. Those who weren't members had to express an interest in becoming members.

The children of those who have been registered parishioners the longest are awarded places in class, but Dyer reported last year there were only eight openings for new students aside from the new class of first-graders.

At the Plymouth Christian Academy, Principal Harry Guess said all parents were active members of the Baptist Church and students attending the Christian Academy were taught God's truth in all subjects. Guess said the school's ultimate standard is the Bible and all subject matter is integrated into it.

For example, when asked for a Biblical interpretation of the Vietnam War, Guess said God supports a democratic form of government and therefore draft-card burning was a violation of Scripture. According to historical interpretation at the Christian Academy, protesting against the war was a protest against the word of God, said Guess.

Teachers at the Christian Academy and St. Peter's are required to study the Bible from Church-accredited colleges, and teachers at the Christian Academy must present references from their home pastor about their participation in church services and activities.

At Good Counsel, three of the teachers are nuns but the other 13 are lay teachers, and the school prefers these teachers to be Catholic, said Dyer.

Both St. Peter's and Good Counsel rely on the Plymouth-Canton schools to bus their students to and from school and to provide teachers for students in special programs such as learning disability classes, or classes for the hearing impaired.

The schools have good cooperation from parents, partly because they pay tuition and books, Dyer said. "Our students haven't blown up any toilets and drugs and cigarettes are not a serious problem yet," said Meir.

Students at the Christian Academy and St. Peter's must follow a dress code and teachers and administrators depend on parents to send their children to school dressed properly. "We like to let parents assume that responsibility," said Guess.

Good Counsel students are required to wear uniforms to discourage competitiveness and promote a work atmosphere, said Dyer.

Serving five parishes, Our Lady of Good Counsel has been a part of the Catholic community since it started in 1949 with eight classrooms. Today Good Counsel is the largest parochial school in the area with about 600 students attending and 300-400 on the waiting list. The school is at full capacity now with 35 students for each teacher.

Tuition at Good Counsel is $250 for the first child and $360 for two or more children. Another $40 per child is added for books.

Almost 85 per cent of the students at Plymouth Christian Academy come from the Plymouth-Canton community according to Guess. Students attend classes in Northville now, but administrators hope to move to their new school currently under construction on Joy Road in Canton next year.

There are 220 students enrolled at the Northville academy now, but administrators hope to start a high school and satellite elementary schools within the next five years, said Guess.

Middle school fees at the academy are set at $75 per month for 10 months plus a $75 book fee, and high school and elementary rates are $5 higher and lower respectively.

Pass!

RICH HEWLETT of Salem (No. 20) sets to throw against Allen Park on Friday. He completed three of four passes for 99 yards and one touchdown of 69 yards to Rich Hanschu. Hewlett also rushed for three touchdowns in pacing the Rocks to a 35-6 victory. The win raised Salem's season record to 3-0 and their Sub-8 mark to 2-0. (Crier photo by Bill Bresler.)

Salem romps over Allen Park, 35-6

BY ERIC OLSON
The Salem gridders seem to be gaining momentum as they progress, as Allen Park will attest. The Rocks struggled some in their season's opener win over Franklin (28-19) and they had to come from behind to win on a 15-yard field goal with just 15 seconds against Dearborn, 10-7. But Friday, Salem thumped Allen Park, 35-6.

It has been said that to be a good football team it must face adversity and come back, which is what Salem did against Dearborn. The Allen Park game is evidence that the Rocks are now rolling.

Going into the game head coach Tom Moshimer had expected a tough game, but he didn't get it.

"We really executed our offense well for the first time, but you must observe that they were not as tough as a team as I thought they were," said Moshimer.

Quarterback Rich Hewlett paced the Salem offense as he ran for three touchdowns and passed for another. His first score came on a 28-yard run after a fumble recovery with 9:01 left in the first quarter.

Northville stuns Chiefs, 27-6

BY CHAS CHILD

The bubble burst for the Canton football team Friday. Going into the game undefeated and unscored-upon, the Chiefs were dreaming of a new era in Canton football. Northville administered a rude awakening, however, with a convincing 27-6 victory.

The game was the Western Six League opener for both squads, and it leaves the Chiefs with little, if any, momentum as they prepare for the rest of the league campaign.

On Friday, they go against one of the favorites for the league crown, undefeated Livonia Churchill. The Chargers thrashed Walled Lake Western on Friday, 41-6, to up their season record to 3-0.

The only thing that went right for the Chiefs was a last-minute passing attack that put them on the scoreboard with 28 seconds on the clock.

Quarterback Scott Dawson passed to End Jay McKinley from eight yards out for the score. The drive, which started on the Mustangs' 38 yard-line, was highlighted by a 15-yard pass from Dawson to Tight End Bill VanHoose and a nine-yard toss to McKinley which moved Canton to Northville's 13-yard line.

Then, the ball was advanced to the six yard line when a Northville back was called for interference on a pass from Dawson to McKinley.

After the touchdown pass two plays later, Dawson tried for two extra points, but his pass was intercepted.

The rest of the game was disheartening for Canton as they looked like last year's 0-9 squad rather than the 2-0 team going into the contest.

The low point came when a Chief halfback fumbled a quarterback pitchout, and Mustang John Marzonia scooped the loose ball and waltzed 10-yards into the end zone to give Northville a 13-0 lead with only eight minutes gone in the first quarter.

The crushing play came on Canton's third offensive play from scrimmage while trying to bounce back from a methodical touchdown drive by the Mustangs which opened the game.

Starting on their own 41 yard-line, the Mustangs slugged into the end zone in 13 plays, all on the ground.

At 5:42, Mustang Don Borthwick cracked over from the three, the extra point kick was good, and the visitors led 7-0.

A 61-yard touchdown strike boosted Northville to a 21-0 lead midway in the second quarter. Quarterback Marzonia hit Jeff Norton who had outdistained the nearest Chief defender by a good three yards near the 20.

On the ensuing kick-off, Canton's Rusty Mandle returned the ball to Northville's 34 yard line, but a five-yard encroachment penalty and a Mustang sack of Dawson forced Canton to punt.

The Mustangs mounted another determined drive late in the second quarter, but McKinley picked off a Marzonia pass near the Chiefs' 35 to end the threat.

The only highlight of the third quarter for the Chiefs came, unfortunately, on an extra point attempt by Northville after it scored its fourth touchdown at 4:43.

Canton's Alan Olszewski tackled the Mustang holder during the attempt which ended the Mustang's scoring at 27 points.

The Chiefs got their hands on the ball three more times, but Northville interceptions yards and one yard capped drives of 67 yards and 68 yards, respectfully. The latter score coming with 37 seconds left in the first half.

Rich Hanschu converted two of the three points after touchdowns to make the half time score 20-6.

On their first offensive possession of the second half, the Rocks scored on a 69-yard touchdown bomb from Hewlett to Hanschu. Fullback Kris Kappler added another third quarter TD on a 37-yard gallop. Hanschu ended the scoring with 8:24 left in the game by finishing off a 54-yard drive with a 27-yard field goal.

For the game, Hewlett hit on three of four passes for 99 yards and one TD. He also picked up 42 yards on nine runs. Craig Stack led all rushers with 114 yards on eight carries. This marked the second time Stack has gone over the 100-yard barrier in a game this year. Against Franklin he gained 136 yards on the ground.

Kappler added 56 yards and Jim Anderson 52, as they had eight and three rushes respectively.

While the offense was rolling up the yards, the defense was holding Allen Park to a total offense of just 83 yards total offense and limiting them to 65 yards rushing.

Salem netted 426 yards total offense of which 327 was gained on the ground on 47 attempts.

The Rocks next opponent is Belleville (0-3) on Friday at home.

The victory left Salem's season record at 3-0 and their Suburban-8 mark at 2-0. The Sub-8 race is now beginning to take shape as Salem, Edsel Ford, and Trenton share the top spot with 2-0 conference records.

Netters drop three

The Canton girls tennis team had a week of ups and downs, but mostly downs as they lost three matches. On Monday they lost to Harrison 4-3, on Wednesday they suffered a 6-1 setback by Churchill, and on Friday they were up-ended by Waterford Mott.

No. 3 singles Laurie Smith was the individual leader for Chiefs as she won all of her matches. Her match against Waterford Mott was a tough three-set victory, by a 6-4, 1-6, 7-6 score.

"It was great for us to do cause they were league champions last year and they usually have strong teams," said Canton Coach Cindy Burnstein. So much for the ups of the week.

"But the losses against Churchill and Waterford Mott were a big disappointment," added Burnstein. "The only way I can explain it is that we just played bad."

Other winners against Harrison were the No. 2 doubles team of Bridgett McNamara and Kim Young and the No. 3 doubles duo of Rene Deplanche and Kim Legel.

Canton swimmers split

The Canton girls swimming team chalked up one victory and one defeat last week.

In their first meet of the season, the women churned to a close 87-85 win over Redford Union last Tuesday.

Cindy Shelanskey, Sue Knight, Lisa Forsythe, and Kim Massey stroked to a first in the 200-yard medley with a 2:07.8 time.

Other first-place winners were: Kim Massey in the 200-yard individual medley; Forsythe in the 50-yard freestyle; and 100 freestyle; Shelanskey in the 100 backstroke; Massey in the 100 breaststroke; and Mary Reardon in the 500 freestyle.

Diver Jamie Zuverink, scoring a total of 163 points during the diving competition, was only one point away from capturing a new pool record for the Canton diving team.

On Thursday, the team was soundly beaten by Harrison, 106-65, in its second meet of the season. During that meet, Forsythe captured a first in the 200 freestyle and 100 freestyle, Massey took the 500 freestyle, and Shelanskey swam first in the 100-yard freestyle.

The Chiefs' next meet will be against Churchill on Thursday at 7 p.m.

Rock golfers shoot for top

BY ERIC OLSON

"We have to be the best team in the state or one of the top teams," said Salem golf coach Bob Waters after the Rock linksters won three straight dual meets last week to improve their season mark to 7-0.

Leading the Rocks was Craig Stevens who was medalist in two of the matches. On Monday he fired a par 35 to pace Salem to a 153-158 win over Dearborn and on Wednesday his 75 was low score in a 154-178 rout of Allen Park.

Ed Thomas helped the Rocks with a 38 against Dearborn as did Rob Jarvis who carded a 77 in the Allen Park meet.

Thomas was the medalist in what Waters described as "a very tough match" against Northville, which Salem won by three strokes, 157-160.

Waters said that he would be very disappointed if Salem was not ranked in the top five in the first prep golf poll that comes out today.

Brother Rice game...

...good or bad?

BY ERIC OLSON

Saturday's Barberton, Ohio and Birmingham Brother Rice high school football game brings out mixed emotions in me. On one side, there is the football fan who would have enjoyed seeing the game and the quality of play and then there is the other side that questions the game.

First, it is hard for me to accept Brother Rice as just a high school team comprised of players that live in the school's area. What bothers me is that, to put it simply, Brother Rice recruits players. This is something that I just can't accept in high school athletics.

A game like this gets state-wide attention in both Ohio and Michigan and it might even get some national exposure. This press plus what Brother Rice has received in the past probably is a great recruiting tool.

Being a private boys school, it is probably easy to concentrate on football and other sports. Their facilities for training, practicing, and playing may be the best in the state for a high school. In my opinion this gives them an unfair advantage over the other high schools in the state.

Another thing that makes me wonder is the pressure that goes with a big game like this. Can 16- and 17-year-old kids handle it? For many of the players this is the first time they have played any sport in front of a crowd, more than 15,000.

"It was probably the most important victory in my 18-year coaching career," said Brother Rice head coach Al Fracassa in a post game interview. How would he have liked to have been the kid that fumbled and lost the game for him?

Still, even with all my negative feelings about the game, I'm glad that Brother Rice won 13-6. The victory sort of upholds the honor and tradition of Michigan football.

Winning in a state (Ohio) that is regarded as a hotbed of good football says something for Michigan high school football.

One good thing the game did, which I think everyone agrees on, is that is added a lot of excitement to the high school sports scene.

Harriers win

Although the Salem cross country team had only one meet last week they still got a good workout.

"We had a tough week of practice in order to prepare for next week in which we have some tough meets," said Scott Dunson, coach of the Rock harriers. "It was a good week of practice and I gave them no chance to rest for the Thurston meet which explains the slower times. Also it was a hot day to run in."

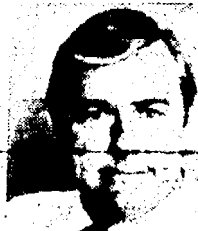

Paul Hess ran his slowest time of the year, 17:15, for the three mile course; but it was still good enough for first place. He was followed by Dave Rubadue in second (17:55), Kevin Waara was fourth in 18:17, in sixth place was Jeff Haertel, and in seventh was Dave Truesdale.

THIS IS A TUIT

You will note that it is not square, but round. We believe you fully intended to have a spinal check up as soon as you got a round tuit.

SELLING FOR BEST PROFIT

Without any doubt, the most important element of selling a home is placing the right value on it. When you get right down to it, it's the price, more than anything else, which will dictate how fast (or slow); how profitably (or unprofitably) it will sell.

What is the best selling price? Personal experience has proven conclusively that if your property is priced at inception within 5% above fair market value range, the chance of making a clean, top dollar sale during the early stages in TEN TIMES greater than otherwise.

Buyers buy by comparison. Properties not competing favorably do not sell. Overpricing at inception causes properties to become shop-worn; valuable time and buyers are lost forever. Ultimately, all properties sell for their true value by comparison - or less if exposed initially at an inflated price. How do you arrive at this "5% plus" key value? Drop into our office if you're thinking of selling your home and we'll show you.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at REALTY WORLD, Wm. Decker, Inc. Realtors, 670 S. Main St. Plymouth. Phone: 455 - 8400. We're here to help!
