BY CHAS CHILD

Afraid that a foster care home for retarded adults in their neighborhood will lower their property values, residents of Canton Country Acres subdivision are fighting it.

Six retarded adults are expected to move into an $80,000 home at 2337 Roundtable within two months if an application for a license to operate the home is approved by the state Department of Social Services.

"But for the grace of God, one of my children could have been retarded," said Vickie Cotton, one of the neighbors fighting the foster home. "But who will keep up the house?"

If I want to sell my house, I want to be sure that all the houses in the neighborhood are nice. My husband and I spent many years to get our house."

Last night, the neighbors held a meeting to plan their strategy against the foster home. They've already started a petition drive.

"We've been told that state law permits these homes and there's not that much we can do," said Cotton. "But I'm the kind of person who has to be shown there's nothing you can do."

Canton Township officials agreed that there's little local government can do to stop such homes. "As long as the home meets all building and zoning codes, we can't do anything," said Supervisor Noel Culbert.

The supervisor added that the reaction so far from residents has been surprisingly mild. Since the news broke last week, "we've had only about a dozen or two phone calls," he said.

Besides the planned adult foster care home on Roundtable, the state is also considering applications to locate two similar homes for retarded youths, one on Maben Road, west of Canton Center, and a second near Herbey

S. Lyon hires Yockey

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

Fred L. Yockey, former Plymouth City Manager has accepted the position of "consultant" to the City of South Lyon.

In that position, Yockey will act as city manager and help that city search for a permanent manager for about three months.

Yockey's appointment was made by unanimous vote of the South Lyon City Council in a special meeting held Saturday morning.

Neither South Lyon's mayor, Joel Allen, nor Yockey, who is vacationing in Sarasota, Fla. could be reached for comment before press time. But Yockey's son and attorney, Mike, confirmed that his father had accepted the post.

South Lyon, located 20 miles northwest of Plymouth in Washtenaw County, is said to be considering annexation of Lyon Township, according to one city hall source there.

Yockey was forced by the Plymouth City Commission to retire his post here of seven years last fall. He had formerly served as city manager in Midland where he gained a state-wide reputation as an expert on annexing land to cities.

School lunch program runs up $56,000 deficit

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

The Plymouth-Canton schools will face about a $56,000 deficit in its food-service operations by the end of the school year. That estimate was given to the Board of Education at its workshop Monday night by a district manager of the ARA food service, Horst Achenbach.

To date, the district has lost about $41,000 due to the higher prices of food, increasing costs of labor, and slower sales than anticipated, said Achenbach. ARA was hired by the district to manage the food service last spring.

School board members discussed ways to offset the deficit, however, most members balked at the idea of raising the price of school lunches. Raising lunch prices should be done only once each year, in the fall, commented board member Steve Harper.

Paul Seidel, ARA's food service manager in Plymouth-Canton, outlined a 10-point "plan of action" to help defray costs. The plan includes these steps:

*Increasing the productivity of cafeteria workers from 15.07 meals per hour to 17.34 meals per hour.

*Reduce labor throughout the school district by 65.5 hours each day to save about $252 per day. This also includes a 13.75 hours per day reduction for counting lunch money taken in by the cafeteria workers. by the end of the school year, Seidel estimates that the district could save about $20,500.

*Consider using disposable trays, silverware, and cups at some schools.

*In addition, Seidel recommended that he be given central control over many aspects of the food operation, including responsibility for: interviewing candidates for hire; approving overtime; calling substitutes for workers on vacation or who are sick; recommending that the purchase of food equipment be routed through ARA; and enforcing a chain of command so that cafeteria workers talk to Seidel about problems after they've spoken to their cafeteria managers rather than going to a school principal or a school administrator first. Seidel recommends that the worker talk to the principal after they speak to him about a problem.

Seidel's recommendations were met with some objections from about a half-dozen cafeteria managers and workers at Monday night's meeting. "You people expect miracles," commented Elma Condash, the mana-

Dual meters may save Canton residents money

Canton officials have found that residents may install an extra water meter in their homes, which will lower their water and sewer bills. But in the long run, the second meter may not save money for township residents.

According to Finance Director Mike Gorman, the meters will benefit the homeowners who install them, but may eventually raise the rates of those who don't.

Why will the second meter save money? Under the present billing system, the homeowner's sewer rates are based on how much water he draws from the water system.

But during the summer, a resident may sprinkle thousands of gallons of water on his lawn, for example. This water never enters the sewer system, yet he is charged as if it did.

This second meter, then, would monitor how much water was sprinkled on lawns, and sprayed on cars, etc. This amount would be subtracted from the incoming meter's total, and the resident's sewer bill would be based on the lower figure.

How, then, would residents who didn't install the second meter be hurt? Gorman said that county officials, seeing revenue drop from the use of second meters would raise the basic rates.

The county's revenue would not necessarily drop, however, said Supervisor Noel Culbert. growth in the township may offset the difference, he said.

At last night's Board of Trustees meeting, Gorman was expected to report to the Board on the outlook of permitting dual meters in Canton homes. He started looking for ways to lower township water and sewer bills last summer after the township started passing on higher water rates from the City of Detroit.

In stalling the second water meter would cost about $150, said Culbert. But this amount could be made up in lower bills within a year, he added.

On Friday, the township administration received an opinion from its attorney saying the second meter is permissible. Now, some communities in Oakland County permit them, but none in Wayne County, Gorman has said.

Twp. supports water vote

Plymouth Township trustees have thrown their support behind the drive to get more representation for suburban water customers on the Detroit Water Board.

Sewer and water users from the suburban areas have launched a petition drive to increase suburban representation on the water board which approves of price increases for all its users. Currently there are seven members on the Detroit Water Board, four are from the city and three represent the suburbs.

According to Plymouth Township Clerk Esther Hulsing, there are more than 60 communities which are serviced by Detroit and some suburbanites are seeking more representation on the water board.

The petition, aimed for the November ballot, is called the "Support of Citizens for Regional Water and Sewer System Committee." It calls for naming nine members to the water board, three from the City of Detroit and six from the outlying suburbs. Those six would be selected from a water council composed of one representative from each community being served by the Detroit Water Board.

Last Tuesday night, township trustees endorsed the petition drive. Hulsing said that petitions are available at township hall for circulation. The drive was endorsed by a 6-1 vote with Trustee Maurice Breen dissenting.

Man brandishing knife robs Canton beauty salon of $300

A knife-wielding man robbed a beauty salon in Canton of $300 last Wednesday, police said.

The suspect, described by police as about six feet tall, between 20 and 24 years old, with a mustache, entered the Peacock Room, 5800 Sheldon Rd., at around 5:50 p.m., said police.

After saying he wanted to make a hair appointment for his wife, the man told employe Nancy Cusmano to empty the cash register, the report said.

She replied, "What?" and he repeated his demand and pulled out a knife, police said. Cusmano emptied the register as well as the drawer under the register and the man left with about $300 in cash, according to the report.

Canton zoning hearing tomorrow

A public hearing on Canton Township's proposed zoning ordinance will be held at 7:30 p.m., Feb. 7, at Salem High School's auditorium.

The new ordinance calls for rezoning many parcels in the township. More industrial land is planned, for example. For a complete story on the ordinance, see Jan. 30's Crier.

Maps detailing the proposed zoning of all parcels in the township are available at Canton's planning department at Township Hall.

City residents have little control over reassessment

"Assessed valuation is something over which we have little control," said city resident Jack Wilcox.

His comment in the closing minutes of Monday night's City Commission meeting echoed the earlier feelings expressed by many city residents over the pending 22 per cent increase in residential equalized valuation.

City Assessor Ken Way explained to the commission and to the packed audience that county figures show residential property values in the city have grown faster than industrial and commercial property values during the past year.

As a result, Way said, he was reassessing residential property up 11 per cent. This would lower the county's proposed increase in the city's equalization factor for all classes of property and result in a 1.25 factor -- up 9.649 per cent over last year's 1.14 factor.

Compounded, the new equalization factor on top of the reassessment will mean a 21.7 per cent increase in city residential property's equalized valuation this year. That means city taxes will be that much higher, since the Headlee amendment does not apply in communities which are not levying their maximum allowable millage.

Other taxes paid by city residents -- such as the school taxes -- may have to be rolled back under the Headlee amendment.

Under the City Charter, the assessor is solely charged with the assessing process. However, after Way explained the residential property reassessment proposal to the city commission at a study session a week ago, Commissioner Mark Wehmeyer asked to have the matter discussed at a public meeting.

Wehmeyer said Monday night his intent was to discuss the proposed reassessment with "no intent to coerce" Way's decision. The commissioner said the figures supplied by the county to Way were "measuring apples and oranges."

"I think we're jumping a little too fast and taking these figures as gospel," Wehmeyer said.

Anthony Licata, of the Plymouth Civic Federation, told the commission during the discussion of the reassessment, "My greatest concern is whether we have the right to sit here and tell (Way) what to do.

"What the city commission is trying to do here is clearly illegal and contrary to the charter. They cannot influence Way's decision in any way," he said.

The commission took no formal action on the reassessment and Way's proposal to raise residential assessments will be implemented.

Canton ready to develop industry

BY CHAS CHILD

Final preparations are underway on Canton's plan to open more than 300 acres off Haggerty Road to industrial development, says Supervisor Noel Culbert.

If developed, the land would boost the township's general tax income from today's $1.8 million to $2.6 million, said Culbert.

The final hurdle is arranging for the paving of Haggerty from Joy Road south to Warren, about one mile. Culbert said a subcommittee of the Wayne County Road Commission is scheduled March 1 to review where Haggerty stands on its paving priority list.

The chances of paving the road were improved, he added, by the township's offer to contribute 12.5 per cent of the cost of the $1 million project. This represents one-half of the amount usually contributed by the county, said the supervisor. The federal government will contribute 75 per cent.

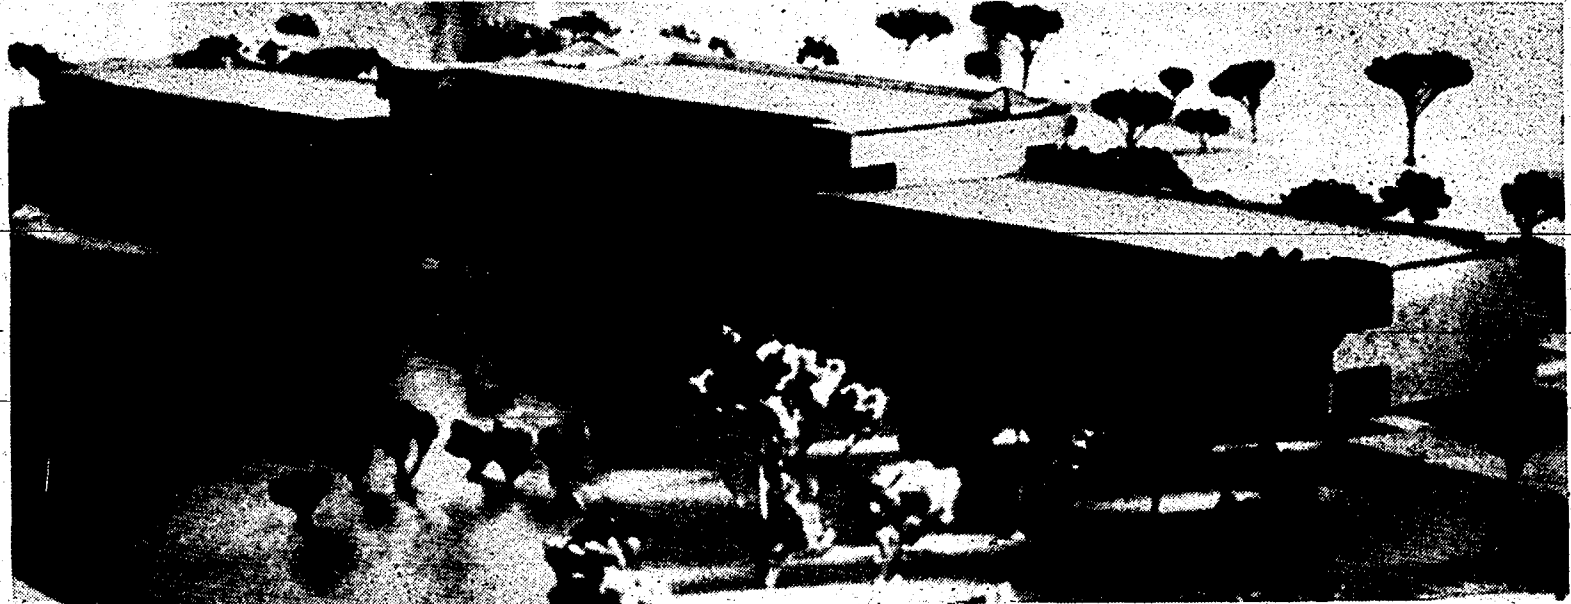

Culbert reported progress in other areas as well. First, all the landowners in the area have agreed to relinquish the easements, necessary to pave a road, he said.

Second, the City of Detroit recently agreed to build a stretch of water main in Livonia that will boost pressure in the township. Detroit's commitment will ensure adequate for industry, said Culbert.

Finally, the township has recently received offers from two well-established industrial development firms to sell and develop the township's 126 acres in the Haggerty corridor.

"We will probably decide in the next couple of weeks on the two offers," said Culbert. "The board (of trustees) may want to out for bids.

The township's 126 acres were purchased in 1977 under former Supervisor Harold Stein's administration for about $800,000, said Culbert. With Haggerty paved, the township could sell the property for perhaps twice what it paid for it, he said.

'Atrium' downsized

TONIGHT the Plymouth Township Planning Commission will discuss plans for the construction of a 70,500-square foot office complex called the Plymouth Place Professional Plaza, above. Proposed site for the plaza is five acres across from the Hillside Inn restaurant on Plymouth Road. According to architect Erick Carne, the plaza's center will be three stories tall with two wings extending from the center, each two stories high. If all goes as planned, the plaza will be built overlooking Hines Park, said Carne. Meanwhile, plans to build the Plymouth Atrium, an office and residential complex, have been scrapped, said Carne, in favor of building this professional plaza. Carne and his partner, Robert Stremich, had proposed building the Atrium on the same site last spring. Also a partner in the plans to build the plaza, with Carne and Stremich, is Bill Robinson, and industrialist from Plymouth, said Carne. Township planners will see the model of the plaza complex during their meeting at 7:30 p.m. tonight at Township Hall. (Crier photo by Robert Cameron)

Schools' request totals 3.1 mills

Voters in March 27's Plymouth-Canton school election will decide whether grades will be realigned.

On the ballot will be three proposals. First, voters will be asked to approve two bonding issues, one for $14,623,000 for renovations, repairs, and construction of energy management systems to all buildings.

Second, voters will be asked to OK a bond issue of $7,277,000 to construct a 40-classroom addition at CEP.

If this second request, called Proposal II, is approved, there will be enough room at CEP to house students from grades 9-12. If it fails, school officials will realign the grades, and put all ninth graders back to the middle schools. Sixth graders, accordingly, would be transferred to elementary schools.

A "yes" vote on Proposal II, therefore, would be a vote against grade realignment.

(A typographical error in last week's Crier made it seem a "yes" on Proposal I would be a vote against grade realignment. We regret the error.)

The third proposal asks voters to approve one-half mill for maintenance programs.

If both proposal I and II are approved, each homeowner will be assessed about 2.6 mills during the first year of the bond. This would raise taxes on an $80,000 home about $104 per year. The half mill request, if OK'd, would cost the same homeowner an extra $17 per year.

2 county employes may lose jobs

The dismissal of two Wayne County Road Commission employes has been recommended by investigators for the county.

Crier Photo Editor Robert Cameron photographed the two men at work cleaning up brush on private property in Plymouth last week using county vehicles and equipment.

According to a staff spokesman for the road commission, the two men "brought the board into disrepute" by: (1) leaving their assigned job, (2) utilizing county vehicles and equipment for their private use.

The staff's recommendation for dismissing the two workers will be considered by the road commission tomorrow and could be reduced to a temporary suspension or reprimand, the spokesman said.

State proposes park-and-ride lot in Township

Tired of the daily commute downtown? Plans to build a park-and-ride carpool lot in Plymouth Township have been proposed by the state Department of Transportation (DOT).

The lot would provide 189 regular parking spaces and six spaces for the handicapped on an area of about 2.1 acres. The proposed site is off Ann Arbor road between Tavistock Circle and Eckles road behind Denny's Restaurant.

According to the DOT, there would be no parking fees charged since the lot is a public service intended for those parking to either board a bus or ride a carpool.

Furthermore, the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMATA) is starting a bus route next year from Plymouth to Detroit. After the carpool lot is finished, SEMATA buses will stop at the lot on week-days to load passengers between the hours of 6:30 to 8:30 a.m. and to unload passengers between 3:30 and 5:30 p.m. No weekend bus schedule is planned yet, according to dot.

Before construction of the park-and-ride lot can begin, part of the proposed site must be rezoned from residential to commercial use. The Plymouth Township Planning Commission has the right to require the state to make application and pay fees just like it would any private citizen, according to an opinion from township attorney Donald Morgan.

In addition to rezoning part of the parcel, township planners must also grant a "conditional use" request for parking in the area since the zoning for commercial use is usually intended for those who park for shopping in nearby businesses, said Jim Anulewicz, township planner.

Park-and-ride carpool lots have been designed by state officials to help commuters save gas, said DOT. In addition, the lots help reduce congestion, noise, and pollution on the expressways, said the DOT.

The lot would be paved and trees would be planted for screening, said DOT. Also under consideration is building a bus passenger shelter for SEMATA riders.

Cost of the lot is estimated to be $250,000 and is anticipated to be built with matched funds from the Federal Aid Interstate and Comprehensive Transportation, said the DOT.

Maintenance, which includes grounds up-keep and snow removal, would be the responsibility of the DOT, officials added.

City apartment complex delayed by Commission

The Plymouth City Commission tabled a request Monday night to rezone an industrial parcel to permit a large apartment complex.

The rezoning, proposed by Wedgewood Associates, would pave the way for the construction of 145 two-bedroom apartments on a parcel south of Ann Arbor Trail and west of General Drive.

The rezoning was denied Dec. 12 by the Plymouth Planning Commission by a 4 to 3 vote.

Monday, the commission voted to table the proposal until its next meeting on the 18th.

Kal Jabara, speaking for Wedgewood, said that "the parcel in question has been vacant for 62 years."

He stated that the proposed housing would provide a "stable tax base and would increase shopping in the Central Business District."

Crown-Zellerbach Company, located directly to the south of the proposed housing site, spoke against the rezoning.

A spokesman for the company said that they hope to expand their facilities in the future, and did not believe that housing could coexist with heavy industry.

The spokesman stated, "If we can't bring our new equipment to the plant, we'll bring our plant to the new equipment."

School secretaries lack pact

Plymouth-Canton school secretaries are "discouraged and disgusted" because their contract negotiations have reached an impasse, said Loretta Olson, the secretaries' chief bargainer.

"We don't have a settlement and it doesn't look like we're close to one yet," said Olson. Secretaries have been working under a contract extension, along with school bus drivers and cafeteria workers, since their contract expired last summer.

The biggest issue that remains to be settled for the secretaries is the cost-of-living allowance, said Olson.

Secretaries will meet tonight (Wednesday, Feb. 6) to talk about contract negotiations, said Olson. Secretaries may take a strike vote, not necessarily to strike, but to decide if secretaries want to consider that option in getting more leverage in negotiations, she added. Also, she said the union may request that a fact-finder be called in to settle the remaining issues, she said.

The school board's and secretaries' teams met with a mediator last week.

Meanwhile, bus drivers, who are also working under a contract extension, are "getting a little impatient," according to Alice Horstead, the union spokesperson. "We haven't gotten a realistic offer on salaries yet," she added.

In addition to salaries and their cost-of-living allowance, vacation time is also an issue with bus drivers, said Horstead. "We're the only group that doesn't get a vacation outside of paid holidays because bus drivers work year-round," she said. The next meeting for the two teams is Thursday, Feb. 7, said Horstead.

A spokesperson for the cafeteria workers, Trav Griffin, has said that a tentative agreement has been reached and the cafeteria employees have ratified it. The settlement will be considered by the Board of Education at its next meeting, Feb. 11, he said. He declined to give any other details of the agreement.

PCAC funds school art programs

What do a workbench on wheels, a stack of music for string quartets, and a puppet stage have in common?

They are three among 16 projects which are being funded through a joint grant from the Plymouth Community Arts Council and the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education.

The PCAC began its Teachers Assistance Grant Program three years ago. The aim of the program is to encourage teachers to devise creative arts activities at all grade levels, with special emphasis on projects which can be utilized in other schools.

The Arts Council, which in turn receives support from the Michigan Council for the Arts, this fulfills its commitment to provide financial aid for special projects which directly affect the quality of education in the arts in the local schools.

This year's winners submitted written proposals of their projects, with an estimated budget and a supportive letter from the principal or area co-ordinator. Applications were reviewed by a committee consisting of Janet Campbell, Supt. John M. Hoben, and Julie Kath. Following is a description of the projects:

Dale Baer, Director of Bands, Pioneer, plans to expand the chamber music program and will use his grant money to purchase music for the 7th and 8th grade band members.

Barbara Church, Pioneer Math and Science teacher, wants her students to learn how to produce a variety of film and other media aids; they will be based on real needs in science classrooms, and will be donated to the Pioneer library for future use.

Nancy Wise, Librarian at Farrand, plans to develop language arts projects centered around a puppet stage, utilizing creative writing talents of students from kindergarten through the fifth grade.

Jan Elston, Cathy Bosman, and Sarah Smith, of Bird School, also requested funding for puppet stage materials, which will develop creative skills in their students.

Pam Hoadley, art teacher at Isbister, has plans for a workbench on wheels, which will be used for a variety of wood-working projects.

Dick Johnson's fifth graders at Starkweather will present their annual play for their schoolmates and parents, but this year with the help of some badly needed stage equipment and supplies.

Carolyn Kleinsmith's kindergarten class at Isbister will be making a photographic record of special events during the school year, to be preserved in a scrapbook.

Mary Luick and Sally Yentz have clowns in their plans for their Pioneer Radio and Drama class, and will use their grant for special supplies.

Barbara Masters from Canton High School's English Department will purchase some experimental videotapes for an Art-in-the-20th Century class.

Klo Phillippi, learning specialist at Starkweather, has planned a booklet containing a sketch and brief history of the landmark sites in Plymouth, which will be executed by fourth and fifth grade students.

Jennie Porter, Librarian at Canton High School, will use grant funds for special programs, by local artisans and films from the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Dolores Prom, librarian at Smith, will initiate a program entitled "Special Authors at Smith," and the students will participate in the Michigan Council for the Arts Creative Writers program.

Robert Shurmer is interested in improving his Isbister 4th graders' map skills and has planned a series of graphic-relief maps which they will construct, paint and mount for display in the school.

Ruth Tonner for Humanities and Odyssey at CEP will help her students, who have designed miniature museum displays, select sculpture reproductions for display in the high school showcases.

Connie Argonis, Sue Crooks, Janine Kateff, and Judy Stone are team teachers in the TAG (talented and gifted) program at Pioneer. Their goal is to supervise while their students write, produce, direct and act in a movie.

Beverly Winklemann, 4th grade teacher at Isbister, is planning a bi-annual magazine which will utilize writing skills of Isbister students for its first issue and district-wide contributors for the second issue. It will be called A Dragonstew. A publication by Plymouth-Canton Students.

Rats jumping?

With Malice Toward None

By W. Edward WENDOVER

When is a get-together of public officials a "public meeting" and when is it just a conference or a social visit?

That question has been raised in connection with the negotiations currently under way between City of Plymouth and Plymouth Township officials concerning merging some services.

Certainly, while the tentative feelers are being extended by the two governmental groups, no decisions of public import are being made. But obviously these talks will reflect the tone of future, more formal talks.

To hear that one of the governmental units' attorneys suggested denying any such talks are going on gives rise to speculation that the process is already to the point where public scrutiny is mandated.

Township Trustee Lee Fidge has complained that the talks are keeping some issues in the dark. While it can be argued that some of the initial negotiations are hammered out behind closed doors, if some decisions are being formalized, her plea has merit. Especially since the original meeting between some city and township officials can be construed as having attempted to keep Fidge in the dark.

Let's see the city-township talks proceed, but only with the understanding that no commitments can be made on either side without public discussion and voting.

Recognize women photographers

EDITOR:

I am writing to express my views on your recent article concerning wedding photography. The article is "Picking a photographer requires care, patience," by Bob Cameron. It appeared in your "Bride of the Decade" supplement.

First of all, being a female professional photographer, I resent the fact that the photographer in question is being referred to as a man throughout the article (Plymouth has four professional photographers who actively shoot weddings -- two male and two female.)

Secondly, it should never take "months" for a couple to receive their proof album. The maximum delivery time should never exceed three weeks. Any longer would be depriving a paying customer of the respect they deserve.

Thank you for taking time to hear my views.

CAROL A. REED

EDITOR:

Your "With Malice Toward None" sounds more like Malice Toward City Employes, City of Plymouth, and City Commissioners.

So let's set the record straight. Plymouth City Employes are not rats and the City is not sinking -- your comments are degrading, not justified, and below good journalism.

City employes with their dedication and devotion to their service deserve more gratitude and recognition than being called rats. It's time your reporting acknowledges what is being done in the community. To maintain Plymouth as a place to want to work and live.

Give some credit instead of unwarranted criticism. Report the news instead of trying to make the news. Let's not see what we can do for ourselves but what together can we do for each other and our community.

Your point about the years each employee, has served the city is proof it's a good place to work. Plymouth City employes enjoy many benefits other municipalities do not have and some private businesses do not provide.

The work the administration and commission has put into a personnel policy procedure will not only make City Hall a better place to work but also provide to all employes, in writing, what their benefits and opportunities are all about.

In any organization changes will always be taking place. We are all replaceable and sometimes we are.

Don't ignore audience

My mother once told me that it was rude to talk to friends about shared experiences in front of other playmates who didn't know what you were talking about. That same bit of advice holds true today.

Sell-out crowds have been attracted to the school board's recent discussions on the upcoming bond election. But the board hasn't made it a "top-priority" to take advantage of the interest generated in the community as evidenced by the number of citizens who have been attending board meetings lately. In other words, the board has been somewhat rude to its audience.

For example, at last Monday night's meeting, the board set the amount of the three proposals facing voters on the ballot for the election tentatively set for March 27. Prior to last Monday night's meeting, all the other discussions had been held during informal workshops.

Yet even though months of preparation and study had gone into making these proposals, board members and school administrators were caught in the last-minute, paper-shuffling routine at the meeting. As they passed the proposals up and down the table from one person to the next, the audience was left waiting.

School administrators were even worse. They had come armed with their bright yellow booklets containing back-up information on some of the proposals under consideration. They passed out copies to the school-board members, but didn't have even one left over for anyone else.

As a result, the ensuing discussion by the board had excerpts such as this:

Trustee Sveve Harper: "We should do all these items that are listed at the bottom of the page regardless of whether grades are realigned."

What page and what items is Trustee Harper referring to? Certainly no one in the audience knew what he was talking about. And that's a shame.

Just so a fair picture is painted, I might add that at many points during the meeting, board members did address the audience. And, some proposals were read aloud before the discussion started so that the audience knew what the board was talking about.

However, the board needs to be more considerate of its audience. I am not suggesting that school administrators worship the copying machines for hours before every meeting; I am suggesting that the board make it a top priority to look for a solution.

Perhaps overhead projectors could be brought in for every meeting so that information could be beamed on a screen. Perhaps a brief synopsis of the basic information could be prepared. Perhaps the board members could preface their questions with some idea of the information they're asking about. Most importantly, the board needs to be made aware of the audience and the vacuum the audience is sitting in.

Undoubtedly, one of the toughest tasks facing the school board during this election will be educating the voters. The board might be wise to begin that task at board meetings where the audience is obviously interested.

Farm preservation will reduce residents' taxes

EDITOR:

This is the first letter to the editor I have written in some years.

I have felt prompted to write to you because of the allegations being made by certain people who are and have been for many years the avowed enemies of the Canton Township Farmland Preservation program including, unfortunately, a particular newspaper reporter who seems to have no difficulty whatsoever changing facts to fantasy to fit his particular articles.

I have personally spent many hundreds of hours during the past year endlessly working toward the concept that the farm preservation program in Canton could be accomplished without undue hardship and perhaps without any financial hardship whatsoever upon the taxpayers of my Township.

Presentation after presentation has been made to Congress and to individual members of Congress in support of the current federal legislation which would, in effect, pay 50 per cent of the development rights purchase plan now in effect in this Township.

Many, many other avenues of financing both in total and in part have been investigated and are now being pursued.

The criticism seems to come from those people who have traditionally felt it is against the business interest in this township not to fully develop since it would mean less customers for the commercial people and less profit. It seems that these people either don't know, or don't care that full development in this Township would mean tragically higher taxes for every homeowner since the cost of government goes up on a per capita basis.

Although farmland preservation is not specifically growth control, by definition, it certainly has the same affect of reducing the ultimate population of the Township, perhaps by 100,000 people.

The implementation of the farm preservation program in this township, for which I have been working for the past seven years, would allow the homeowners of Canton Township to be the only homeowners in the State of Michigan to be able to sell their homes with the promise that taxes in this Township would not go up at an ever increasing rate except for an offset for inflation, since the size of the township would be restricted because farmland would be totally preserved.

The criticism seems to be based upon the fact that almost all my efforts have been on a state and national basis and that no vast educational program in Canton either for the homeowners or for the farmers have been acted upon. This is correct.

It has been my feeling that my chief obligation is to get the funds to make the program work from any avenue possible outside of local taxation. I believe that local millage should be a last, absolute last resort.

I am not convinced that outside funds are impossible and until I have exhausted every possible avenue of acquiring said funds, I think it is improper to ask the people of Canton Township to pay through a millage or to go to the farmers and homeowners with an educational program where funding is still a large, large question mark.

If we are able to obtain outside funding for the farmland preservation program, then education of the township, homeowners and farmers, is easy.

It is my hope that you will support me in my efforts to save the farmland in Canton Township, reduce your taxes substantially, make your property more valuable and more salable and fund as much as possible from outside sources.

When you read future criticisms about no local activity with reference to farmland preservation, please understand that the local activity everyone is talking about is local taxes. I intend to keep away from local taxes until I am certain there is no other recourse.

ROBERT E. GREENSTEIN
Canton Township Trustee and Farmland Preservation Director

Twp. City should discuss united services in public

EDITOR:

On Jan. 22, at the regular Board of Trustees meeting, Trustee Maurice Breen proposed a resolution which was supported by myself and by roll call vote passed unanimously and therefore was adopted.

The board authorized Supervisor Thomas Notebaert to negotiate with City Manager Henry Graper. This resolution established a procedure to be followed for joint discussions between the Charter Township of Plymouth and the City of Plymouth. The language was proposed and adopted at a public meeting.

The confidential letter of Jan. 24, from Mr. Notebaert proposes an entirely different procedure. As stated in the letter, "on a matter of procedure we should follow during the forthcoming study of unified services. The city and Maurice Breen and I concur, that while a particularly subject of unified services, such as police, is being negotiated, (this would be a small group situation and not subject to the Open Meetings Act anyway.)"

"The participants from the township and city will not divulge the details on a public basis. Once the study group has reached points of tentative agreement, a press release would be prepared by (city attorney) Chuck Lowe and (township attorney) Don Morgan. The release jointly issued by City and Township, and then public deliberation would follow."

The questions that I wish to have answered publicly are: First, what procedure is going to be followed, the one adopted publicly or the one passed to board members in a confidential communication from the supervisor? These are contradictory.

Secondly, again I question what is meant by "tentative agreement" as it is used in Mr. Notebaert's letter?

Because the majority of the board (Mr. Notebaert, Mrs. Hulsing, Mr. West, and Mrs. Lynch) rejected by request to discuss these matters at the last regular meeting, Jan. 29, I have requested that this item be placed on the agenda for the Feb. 5, 1980 meeting along with a resolution that I will propose. However, there is no certainty that it will remain on the agenda. (the board approves the agenda and items may be deleted or added by majority vote.)

On any event I oppose any policy, procedure, or other action of the board of trustees that I believe is proposed to circumvent the public. Not only do I philosophically oppose it, but I will publicly expose it, fight against the implementation of it, and work to abolish it.

I believe that the "matter of procedure" Mr. Notebaert addressed in his letter implies circumvention of the Open Meetings Act as well as the standing policies of this board.

I hope that the board will see fit to discuss this openly, publicly so my questions will be answered as a matter of record.

LEE FIDGE, Trustee
Charter Township of Plymouth Board

This edition marks the start of the seventh year in publication for The Community Crier.

Founded on Feb. 4, 1974, the only Plymouth-Canton locally owned and operated paper has continued its growth during the past 12 months through your continued support.

Past anniversaries seemed like such milestones as we overcame the odds in beating the giant conglomerate regional media chains to prove that Plymouth-Canton deserves its own newspaper. But our sixth birthday seems less dramatic as we've settled in to the long haul of making The Crier a permanent part of our growing community.

Even though birthdays seem less important as the years roll by, The Crier's role here does not.

We take this occasion to renew our pledge for your continued service and to thank you, our readers and advertisers, for your continued support.

Becker designs stained-glass airplanes for fun

BRISTOL F2B FIGHTER PLANE, USED IN WORLD WAR I

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD.

When Dale Becker of Plymouth Township was selling his stained-glass wares at the Cultural Center's arts and crafts show in December he never dreamed that soon he'd be handcrafting stained-glass airplanes for a film-making crew. The replicas, which are small enough to hold in your hand, will be given away as keepsakes of the movie "High Road to China."

But that's what happened. Becker is making 16 replicas of the bi-winged Bristol F2B, a 1916 British fighter plane used in World War I. Becker got the commission at the craft show when a film-maker, who's rebuilding six full-sized reproductions of the Bristol for the movie "High Road to China," came wandering through the exhibit.

The film-maker spied a Fairbanks replica that Becker had made for his daughter to use as a bank. The Fairbanks, which is small enough to hold in your hand, has a coin slot at the pilot's seat and pennies can be stored in the plane's body. Becker designed the Fairbanks bank after a Snoopy plane given to his daughter.

After the film-maker saw Becker's Fairbanks, he asked him to make a Bristol replica and sent him pictures of the original plane. Becker started work immediately, enthusiastic about the prospect of starting a new project and learning about airplanes. "I knew nothing about planes before this project," he says, "but since then I've learned a lot."

Becker and his wife, Marcia, have visited the film-makers who are rebuilding the wood-framed Bristols in Ypsilanti for the movie. After the planes are built, they'll be disassembled and flown to Spain for the actual filming.

Starring Bo Derick and Rodger Moore, "High Road to China" is an adventure story in which a young woman has 18 days to fly to China in order to rescue her father. Flying from one plane to the next (the Bristol could only go 400 miles in one trip), she encounters a series of mishaps on her journey. Filming for the movie will begin in March.

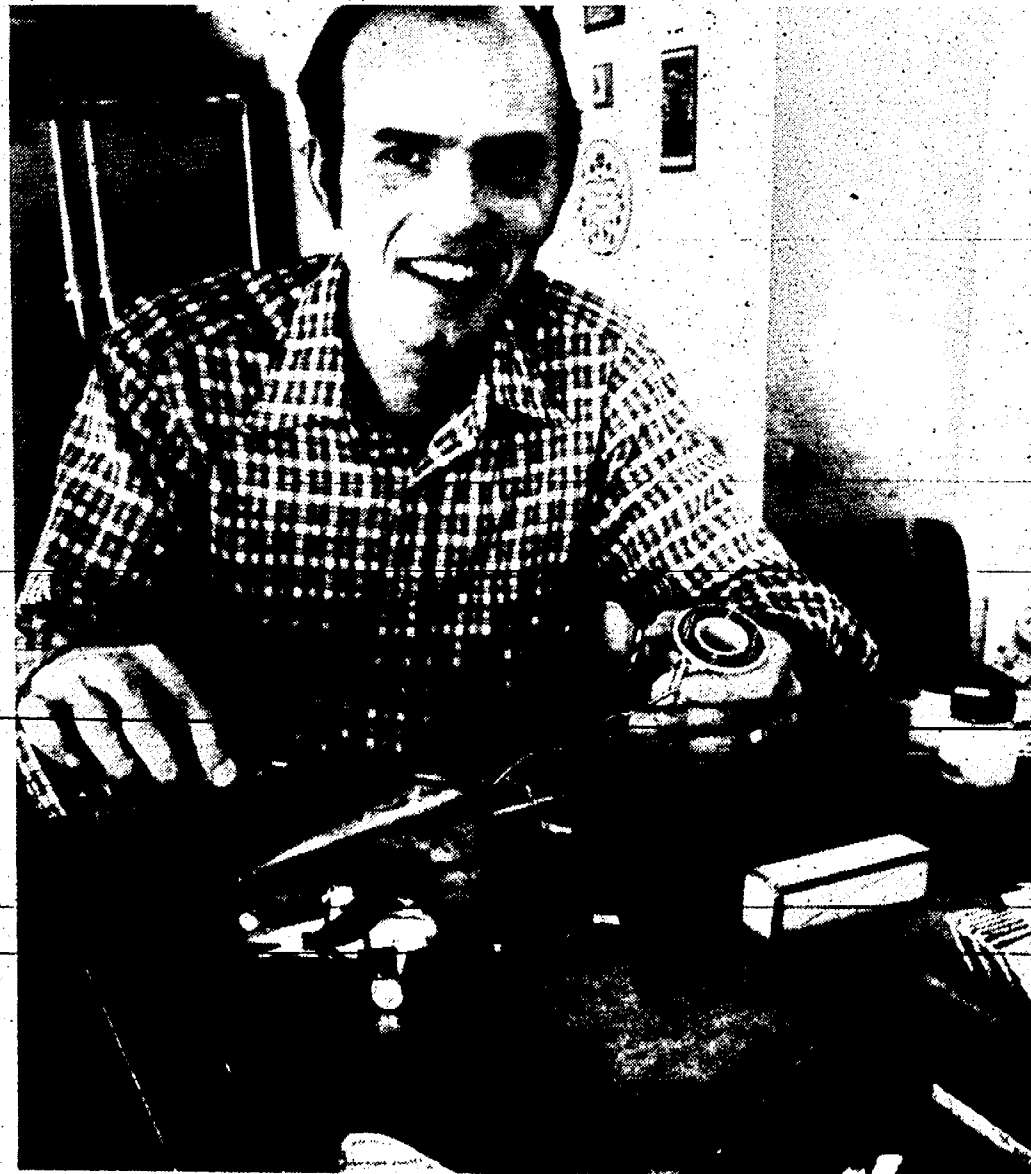

To design the Bristols, Becker cut out a paper pattern of each part of the plane. Then he cut out the glass pieces from the paper patterns. In order to solder the glass edges together, he puts copper foil or lead channeling along the edges of each piece of glass.

Then he soldered the body of the plane together followed by the wings and their struts (the connecting strips that go from the top wing to the bottom wing).

After the wings, he worked on the tail section, ruder, stabilizer, and the back-skid plate. The Bristol has only one set of wheels in the front. A U-shaped metal piece in the back supports the rear of the plane, but, because the metal piece can be ripped off on a paved runway, the pilots have landed on the grass runway at Milan during test flights.

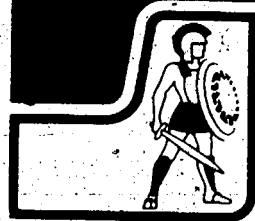

Becker's last step is to install the propeller and wheels. One plane has a propeller that spins because of a rubber band that is wound from the prop to the plane's rear.

When it comes to designing new projects, the sky's the limit, says Becker, a short trim man with a receding hairline. His next project? He may try to make a helicopter next, he says. Or perhaps a hang-glider instead.

When was the last time you filled the car up with gas, then realized you needed to mortgage the car to pay for the gas?

My car isn't big enough to hold $26 worth of gas, or so I thought. After recovering from the shock, I frantically searched the bottom of my purse and coat pockets trying to come up with the money. I was richer than I thought -- not only did I have enough to pay for the gas, but I had 48 cents left to last me for the rest of the week.

Unless they're out of town, most people get used to stopping at the same service station. I like the place I usually stop. The people are friendly, and they don't take advantage of a stupid car owner who knows very little about what makes her car run. They're also patient with me when I continually ask them to put air in the slow leaking tire whenever I put gas in the car.

Last week I was miffed when I pulled away from my favorite gas station. Not only did it cost me $26 for gas, and I had to wait 15 minutes to get air in my tire, but what really irked me was the dirty windshield they didn't bother to wash. That may not sound like a big deal, but when you have a windshield washer that only works when the mood strikes it (lately the mood hasn't been in my favor) it can be a hassle if you want to see where you're going.

I guess the only solution is to have the slow leaking tire fixed, as well as the windshield washer, and wait until spring when I can haul out my old bike. At least I won't have to mortgage the bike when I pull into the gas station to put air in its tires. I'm not sure it's worth the quarter most places are charging for air.

The Plymouth Theatre Guild's presentation of "The Sunshine Boys" was great. The two-act comedy written by Neil Simon, starred John A. Roberts and Rik Lynn Kureth, with Dan Murray, Effie Kuisel, Chuck Miller, Jackie Heneghan, Martin Keasel, Janine Renko Kateff, Rene Vela, and Jerome Snider.

The play will be presented again this Friday and Saturday evening, Feb. 8 and 9th at 8 p.m. at Central Middle School. Tickets are available at the door.

David Leone of Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth was graduated with honors from Ferris State College in Big Rapids. He received a Bachelor of Science degree in Criminal Justice.

Albion College students from the Plymouth-Canton area named to the Dean's List for the fall semester are:

Elizabeth Katchka, daughter of Mrs. Marilyn McKendrick of Canterbury Circle in Canton. She is a sophomore.

Keith and Craig Schauder, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Schauder of Tennyson in Plymouth. Keith is a junior and Craig a freshman.

Holly Wagner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Wagner of Appletree Drive in Plymouth. Holly is a senior.

Mark Chatterley, 1975 graduate of Salem High School in Plymouth, will participate in an art show and sale at Michigan State University's Union Art Gallery on Feb. 18 through March 15. The show is named "Visionary Meditations" and comprises paintings, prints, metalsmithing, and ceramic media.

A 1979 graduate of MSU, Mark is a ceramist working in the masters program there. He specializes in unique sculptural forms in his pottery.

Let's Talk Real Estate

by Barbara M. Olson

Most of us can afford 25 percent of our income for housing expense, roughly one week's pay a month. But remember that housing expense is more than just a monthly mortgage payment and taxes. There are also regular bills for such things as insurance, heat and the inevitable repairs. A good idea of what a family can reasonably afford can be determined by drawing up a personal balance sheet of current expenses versus income. Be realistic; it is important. Fudging figures on such an accounting can bring deep woe later. If job prospects are good, however, if there is a second family income, and that income is on the rise, it is possible to use upper limits in making an estimate.

When you are ready to purchase real estate make your first stop to REALTY WORLD-COLONIAL VILLAGE INC., 42142 Ford Rd., Canton, 455-7790. We have a wide selection of listings...new homes as well as re-sales. Let us give your real estate needs our personal attention. Open: Mon.-Sat. 9-9, Sun 10-6.

DID YOU KNOW?
Children? Fixed Income? Tight budget? Stay on the low side of housing expenses.

Wine Lines

Ahmad and Shirley Jallad

Wine is one of the best of the all purpose beverages. It can be served before meals, with meals and after meals. Prepare appetizers, main course or dessert with it. Serve it as an afternoon drink, or as an evening drink to entertain friends. Have it at lunch, or have it after a long day at work to help ease off tension. For parties, serve it on its own, or mixed in a punch. There are warm wine recipes for winter drinks, and there is nothing like a bottle of wine or two for a picnic.

For quick chilling -- see our new 60 second wine coolers at the CHEESE & WINE BARN, 515 Forest Ave. For chilled wine with fingertip convenience, for parties or drop-in guests, THE CHILL FACTOR will chill your wines to 48-52 degrees, the perfect temperature for white wines, in just 60 seconds. It has no moving part, and needs no batteries or other power source. Open daily 10-6, Friday til 9. Tel. 453-1700.

St. John's Seminary ends years of isolation

THE COMMUNITY CRIB: February 6, 1980

Role of seminarians in society is changing

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER

Although its name still includes the word, St. John's Provincial Seminary is no longer "provincial".

Up until three years ago, the Plymouth Township institution which trains seminarians for Michigan, hid behind a monastic cloak hoping to remain isolated from the world.

Now, with a change in administration and thinking about seminarians' role in society, all that is changing.

"There's no felt need to shield us from the past anymore," explained St. John's rector, Father Kenneth Untener, who attended the seminary himself from 1959 to 1963 and who, in the new spirit at St. John's, everyone calls "Ken," rather than the "Father" title by which he would have once been known.

"The atmosphere around us is a very important part of the shaping process. We're not trying to keep this a secret," Untener said.

Founded in 1945 by Cardinal Mooney, the archbishop of Detroit who looked upon the site at the time as one of complete isolation, the seminary was, for more than 30 years, "a monastic setting in which young men were given peace and intense training for the ministry."

"Now we're at a stage where we're opening up to the ministerial community," the rector said. "It's open to anyone to make use of, but our curriculum is designed for ministerial functions."

Untener outlined some of the types of courses in scripture, liturgy, morality, the Church, and counselling as examples of the training now received not only by the 74 resident seminarians but also by outside Catholic and Protestant clergy and lay people as well.

"We do have a broadened educational purpose," Untener explained. "It's no longer priestly ministering (alone)."

The only accredited graduate school (all its seminarians hold undergraduate degrees before starting at St. John's) in the Plymouth-Canton Community, courses at the seminary are open to the public through its academic dean's office. Classes are offered mornings, afternoons and evenings.

But despite widening its scope in its student body, St. John's has no plans to become a generalized collegiate institution.

"We do have a broadened educational purpose," said Untener. "But I do not see us as putting on courses having no relationship to ministerial study."

The rector similarly sees no plans to make the Plymouth-Canton Community "the laboratory for our ministerial training."

However, Untener stresses, St. John's now recognizes the importance of "being good neighbors."

"You just can't exist in the community without being a part of it," he said. "What we haven't done yet is get involved in the social and civic community that surrounds us. We have to see if there is a ministry we can perform for (it)."

Already, seminarians at St. John's participate in various projects around the Detroit area -- from hospitals to soup kitchens. One seminarian, Clyde Pidgeon, is studying the functions of local governments in the Plymouth-Canton Community, Wayne County, and the state.

ST JOHN'S SEMINARY, surrounded by its own nine-hole golf course, is located at Five Mile and Sheldon roads. In the background is the Plymouth Center for Human Development. (Crier photo by Bob Cameron)

As St. John's students and staff lunch together in the huge dining room on the west end of the main hall, they talk about world, national, and state -- and even church -- politics just as students at any college would.

In addition to opening its doors and encouraging its seminarians to learn about the outside world, St. John's is also now serving as a conference, educational, and recreational center for non-profit groups of many types.

Because the seminary was designed to house some 240 students -- at one time that was the compliment there -- and now only has 74 in residence, non-profit groups frequently rent the remaining portion of the facility to conduct seminars, and retreats.

Schoolcraft Community College has even rented classroom space at St. John's.

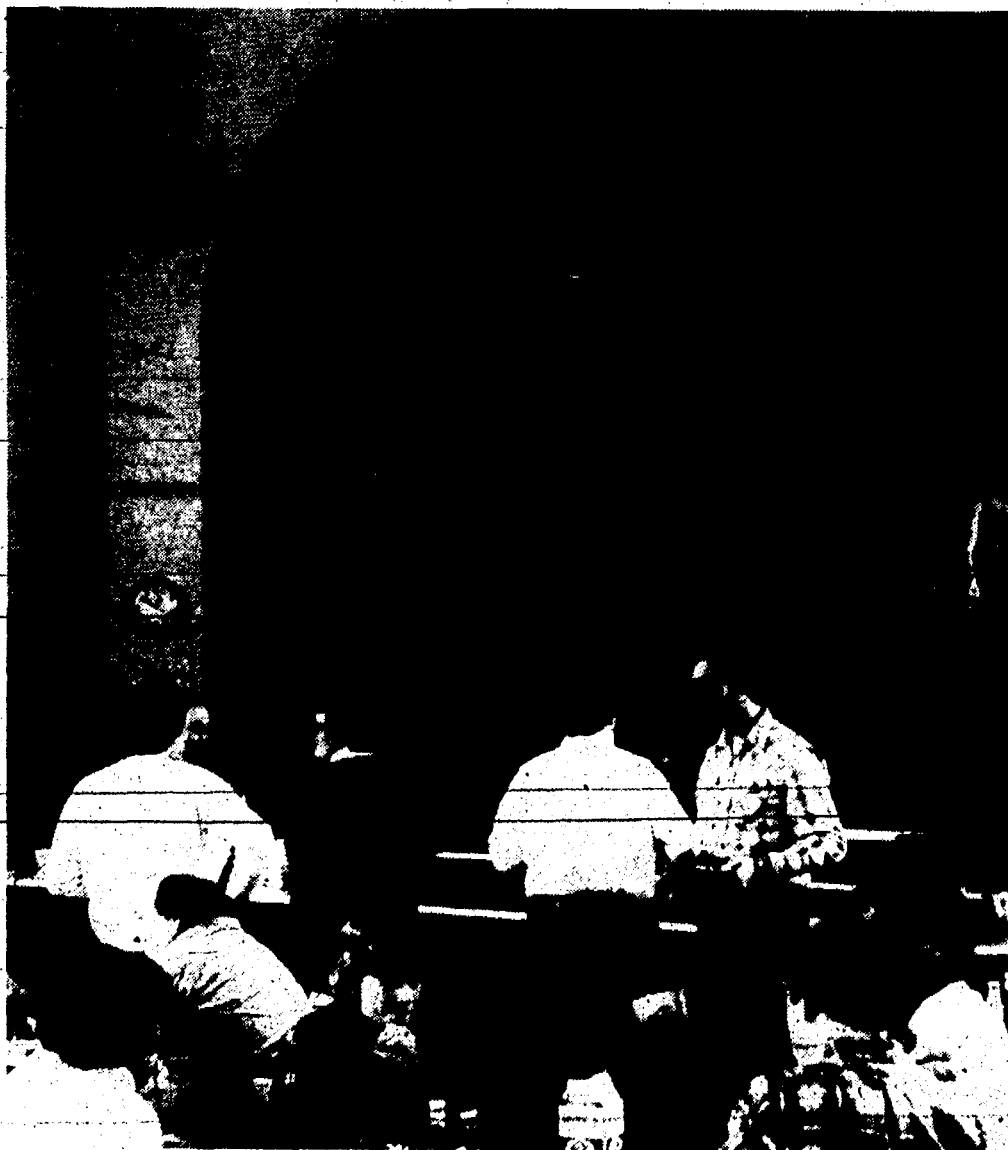

One of the other great drawing cards to the facility is the availability of one of the most complete recreational complexes in the area. Golf outings by outside groups help keep the nine-hole course maintained and in good condition simply because of its use.

Kathy Hunter, business manager of St. John's, said the use by outside groups helps with revenues -- on a cost basis -- but that the major goal is "providing a service and having the place utilized."

In addition to the revenue produced by such uses, the students now pay tuition (this is the first year for that), and the rest of St. John's support comes from the seven Catholic dioceses of Michigan. Certainly the spiritual role of the seminary seems not to have declined for Michigan Catholics either.

Even the impact of the Catholic monastic beginning still lingers in the marble hallways and the typically designed classrooms, but changes at St. John's let a little more of the outside in -- and perhaps, hopes Untener, the inside out.

LUNCH time conversation ranges from politics to the pope at St. John's. Both men and women study for advanced theological degrees at the seminary. (Crier photo by Chas Child)

Historic Bible, icons highlight St. John's art

Hidden behind a monastic veil for decades, St. John's Seminary in Plymouth Township holds a wealth of art and cultural treasures.

From the first sight of the marble statues and ornate, hand-painted architectural features inside the main doors, it is obvious to the visitor that there's more than meets the eye from the outside at the seminary.

Art-wise, the St. John's chapel features huge stained glass windows, five types of marble in the floor, hand-painted Italian cork on the ceiling, and a hand-laid mosaic background behind the altar which was completed just half an hour before dedication ceremonies started.

Throughout the halls and the library in the seminary, statuary and medieval paintings decorate the surroundings.

In the library and rare book rooms, publications dating back to a 1478 Koberger Bible or Father Gabriel Richard's original notes from the 1700s greet the visitor. Among the thousands of volumes and periodicals housed in the library stacks are early works as old as the 1600s and the most current fiction, reference, and general interest works.

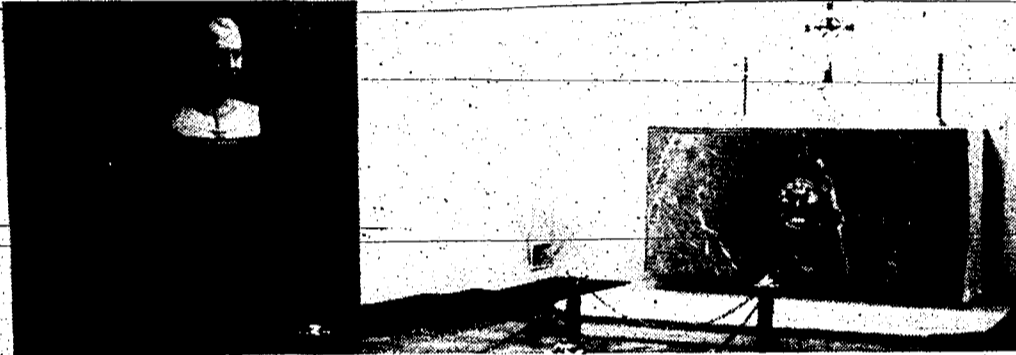

Architecturally, the seminary also holds a few surprises. The bell tower, from which the well-known 6 p.m. chimes are broadcast, is actually a water tower originally used to provide water for the facility before the area was served by Detroit water lines.

In the basement of the seminary is the grave of Cardinal Mooney, archbishop of Detroit, who died while attending the 1958 Papal Conclave which elected Pope John XXIII. Mooney, who founded St. John's, used to spend his summers at the state's only graduate theological facility.

In addition to the typically styled classrooms in the seminary, a complete recreational facility also remains from the days when students spent their entire four years within the grounds. A nine-hole golf course, a gymnasium, racquetball courts and a bowling alley (which still relies upon human pin setters) offer recreational diversions to the seminarians and visitors.

From its artworks, religious items of note, its library books and its recreational facilities, St. John's includes a wealth of treasures unparalleled in the Plymouth-Canton Community.

They recruited for Civil War in Kellogg Park

BY PHYLLIS REDFERN

Plymouth during the Civil War was like many small American towns. With most of the men off fighting, the women were left to manage and take charge of things.

The Plymouth Historical Museum is presenting Plymouth During the Civil War. Barb Saunders and Marge Mitchell of the museum have been busy not only with displays, but learning the facts relating Plymouth to the war.

In the beginning everyone thought the war would only last about 90 days. They all wanted to join so they could be part of it, said Mitchell. "The recruiting was done in Kellogg Park, with 77 people enlisting in an hour and a half," she said.

The 24th Infantry Division (known as the Iron Brigade) was started in Kellogg Park. Company C was composed mostly of men from Plymouth. The nationally known Iron Brigade was one of the first Union regiments in action in Gettysburg on July 1, 1863, said Mitchell.

In the beginning, families packed picnic baskets and went out to watch a battle, not realizing it was a real war, said Saunders. Women started making pretty things, like scarfs (so all the men would look alike). Soon they started making practical things like a "Housewife" (a small sewing kit containing needles, thread, and buttons).

"Any news of the war was announced in Kellogg Park," said Mitchell. Of the 400 men from Plymouth who fought in the Civil War, 100 of them were under 21, and 18 of them were brothers, she said.

The camp sight at the museum entrance shows the snow and cold the soldiers endured. The pup tent, originally called the dog house, was made by fitting two sections together, said Saunders. Each soldier carried half of it, she said.

"They ate their food without looking at it," said Mitchell. The hardtack they ate (a hard biscuit made only with flour and water) often had weevils in it, she said.

Cold was one of the biggest problems -- at times companies marched around in circles to keep from freezing to death, said Mitchell. Many of the wounded froze to death, she said. Most deaths during the war were caused from disease, and less than one per cent of the dead were killed with a bayonet. "More American lives were lost in the Civil War than in any other war, including the Viet Nam War," she said.

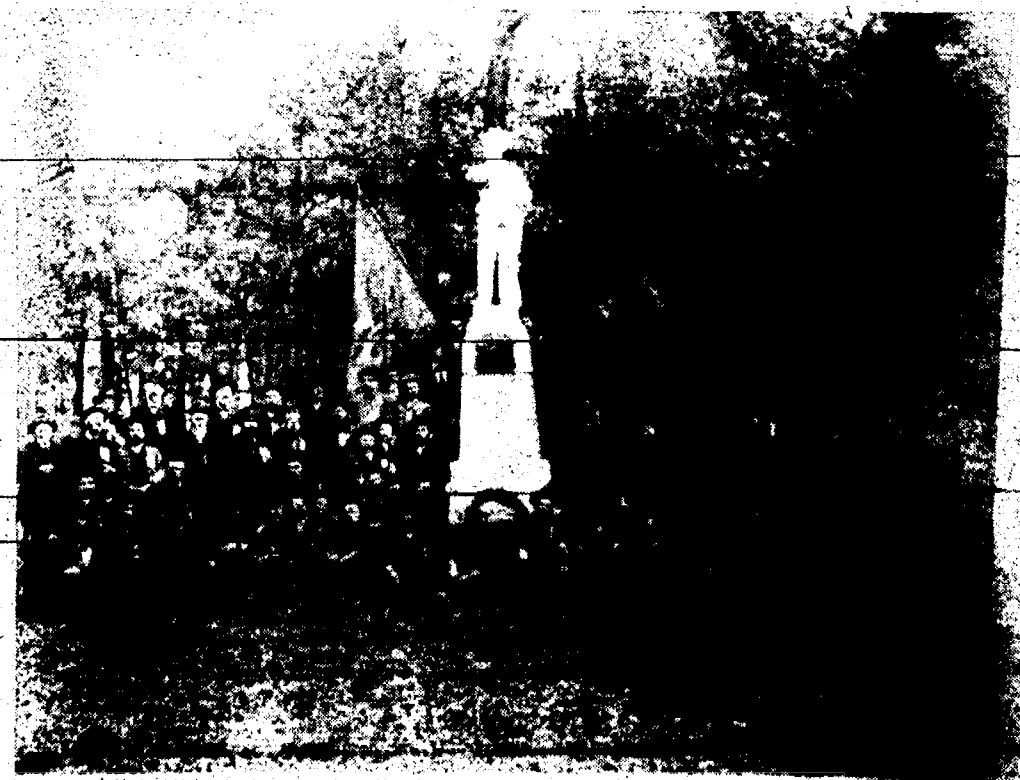

"The hat of the 24th was originally the officers hat," said Saunders. They were allowed to adopt the hat and make changes in it (flip up one side and add a blue tie), she said.

Women in Plymouth were left with no men and all those big farms to run -- a lot of them didn't make it, said Saunders.

The museum is open Thursday, Saturday, and Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. Special educational tours may be arranged in advance by calling the museum at 455-8940.

Canton tables requests for millages

BY CHAS CHILD

A request to put three millage requests -- for farmland preservation, improved roads, and industrial expansion -- on an upcoming Canton ballot was tabled by the Board of Trustees last Tuesday.

Gary Roberts, a citizen active in township affairs, asked the board to bring the millages before the people.

Not surprisingly, the farmland-preservation issue proved the most controversial of the three proposals. Roberts who opposes a farmland millage has said that township officials should proceed with the program or drop it.

Trustee Robert Greenstein, the director of the township's farmland-preservation program, said it would be premature to go to the people soon with another preservation millage. "There are items afoot that may determine (federal) funding," said Greenstein. "If we get outside help, then we should go back to people (for a millage)."

Roberts replied, however, that the chances of getting federal money is "very slim," and the township should go back to the voters and settle the issue.

In the November, 1978 election, township voters defeated a four-mill request that would have raised about $16 million over a 20-year span.

Greenstein, who won his trustee's seat in that election, is supported legislation in the U.S. Congress that would provide pilot-program funds to local communities for farmland preservation.

When the township knows how much federal money is available, then it can approach the voters with a millage, said Greenstein.

"If we don't know the price tag, how can we put it on the ballot?" Trustee Stephen Larson asked Roberts.

The board gave no definite answer on when it would discuss Roberts's request for the ballot questions.

Roberts earlier had asked the board to put the millage requests on the May 20 Michigan presidential primary. This election has not yet been funded by the Michigan legislature, however. The next regularly scheduled election is the August, 1980 primary.

Civitan Club honors local clergy

The Civitan Club of Plymouth will honor clergymen in the Plymouth-Canton area during the week of Feb. 3-9.

The annual event known as Clergy Week began as a Civitan project in 1961, to commemorate the heroic death during World War II of four Army Chaplains. In 1943 a priest, a rabbi, and two ministers surrendered their life jackets during the sinking of the USS Dorchester to soliders who had none. Civitans all over the world are honoring the memory of the Four Chaplains and showing appreciation to all clergymen during this week.

Officially launched by the Plymouth Township Board at its meeting Tuesday night, the contest carries a prize of a $100 U.S. Savings Bond for the winner.

A new insignia is being sought in keeping with the recent charter status of the township, according to Trustees Barb Lynch and Lee Fidge' who served on the insignia committee. The new logo may be used on township stationery, welcome signs at township boundaries, and in other ways to promote Plymouth Township, they said.

Each contestant must be a resident of the township and only one entry per individual is allowed. Further rules are as follows:

Costs to operate different schools varies widely

BY PATRICIA BARTOLD

Just as homeowners' utility bills have risen sharply over the past few years, the costs of operating schools in the Plymouth-Canton district have also increased.

Which school in the district is the most expensive to operate? Which school is the least expensive to operate? Why?

During the 1978-79 school year, utility costs, which are gas, water, electricity, and telephone bills, were divided by the number of students attending each school to figure out the cost per pupil for operating the school. These figures were included in the general fund operating budget for 1979-80.

According to these figures which are based on the fourth Friday student count, Eriksson School is the cheapest elementary school to operate. At Eriksson, the utility cost was $31.97 per pupil. In comparison, Geer School was the most expensive elementary school to operate at $87.70 per pupil.

Eriksson, which was built in 1976, is one of the district's newest schools along with Hulsing and Field schools, which are of a similar design. According to Ray Hoedel, assistant superintendent of business in the school district, Eriksson was designed to be energy efficient.

For example, the walls were constructed first with cement, then with layers of styrofoam, and finished with a brick outer wall to retain heat, he said. Eriksson has twin boilers, but only operates the second boiler when the weather is extremely cold, said Hoedel. Eriksson was designed with fewer and smaller windows, too, he added.

Field and Hulsing schools, which were built at the same time as Eriksson, also have low operating costs in comparison to other schools. Field, at $33.43 per pupil, is the third least expensive school to operate and Hulsing's operational costs are at $43.39 per pupil.

One reason that Hulsing's operating costs may be higher than Eriksson and Field is that during the 1978-79 school year, Hulsing was not a year-round school which meant that fewer students were attending school there compared to Field and Eriksson, said Hoedel. Hulsing is now following year-round school calendar.

Why is Geer the most expensive elementary school to operate? Geer is nearly 100 years old and less than 50 students attend classes in the two-room schoolhouse. The school could probably use more insulation and caulking, said Hoedel, but it's cost-inefficient to put more money into it. "It's more efficient to close it down," he added.

After Eriksson School, a run-down of the utility costs for operating each school on a per-pupil basis shows: Gallimore, $32.68; Field, $33.43; Farrand, $35.49; Smith, $36.01; Bird, $36.78; Isbister, $41.11; Tanger, $42.24; Hulsing, $43.39; Fiegel, $45.22; Allen, $46.20; Miller, $58.51; Starkweather, $61.75; and Geer, $87.70.

Of the four middle schools, Central is the most expensive middle school to operate and West is the least expensive. At Central, utility costs are at $139.57 per pupil compared to $59.19 at West.

Why are utility costs so much higher at Central? According to Hoedel, various programs and services such as the ARA food service, the schools' warehouse, and the district's audio-visual equipment are housed at Central. Although these programs serve schools and students throughout the district, they also raise the operating cost of Central because they take up space which means added heating, water, and electrical bills, said Hoedel.

Utility costs for East Middle School are at $75.62 per pupil; at Pioneer, utility costs are at $66.37.

Of all the schools in the district, Salem and Canton high school, with utility costs at $113.88 per pupil, are the most expensive schools to operate. High schools cost more to operate because they have larger rooms with higher ceilings -- which means more space to heat -- particularly in large-group instruction classrooms and gyms, said Hoedel.

To reduce operating costs in schools, energy conservation has been stressed, said Hoedel. Thermostats are set at 68 degrees, every other light bulb has been taken out of overhead lights, and filters have been replaced in the boilers on a regular basis, he said.

Furthermore, he said energy usage has dropped in many schools compared to previous years. For example, in 1976-77, utility costs for Central Middle School were $109.49 per pupil. In 1977-78, the cost dropped to $95.60, but by 1978-79, the cost had risen to more than $139 per pupil.

About $8 million has been earmarked for energy-conservation measures in the nearly $22 million bond package which will come before the voters in March. One program whose cost is included in the package is the energy-management system which would mean temperatures throughout the district would be centrally controlled and could be set by a timer. Then the heat could be turned down at night and up about an hour before students come to school in the morning, said Hoedel.

"Such control devices would pay for themselves within a matter of years," he said, "because they would save the district money."

City wants Cultural Center in black ink

Several years ago, when now City Manager Henry Graper earned his living by helping governmental units apply for federal grants, he helped the City of Plymouth write its grant for obtaining U.S. funding to build the Cultural Center.

Now, being in the driver's seat at City Hall, he's looking at making improvements at the center designed to bring the facility up to date and closer to profitability.

At Graper's urging, city commissioners recently spent a Saturday morning touring the Cultural Center with an eye towards making improvements there. The manager also has been meeting with department heads about operations at the center.

Graper noted that it has been more than seven years since any major renovation or up-dating of the facilities at our Cultural Center although maintenance necessary to keep the Cultural Center open has been undertaken on a day-in and day-out basis.

"However, this is not enough in order to be able to have a Cultural Center which could be rented for the purposes for which it was originally intended," said Graper. "The Cultural Center must be a first-class, modern, and up-to-date facility, and must offer a potential user as nice a surrounding as possible. Also, city functions which are of a cultural nature should be housed at the Plymouth Cultural Center."

Among the manager's suggestions are:

*The large meeting room area with the kitchen and stage should be used more often, as well as the other meeting rooms.

*The ceiling over the ice arena must be completely refinished, as well as all of the structural steel work.

*A third compressor is needed to back up the present compressor, so as to be able to have ice guaranteed all of the time.

All of these items are under advisement and are being studied and priced out by the different department heads involved in the discussion of the renovation of the Cultural Center, Graper said.

"The Cultural Center is a vital part of the City of Plymouth, and is one of the best selling points that we could have," Graper said. "It can be adequately marketed and put into the position whereby it can approach being self-supportive and, if it is taken care of, will always be a capital asset to the community."

School lunches lose $56,000

at West Middle School. The school district ran the cafeteria for 23 years and these people (ARA) have only been here a few months, she continued.

ARA Food Services were hired last spring to help make the district's food operation break even rather than lose money. Last year, the district lost about $20,000 in its food service program.

Other cafeteria workers also complained about the reduction in labor and the higher productivity rates expected. "You're not taking any human factors into consideration -- what if an oven breaks down or a dishwasher or we serve 400 pizzas in one day?"

"Aren't we going to be paid overtime or should we just leave our kitchens and go home?" she asked.

Higher productivity is the backbone of this plan, said Achenbach. The national average in making meals is about 20 per hour and ARA doesn't allow a low of 15 (as in some Plymouth-Canton schools). Making 17 or 18 is the next step; think of it as a challenge, he told the workers.

Because ARA hasn't made the food operation break even, the firm will not be paid its management fee; however, it will be paid about $2,000 per month in administrative expense. Those provisions were included in the contract agreed upon last spring.

To absorb the $56,000 loss this year, about $35,000 will come from the cafeteria reserve and the district will subsidize the remaining amount from other funds.

ARA currently serves about 5,200 hot lunches to students each day. This represents about one-third of the student population.

Canton foster homes fought

and Geddes in southern Canton.

Although her opposition stems primarily from fears that the foster home may lower her house's values, Cotton said she opposes the home for other reasons: "Will there be buses coming in and out of here? And how will the retarded persons function?" she asked. "Are they severely retarded or what?"

"Also, I think it's sort of communistic that the state can just move them in here on such short notice," she said. "We should have known that this home was coming in here before we bought our house so we could have had a choice."

She said she's lived in her home on Lanecot, off Roundtable, for 14 months.

The six retarded adults who will move to the Roundtable home now live in the Northville Residential Training Center. Laima Starwas, director of the center's community placement department, said the patients benefit greatly by living with a small group in a normal environment of a suburban residence.

"There have even been cases of retarded persons advancing to being able to live on their own," she said.

But Cotton said, "My tax dollars are going to support these (foster) homes. Why do they have to buy $80,000 homes for them to live in?"

Residents in Troy recently stopped a similar home in their neighborhood by successfully showing in court that the facility would violate the deed restrictions of their subdivision, she said.

Canton building department officials told her, however, that no such similar restrictions would bar the Roundtable home, she said.

Despite this, Cotton said she is investigating the possibility of hiring a lawyer to review the deed restrictions.

Canton beats Stevenson

BY MIKE HENSHAW

A tenacious Canton defense enabled the Chiefs to upset Livonia Stevenson 55-52 last night, avenging an earlier 59-57 loss to the Spartans.

"The defense was the key," said Canton coach Craig Bell. "Everyone played hard and we kept our poise down the stretch."

Sean Houle scored 18 points and Scott Adler 16 to power the Chiefs offensively, but the key to the victory was the job Canton's Dave Visser did defensively on the Spartans Dave Hall.

Hall, an all-stater in football, has averaged over 23 points a game this season, but Visser held him to 13 points on the night.

"Dave Visser did a heck of a job," said Bell. "The rest of the team also helped out on him (Hall) — he's their franchise."

Stevenson led 15-14 after the first quarter, but Canton fought back to lead 29-28 at the half.

The Chiefs stretched their advantage to 35-30 in the third quarter, but the Spartans proceeded to outscore Canton 12-4 to lead 42-39 going into the final stanza.

With Stevenson leading 48-47 and in possession, Adler stole the ball and drove for a lay-up which gave Canton the lead. Evan Lyall countered for the Spartans with 1:40 remaining and then Brad Westin put the Chiefs ahead for good, 51-50, with 1:19 left.

Two clutch free throws apiece from Adler and Visser secured the win for Canton, now 8-6 on the year.

Glenn upends Rocks

BY KEN VOYLES

Westland John Glenn caught the Salem basketball squad by surprise in the final quarter last night and won the non-league game, 68-64.

Howard Monk led all scorers with 28 points while Rob Neu had nine points and Mike Sharp had eight.

"When you're down with two minutes to go you've got to steal the ball and you need to rebound on missed shots or you have to stop the clock with fouls and hope they miss them," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "When they went in front that put us in a hole that we couldn't quite get out of."

"Our defense put Glenn at the foul line too many times and we didn't put enough pressure on their shooters," continued the coach.

Jim Anderson opened the Rocks final quarter with a quick lay-up, but then the trouble began as Glenn put together a furious offense and sank the next twelve points taking a 53-46 lead.

Salem struggled under the surprise of Glenn's burst but the Rockets had turned the tables and quickly added seven points at the foul line.

Monk hit a basket with 22 seconds left to close the score to 64-62, but Glenn finished with two points by Wes Whitner to win.

DANA HARTER puts in a strong spiking effort for Salem during the Plymouth Invitational volleyball competition. The Rocks did not play to their level and stumbled at their home court.

Volleyball action at CEP

BY KEN VOYLES

The Plymouth Volleyball Invitational held this past weekend turned out to be a fine tournament, even though the two host schools, Canton and Salem, did not fare too well.

Wayne Memorial captured the invitational held all day long at both the Salem and Canton gyms. Livonia Bentley finished second with Westland John Glenn third.

Twenty-one teams competed. The teams were divided into four pools of four teams and one pool of five teams. The top three teams from the four-team pools and the top two teams from the five-team pool continued on into the quarter and semi finals.

The Rocks could place no better than second to last out of the eight teams in their two pools, while Canton finished fifth out of its two pools, as both schools were knocked out of the running early on.

"We stunk, to put it mildly," said Salem coach Cathy Himes. "The team was just dragging. We had a combination of problems and our serving was the pits."

"Even though we got blown away I can still look back at it and laugh. The kids are improving," continued the coach.

According to Himes, Cheryl Sobkow was about the only bright spot all day long for the Rocks. "Cheryl's kill shots were just unreal," said Himes.

Earlier in the week, the Rocks lost to Suburban Eight league foe Bentley in two games, 15-13 and 15-3.

In the first game the Rocks were out in front 13-11 when starter Mary Van Dusen was injured and had to be replaced from the bench. After that Bentley rallied and won the game.

Chiefs, Rocks falter at tourney

"We still played well in the first game," said Himes. "In the second game Bentley just served very well."

Canton fared a little better in their pool, one of the toughest in the tourney, and in fact had a chance to advance going into its final two games.

The Chiefs split two games with Ypsilanti, losing 16-14 and winning 15-8, won two in a row against Fenton, 15-9, 15-7, and then split with Redford Union, winning the first game 15-11 and losing the second 15-12, in their first three matches.

Going into their final two games against Farmington Harrison, a team the Chiefs had beaten earlier in the year, Canton was only one game away from advancing. However the Chiefs lost two games to the Hawks, 15-11, 15-9.

"We just played awful against Harrison," said Canton coach Cyndi Burnstein. "The girls were disgusted at themselves for losing to them. Also, we never should have lost our first game against Ypsilanti -- it was terrible."

The Chiefs lead Ypsilanti 14-11 only to give up the last five consecutive points for the loss.

"I don't know why, but we just couldn't put a team away when we had the lead," said Burnstein. "We played really well against the good teams but then played terribly against the weak teams. Overall it was a good experience for us, because we looked like a really good volleyball team against some of the better teams in the area."

Earlier in the week, the Chiefs raised their second-place Western Six record to 4-1 on the year with a 15-11, 15-6 win over Waterford Mott.

The Chiefs resume play Feb. 12 at Livonia Churchill while the Rocks host Dearborn tonight.

Young Salem gymnasts start season

Salem's gymnastic squad has gotten off to a slow start thus far this season. The Rocks are young but what they lack in experience they make up with hard work.

The Rocks were defeated 87-51 by Wayne this past week, and have suffered two other defeats this year.

The Rocks, however, defeated Walled Lake Western in its first meet of the year. The victory was by default since Western fielded two gymnasts that were ineligible for competition. The final score had been 73-46, Western.

Against Wayne, Salem's top three finishers in the vaulting event were Kris Fenske with a score of 4.4, Kathy Rice at 4.1 and Donna Ankofski with 4.0.

Wayne's Natlie Korzorosky not only won the vaulting event but was also first in the three other events.

Sue Nitz was the Rocks top finish in the uneven bars with a score of 3.65. Cindy McSurely was next with an effort of 3.4. LeAnn Albright was Salem's other top finish with 3.2.

In the balance beam event, Nitz finished with a score of 5.65, while Ankofski was next with 4.2. Germaine Mason also tallied a 4.2 score for Salem and Dana Flower, hit the 3.8 score.

In the floor exercise, Nitz was Salem's top contender with a 5.25 effort. Mason was next at 4.8 and Tracei Riedel notched a 4.6 tally.

The Rocks other two defeats came from Ypsilanti, 69.85-55.90 and Suburban Eight League opponent Belleville 87.35-47.

"We are a very young team," said Salem coach Carol Micheals. "Wayne had a very tough team but we are working hard right now."

Rocks beat Edsel Ford

Offense inspired by defense is the key to the success of Salem High's basketball squad this season.

The Rocks again swept past a Suburban Eight League opponent. This week the victim was Dearborn Edsel Ford, or the Thunderbirds. Salem smashed all and won, 73-56.

"Our offense works because the defense sets it up," said Rock coach Fred Thomann. "As soon as their (Edsel Ford) defense slacked off Howard (Monk) we broke the game open."

The Rocks started quickly in the first quarter. Rob Neu hit a jumper and then Scott Bublin followed with six points to give Salem an early lead.

The effort continued through the first quarter and the Rocks lead 18-10.

In the second quarter, the Thunderbirds scored eight quick points closing the gap to 20-19. Salem fought back behind Monk's strong work under the boards and in the shooting lanes.

Monk tallied 10 points in a row for Salem and the Rocks pushed their lead to 39-23 by the end of the second period.

The third quarter started much as the second. Edsel Ford scored quickly. Four baskets to Salem's two. Again Monk, added by Leigh Langkabel and Bublin brought the tempo under Salem's control.

The third period finished and Salem led by a large margin.

The fourth period was totally the Rocks. Edsel Ford beaten down were wide open for quick offensive moves; such as displayed by Salem.

Monk tossed in six quick points and the game was just about finished. Victory was easy after that, as the Salem starters filtered out and the Rocks bench unit went to work.

Tom Kelliher, Monk and Kevin Urban rounded out Salem's scoring in the fourth quarter.

"We reached a plateau and now we are making another stride higher," said Thomann. "We levelled off with Farmington Harrison now we are reaching up again."

"There is one more burst in us," the coach continued. "We are a goal oriented team. We set specific goals for one team and it helps us a lot."

Monk reached new levels himself against Edsel Ford with 36 points. Monk also did much of the board work for the Rocks along with a sharp Neu.

Bublin added 12 points to Salem's tally, while Neu and Langkabel had nine points each.

FIRE ALARM SYSTEMS

How good are home fire alarm systems? Any working fire-detection and alarm system gives protection. But for really complete protection in the average home, you need a complete system. Fire alarm systems vary, but good ones have several points in common:

1. The components of the system are approved by Underwriters Laboratories or Factory Mutual Laboratories.
2. The system is served by its own electrical circuit.
3. The alarm is loud and centrally located. Ideally you should also have a loud alarm to rouse your neighbors.
4. Provision is made so that you can test the system occasionally without building a fire in the house.
5. There are enough detectors to give complete coverage of the house. In other words, no matter where a fire breaks out, a detector would be close by to sense the rise in temperature and set off the alarm.

Chiefs gain cage win over Northville

BY MIKE HENSHAW

It was a good-news bad-news night for Canton's hopes to repeat as Western Six league champions Friday.

The good news was that the Chiefs edged Northville 68-64 at the Mustangs' gym, upping their record to 7-6 overall and 4-2 in the Western Six.

The bad news was that Waterford Mott, currently leading the league, won 57-50 at Livonia Churchill to raise its record to 6-0 in the league and stay two games ahead of the second-place Chiefs.

Canton can narrow Mott's lead to one game Friday night when they host the Corsairs, but the Chiefs have to relay on another team to knock off Mott for a chance to tie for the crown. Churchill, which beat Canton 51-38, was one of the teams Canton coach Craig Bell felt could beat Mott, especially playing at home, but it was not to be. Canton lost to Waterford 61-55 in overtime Jan. 4.

Of the Western Six opponents left on Mott's schedule, Northville likely has the best chance of winning, evident by the difficulty Canton had in beating the Mustangs 58-54 Dec. 14 and again Friday night.

Scott Adler, the Chief's senior co-captain guard, was Canton's leading offensive weapon for the second game in a row with 24 points, firing in eight of the game-high total in the first quarter against the Mustangs as the two teams battled to a 16-16 tie.

In the second eight minutes, the Chiefs built up a 38-30 advantage behind a tight zone defense and eight more points from Adler, including Canton's last three baskets of the half.

The third quarter was as close as the first, with Northville outscoring the Chiefs 14-12 to trail 50-44 going into the final quarter.

The Chiefs built up a nine point 60-51 lead in the fourth quarter, but Northville was not ready to concede the loss. Consecutive baskets by the Mustang's Dave Greer and Duke DuSablon closed it to 65-61, but Sean Houle scored for Canton and Brad Westin made one of two free throws down the stretch to thwart the rally.

"Our defense set the tempo of the game," said Bell. "We caused 15 turnovers and controlled the boards both at our basket and theirs. We're a lot more confident defensively."

In addition to Adler's 24, the Chiefs got 14 points from Dave Visser and 10 from Westin. Houle and Dave Malek added seven points each and Dan McGlenn chipped in four.

"They made a run at us and we were able to keep our poise as a team and meet the challenge," said Bell. "This is the second game in a row in which our play has been sharp, and we'll need to stay that way against Mott. We have to beat them to keep our season's goals in reach, that's all here in to it."

The Canton junior varsity team played probably their best game of the season against Northville, crushing the Mustangs 64-41. The win keeps the JV Chiefs alive in the Western Six with a 3-3 mark, good for second place.

Fred Rumberger lead the Chiefs with 14 points, followed closely behind by Matt Thomas with 13 and Al Blascak with 10.

"Everyone on the team decided that this game was the season -- that we had to have the win -- and everyone played well. It's a great win for us," said coach Dave Van Wagoner.

Canton swimmers triumph

BY MIKE HENSHAW

The Canton swim team fought off a fired up Ypsilanti team to raise its record to 5-1 on the year with a 95-77 win at the Ypsi pool Thursday night.

"They were a better team than we anticipated," said Canton coach Bill Hahn. "Their coach has brought them along and they were really fired up for the meet."

Chief swimmers gained first-place finishes in only five of the 11 events, but controlled the second and third places for the meet win.

Canton's Paul Petersen placed first in the 100-yard breaststroke and 100-yard butterfly events, with times of 1:02.43 and 1:53.99, respectively. Petersen also teamed up with Ron Hurley, Mike Sherwood, and Jeff Seippel to win the 200-yard individual medley for Canton with a 1:47.36 clocking.

The Chiefs also won the 400-yard freestyle relay, with Hurley, Sherwood, Pete Stern, and Troy Haarala recording a time of 3:33.39. Haarala also took individual medalist honors in the 500-yard freestyle event with a 5:26.61 clocking.

Second place finishes for Canton were recorded by Keith Greenleaf in the 200-yard freestyle (1:59.56), John Simone in the 200-yard individual medley (2:21.89), Stern in the 100-yard freestyle (:53.81), Sherwood in the 50-yard freestyle (:23.93), Seippel in the 100-yard backstroke (1:03.24), Greg Shnurstein in the 100-yard breaststroke, and Mark Bennett in the diving competition (136.35).

The Chiefs, who swam against Thurston last night, travel to Northville for a Western Six meet and then will compete in the Wayne Relays Friday and Saturday. Canton is in first place in the Western Six with a 3-0 record.

Petersen, Canton's top swimmer, placed first in the 100-yard breaststroke event out of 18 swimmers with a time of 1:01.5 in the Detroit News Invitational Swim meet held Saturday at Schoolcraft college. Petersen also finished third in the 200-yard individual medley event with a 2:02.5 clocking.

Canton's top 200-yard medley relay team of Petersen, Hurley, Seippel and Sherwood finished eleventh in the meet with a time of 1:46.2.

Salem wrestlers terrorize all foes

Salem's wrestling squad continues to be the terror of all the area high squads it faces. The Rocks have grabbed seven consecutive tournaments and won 12 of 12 dual meets.

This past weekend the Rocks blitzed Walled Lake Western, North Farmington and Howell in a tri-meet.

Salem knocked off Western 50-6, while North Farmington fell 46-12. The Rocks defeated Howell 63-6.

Earlier, the Rocks defeated Livonia Bentley, 72-2, in a Suburban Eight League struggle.

"The whole team is just wrestling real strong," said Salem coach Ron Krueger. "The whole ball of wax is coming up for us with Trenton (at Trenton) and they are also undefeated. After that we have the Suburban Eight League competition."

Basically by Ken Voyles

We feel bad at The Crier when we are unable to get a late breaking sports event into Wednesday's issue.

The reason up to now is the practical problem that the sports department lays out the sports pages on Monday night and scornfully neglects to work those stories in.

The mechanics of the situation are these: After the weekend is over most of our sports copy is done and turned in by Monday afternoon. The next step is to start laying out the sports pages.

Working on the pages tends to take up most of the night and thus far we have sometimes not been successful with late sports news. An example would be last week when Salem volleyball coach Cathy Himes called in a result on Monday. Salem had lost to Trenton in three games, 15-13, 14-16 and 15-12.

Most of the pages were already laid out and unfortunately the story did not run. We didn't get the story in, but we resolved that week to designate a box each week in the sports pages devoted to Monday night events and late breaking stories.

Hopefully that way we can get those late stories in and improve both the varsity level and community level sports coverage.

Nor have we been totally unsuccessful with late sports. Every Tuesday night, after the entire paper has been laid out and gone to the printer, the sports staff calls in basketball results.

Those results are of course, Salem and Canton boys basketball scores. The effort is a little beyond the call of duty but it is well worth the effort.

We set aside an empty box on the sports front for the stories that are called in after the event is over. The call goes to Lansing and the printers office.

Thus with Tuesday already covered its a good time to tighten down on the Monday events.

When we know of a major event, such as happened when Salem's girls basketball team reached the state regionals, we will hold for that event.

Oh and finally we like to use a lot of photos with the sports pages. The problem sometimes is that we have a bunch of photos dealing with just one event. Example: one week ago we used four photos from the Salem and Bentley basketball contest.

Sports photos can bring a story from its printed oblivion to reality. With that in mind we shall work to widen the photo range and bring out the visual impact of sports.

Basically, we hope to improve the pages of this section to yours and our own satisfaction.

Chief wrestlers end streak, beat Mott

BY MIKE HENSHAW

The Canton wrestling team ended a six-year losing streak to Western Six league opponent Waterford Mott Thursday night with a 34-30 win over the Corsairs.

The Chiefs, now 11-3-1 on the season, the most wins in the school's history, were awarded the 107-pound weight class on a forfeit and won six of the remaining 12 divisions for the victory.

At 100 pounds Canton's Todd Bartlett lost a 9-3 decision to Mott's John Humphreys before the Chief's Tom Harreld pinned Curt Sawgel at the 1:40 mark of the first period.

Brett Haarala shutout Mott's Harold Muxlow 9-0 in the 121-pound match and then the Corsairs' Steve Parks pinned Kevin Santilli at 1:40 of the 128-pound contest.

Tim Racer won a hard fought 13-11 decision over Waterford's Kent Land in the 134-pound showdown and then the Chief's Dave Bennett (141 pounds), suffering from a separated shoulder, lost his first dual meet match of the year when he was pinned by Charlie Bratton at the 1:41 mark.

Steve Hamblin, at 148 pounds, edged Mott's Chris Ferguson 7-6 and Canton's Bob Mullen fell 10-3 to Tom Ziembovic in the 155 pound division.

At this point the score was 22-18 in Canton's favor, going into the final four weight classes.

Dave Vaughan and Paul Mooney, two of the Chiefs' senior co-captains, proceeded to secure the meet for Canton by pinning their Waterford opponents.

Vaughan (167 pounds) pinned Tom Fortino at 3:56 and Mooney (185 pounds) pinned Harry Green at the 5:42 mark.

"It's great to finally beat Mott after six years," said Canton coach Dan Chrenko. "It shows the continued improvement our program has made the past few years."

The Chiefs have a lot of momentum going into Saturday's Western Six league meet at Walled Lake Western, which will determine the team championship, having gone undefeated through their last nine meets going into last night's competition against Livonia Stevenson.

"I am looking forward to an exciting league meet," said Chrenko. "Any one of three or four teams could win it, and I think we have a very good chance, depending upon how we are seeded."

Canton is currently in second place in the Western Six with a 3-1-1 record, having lost to Northville and tying Walled Lake Western.

Sickness slows Canton gymnasts

BY MIKE HENSHAW

Sickness took its toll on the Canton gymnastics team last week as four of the Chiefs top six gymnasts were unable to compete in Canton's 74.75-70-65 loss to Clarenceville last Wednesday.

Missing was the Chiefs' top gymnast on the year, Laurie Beale, as well as Maureen Morihan, Sheryl Korsnes, and Kelly Harvey.

"It makes it kind of difficult to win when you are forced to use four freshman in place of your top girls," said Canton coach John Cunningham. "The girls did a fine job for us, however, but they just do not have the needed experience."

Laura Michalik won the vaulting (7.4) and floor exercising (7.75) events for the Chiefs, compiling a composite score of 26.35 over the four events. Michalik finished third on the balance beam (5.95) and fourth on the uneven parallel bar (5.25).

Katy Heaton, who compiled a 25.80 composite score, placed second in vaulting (7.35), third both on the bars (6.0) and in floor exercising (6.8), and fourth on the beam (5.65).

Canton, 2-3 on the season going into Monday night's meet at Ypsilanti, travel to Dearborn tonight and then host Walled Lake Central Monday before opening Western Six league competition Feb. 13 at Northville.

Winter softball tournament results

B & D Graphics won the first annual Groundhog's Day Classic Slow-pitch Softball Tournament Saturday.

B&D beat McMurray Insurance, 8-7, on a homerun by Bruce Webb in extra innings. McMurray had tied in the game in the sixth inning when it pushed five runs across the plate, aided by a homerun by Tom Battistone and a double by Frank McMurray, Jr.

Jack Ther had given B&D a seemingly comfortable lead with a grand slam in the fifth inning.

The eight-team, single-elimination contest started at 9:45 a.m. on Saturday with the wind chill at -15 degrees. B & D Graphics, a regular team in Canton's summer leagues, proved too tough for Hygrades, winning 15-9. Jim Storiti had four hits and Bruce Webb added a HR.

Gerry and Mike's Social Club whipped Hi-mart Real Estate 19-6 behind Dan Jayko and Joe Ghedotte, who each had five RBI's.

McMurray Insurance took care of Thunder Boys easily with a 17-2 trouncing. The game was highlighted by Tom Battistone, who braved the elements by wearing shorts.

The game that attracted the most attention saw the Canton Township employees put up a gallant effort, but falling to Beginners Inn 18-3. Stan Luke and Dale Bogart each had three hits for Beginners Inn and displayed some excellent defense on the snow-covered field.

The semi-finals saw B & D beat Gerry and Mike's Social Club 7-2 in a fast-paced, well-played game. Back-to-back home runs by Gene Gorczon and Dale Alcoser closed the door on the Social Club.

The other semi-final matched McMurray's against Beginners Inn. The "Inn" which packed in their game against the Canton Employees, were blown out of this one 17-2. Dennis Sullivan had a grand slam home run and a spectacular catch to lead McMurray Insurance into the finals.

Monday night sports

Volleyball

The Canton volleyball team upped its record to 5-1 in the Western Six Monday night with a 15-12 - 18-16 win over Northville.

Canton coach Cyndi Burnstein, whose Chiefs are currently in second place in the league, ~~was most~~ ~~impressed~~ ~~with~~ ~~the~~ ~~game,~~ and she was pleased with what she saw.

"I was impressed," she said. "Lori Erdelyi (a junior) and Denise Wright (freshman) had a lot of good saves and spikes. Overall we didn't play that well as a team, we weren't calling the ball, and Northville's hustle made it close."

Gymnastics

Laura Michalik and Lori Beale paced the Canton gymnastics squad to a 86.45-73.60 victory over non-league opponent Ypsilanti Monday night. The victory gives the Chiefs a 3-3 record.

Beale was second in vaulting and won the floor exercise event, while Katy Heaton captured first in the balance beam event. Michalik was second in that event.

Michalik won the vaulting competition, the uneven bars and was first in all around with 29.90.
