11 % voter turnout

It's Quinn and Walker and no new school millage

BY RACHAEL DOLSON

Voters in the Plymouth-Canton School district defeated a request for an additional 1.74 mills Monday and chose Nancy Quinn and Les Walker to fill two board seats.

School board incumbent Glenn Schroeder finished fourth, behind the two winners and Dean Swartzwelter, according to the unofficial vote totals released by the schools Monday night.

A turnout of 5022, about 11 per cent of the registered voters, voted 2241 for and 2722 against the request for additional operating funds.

The millage request passed in the three Canton precincts of Hulsing, Miller, and Field, and nearly passed in the Canton precincts of Eriksson and Gallimore. The millage request was overwhelmingly defeated in the remaining eight precincts and the absentee voters tallies.

"I will recommend we come back to the voters again," Superintendent Dr. John M. Hoben said. "There is no way we can support our present programs without it."

"The tragedy is that the no vote was there and the yes vote didn't turn out," Hoben said.

"It's up to the board (to decide to request a millage), but we can't continue to operate on what we have - we have to get additional millage or cut programs, and the cuts will be severe," he said.

"I guess the people don't believe that we have the need. We'll either have to convince them or give them just what they are paying for (reduce programs)," Hoben said.

The superintendent said several things have happened in the last week besides the millage defeat to worsen the district's financial situation. "Our SEV was adjusted down about $30 million and our membership was audited and we lost 31 full-time equivalents," Hoben said.

The two factors combined mean about a $1 million annual loss to the district, he said.

"Which means without the millage we are looking at only a half million fund balance at the end of next year and a $4.4 million deficit at the end of the following year - that's some heavy cuts," Hoben said.

Candidate Quinn led the polling with 1,726 votes, according to the official vote totals Monday night, and Walker followed with 1,398. Swartzwelter pulled in 1,217 and Schroeder 1,194.

The rest of the field of 11 trailed at least 500 votes behind, with unofficial tallies of: Karen L. Murphy - 591; Richard W. Sumpter - 542; Carol L. Bollman - 516; Daniel O'Day - 514; Kay L. Coral - 197; Harvey A. Failor - 179; Chester L. Liana - 115.

Quinn, an unsuccessful candidate in last year's race, attributed her victory to hard work. "I had some name recognition from last year, but I just got better known this time. I did some advertising, I had some printed literature, I just got out there and shook more hands and met more people."

Walker, also, said: "I spent a lot of time knocking on doors, besides I'm a hell of a nice guy. I had as many people as I could out there today at the polls ... many wonderful people working with me."

Walker said he wanted to thank all the people that worked for him and, "I look forward to carrying out some of the things I discussed in my campaign."

Absentee vote tallies, considered by some to be an indication of the senior citizen vote in the community, were against the millage 141 to 52. The 252 absentees picked Sumpter as their favorite with 65 votes, followed closely by Schroeder with 61 votes.

Canton pop. hits record 58,302; more fed. $ soon?

BY CHERYL EBERWEIN

It was that magic 50,000 mark that Canton was shooting for - and they managed to top this goal by 8,302.

That's 8,302 people - as in a 1984 Canton population of 58,302.

A United States Bureau of Census population study, conducted in 1982, determined this to be the current population of the township in 1982, according to Terry Carroll, grants coordinator for Canton. Although township administrators have been striving to prove that Canton's population was over 50,000 for several years, the results of the study were only recently revealed to the township and its administration on May 16.

Communities with a documented population of over

50,000 are eligible for additional federal funding through community development block grants and federal revenue sharing. Carroll said it is unclear how much additional federal funding Canton will receive as a result of the new population figure.

"Although we're now over 50,000, we don't know how formula allocations will work and they won't be run until February of next year," Carroll said. "The computer pumps out cash at the end of this formula. We will start to collect our increased federal revenue dollars immediately based on our new population figure, however," he added.

Carroll said communities are granted block grants based on one of two different formulas. The first formula takes into account the amount of poverty and overcrowding a community is experiencing.

The second formula bases the amount of money granted on stress factors like a falling SEV. Carroll said every community is evaluated both ways and the formula which provides the community with the most money is used as a basis for grant allocations.

Carroll said communities over 50,000 may apply for community block grant monies directly with the federal government. Those communities under 50,000 may enter joint agreements with their county to apply for block grant money through county administration.

Carroll said Canton has been applying for block grant money through Wayne County since 1974. The joint

Winkelman's backs out - no Plymouth store

BY BRIAN LYSAGHT

Winkelman's womens clothiers reversed an earlier decision and announced Friday they would not lease 4,000 square feet of retail space for a store on Plymouth's Main Street.

The retailer had been negotiating with property owner Jim McKeon for four months. McKeon said the retailer had agreed to present a signed lease June 8 but made the announcement instead.

"Although an unusually long time transpired in developing the provisions of the lease, I felt the delays were understandable," McKeon said in a written statement. "At no time were there points of disagreement that indicated a final lease would not be signed."

McKeon said the decision was probably related to the sale and management change within the Detroit-based clothier, which culminated recently when chairman of the board Stanley Winkelman announced his retirement.

McKeon said the store's board of directors had passed a resolution to lease the Plymouth space but "the new management took over and decided not to do it."

Other merchants on Main Street's 300 block near the proposed Winkelman's site said they were unhappy about the store's decision.

"I'm certainly disappointed because they (Winkelman's) were certainly making a positive statement about believing in the city by acquiring a 4,000 square foot store," said Fred Hill, owner of John Smith Clothiers on Main and Me and Mrs. Jones, a women's apparel store nearby.

"The more women's shops in Plymouth, the more women will come to shop in Plymouth," Hill said.

Marj Showalter, owner of The Fabric Shoppe on Main Street said she had hoped a women's apparel store would locate nearby.

"There's nothing you can do about it though," Showalter said.

"Disappointed. That sums it up," said Mole Hole manager Cheryl Hall describing her reaction to Winkelman's decision.

McKeon said he had declined offers from potential tenants to negotiate for the space while negotiations continued with Winkelman's. He said he wasn't worried about renting the property, however.

"I don't think it will be hard to fill," he said.

A CAR DRIVEN BY Henrietta M. Rorabacher, 73, of Plymouth struck John C. Thompson's painted-for-graduation vehicle on Friday, police said. Thompson, 36, of Plymouth was given first aid at the scene. Police said the Rorabacher vehicle approached the intersection of Harvey and Junction and did not see the other vehicle. No tickets were issued. (Crier photo by Rachael Dolson)

Tonda retires from board

BY RACHAEL DOLSON

Eight-year board veteran Flossie Tonda will retire this month from the Plymouth Canton School Board, a decision she said has made her "sad, and a little relieved."

Tonda was appointed to the board in 1976 and was subsequently elected and re-elected. She decided this spring not to run for re-election due to her husband's illness.

"I'm sad because I'm leaving. All mothers feel that nobody can take care of their children like they can, and I feel that the children in our schools our my children and no one will watch over them like I will."

FLOSSIE TONDA

She said she has some concerns about the district and the schools that she wishes she could stay around to help with. "In our district as in so many other school district, there are so many on-parent families. Many times these kids don't get the help at home they need."

"One parent often does not have enough time to work, take care of their kids, take care of themselves, take care of the house, and still be involved in the schools."

"We as a school district have to consider this, we have to do something, some adjustments to help the kids," Tonda said.

One of the main issues that Tonda said she is pleased about from her tenure is the board's position on expulsions.

"Previous boards, on expulsions, many times the board did not support the administration's recommendations. We do support the administration now, and it has deterred drug abuse, drug sales and disruptive behavior.

"It is good for all the students that these few kids are expelled because they can have a quieter, less disrupted (learning environment). It is also good for the borderline kid who might be tempted to get into drugs," Tonda said.

However, Tonda said she is relieved to be leaving the board due to her husband's health problems. "Right now he's my first priority - getting him better. I want to devote my energy to that."

Tonda said she will still be involved with the Clothing Bank, a program she organized to provide clothing and winter wear for children. "I have to continue with that, there are too many kids that need it."

"Once my husband starts feeling better, I'll be right in there again - I'll be back," she said.

While on the school board, Tonda has served as secretary of the board and president of the Wayne County Association of School Boards.

She chaired the school safety committee for four years, during which an overpass was built for students at Fiegel Elementary School. She served as president of the Parent-Teacher Organization for the district from 1974 to 1976.

She organized the Clothing Bank which operates from a portable classroom located behind Central Middle School - an operation which has continued for the past eight years.

Besides the schools, Tonda has been president of the Canton County Fest Board in 1981-82 and a member of the Canton Business and Professional Women. She was chosen Woman of the Year by that group in 1982.

Other community activities have included membership in Canton's Dion Nursing Home Council and membership of the Canton Township Planning Commission.

She and her husband, Tony, moved to Canton in 1968. They have raised two daughter here, Toni and Tina. The Tondas now have two grandchildren.

Neighbors run elections, too

BY CHERYL EBERWEIN

While The Plymouth-Canton Community will be busy with candidates, ballot issues and elections come August and November, neighbors in Salem, Superior and Northville townships will also be holding November elections.

Of these three townships, Salem's township races attracted the largest number of political hopefuls. All five positions on the township's board, which includes the supervisor, clerk, treasurer and two trustees are up for re-election.

Battling it out for a chance to represent the Republican party in the November race for Salem supervisor are incumbent Supervisor Richard C. Sackett, and James Fulkerson. Also seeking the position of supervisor is Donald Riddering, a Democrat.

The clerk's race in Salem has attracted two Republican candidates. Incumbent Nancy Mae Geiger will seek re-election. Susan Bejin will run against her in the August primary.

The treasurer's race in Salem has brought forth a bevy of political hopefuls. Former Salem treasurer Russell Knight recently died and Harvey W. Barkley was appointed to finish out Knight's term in office. Barkley will seek re-election as a Republican.

Other treasurer candidates include Republicans Christine Ward, Susan Clark, Suzanne Witthoff and Robert Novack. The lone Democrat running for the treasurer's title is Ralph Al Dehn-bostel.

Seven candidates have filled for the two available trustee seats on the Salem Township board. Republican incumbents Ferman A. Rohraff and William D. Taft have both filed for re-election.

Also carrying the Republican banner in the trustee races are Norma Schmeman, Donald J. Borvet and Alvin C. Oldenburg.

Two Democrats will seek the trustee positions as well. They include: Roger D. Blevins and Charlie Muntin.

Salem also has one constable position which is up for election. Incumbent constable Kent L. Stanbury, a Republican, is running unopposed for the seat.

In Superior Township only one new candidate will seek a township office. Martha Kern, a Democrat, will seek election as treasurer of Superior. Kern is running unopposed - as are all other candidates in the Superior Township races. Incumbent treasurer Ruth Urton was the only Superior Township official who chose not to seek re-election.

Incumbent candidates in Superior who will appear on the November ballot include: David Rutledge, supervisor; Kay Williams, clerk, and William McFarlane, David Emmett, Sonnie E. Parm, and Thomas E. Carey, trustees. All candidates are Democrats. Superior has a seven member board; all positions are up for re-election this November.

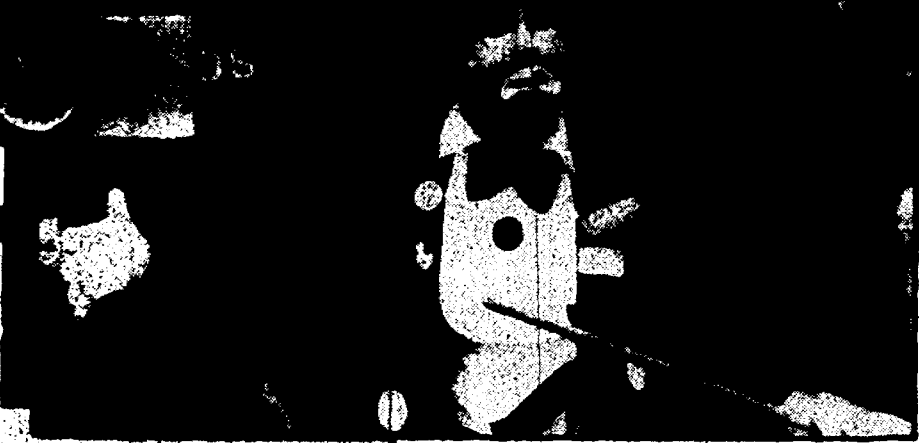

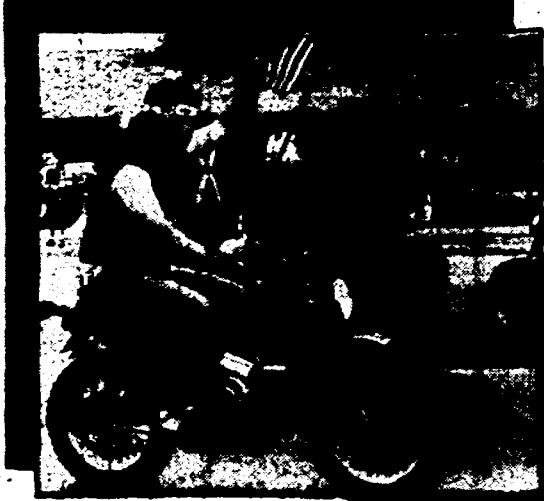

In Northville Township, candidates running for the positions of supervisor, treasurer and clerk are all running unopposed.

In the supervisor's race, Susan Heintz, a Republican, will run unopposed on the ballot. Heintz is presently serving as clerk for the township. Incumbent supervisor, John E. MacDonald is seeking election in the 35th District Court race, also taking place in November.

Running unopposed for the clerk's position is present assistant township clerk Georgina Goss, a Republican. Richard Henningsen, a Republican, will again seek re-election as township treasurer. Henningsen is running unopposed.

Eight candidates have filed for the four venture has meant that the county not only receives a portion of the funding for administering the grant, but that Canton has also bid competitively against other Wayne County communities for block grant money.

Carroll said every community is given a basic allocation of $120,000 annually. Over the past three years, Canton has received $778,000 in block grant money. Carroll said $418,000 of this was awarded to Canton through successful bidding for funding for such projects as industrial development, housing rehabilitation, and funding of a rehabilitation shelter for abused women.

"What the board must decide now, however, is if they want the county to continue to administer the block grants," Carroll said. "The advantage is that they take care of the paperwork. But we have to determine how much the county will pass through to us. This is a question of autonomy."

Carroll said the Canton board will face a three level decision in the future over the new funding possibilities. The board must:

- Take a guess at what Canton's new funding level will be as a result of the census figure.

- Decide whether to continue using the county as a go between with the federal government.

- Examine county rules and regulations governing grants coordination with communities over 50,000 if Canton stays with Wayne County. The board will have to look at what percentage cut the county will take out of the grant allocation and whether Canton is eligible for additional competitive federal funding as a result, Carroll said.

trustee positions which will be up for grabs in the November election. Appointed incumbent trustee Don Williams, a Republican, will seek re-election in the fall. Williams was appointed to finish C. Jim Armstrong's term when he resigned after moving out of the township.

Other incumbent trustees who are seeking re-election as Northville Township trustees include: Jim Nowka, Richard Allen and Tom Cook. All incumbents are Republicans.

Other Republican candidates who have filed for trustee positions in the township include: Myron Casey, Marilyn Little, and Greg Dawson. Democrat Michelle Demers is the only candidate of her party seeking a trustee position on the board.

Northville township residents will also elect two constables in the November election. Running unopposed for these two positions are the Republican incumbents presently serving in office: Joe Lukomski and Jim Schrot.

Northville township has a seven member board; all seats on the board are up for re-election in the fall.

P-C school board meetings to discuss variety of topics

Several important Plymouth-Canton School Board meetings are scheduled for the month of June that students, staff and residents may be interested in:

On Monday, June 18, the board will meet at the administrative office on Harvey Street at 7:30 p.m. to hold a workshop on talented and gifted educational philosophy. Also that night the board will hold a special meeting to open and award bids on tax anticipation notes.

On Monday, June 25, the board will hold a public hearing on the proposed 1984-85 budget at 7 p.m. The board's regular meeting will follow at 7:30 p.m.

One of summer's worst

When summer temperatures soar, a perennial pest moves into your home for the season. Hot summer air. Fortunately, there's the heat pump—the air conditioning system that gets rid of hot summer air and helps you save money. Because the heat pump is a dual-purpose system, it's better than central air conditioning. The heat pump moves heat out of your house in summer, so you stay cool, and into your house during cold weather, so you save on fuel. And you'll save on energy costs the year round. Call Detroit Edison for a list of qualified heat pump dealers. It's a smart way to take the heat off your home—and your budget.

Tough attendance policy absent in high schools

BY RACHAEL DOLSON

The present attendance policy at CEP is too lenient and too time consuming, teachers and administrators told the board at a Monday, June 4 meeting.

Canton High School Principal Kent Buikema said the current policy is based on the philosophy that more time spent on intervention with the student and parent would bring about a change in attendance patterns.

In theory the philosophy is good, Buikema said, but in practice it has not improved attendance.

The present policy is extremely time consuming and is driving a wedge between the teaching staff and the administration, he said.

The attendance policy committee has developed a new policy which result in a student losing credit for a class if he has five unexcused absences.

The committee proposes:

- After the first unexcused absence the student is made aware of the policy that he will be out of the class after five unexcused absences.

- After the second unexcused absence the parents are made aware of the two absences and that the student will lose credit if five unexcused absences are logged.

- After the fourth unexcused absence the parent is again made aware that the student will be removed from class after the next unexcused absence.

The proposal will also make provisions for a student to audit a class, for a change in the call-in times for excused absences, to encourage teachers to create positive reinforcements to encourage student attendance, and to make allowance for a total number of absences.

Pat Berry, Salem English and speech teacher, agreed with Buikema's comments that the teachers feel the current policy is too easy for students and too time consuming for teachers. The students are not stupid and will use any policy to their advantage, Berry said.

Board members expressed concerns over the inordinate amount of time spent on attendance, the district responsibility to teach students, and raising expectations so students will raise their performance.

Summer youth jobs!!

SYETP jobs

The Summer Youth Employment Training Program (SYETP) is aiming to put a dent in youth unemployment this summer in The Plymouth-Canton Community.

The program will hire and place youths aged 16 to 21 in a variety of jobs throughout private and non-profit organizations. Participants will be paid for 32-hour work weeks and the eight-week program will run from June 18 to August 10.

Applicants must live in the Plymouth-Canton or Northville School Districts and must be low income or self-supporting. Others eligible youths include those living with unemployed parents, recipients of Aid To Dependent Children (ADC), students supporting themselves in college by at least 50 per cent or handicapped youths.

The SYETP will conduct a special two-day orientation and job skills workshop prior to the start of the program. Attendance is required for program participants.

SYETP applications are available at Plymouth Salem High School or at the Chief Connection in Canton High School between 10:30 and 11:30 a.m. For more information call Byron Richardson weekdays at 451-6298.

Youth corps help

Now that school is out and summer has arrived are you panicked about a job?

The Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) office on Joy Road in Canton is currently accepting applications for the Michigan Youth Corps program. This office, along with other MESC offices throughout the state, will be the only place where young people can apply for this program.

Students interested in applying for a position with the Michigan Youth Corps should apply by June 15. Pending legislative action, this year's Youth Corps program should create approximately 15,500 summer jobs.

To qualify for the Youth Corps, young people must be 18 to 21 years old, unemployed and Michigan residents. Preference in hiring will be given to those from families where the principal wage earner is unemployed. In addition, older applicants take preference over younger candidates.

Jobs with the Youth Corps are expected to last from six to 12 weeks with members earning $3.35 an hour for a 30 to 40 hour week. Anticipated work sites for the program include public parks, recreation areas, highway areas, county fairs, hospitals and schools.

County posts

Disadvantaged youth in The Plymouth-Canton Community are eligible to apply for 200 summer jobs under the Wayne County Summer Employment and Training Program.

County Executive William Lucas announced that the program will run for eight weeks beginning June 18 and ending August 10.

The program, funded through the Federal Job Partnership Training Act, aims to seek out youths ages 18 to 21 who are unemployed and qualify as economically disadvantaged under federal guidelines.

"We will work with these young people on developing the work habits all employers are seeking," Lucas said. "The idea is to improve their future employability in the job market."

Once the workers are chosen, they will be assigned to Wayne County offices and agencies in a variety of jobs. Each will work at least a 32-hour week at the wage of $4.17 an hour.

Lucas noted, "Participants have the opportunity to learn good work habits and to acquire some specific job skills, in addition to supplementing their family income."

"We were immensely successful with this program last summer and we are looking forward to even greater success this year."

To apply for the Summer Youth and Training Program, contact Gail Holben at 467-1576.

No challengers Twp. constables run

BY BRIAN LYSAGHT

A pair of incumbents are the lone candidates for the two Plymouth Township Constables offices.

Gene Hood and Frank Radwick are the current constables each seeking another four year term.

Constables can issue citations for violations of township ordinances. They also serve subpoenas and inspect stores for code violations.

Hood was appointed a constable and re-elected in 1982. He combines his constable duties with his job as township parks director. Hood spends most of his time at the Plymouth Township Park.

Hood calls the marriage of his two jobs ideal.

"Prior to me taking over as constable, there was a lot of vandalism here at the park," Hood explained. "Now I can write violations when I see people speeding or vandalizing the park."

Hood says another of his major duties is supervising people assigned to community service as part of a punishment for a crime.

Hood has lived in Plymouth Township for eight years. He is married and has two children.

Radwick, the second incumbent seeking re-election was first appointed and then elected in 1982.

Radwick recently completed an 11-week training program from the Detroit Police Academy. Radwick said he was certified and will have the same powers of arrest of a full-time police officer.

"I will be getting together with (Plymouth Township Police) Chief Berry to work out my exact duties but I'll be doing primarily traffic enforcement on a part-time basis," Radwick said.

He said his police certification will expand his power and make him a more effective constable. He said if he is not elected, he could possibly be appointed constable by the township board.

Radwick has a full-time job as an accountant with the Ford Motor Credit Company in Dearborn. He is also a reserve lieutenant with the Northville Police Department.

"I've always been interested in police work," he said. "I first decided to run for constable to give more support to the township."

Radwick has lived in the township for 13 years.

Street dances start Fri. with Van Dyke

"Dancing in the streets" is not just a new song rendition which is taking Tigertown by storm. It will also be the theme of Friday nights in Plymouth beginning June 15 when the first in a series of danceable jazz concerts takes place.

The street dance series will begin its summer introduction with the sounds of the Earl Van Dyke Orchestra. Pianist Van Dyke has been an influential part of the Motown scene since the early days of its existence. His talent on the keyboard has provided back-up music for such groups as Marilyn McCoo, Barbara McNair, The Supremes, Stevie Wonder, Smokey Robinson, Frank Sinatra, Sammy Davis Jr., and Henny Youngman.

Playing along with Van Dyke in the orchestra are many other top Detroit musicians including: George Benson, Beans Bowles, Uriel Jones, Ralph Armstrong, Miche Braden and Robert Penn.

The orchestra will open the Street Dance Series with a variety of music ranging from the 30's to the 80's and will play from 7:30 to 10 p.m. on Penniman Avenue next to Kellogg Park.

The Street Dance Series is scheduled to run every Friday night through Aug. 31. The concerts were made possible through donations to the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce from Dick Scott Buick and with the support of the Detroit Federation of Musicians and Music Performance Trust Fund. Dennis Harlan of Entertainment Consultants of America, Inc. of Plymouth has also donated his services in recommending and coordinating all musical groups.

Among the other featured artists to get a Plymouth billing this summer are: The Ron Jackson Group, the Bob DuRant Orchestra, Malvin McGray's Creative Element and the Tony Russon Band.

Fest roaring and ready!!

If you haven't already noticed, the Canton Country Festival is back this week bringing loads of fun for everyone. As in previous years, the Canton Country Festival Board and hundreds of volunteers have worked hard to bring residents and visitors a week of events ranging from carnivals and blue grass bands to watermelon eating contests and tug-of-wars.

For those of you who have never taken time to explore the festival from its Grand Opening Day parade down Ford Road through the following week's activities, this year's Country Festival is one of the best in which to make amends and introduce yourself to down-home entertainment. If you haven't kicked up your heels to the zesty sounds of a square dance, if you haven't tasted hot shish kebab, barbecued chicken or hamburgers, and if you haven't had the pleasure of flinging a cow chip across a field, then you're missing out on the best summer entertainment Canton offers its folks.

While the Country Festival Board and its volunteers work feverishly throughout the year to make sure this event is loaded with plenty of activities for all, they also work to insure that one special quality is always present at the celebration as well. Old-fashioned hospitality and spirit will greet every visitor who wanders through the fair, watches a rodeo or gambles 50 cents away in the Casino tent. From now through Sunday, the Country Festival will assure all that Canton Township is still the friendly, easy going community it always was.

So come'on down, y'all and kick off your summer with a little bit of solid family fun. Entertainment in The Plymouth-Canton Community can't get much better than this.

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Two who weren't challenged

Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen isn't really the only resident of our community who, as an incumbent holding major elective office, knows already that he can keep the family bank account intact and not spend a dime in the quest for re-election.

Wayne County Circuit Judge Thomas J. Foley, whose home is no more than a mile from Breen's, is another who has no opposition and for whom victory is assured. In the supervisor's case it will mean four more years as head of the township government, while the Circuit Court term for the judge is six years.

Foley is not nearly as visible to the local voting public as is Breen, the judge having lived here 31 years in relative obscurity — all in the same house, by the way.

From the Detroit legal firm of Goetz, Goetz & Foley, specializing in corporate law, Tom jumped to the bench in the election of 1966. He hasn't had to ring a campaign doorbell since that year, having been unopposed for re-election both in 1972 and 1978. From an age standpoint, he's young enough to go after another six-year term in 1990, if he so chooses.

Oldtime football fans may remember the strapping six-foot-plus Irishman as Red Foley, an outstanding end first at Detroit Southeastern High School and then at the University of Detroit. He had to be tough both places, just as he did as a Navy lieutenant on the USS Sangamon, which was one of our ships blown out of the water at Okinawa.

Like every Irishman I've ever known, Tom enjoys a chuckle. It's his nature to smile and laugh more than frown and growl, and I interpret three successive unopposed re-elections as evidence of the esteem in which he is held professionally.

Breen's continuity in office hasn't known the same kind of bliss. In fact, the night primary ballots were counted in 1972, when it was found Breen had been whipped by J.D. McLaren after Maurie's first rein as supervisor, he was considered a dead duck politically.

Anyone with the courage that evening to wager (even if he could find a taker) that 12 years hence Maurie would have rebounded so powerfully as to scare off all in-party Republican opposition, to say nothing of the Democrats, would have been considered daft.

Tom Notebaert succeeded McLaren as supervisor in 1976. But in 1980 he went into the GOP primary against the reborn but once-scorned Breen with an air of over-confidence reminiscent of Thomas Dewey's attitude when he ran against Harry Truman for the presidency in 1948.

Breen campaigned hard and won the nomination. His victory in November was a walkover, so here he is, a guaranteed November winner after four impressive years on the township throne. The "old guard," which ruled Township Hall years ago, tried to find a candidate, but couldn't. So endeth their political importance.

Unsolicited Remarks

Newsletter one step over legal line??

School election laws spell out what can and can't be said in campaign literature paid for by taxpayer funds.

Basically, the verbage in taxpayer-funded flyers and letters must be informational only, without opinions or recommendations. The message of any campaign literature paid for by district funds must seek to inform, rather than to persuade, the law says.

If the schools want to put out "Vote Yes On the Millage" flyers, a millage committee must be set up, funded by donations from the community and subject to the laws governing all special interest committees in the state.

The Plymouth-Canton School district did have such a committee and donated dollars were spent persuading voters to vote yes and in getting out the identified "yes" vote.

My concern, however, is that the school-funded "Newsletter" sent by bulk postage to all homes in the district, had some statements which crossed over the line from information and into persuasion.

Judge for yourself. Read each of these passages and decide: fact or opinion —

- "Even though the need is not a highly visible one, it is real."
- "The money has been wisely spent."
- "The ballot will contain a request for a 1.74 mill increase for use in operations. This is not a big amount, but it is necessary to maintain much of what we need and want for education."

• "But the simple fact is that the school district needs more money to continue the programs for what has been called our most 'important resource,' the young people of the community."

• "For the past five years the district has made a real effort to maintain programs and services and make only those cuts necessary to balance the budget."

All of these passages were printed in the lead story of the Newsletter which reached the homes of voters a few days before the election.

Although I don't expect the enforcers from the elections division to come howling out of Lansing and clap Community Relations Director Dick Egli in irons — I do think the above passages are one step over the legal line of informative and into persuasive.

Fiery speech of '78 graduation not needed in '84?

"True education makes for inequality; the inequality of individuality, the inequality of success, the glorious inequality of talent, of genius; for inequality, not mediocrity, individual superiority, not standardization, is the measure of the progress of the world."

Felix E. Schelling

It was with that fiery quote that I opened the commencement ceremony at my high school six years ago. The speech which followed, one my principal had asked me to change and which I refused to do, spoke of diversity or lack of it, and our childish inability to appreciate the human differences which make every man unique. I spoke (angrily, if I recall correctly) of high school tendencies to minimize individuality and look upon conformity as a goal to follow for four years. And I told my classmates high school was a poor judge of future success.

"Our high school experiences are valuable, but they can give no accurate clue to what our futures hold. We must grow and mature beyond high school. Growth from within us is achieved through a realistic understanding and appreciation of ourselves." I had said then.

I saved the speech for sentimental reasons - and because I thought I had said some good things to the 800 plus

From the Inside Looking Out

By Cheryl Eberwein

people who attended graduation that day. I had encouraged my classmates to really discover their potential for the first time and place value in their own self-worth and character. I had warned if they didn't, people around them would deem what they would be in life.

I was recently reminded of this speech when I heard the horns of paint-spattered cars sounding through town. This year's seniors are celebrating their long awaited "emancipation," and everyone in The Plymouth-Canton Community has been subject to their revelry.

The slogans on the sides of the cars are vaguely familiar - "Look out world, here I come," "Out the door in '84," "Free at last," "I'm a graduate now." I doubt that the cars which roared through Richmond when I graduated looked much different.

I wondered, however, if although the slogans have remained the same, the thinking hasn't changed somewhat.

Six years ago, a standing ovation at the end of a speech only hinted that the intolerance imparted by peers and teachers would be forgotten as each senior embarked upon a different life course. This year, like last, the seniors I met seemed to understand the need for individual acceptance and potential with an ease and appreciation which is seem far too infrequently in society.

Perhaps its the choices which today's students are given and face. Clearly, the student who excels in athletics or scholastics is no longer the only student to receive recognition and encouragement from friends and staff. Vocational education, alternative education, education for the learning disabled as well as for the gifted have given students of every talent reason to strive and discover their potential. It wasn't always that way - and these differences weren't always accepted by staff and students the way they are accepted now.

Students today seem cognizant of the fact that they each play an important part in what makes up an educational system, society and world. While they still struggle with the same self-doubts that teenagers of that age will always go through, they seem less willing to judge their own merits on the basis of other students, friends, or high school experiences. Diversity in high schools has never been more evident and to the credit of the students now graduating and still in the school, it has never been more readily received and understood.

I encourage the class of 1984 to continue this pattern of understanding and acceptance. Individuality is one of the few natural resources mankind, himself, possesses. Sadly, like so many other natural resources, it seems depleted and in danger of total demise.

How did I end that speech of six graduations ago? With another quote. I share it again with a class of seniors in the hopes that its wisdom and message will touch them.

"We are students of words: we are shut up in schools and colleges and recitation rooms for ten or fifteen years, and come out at last with a bag of wind, a memory of words and do not know a thing."

Vote: Final strike chapter?

The 1983 school strike is finally over. It's not just that:

- Glenn Schroeder, the incumbent president of the Plymouth-Canton School Board, ran a poor fourth.

- The proposed millage increase went down.

- Nancy Quinn and Les Walker, the first and second runners in the race for two seats, were endorsed by the Plymouth-Canton Education Association.

But, taken all together, the strike wounds boiled over Monday.

If two women chatting loudly in a party store swore up and down that Schroeder was the LAST person they'd vote for, it's no wonder that he joins the ranks of Marda Benson who lost re-election while School Board Prez.

Their gripe was the "unnecessary" teachers' strike of 1983.

Of course, Schroeder's vacation in Europe at the time of the strike was also mentioned.

The other board incumbents are glad they were spared re-election this year. They collectively put the board into a stalling position during negotiations for the first time since collective bargaining came upon the Plymouth-Canton school scene in 1969.

A hyped recall - against Schroeder and the others - that never materialized as a recall may have accomplished its objective on that score Monday.

Only three of 15 precincts passed the millage hike; two others were very close. All five of them were in Canton.

Having made the announcement of a teachers' union contract extension just before the election, school officials unwittingly tied the millage increase request solely to that issue. The schools' gamble on not defining the need for a 1.75 hike to more specific issues added to that.

Then ironically, the voters ignored the only "no" millage increase candidate, (Richard Sumpter - sixth-place finisher), and went for two of the 11 candidates who were viewed as best by the teachers' union.

Even with the millage defeat, the anti-strike forces of parents and teachers won Monday.

The big question is will they prevail when a millage increase special election is called this fall? Or will Monday's vote purge the wounds?

Thanks for good 'Beginning'

EDITOR:

I am writing to publicly express a sincere thank you to the owners and teachers of the Beginners Inn, Kindergarten, Nursery School and Day Care Center.

As a recently divorced mother of a two-and-a-half year old daughter in 1980, I needed a reliable and loving environment for her while I worked full-time. The Beginner's Inn provided this plus so much more.

My daughter has blossomed under their care, guidance and teaching during the three years she has attended the school. The teachers have always been caring and willing to talk to me. My daughter loves them all!

Beginner's Inn owners Dorinne and Bill Mullins deserve so much more than words can express as thanks for running such an excellent school and day care center. Their devotion has made a school into a place where children can truly grow.

My daughter is now "graduating" from their Kindergarten. We have been with Beginner's Inn for so long I honestly hate to leave them and the support they have given both myself and my daughter.

How do you thank the people who have played such an important part in my daughter's life? I cannot think of anything that would adequately convey these feelings. For this reason, I hope you print this letter. I'd like the world (or, at least The Plymouth-Canton Community) to know how terrific the people, the environment, and the schooling is at the Beginner's Inn. Thanks to you all!

Whoever says moving is fun and exciting hasn't moved in so long they've forgotten what it's really like.

Moving is not fun, It is a pain in the neck, not to mention your back.

Relocating a family is one thing, but moving a staff of 30 people is ridiculous. Everyone has a different idea of what the color theme should be, and no one wants the area that was designated for their office. By the time The Community Crier staff moved last weekend, I think the only thing they all agreed on was the fact that they all disliked the color tile I picked out.

Moving a newspaper office takes months of planning and days of packing, while continuing to put out a paper. Things got a little crazy around the office, especially the last few weeks.

"Yes, I said, 'the answer is no.' What were we talking about?" Okay, so I admit I was a little ornery and reached the unusual point of not making much sense. Thank heavens the people on the staff know me well enough and were somehow able to figure out what I was trying to say.

When hiring people we never took into consideration whether or not they were able to organize, pack and move things. Everyone did a fantastic job -- too good a job. Why would anyone pack the toilet paper the day before moving?

That Friday night was a long night for a few of us.

After a hectic week and a horrendous moving day, everyone was pretty well settled in, except me. My office will hopefully be finished sometime this week. In the meantime my things are packed on a desk in the vault. My desk still has as much junk piled on top of it -- the only difference is now it's all in boxes instead of falling off the desk.

The main problem about being in the vault is that after being so crabby last week, I'm afraid the door might "accidentally" close with no one around who knows or wants to remember the combination.

If anyone on the outside doesn't hear from me in the next week, please tell them to let me out.

Riverside roads restored

The Plymouth City Commission last week authorized repairs and repaving of about 15,000 square yards of winding Riverside Cemetery roads.

Parts of the roads will get a bituminous asphalt sealer treatment and smaller sections of the roads will receive base repair work.

The work will be done sometime next month by Highway Maintenance and Construction Company of Romulus. Highway Maintenance's $21,866 bid was the lowest of two the city received. City money will come from the Cemetery Perpetual Care Fund.

City officials say it's been 10 years since the last seal coat and add the work is required to keep cemetery roads passable.

WSDP - live from Fest

WSDP-FM, 88 FM, the community radio station, is broadcasting live from the Canton Country Festival June 15-17. WSDP will be at the festival Friday, June 15, from 4 to 7 p.m., and Saturday and Sunday, June 16 and 17, from noon to 5 p.m.

Mike Lyndrup, Twila Graller, Noelle Torrace, and George Pavliscak are just some of the WSDP staff members who will be at the festival to interview festival organizers, entertainers and spectators.

WSDP is also promoting the festival in the form of daily public service announcements.

"It's a pleasure to be involved in Canton's major annual happening. The Township of Canton is fast gaining a respected name for itself due to events like the Country Festival. WSDP is honored to be a part of an event of such significance," said Andrew Melin, station manager.

Guild volunteers honored

Oakwood Hospital's 454 Guild members celebrated their 10th anniversary of volunteer services at the annual Guild luncheon Monday, May 21, at the Fairlan Club, Dearborn, with a presentation of a $125,000 check to the hospital. It is the largest amount the Guild has contributed for a single year.

Included in the awards presented at the annual luncheon were Peggy Becker, Marion Bennett, and Kurt Patzer, all of Canton, who received 100-hour chevrons; Nancy Phillips of Plymouth, who received a 100-hour chevron; and Millie Fawcett of Canton, who received a 1,500 hour pins.

In addition, 55 volunteers received service awards and the election of officers for the 1984-85 fiscal year was held.

The Guild, which has raised almost $825,000 for hospital equipment and programs over the decade, presented the $125,000 check for the following areas: cardiology unit, $95,000; the new linear accelerator, which is used in the treatment of cancer patients, $10,000; surgical department instruments, $10,000; Oakwood Hospital Canton Center for audio-visual equipment and a portable blood pressure cuff, $2,500; and gift shop renovations $7,500.

Marking a decade of Guild voluntarism, Oakwood President Gerald D. Fitzgerald stressed the "gift of time and countless hours of service" as a tribute to the success of the organization.

He reminisced with Guild members on their first gift shop, their first fundraising activities, and "those of you who breathed life into this organization."

Fitzgerald also cited the 39,000 hours contributed by Guild members in 1983 and the cumulative total of 264,000 hours over the past 10 years.

"While nothing remains the same in the health care industry, the Guild remains a constant, continuing quietly throughout the decade to achieve this wonderful record of accomplishments," he said.

While thanking past president Geri Larson, Bunny Hall, Pat Bond, Lois Smith, Marie Hamilton and other officers over the years for their contributions, Fitzgerald called them "inspiring and dedicated leaders."

Bond said: "The accomplishments we've made have been just fantastic, from raising $15,000 the first year to $125,000 in 1983. I don't think in my wildest dreams I ever imagined we could raise this much money."

Robert G. Tessmer, chairman of Oakwood Hospital Foundation board of trustees, in accepting the check, said, "I also know that raising money is only part of your contribution to Oakwood. Your numerous other activities on behalf of the hospital are noteworthy and commendable as well. Your service in dozens of areas at the main hospital, in addition to the Canton Center and the Family Medical Center in Sumpter Township, translate into many hours of devotion as well as hard work."

Guild members contribute their talents in the Emergency Department, Medical Records, Nuclear Medicine, Pediatrics, and Occupational Therapy, among other areas.

Crier advertising rates hiked

A number of cost increases for The Community Crier has necessitated an advertising rate increase effective on July 5.

"The price hikes in newsprint, materials and other services have forced us to this increase," said Crier General Manager Phyllis Redfern.

"For examples, our printing and newsprint increase will total about eight per cent; our photo-sensitive materials have been hiked by 10 per cent.

"Because our staff has been conscious of efficiencies, we have been able to control our ad rate increases to less than eight per cent," Redfern said.

BUSH

Two generations of jewelers

Most jewelry stores sell ready-made rings, but at O & D Bush, the gems that sparkle in their showcases are set in custom-made mountings designed in-house.

Owner Don Bush cast his first ring when he was 13, following a tradition established by his father, Ollie, who founded the firm 40 years ago in Detroit.

Don and Barbara Bush

O & D Bush specializes in diamonds and other precious stones, selling custom-made items to wholesalers and other jewelry stores as well as to the public. "We have the largest display of anybody in the area," Bush says. Customers may choose from over 3,000 mountings.

Like many second generation owners, Bush was reared in the business. "When you grow up with it, you don't even think about it," he says. But the constant exposure helps "you learn and understand it better than someone from outside."

Bush's wife, Barbara, is invaluable to the firm's smooth operation. In addition to the sales and financial work she does for the company, she is also learning the diamond business at the Gemological Institute of America, the world's leading school for grading diamonds.

All casting of gold rings and gem-setting is done on the premises. "We send nothing out," Bush says. Having a small, family-owned business provides quality control "while keeping the cost of making rings down."

Some of Bush's tools are 150 years old, handed down to his father from the German jeweler who taught him the trade over 60 years ago. Jewelers throughout the Detroit area sought out Ollie Bush's custom-made pieces. In 1973, Don Bush joined his father full-time, and is now sole owner of the business. In 1977, O & D Bush moved to Plymouth.

Though the torch has been passed from father to son, Ollie Bush spends three or four days each week in the shop. Having his father nearby when he gets bogged down on a project "may save a whole day of work," Bush says. Fifty years of experience "can't be beaten."

COMMUNITY FEDERAL CREDIT UNION

18,000 member family

COMMUNITY Federal Credit Union is a family business with a different twist. The "family" consists of 18,000 members who purchased a share of ownership when they joined the credit union and opened a savings account.

"Anyone who lives or works in our authorized area can join," Michelle Mardiros, advertising specialist says. Locally that area includes Plymouth and Plymouth Township, Northville and Canton. In 1983, Community Federal acquired offices in Montmorency and Otsego counties, becoming the first community credit union allowed to operate beyond its geographic base.

CANTON

Eligibility also extends to relatives of members, regardless of where they live, or individuals living in a member's home. Last year, 4,414 new members were added, representing $12 million in deposits. Shareholders were paid $3.6 million in dividends.

"We're extremely member-minded, gearing ourselves to better services and quicker services," Ms. Mardiros says. Besides drawing members from the community, the credit union also serves the community by investing deposits back into the area — "not out of state," she adds.

PLYMOUTH

COMMUNITY Federal has been a community credit union since 1958, after having operated six years as the employees' credit union of the Daisy Air Rifle Company. Besides the Canton and Northville branches, the organization has three offices in northern Michigan and will open a fourth in July.

Among its services are checking accounts with interest; daily interest savings accounts; money-market savings; certificates of deposit; commercial checking accounts; commercial loans; signature loans; home equity loans and loans for automobiles and other personal property.

KRAMER

Quality key to longevity

Though new in Plymouth, A.R. Kramer Company has been in business since 1925. The full-service floor covering firm was founded by A.R. Kramer in Detroit, but moved to Livonia in 1971.

Last year the Plymouth store opened under the management of Kramer's grandson, Mike. "We needed to expand," company President Art Kramer says, adding that Plymouth was chosen because residents prefer to shop in the community. In July, the store will move to larger quarters next door to its present location.

Kramer says 50 percent of the company's business is commercial. Ford Motor Company is one of its biggest customers. "The majority of carpeting used in Ford company buildings throughout the United States is purchased through us," he says.

Another large client is the University of Michigan. Kramer says the firm has twice carpeted the Hyatt-Regency in Dearborn and did major work at the Renaissance Center.

At 80, founder A.R. Kramer puts in six days a week at the Livonia store. His son, Alan, is chairman of the company, and Art and Mike represent the third generation. They have two brothers in college who haven't decided whether they'll join the family business.

Running a family business "takes time and patience," Art Kramer says. Working conditions are "very unique," in that "activities at home can affect the business." He says it's harder to work with — and for — one's family than in a non-family situation.

"Four people have direct input on our business," Kramer says. "Everybody has his say and we try to reach a happy medium."

Would he want his young son to carry on the family tradition? "My family never pressured my brother and I," he says, "and I wouldn't pressure my son. Whatever he does is up to him."

MOORE

Root beer's last stand

Chuck and Dottie Moore literally built their business from the ground up. The proprietors of A & W Drive-In did it all -- from laying the drainfield to putting on the roof -- when they opened in Plymouth in 1956.

They're closing the business this fall, taking memories of helping countless Plymouth teenagers grow up while rearing their own six children "in the back room", Mrs. Moore says.

The Moores served as a second mom and dad to many youngsters, often sitting with them long after closing time to listen to their problems. "We usually told them the same thing their parents said," Mrs. Moore says. But somehow the advice went down easier.

"Seeing all those people grow up and seeing what they've become" is one of the rewards of 28 years in the community, Mrs. Moore says.

Another reward comes from working with so many members of their own family over the years. Moore says the clan has always been close, but working together has "helped keep the family together."

Chuck Moore was 12 when his mother and brother opened an A & W franchise in 1939 in Iowa. He and two brothers learned the ropes there, and one still runs the original restaurant. The other moved with Chuck to Ann Arbor where they started an A & W in 1948. Chuck's brother sold it last year.

In 1969, the Moores were honored for having 16 family members in the A & W business, including Chuck's cousins in Flint and Columbus, Ohio.

Charles Moore, Jr., and his brother Dan work with their parents full-time, while Charles' wife, Judy, and his sister, Debra Moore Rice, are part-timers. Brothers Melvin and Rick did their stint in the business earlier, along with Dottie's three younger brothers and a sister.

SAXTON

50 years in Plymouth

When Dean Saxton started a feed business in Northville on the eve of the Depression, skeptics predicted he wouldn't last a year. But soon he added a store in Redford, and in 1934, he opened in Plymouth.

While the other stores have since closed, Saxton's Garden Center has flourished on its Ann Arbor Trail site since 1937, carefully tended by three generations of Saxtons.

Founder Dean Saxton serves as president while his son, Bill, runs day-to-day operations as general manager. The elder Saxton is semi-retired, but reports to work regularly when he is in town. Bill's wife, Valerie, is treasurer, and their four children — Alan, Craig, Chris and Karin — grew up in the business and work full-time today.

"They knew how to sell a bird feeder when they were two years old," Mrs. Saxton says. Rounding out the family team is Chris' wife, Terry.

Bill worked at Saxton's as a youngster and joined the company permanently in 1949. His father says he was relieved when his son showed an interest in taking over. "I would have had to stick to the grindstone or sell out," he says.

Bill is pleased that his children are following in his footsteps. "It's quite satisfying to see someone come along and take an interest," he says.

In the late 1940's, Saxton's switched from feed store to nursery and garden center. Today, lawnmowers and garden tillers provide the heaviest volume, and parts and service are big items. But backyard gardeners will still find plants and general garden products at Saxton's.

SCHMIDT

A family that works together...

Every day Richard Schmidt goes to Detroit's Eastern Market in search of "the right stuff" for The Roadside, the produce market and nursery he operates on Joy Road in Canton.

"He's very selective," according to his wife, Nancy. Mrs. Schmidt oversees the store when her husband is off to market. Asked about her role, she says simply, "I'm Nancy."

"We try to handle as much local produce as we can," she says, but Schmidt is mainly concerned to get the best fruits and vegetables, regardless of where they're grown.

Schmidt is in his fifteenth season, but the family's roots in farming go back nearly 70 years. His grandfather was noted for the asparagus and peaches he raised on his Plymouth Road farm where the Sheldon Shopping Center now stands.

Schmidt grew up on a farm on Lilley Road where his father, Donald, raised sweet corn which was renowned throughout throughout the area.

The Roadside is open from May 1 through the end of September, reopening

December 1 with Christmas trees, greenery and roping. At present, homegrown asparagus, radishes, green onions, leaf lettuce and spinach are available as well as other produce. Besides the usual bedding plants, the Schmidts carry unusual plants, such as hostas and myrtle, which are often sought by landscapers.

If the hot, humid days and cool nights prevail, homegrown sweet corn should be at the market around the third week of July, Mrs. Schmidt says. Michigan strawberries are expected in mid-June, followed by blueberries and peaches at the end of July.

Four of the five Schmidt children perform a variety of tasks around the store. Kimberly, 18, and Craig, 14, wait on customers and help stock shelves. Mark, 11, and Tina, 9, bag potatoes and staple boxes. Four-year-old Charlie stays at home with a sitter.

Mrs. Schmidt says she enjoys having the family work together as a unit. "That way, we know where the children are," she says.

SCHRADER

A tradition for 80 years

Plymouth-Canton's oldest family-owned business is Schrader Funeral Home, founded in 1904 by brothers Fred and Nelson Schrader.

"We're proud of our tradition," says Edwin A. Schrader, Jr., grandson of Fred and president of the firm. "We're thankful that the community has seen value in our efforts over the past three generations, and we're always striving to improve our service to meet the changing needs of our community."

"Our philosophy is to serve each individual family in the manner in which they want to be served with complete understanding."

Standing, left to right: John B. Sassaman, L.F.D., Mrs. Carol Moore, Edwin A. Schrader, Jr., L.F.D., Edwin A. Schrader, L.F.D., Mrs. Bonnie M. West, Michael H. Burakowski, L.F.D., Sanford Burr. Seated, left to right: Mrs. Bunny Maurer and Mrs. Ruth Engel-Brown.

To Schrader, operating a mortuary is a "way of life," not a job. It requires being available to clients 24 hours a day. "We rely on personal service," he says.

"There's almost always a Schrader here."

His father, Edwin A. Schrader, Sr., is a director, and his mother Myrilla, and wife Susan help part-time with decorating and flowers.

The founders were Canton natives who bought out two funeral homes in Plymouth and ran the business as a mortuary and furniture store. At the time, the population base was too small to support a mortuary alone, but the furniture business was discontinued in 1933.

The firm was originally located on Penniman Avenue, but moved to its present Main Street location in the 1920's. Though the building has undergone several remodelings, a portion of the original structure still stands and is over 100 years old.

WENDOVER

The Crier/Comma family joins the Wendover Van Fleet family.

The family with Its Heart in The P-C Community ...

It's important to a community's well-being that it be served by a newspaper with its interests at heart.

Many communities lack a newspaper or they have media controlled and operated by absentee owners who live elsewhere and who really cannot claim to be a part of the communities they serve. Such situations rarely produce the type of journalism every community needs to prosper socially and economically.

Our family came here in 1963 and is pleased to have been a part of newspapering in The Plymouth-Canton Community since 1969. In those two decades, the three generations of Wendovers who have called this our home, have striven to establish a newspaper which will keep our community first.

Even the youngest of the family – Jessica, at age six – enjoys the office, attends official meetings, and generally appreciates the newspaper's role.

But the warmer thought for the Wendovers is the nature of the larger family here.

Crier and COMMA, staffers share an experience with their immediate families that translates into an extended family situation for our entire staff. And a great many community residents close to the paper fit into that same mold.

So while it may be that the Wendovers own The Newspaper with Its Heart in The Plymouth-Canton Community, the family that sees to the community's journalistic needs is a much larger one.

SINCERELY,

W. Edward Wendover,
publisher/chairman

WENSLEY

United Memorial Gardens--A cemetery plus.

Ed and Del Wensley.

United Memorial Gardens Cemetery offers more than just reasonable prices, available land for future generations, immaculate lawns and good service. United Memorial Gardens works with young people. We have a fun and worship program. Hundreds of young people from various christian churches, sponsored by their youth pastor visit United Memorial Gardens. They bicycle as a group, come by bus, car and van. It's an afternoon of fun with a spiritual emphasis, ending up with a Hymn sing, or devotions in the Early American Prayer Chapel or on the beach of the big lake. For information - call the United Memorial Business office and ask for Del - 278-8470. Adult supervision required ... and just remember - we want you to live, but if you do go, we want you. United Memorial Gardens qualifies to serve your family when you need good burial property. Why not take 15 minutes some evening and drive thru the property and see the ducks and swans. We are never closed.

Delbert "Del", just out of college, joins his dad, Ed Wensley, in the operation and management of United Memorial Gardens, the cemetery of unique and original gardens on Curtis Road, just west of Plymouth.

We want to thank the many thousands of families in the Plymouth/Canton area who have purchased property in our gardens.

We both follow the teachings of Jesus in the operation of the business and in our day to day life experiences and are both members of the Dearborn Free Methodist Church. Del, teaching and directing the college age program and dad active in Bible Studies, visitation and on various church committees.

Our father and son team has great plans for the future. A beautiful Chapel Mausoleum, The Garden of Praise with a double feature in Granite and Bronze and the Tabernacle in the size and design given by Our Lord for the children of Israel in their wanderings in the wilderness, and much, much more.

United Memorial Gardens is a FULL SERVICE CEMETERY, with ground, cremation and above ground burial. Our Mausoleum Crypt Program offers 100 per cent dry, above ground burial for less money than what most families spend for burial in the ground. We serve people with reasonable prices, because we really do care.

Ed and Del,
Father and Son

Phyllis Redfern's job is no picnic!

Yes, it's true that she does get to:

- Fashion shows.
 - Club luncheons.
 - Chamber of Commerce affairs.
 - Bicycle races.
 - Waterball contests.
 - Cow chip flings.
 - "Has Been" theatrical performances.
 - School ice cream socials.
 - Historical events.
 - Accidents and fires in the middle of the night.
 - School and league sporting events.
 - Church picnics.
 - Governmental meetings.
 - Political rallies.
 - Crier and COMMA, parties...
- ... but in her spare time she also runs the company.

Read how life goes on in The Plymouth-Canton Community as Phyllis gives her insight in "Tell It to Phyllis" - appearing each Wednesday in the Friends and Neighbors section of The Community Crier.

The 40-year-old columnist has been with the newspaper for eight years - her popular column having started in August, 1976.

She lives in Canton and serves as general manager and secretary-treasurer of the Plymouth-Canton Community Crier, inc.

Omnicom brings more Tigers

BY RACHAEL DOLSON

The Pro Am Sports System (PASS) is a hit in Omnicom's cablevision area, Omnicom General Manager Rick Coleman said Monday.

Omnicom has been taking orders for the new PASS, a regional sports network, for two weeks and is now taking orders for 10 days away, Coleman said.

A spokesman for the PASS organization said PASS was able to negotiate an agreement with Omnicom several weeks ago so "The subscribers of Omnicom will be able to enjoy sports programming 365 days a year."

PASS, the spokesman said, will offer the best of local professional and collegiate teams. "In addition to the hot-starting Tigers, PASS will broadcast coverage of Tigers' tough eastern division rivals.

"PASS will continue its sports programming through the year with Piston basketball games, Kronk boxing, and Big 10 collegiate sports including hockey and basketball.

Coleman said requests for PASS have been pouring in at the rate of 500 per week. "Demand is so great that we earmark each (unscrambler) box for a specific individual. We are now telling people 'We'll have a box for you on June 21.' We are guaranteeing them we will have a unit for them to pick up by then."

Coleman said most people are install the PASS, unscrambler themselves and saving the $15 hook-up fee. "It's pretty easy," he said.

The regular price of the PASS network, if a customer has the basic Omnicom service, is $11.95. When bought in conjunction with other Omnicom premium services, the PASS network can be as low as $7.95 a month.

B&E results in $4,000 loss from two Plymouth apts.

A pair of apartments on Ann Arbor Trail were burglarized Wednesday and thieves escaped with over $4,000 worth of cash and jewelry.

Police reports say sometime during the day June 6, thieves broke into two apartments, 303 W. Ann Arbor Trail while the owners were not home.

Neighbors reported seeing men near the apartments during the day and police are looking for a neatly dressed white male, about 35-years-old, with a black beard and black hair.

Police say a door to one of the apartments may have been pried open by the burglars.

The owner of one apartment reported losing two rings worth $500 each, a gold watch and gold chain worth $600 and a gold medallion valued at $1,500.

The other burglary victim reported losing $400 cash, a woman's diamond ring worth $1,500 and a class ring worth $125.

Plans underway

Fall Fest board chosen

Although that annual extravaganza, the Plymouth Fall Festival, is weeks away, plans for this year's celebration have already been in the works for several months now. The Fall Festival will take place Sept. 6, 7, 8, and 9 this year.

In addition to the old favorite standbys which are a traditional part of the event - such as plenty of concession booths, art fairs, music and entertainment, the Fall Festival board is always seeking new ideas and events to add to Plymouth's foremost celebration.

The Fall Festival Board, that energetic group of people who steer the course of the festival throughout the year, recently announced the selection of their new officers. At the helm of the 1984 Board is Grace Light, who succeeds Eleanor Shevlin as president. Shevlin will remain on the board as an advisor and will handle entertainment for the event. Shevlin represents the Plymouth Symphony League on the board, while Light represents the Business and Professional Women's Club.

First vice-president to the group is James Vermeulen representing the Kiwanis. Donald Skinner, the new second vice-president, is representing the Plymouth Rotary Club. Treasurer for the Board will be Dennis Siegner of the Lions Club and Sue McElroy will act as secretary for the group. McElroy represents the Plymouth Community Arts Council.

Recall school's past

Starkweather Memories Day

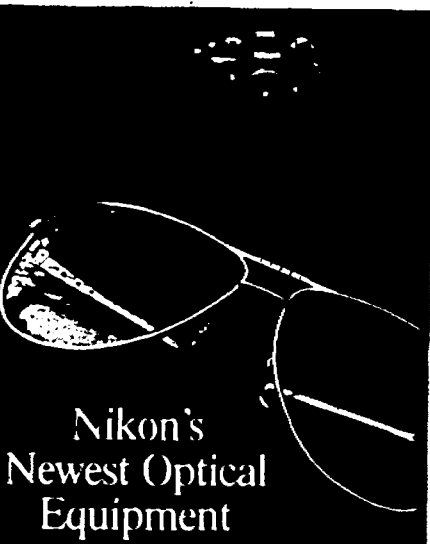

Starkweather Elementary School will have a Memories Day on Sunday, June 17.

All members of the community who attended Starkweather during its many years as a community school are invited to the open house. Invitations have gone out to former staff members of the school as well.

The Starkweather building will be closed as an elementary school at the end of this year. It has been proposed to be used as a community education center in the future.

"The day will be one for talking with old friends and reminiscing about the past which Starkweather has enjoyed," said a school spokesman. For more information on the day, call 451-6555.

The school will be open from 1 to 3 p.m. that day for browsing and meeting with old Starkweather friends.

EYE OPENERS

By Dr. R.E. Cuny

IT'S TIME
TO SEE YOUR
OPTOMETRIST

The wise patient has his or her eyes examined regularly, whether or not there are seeing problems. Just like your body, or your child's body, the eyes are constantly changing. An annual or biannual eye examination can sometimes disclose medical conditions that can be treated to slow down or prevent vision deterioration.

If you are like most people, you're probably not seeing your optometrist regularly, despite good intentions. However, it is essential that you make an appointment immediately if any of the following symptoms are present:

1. blurred vision (at distance or at near)
2. headaches
3. pain of any kind in the eye
4. squinting
5. eye irritations
6. fatigue after reading or watching TV (or any other seeing task)

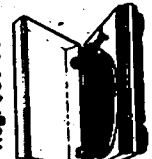

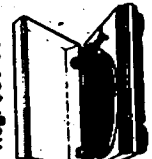

7. ESPECIALLY FOR YOUR CHILD. Difficulty in learning how to read, sporadic attention span in school, disinterest in books, poor school performance, truancy in the teen years.

To be especially safe with your children's eyes, have them examined annually. Surely, eyes play a more important role in learning than teeth do, and most children see the dentist that often; schedule the optometrist, too.

EYE OPENERS
 By Dr. R.E. Cuny

IT'S TIME
 TO SEE YOUR
 OPTOMETRIST

The wise patient has his or her eyes examined regularly, whether or not there are seeing problems. Just like your body, or your child's body, the eyes are constantly changing. An annual or biannual eye examination can sometimes disclose medical conditions that can be treated to slow down or prevent vision deterioration.
 If you are like most people, you're probably not seeing your optometrist regularly, despite good intentions. However, it is essential that you make an appointment immediately if any of the following symptoms are present:

1. blurred vision (at distance or at near)
2. headaches
3. pain of any kind in the eye
4. squinting
5. eye irritations
6. fatigue after reading or watching TV (or any other seeing task)
7. ESPECIALLY FOR YOUR CHILD: Difficulty in learning how to read, sporadic attention span in school, disinterest in books, poor school performance, truancy in the teen years.

To be especially safe with your children's eyes, have them examined annually. Surely, eyes play a more important role in learning than teeth do, and most children see the dentist that often; schedule the optometrist, too.

Chief-Rock teams have their highs and lows

BY JAY KEENAN

The 1984 campaign will not go down as one of the most successful baseball seasons for Canton and Salem, but both teams still gave their fans plenty to cheer about this year.

Salem, despite having just three seniors and three returning starters to work with, finished with a respectable 14-9 record.

Canton, meanwhile, sported an impressive 18-7 mark but dropped two important games at the end of the season.

The Chiefs were eliminated from the state tournament in the first round, as the squad fell to Walled Lake Western in pre-district action on May 25, 7-4. Western, which has a mediocre 14-12 overall record, is currently in the Class A semifinals and finished with a 6-7 mark in the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA).

On May 29, the Chiefs lost their chance to win the WLAA Conference title by losing a 6-4 contest to Livonia Churchill.

"The only thing that was disappointing about this season," said Canton coach Fred Crissey, "was that we went into our last two games of the season in a situation where we were to determine our own fate for the conference championship and state tournament—and we didn't win either (game)."

In the WLAA, Canton finished with a 9-4 record and in second place behind Churchill.

"It was not what I call a banner year," said Crissey. "But I can't say it was a disappointing year."

"I think we'll be competitive next year. It depends on what kind of summer we have in the (Mickey) Mantle and (Connie) Mack Leagues."

Designated Hitter Jeff Olson and Outfielder Jim Dillon both gained all-conference honors for the Chiefs, while pitcher Mark Bennett earned all-Western division accolades.

Leading Canton in batting was Dillon with a .444 clip. He was followed by Bennett at .365 and Olson at .340.

Bennett also had five home runs while Olson hit four.

In pitching, Scott Ford sported an unblemished 7-0 record. Bennett was 7-5 on the mound with four saves.

Salem also failed to make a tournament run this year, as it was ousted in the pre-districts by Westland John Glenn, 4-2 on May 25. The Rocks were fifth in the WLAA and second in the Lakes Division with an 8-5 mark.

The 1984 season was an experimental year for first-year coach John Gravlin, who came into the season with question marks in many positions.

"The story on the year was that Mike Cindrich and Scott Anderson carried most of the load, and we needed somebody else to help out," the Salem mentor said. "But that's what happens when you have only three seniors."

"It was a good learning year for our juniors. Our junior pitchers pitched well. I'd have to say that we played pretty well."

Cindrich, who completed a successful three-year varsity career, was the Rocks' offensive catalyst this season. He led Salem with a .470 batting average, 17 RBI's, nine doubles, 20 runs, 13 stolen bases, 31 hits, 66 at bats, and struck out only three times. He was also second on the team in home runs with two. Chris Mowers led Salem in the home run department with three.

Anderson and Cindrich tied for the conference leadership in hitting as both batted .477 in league-play. Pat Walsch hit .400 in the WLAA while Tom Moore batted .295.

Cindrich and Anderson both made it to the first-team all-conference squad, while pitcher Rick Berberet was selected to the all-Lakes division team. Cindrich was also received first-team all-region accolades.

Girl kickers collect season honors

BY BRIAN LYSAGHT

During post-season team banquets, the season's highlights seem to outweigh the failures.

Canton and Salem girls soccer teams tallied winning records and that's no small accomplishment considering the competitiveness of the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Canton coach Mike Morgan said he expected his team's season to last longer but overall, he said, the team's season was successful. The Chiefs finished 11-5-1 overall and beat both state champion Northville and runner-up powerhouse Stevenson.

"We finished tenth in the state coaches poll and fourth in our division. That shows you how tough the division is," said Canton coach Mike Morgan.

Canton's most valuable player award went to senior Lori Engel. The Chiefs' named another senior, Kim Reeves, most versatile and Alice Shobe got the most spirited award.

A handful of Chiefs collected outside honors for their season efforts. Lisa Russel was an honorable mention to the all-state girls soccer team and Beth Frigge and Margie Wangbichler were named to the All-Western Division team. Alice Shobe and Kim Reeves earned honorable mentions in the division.

Reeves, Wangbichler, Engel and Nancy Gray will graduate this year but Morgan says the future is brightened by a talented group of young players.

Morgan said he is trying to get as many members of his returning squad to play together on a Plymouth team in the area's Bonanza League.

"I'm encouraging them to play on the Bonanza team this fall," he said. "They'll get more time to play together and get used to each others' style of play."

Salem's girls finished 8-7-3 this season. Salem lost some close games to tough opponents. Two losses came at the hands of state champs Northville, two others from runners-up Stevenson and another from Churchill. The Rocks tied a tough Livonia Bentley squad.

"In any other league we probably would have come out in first place," Johnson said.

"I was surprised with the play of some of our younger players," said Salem coach Ken Johnson. "Without (injured senior Shelly) Staszal, I thought we'd be .500 this year."

Senior tri-captain Colleen O'Connor was honored after a successful three-year Salem soccer career by getting the team's most valuable player award.

"She's been a good worker with a strong attitude, the kind of player coaches like," Johnson said of O'Connor.

O'Connor and teammate Julie Tortora were named to the WLAA Lakes Division all-star team.

Rocks goalie Sarah Wallman, Robin Brandt, Cathy Prochazka and O'Connor earned this year's coach's awards.

Included among the seven graduating seniors at Salem are Shelly Staszal, sidelined the entire season with a knee injury, and Waldman. Both will attend and play soccer at Kalamazoo College, Johnson said.

Staszal was the Rocks' leading scorer last year and Johnson said her absence this year stifled the team's offense.

Freshmen Jackie Murphy, Niki Stojeba, Kris Casler and Michelle Cygan earned Johnson's praise and will be back next year.

"Next year we should be in pretty good shape," he said.

Johnson said he wants the Rocks to play together in the Bonanza League.

Tracksters earn praise from satisfied coaches

BY MIKE McKENNY

Any coach in the area will say the CEP track squads deserve the awards banquets they each held this week.

The Salem boys track team, this year's Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) champs, held their banquet Thursday.

The most improved athlete awards went to seniors Dan Hasley and Rob Schoenberger. The two had exceptional seasons, both "placing high" in their events at league meets, said Salem coach Gary Balconi.

The coaches award went to discus hurler Paul Smallwood, a senior Balconi praised as "a great kid and a hard worker."

Besides enjoying the league crown, Salem also set two school records this year.

At the league meet, Dean Jarski, Phil Madis, Eric Pederson and Scott Steiner combined to seat a record of 8:32 in the two mile relay, while Mike White, Bryan Waldron and Jeff Arold posted a total of 61'25" in the long jump relay.

"This was the best-balanced team I've ever had," Balconi said. "It was a great year."

The Canton boys track team, under the direction of head coach Mike Spitz and assistant coach John Farr held their banquet Monday night.

The most valuable athlete awards went to record-setting seniors Elijah Rogers (10 seconds in the 100 yard dash) and Jin Kim (14 seconds in the 110 high hurdles).

Juniors Jim Wallace and Pat McGow received the coaches' awards.

Spitz called Wallace and McGow "bright prospects for next year's team."

The most improved athlete awards were given to seniors Brian Bogden and Eric Wines. Bogden set a new school record in the shot put with a throw of 49'6". Wines threw the discus 146' 10" to set a new school record.

Finishing up the season with a sixth place in the WLAA meet, Spitz said he was very happy with this year's team.

"I've been coaching at Canton for seven years and we're always getting better," Spitz said. "We are really moving in the right direction."

Canton girls track coach Bob Richardson said he was pleased with his team's performance also.

"The enthusiasm and hard work was great," Richardson said. "I was extremely pleased with this year's results."

The awards banquet was held in the Canton cafeteria on Monday.

The coaches award went to junior Cheri Remer.

"Cheri had a very positive attitude. She was a good example to the rest of the girls," Richardson said.

Remer tied Michelle Adams' school record of 52:10 in the 330 low hurdles.

Sophomore Jody Bernd received the most improved athlete award.

"Jody improved a tremendous amount over the season and she had an excellent attitude," Richardson said.

The most valuable athlete award went to juniors Kim Bennett, one of Canton's tri-captains (seniors Michelle Adams and Lisa Wood were the other two) and Carolyn Nagy, also a junior.

Canton set four other school records in addition to Remer's hurdle record.

Senior Pat Brennan broke the old school mark in the 110 meter hurdles with a time of 17:5.

In the shot put, junior Hollie Ivey broke the 1982 school record of 31'10" with a toss of 38'5".

Richardson said another highlight of the Canton season was the team's win over Livonia Churchill. It was the first time in Canton track history they beat the school.

The Salem girls track team held their banquet Thursday.

Freshman Kristen Hostynski received Salem's most improved player award.

"Kristen had to learn to hurdle and high jump and she did them both well," said Salem coach Fred Thomann.

She took fifth in the 300 low hurdles at the league meet.

The most valuable player awards went to seniors Kelly Bemiss and Dawn Johnson.

Thomann said Johnson had a great year, placing eighth in the long jump at the state tournament, and running 26:58 in the 220-meter dash. She also ran well in the 440 and 880 yard relays.

Bemiss took third in the league in the long jump and also ran well in all three Salem relays - the 440, 880 and mile, Thomann said.

Inexperience limits Chiefs

BY JAY KEENAN

Inexperience was one of the major weaknesses that the Canton girls' softball team had this season.

The Chiefs entered the 1984 campaign with seven sophomores and finished the season with only one senior on the roster.

So it wasn't much of a surprise to Canton coach Max Sommerville that the Chiefs, despite their talent, finished with a 6-13 record overall and a 5-7 mark in the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA).

"It went about the way I thought it might go," said Sommerville. "It was a roller coaster season. We had a lot of ups and downs. But I think we got a lot of good experience and I think we'll benefit a lot next year."

One of Canton's high points in the year came in the middle of the season when it pulled off impressive league victories over Walked Lake Western and Salem.

On May 7, the Chiefs stunned the Warriors by rallying for six runs in the final inning to beat Western 7-6. Then on May 9, Canton upset WLAA power Salem, 13-6. That win spoiled the Rocks' chance to share the WLAA title with Livonia Stevenson.

The Chiefs had three players on the first team all-Western division squad. They were: outfielder Margaret Gilligan, infielder Laura Darby and pitcher Monika Benedict. Benedict led Canton in hitting with a .326 mark. She was followed by Darby (.308) and Gilligan (.276).

"I think we should have a good basis for next year," said Sommerville. "We have some good athletes. One of the keys will be if our pitchers work—if we develop some good consistent pitching. If we stay under five walks per game, we should be alright. Walks really hurt us this year."

"I thought we were on our way after that, but I guess I was too optimistic," laughed Sommerville.

Tracksters praised

The coaches award went to junior Mary Beth Weast who participated in four events: the discuss, the mile relay, the 880 relay and the 440 meter run.

Thomann called Weast "a great competitor" who works hard and trains well.

Thomann said he is very proud of the team and is hopeful about next year.

"We'll take the kids that come back and continue developing them to their maximum ability," he said.

Curiosities

Phyllis,
I sure do like your chair. It is so comfortable!

Thanks, Arnie

P.S. I really didn't know it was your chair.

Who's on first, what's on second, I'm on hold.

Arnie,
Just because I got your desk doesn't mean you get my chair.

Phyllis

David — Welcome back to Plymouth.

The Hines are coming! The Hines are coming!

BARB, I didn't mean to complain about the blue chalk marks on the tires, the tickets and the frequent, "Can you move your car?" inquiries, but YOU ASKED me how I felt about the inequity of our treatment versus the workers on the city's deck project. — Your friend.

WE ENJOYED Sara Christopher's birthday ballet recital.

DID YOU VOTE Monday in the school elections?

KENN CHRISTOPHER is ready Win. He's 39 — or is it 40? Maybe 45?
