Goodfellows hit streets this Saturday

This Saturday, the Goodfellows' tradition of selling newspapers to raise money for families less fortunate than others will continue in The Plymouth-Canton Community.

The Goodfellows will be at street corners in Plymouth and Canton Saturday working towards their goal of "no child without a Christmas."

The Goodfellows have been raising money for families during the holidays in Plymouth since 1938, when Harry Robinson organized the group. In Canton, the Goodfellows have been organized since 1951, after Robert Waldecker decided that a group was needed in Canton after working for the Plymouth Goodfellows.

Both community's Goodfellow organizations work the same way. Goodfellow members collect money from community residents in the streets, and the funds will be used to provide dinners, clothing, toys and other items for families.

The cartoon, above, that started the Old Newsboys Goodfellow paper sale was drawn by Burt Thomas of the Detroit News more than 55 years ago. Plymouth and Canton Goodfellows could still use volunteers for the Dec. 6 sale. In Plymouth, call 459-0791, in Canton call 453-5659.

A review committee evaluating the film "The Breakfast Club" upheld the use of the movie in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools under certain conditions as outlined in a report released Monday.

The committee report noted that the film "can serve a legitimate educational purpose when done in the proper educational environment."

That environment, the report suggests, is one which provides appropriate introduction and follow-up to the viewing of the film. The committee also recommended that use of the movie "must have a direct relationship to the goals and objectives of the subject area and district."

The report goes on to say use of the movie should be restricted to psychology classes at Centennial Educational Park (CEP).

Other suggested conditions include parental consent for all students under the age of 17, audience restriction to grades 10-12 and monitoring by a building administrator.

The five-member committee admitted there was "no hard and fast rule for making this decision," and called their own recommendation strictly a judgment call "based upon all of the reviewed material."

The committee met five times, beginning on Nov. 3 and ending on Nov. 24, before filing its report with the district administration.

The committee, chaired by district administrator Patrick O'Donnell, also included teacher Olivia Way, librarian Carol Tate, and parents Betty Nanney and Dr. Richard Cummings.

The film was reviewed after resident Diane Daskalakis filed a request for reconsideration of educational resources on Oct. 6. She objected to its use in a psychology class because of the profanity and the use of marijuana by students in the school library in the

Rocks win; advance to regional final

Using a good transition game, Salem's girl's basketball squad crushed Taylor Central Tuesday night, 66-41, in the Class A Regional Semi's at Gibraltar Carlson.

The Rocks will play the winner of the Trenton-Adrian contest for the regional crown on Thursday, Dec. 4. Game time is 7 p.m.

"We played pretty good once we got into our rhythm," said Salem coach Fred Thomann. "I feel really good, we get to play on Thursday."

Despite some sloppy offensive play in the first quarter, the Rocks jumped out to a slim 14-6 lead.

Salem opened a 22-point lead, 37-15, going into the locker room at the half. The Rocks broke it wide open with a 14 point run in the final three minutes of the first half. Jill Estey and Jessica Handley led Salem with six and eight points respectively.

The Rocks kept up the pounding in the second half, although the Rams refused to quit trying everything including long range jump shots. But Handley, Estey, Dena Head and company continued to dominate the pace of the game as well as the boards and led 49-31 going into the final stanza.

Head led Salem in scoring with 23 points including 13 in the second half, while Handley pumped in 20 and Estey added eight.

Salem fans can get to Carlson by taking I-75 to the Gibraltar road exit. Turn east on Gibraltar to Jefferson road and then turn south. The high school is located on the west side of Jefferson about a half mile south of Gibraltar.

The Third Annual "Baskets Full of Love" Telethon will kick off at noon this Saturday, Dec. 6 on Omnicom Cablevision channel 8.

The fund raising effort is sponsored by Omnicom for the Salvation Army in cooperation with the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce. The telethon is the final push of a four-week drive to collect food for the needy in The Plymouth-Canton Community. Last year, 72,000 canned and dry goods were collected.

There are "Love" boxes throughout the community for canned goods to be dropped off.

The live telethon will be emceed by Sandy Preblich, of Canton, and J.P. McCarthy, of WJR radio. The telethon will feature such celebrities as: Mother Waddles; George "Dick the Bruiser" Baier, of WLLZ radio; Kevin O'Neill, of WMOC radio; Debra Danko and Dina Harding, of WWWW radio; Rosetta Hines, of WJZZ radio; Carl Coffey, of WRIF radio; Ray Lane, of WKBD sports; Brad Bianchi, of WWJ radio; Gary Cubberly, of WJBK TV2 "Sunday Times;" Kathy Adams, of WJBK news and Steve Garagiola, of WXYZ sports.

Cantonites in the dark

If you had problems finding your way around your own house Monday night, you weren't the only one.

Approximately 1,400 Canton residents were without power Monday night for about 2½ hours, after a Detroit Edison powerline was downed at Ford and Lilley roads at 6 p.m.

A Detroit Edison spokesperson said that heavy winds may have knocked the line down.

Prizes will be given away during the telethon, including Pistons tickets and tote bags, a Red Wing hockey stick signed by team members, original paintings, gift certificates, sweaters and a television set. T-shirts will be given away to the first 200 children who come to see Santa between 1-3 p.m. at Omnicom studios. Children and their parents are encouraged to bring canned goods to the studio.

Omicom is at 8465 Ronda Drive, south of Joy Road between Haggerty and Lilley roads.

For more information about the telethon, call Telethon Chairman Pete Smith, or Program Director Maria Holmes at Omnicom at 459-7321, or Captain Larry Manzella of the Salvation Army at 453-5464.

Think ice

The only thing that can prevent Plymouth's 1987 Ice Sculpture Spectacular from continuing to grow will be a warm blast of air from the south.

So, at Monday night's city commission meeting, the commissioners passed the official resolution for the ice show to go as planned January 8-16, and at the same time said a small prayer for lots of cold weather for that week.

And if Mother Nature plays her part, the fifth annual event should be larger than ever. With organizers expecting more than half a million spectators, a special sesquicentennial centerpiece, and ice carvers and chefs from all around the globe the 10-day winter extravaganza has all the makings for a huge success.

This week applications are being accepted from professional chefs and ice carvers for the event, which is being sponsored by the Miesel/Sysco Company. Chefs from as far as Japan are scheduled to show their ice work at the show.

But the main attraction will be the special ice sculpture sponsored by the Michigan Sesquicentennial Committee, and Department of Commerce.

With a $5,000 grant from the committee, plans are in the works for a carving entitled "Symphony on Ice," featuring carvings of more than 30 musical instruments on stage, with taped music and composition written specially for the 150th anniversary party.

Organizers say for the second consecutive year, the Spectacular was named to the "Top 100 events in North America."

Teachers' grievance denied

BY KEN VOYLES

The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education denied a grievance filed by the teachers union (Plymouth-Canton Education Association) over article 15 of their contract on Monday.

The grievance, filed Oct. 30, was unanimously rejected by the Board 7-0. Article 15 relates to academic freedom in the school system.

In the grievance, the teacher's union requested the administration follow its own procedures over controversial materials in district classrooms.

The grievance also requested the recinding of a memo written by district Superintendent John M. Hoben and given to other administrators.

In supporting the motion Board Vice-President David Artley said the district was again using its procedures and that Hoben's letter was nothing more than a restatement of existing policy.

"The superintendent has already done one of the things they sought by putting the procedure back in place," he said. "I support the motion."

Board member Dean Swartzwelter said, "I'm aware of the concern on everyone's part that we preserve academic freedom in the district, but we have to look at the parameters of academic freedom and where they collide with individual rights."

He added that the grievance, and all of the concerns raised by local residents, was an "honest and forthright attempt to give visibility" to the procedure.

"I'm reluctant to change the rules in the middle of the game," he said. "At some point we might want to call a timeout and change the rules."

He suggested forming a screening committee up front to look at complaints over educational resources and channel them into the already established procedures.

"The basic procedure is effective and adequate," Swartzwelter said. "But weekly complaints are just too much of a work drain."

Artley also said the suggestion of looking at a change in the procedures was an "interesting" one.

More students in P-C Schools

An unaudited version of the state's fourth Friday student count for October indicates a small increase in the number of students attending schools in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools.

According to the report, dated Nov. 17, there are 15,519 full time students in the district and 412 part time students for a total of 15,931.

That figure represents an increase of 204 over the previous year -- 176 in the day school and 28 in the night school.

According to Superintendent John M. Hoben the district budgeted for 15,800 students this school year.

In undercover operation

Ply. stores reported to LCC

BY T.M. SMITH

Three party stores in Plymouth were reported to Michigan's Liquor Control Commission last week following an undercover operation by the City of Plymouth Police.

The one-night investigation involved eight stores in the city, with a teenager attempting to purchase alcohol from the businesses. Three of the eight stores investigated were reported as selling alcohol without checking the minor's identification.

Police Chief Richard Myers said the results of the investigation have been turned over to the Liquor Control Commission (LCC), and further action would be left to them.

He said the investigation was prompted by complaints from citizens. Those stores complained against, however, were not the stores caught selling to minors.

He added that the city could prosecute the clerks at the three stores, but probably wouldn't at this time.

The three stores the police reported as selling to the minors were: Beyer's Drug Store on Main and Mill streets the Beyer's store located on Ann Arbor Road, along with Farmer Jack's on Main Street.

In all three cases a 19-year-old member of the Plymouth Police Department entered the store and purchased beer, without ID being checked by the clerk. The legal age in Michigan to buy alcohol is 21 years of age.

At the other five stores involved the ID was checked and purchase refused.

"We did not use any trickery with this investigation. We used a person that was obviously underage, used their real I.D. and just went about this in a very fair way," Myers said.

He said his department worked with the LCC in planning this investigation for several months.

Success or failure, however, is difficult to gauge with these types of infractions.

"The idea is to stop the sale of alcohol to minors," he said. "I guess if all eight stores would have refused to sell that would have been a success, but if they all sold that can be a success too because we can catch them."

Myers said he was not sure what action the LCC would take in the cases, but he said a new law was passed recently that would revoke liquor licenses from stores that are caught selling to minors three times in a two-year period. Myers also said that this would be the first of ongoing investigations into these matters.

The five stores who refused to sell to the minor were: Bill's Market, Danny's Foods, Dimitri's Party Pantry, Mayflower Party Store and Lawson's.

Terrorism hits home

BY KEN VOYLES

President Reagan may have given ground in the battle against terrorism, but the Plymouth-Canton Board of Education is determined to make its own statement.

Nov. 25, the Board unanimously passed a resolution adjusting its policy on travel outside of North America "in view of terrorist actions against Americans."

The resolution, which updates the district's position on school-related travel, will become official after the next regular meeting of the Board when it is voted on for a second time.

It reads in part, "Until further notice this district will neither encourage nor approve such travel by any school-related group."

It also states that any in-school solicitation for such travel is "expressly prohibited" and the district will disassociate itself from any group travel outside of North America.

Schools save on gas

According to Superintendent John M. Hoben the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools will save approximately $100,000 this year, depending on the price of natural gas, by direct purchase and transportation.

At the Nov. 25 regular meeting the Board of Education authorized entering into contracts with Consumers Power Company for furnishing transportation of gas to facilities in the district.

The Board also entered an agreement with EMC Gas Transmission Company for the direct purchase of natural gas.

Treasurer Brown reported that he and John Spencer had finished the consolidated tax note for $8,000,000. It will be in our possession until Monday, December 1 and will be forwarded to the school district when it is due. Appreciation was given to John Spencer for all his help on this matter.

Citizens Forum: No discussion.

Consent Calendar: None.

Item 1. Allegation against Trustee. Clerk Chuhran placed item on the agenda. Padget requested affidavit be read into the record if allegations are directed to himself. Padget again requested that the sworn affidavit be read into the record for the Clerk's protection before she speaks any further in case any allegations are to be made.

Affidavit signed by Kay Frances Padget.

"Kay Frances Padget being fully duly sworn proposes and says as follows:

1. She is the wife of Canton Township Trustee, Robert Melvin Padget.

2. That recently a local newspaper falsely demarche a chain of events between my husband and myself. This newspaper article contains misinformation that was totally misleading and portrays these purely personal events in a manner in which they did not occur.

By publishing these allegations, the newspaper has violated all standards of journalism and is guilty of unethical conduct.

4. That while my husband is a dedicated public official and must accept such irresponsible journalism practices, I am not so hindered. I have directed my legal counsel to pursue all available avenues to insure that others not subject to this same unethical journalism action.

5. That further, I request that the Board of Trustees please retain custody of the tape recordings of this meeting to facilitate discovered proceedings and any resulting litigation. Further affidavit says not.

Sworn and Subscribed to me the 24th day of November, and so forth...."

Chuhran stated she can relate to that affidavit. However, allegations have been made and thinks they are serious and feels the Board cannot sweep these allegations "under the carpet" or go unnoticed by this body.

Padget requested that Chuhran state clearly for the record who is making the allegations and if she is making such allegations.

Chuhran stated that she is not making such allegations. As a point of order, Chuhran stated she had the floor and addressed Chairman, Stephen Larson. Larson then addressed the parliamentarian, Bob Padget. Padget stated Chair is obligated to make a ruling, then ruling can be appealed to the parliamentarian. Larson stated he was reluctant to stop any member of this Board from making statements. However, he would not allow in his capacity as Supervisor tonight, this to become a platform for politicking and unfounded accusations.

Chuhran stated "Do you think a question or shadow of doubt that has been put upon the Board on decision making policies that reflect the citizens of this community as well as developers, etc, that are here on agenda items that proceed this one, are of of significance importance?"

Larson responded: If someone as alleged an act, whom is the person alleging? Is it anonymous because anonymous allegations bear no weight.

Chuhran stated it is not anonymous. It is the same person who submitted the affidavit.

Padget inquired if Chuhran was saying the affidavit was signed under stress and pressure. Chuhran said she had no way of knowing this.

Padget again requested that tape be saved. Chuhran complied.

Larson reiterated that again if Kay Padget is making anonymous allegations the affidavit disputes this. This is a matter for the Police Chief and any other person wishing to file charges and is not a matter for this Board.

Padget made statement to the effect that statements in the newspaper were false in content and implication. This is unfortunate because damages incurred cannot be undone. The moral obligation of the newspaper to search for truth has also been violated. An investigation of legal recourse is being conducted. Because of possible litigation against the newspaper and its stand it is prudent that no further comments be made.

Item 2. Public Hearing -- Hannan Road Special Sanitary sewer Assessment District. Public Hearing declared open.

Residents, Joseph Gembala raised his objections to the special assessment He has been a resident for over thirty years and does not feel there is a problem.

Charles Collins, representing Glen McDonough stated he is purchasing two pieces of property from McDonough and has a proxy vote in his pocket. He indicated there have been no problems for either himself or the previous occupants.

Casari informed the Board that 52% - 54% of the residents were in favor of the project as of a few weeks ago. However, last week additional residents contacted the Twp. Offices showing disapproval. Mr. Casari felt an additional tally should be taken.

Mr. Bishop and a few other residents were also present at the meeting and were opposed to this project.

Further discussion regarding a resident who was not in attendance tonight took place between Prencizky and a speaker from the audience. Prencizky indicated that he talked to the resident in question earlier, and that he also was against this project.

Item No. 6 - Wingate Site Plan Approval - Dave Nicholson reported that Wingate would be submitting another set of plans on November 26, 1986. Larson feels matter should not be acted on at this time as staff approval has not been given.

Discussion followed by Mike Schmidt regarding the Wingate project. Schmidt advised that they have tried to meet all requirements that the Planning Board and Board of Trustees have made.

Two residents expressed their views regarding the Wingate project.

Larson informed those present that the original site plan was approved over two year's ago and approval was also given to rezoning the property. However, plans are only good for two years, and that was done in 1984. Board also extended site plan approval. There is some question as to whether the twp. can grant another extension. Item was placed on the agenda, without engineering giving approval on the site plan.

Motion by Chuhuran to approve the project pending engineering procedures to support given. Motion dies for lack of support.

Daskalakis seeks support in crusade

BY KEN VOYLES

A study of complaints filed by Diane Daskalakis for a reconsideration of educational resources used in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools better reveals the extent of her support in the community.

Although Daskalakis filed each complaint as an individual, in each instance she also mentioned the existence of anywhere from 600 to 675 signed petitions from "adults and taxpayers" who agree with her position on the film "The Breakfast Club" as well as three other films and two books.

In the complaint over "The Breakfast Club," Daskalakis wrote that "we are still gathering signatures," and she expects to eventually reach a minimum of 2,000.

During a recent interview, however, she said, "We're not looking for any more signatures at the present time but we expect to get more."

She also explained that she was organizing her supporters into an action committee to increase pressure on the school district.

"And we think it will help other people become more active," she said. "We'll be filing for a committee name soon."

Harenda is school Extra Miler

Kathy Harenda was picked as the "Extra Miler" winner by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education on Monday, Nov. 24.

Harenda has been with the school district for nine years. The teacher has taught at Field Elementary, Bird Elementary and currently at Isbister Elementary.

She was cited for her involvement in school functions, such as her role as the publicity chairman for the 1986 country picnic and her innovative ideas including organizing Isbister's walk for the Statue of Liberty restoration fund.

Recently, she organized an Isbister academic talent fair, a production which will again be held this year. She is also currently promoting and organizing a new science program at Isbister.

Harenda is also a Sunday school teacher and is active in children's play productions in Plymouth. She is an active member of the American Association of University Women.

She was nominated by both the Isbister staff and the Parent-Teacher Organization.

From studying her complaints it is clear Daskalakis' supporters are in full agreement with her efforts and opinions. About "The Breakfast Club" she wrote, "All people I have talked with agree with the above and have stated so by signing petitions."

On another complaint form she wrote that she can supply a letter from a practicing and accredited psychologist which calls the movie "The Sword and the Sorcerer" an "anti-human" film.

And on another complaint -- over the book "Rules for Radicals" -- she wrote, "One doctor that I showed this to stated that the book is full of misquotes and misrepresentation."

In each case, Daskalakis suggested there were no redeeming qualities in the materials she objected to. She also sought, in each case, to have the materials withdrawn from use by all students.

Besides complaints over profanity and drug use, Daskalakis also found the various materials full of devil worship, occult and witchcraft practices, violence and anti-Christian points of view.

She also complained that Zen Buddhism was being actively taught in the district in the CEP course "Zen and Emerson."

Daskalakis hinted, in the interview conducted last week, that she was planning to file further complaints over materials used at both the high school and middle school level.

"We've haven't filed anything new lately," she said. "But there are things which need to be looked at. And we will."

As for why she is trying to rid the district of what she alleges is inappropriate material, Daskalakis had this to say -- "We hold our heavenly father even above our own children."

How you can help Be a goodfellow

The Plymouth and Canton Goodfellows will be hitting the streets this Saturday, working towards a truly worthy goal of helping others in the community.

You can help the Goodfellows realize that goal. Instead of driving past the Goodfellows on the local street corners, stop and donate, no matter how little the amount. The donation you make will insure that another child in our community will be happier in this season of giving.

Too often, we are thankful of the gifts we receive in life while neglecting those who are less fortunate. There are children in The Plymouth-Canton Community who may not know the joy and wonder of finding presents on Christmas morning, or the warmth of a hot holiday dinner with their family.

The Plymouth-Canton Community has distinguished itself as a caring, giving community, as witnessed by the annual success of the Community Fund.

Help make this holiday season a special one for those who are less fortunate in our most-fortunate community.

Give to the Goodfellows this Saturday.

Plymouth manger should be moved

EDITOR:

In a recent decision involving the city of Birmingham, the federal Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals held that a nativity scene displayed by a city government on public property violates the principle of separation of church and state.

Other communities in the Detroit area have recognized this, and either removed the scenes or transferred them to private ownership.

Plymouth has not, and has again used public resources to espouse a particular religion.

I have great respect for religious symbols and values. My friends and neighbors here are testament to the values instilled by Plymouth's families and churches. Living in an overwhelmingly Christian society is a fact of life for religious minorities, but I am happy to find thoughtfulness, tolerance, and mutual respect thriving here in Plymouth.

Academic freedom lives

Score one for academic freedom.

The committee which reviewed the movie "The Breakfast Club" upheld its use in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools despite pressure from narrow-minded individuals who sought to ban it as inappropriate in a classroom setting.

By allowing the film to be shown (in psychology classes at least) the five-member committee struck a strong blow against those who wish to control what goes on in district classrooms and in the minds of students.

It wasn't an easy decision to make but the committee turned in a worthy effort, compromising on the issue to satisfy both those who believe the teacher has a right to use controversial materials and those who believe R-rated films should not be shown in high school or middle school classes.

At the end of its report the committee quoted a passage from the Journal of Law and Education (October 1983) which puts the matter in a better perspective.

It reads: "Materials are not irrelevant merely because they are controversial. The central issue is whether it aids the student in understanding the subject and whether or not the material is reasonable in light of the level of maturity of pupils and objectives of the course material."

THE COMMUNITY CRIER

Indeed, I would have no objection to seeing Plymouth's nativity scene on the front lawn of any private home, church, business, or organization that chose to display it.

But the city has no business promoting anyone's religion, even if it is the religion of the overwhelming majority. Jewish, Moslem, Hindu or agnostic parents should not have to explain to their children why the government has chosen to tell, symbolically in Kellogg Park, the story of the birth of Jesus.

The Christmas holiday season has become a national and secular institution. We all share in and benefit by a national holiday that reaffirms peace and good will. But families and churches, and not the city, should be telling the story of the religious significance of Christmas.

Plymouth should follow the lead of its sister communities. Let the Nativity scene be displayed by a private organization, and not by the city.

Joe Sabo, police honest

EDITOR:

Recently my husband and I renewed our belief in honesty, human kindness and civic pride, and we would like to share this experience with your readers.

On Nov. 15, we returned home from an evening out for dinner. Later that evening we were greeted at our front door by Officers Ochal and Kahanec from the Plymouth Police Department who returned to me a wallet containing money and credit cards which I had not been aware was missing. Apparently the wallet dropped from my purse during the evening and was found by Plymouth resident Joe Sabo. Mr. Sabo was instrumental in seeing that the wallet was turned over to the police intact, who promptly returned the wallet to its rightful owner.

While I have been in contact with Mr. Sabo and offered a small token of my sincere thanks for his kindness and honesty, I also wanted to publicly thank Mr. Sabo and Officers Ochal and Kahanec for their extra efforts.

Plymouth is a wonderful community in which to live and when I think of this experience I will remember the genuine smile on the faces of Officers Ochal and Kahanec in being able to bring a happy ending to this story.

Skene praised

EDITOR:

This letter is a thank you to the Plymouth Cultural Center.

As you may already know, our daughter coordinated and promoted a dance for the 6th, 7th and 8th grade students in The Plymouth-Canton Community. The Nov. 14 dance was a big success with over 400 students attending. The assistance we received from the Plymouth Cultural Center made this dance possible.

We would like to express our sincere thanks to the Plymouth Cultural Center and especially to Chuck Skene, Carol Donnelly and Tom Willette.

We are continuing to work with the Cultural Center and the schools to establish a regular dance for this age group. If anyone is interested in assisting us, please feel free to contact us at 455-5353.

In the Margin

By Ken Voyles

There is another side to the chemical dependency story which is often overlooked by the media in its efforts to publicize the national drug problem.

That is the effects on the family of the chemically dependent person.

It is all too easy to zero in on the trials and tribulations of those with a substance abuse problem and forget, or ignore, what it means to their families.

The term most often used to describe the problems faced by parents and siblings of those with a problem is "co-dependency."

Dale Yagiela, at Growth Works, contends that co-dependency must be addressed along with the individual's own substance troubles.

He suggests the real measure of a student's drug problem is how "crazy" the parents and rest of the family begin to feel.

"The kids get lost in the disease and the parents get pushed away," he says.

Even more so the families of chemically dependent youths are torn between trusting their child or confronting the issue and tackling a touchy subject which often makes for more discord and less understanding.

Parents have to deal with the problem as well as a guilt complex that may be even more damaging (to them at least). Guilt comes in to play when the parents question themselves and blame their child's problem on their inabilities.

Molding, or teaching, a child is an important task. Those who discover their son or daughter have a drug problem wonder where they went wrong in bringing up the youth.

Thus, guilt over what they perceive to be their own failure.

"We wondered where we went wrong," said John O'Connor, sr., father of a recovering youth. "I asked myself what had I done. Maybe I spent too much time away from him. The what ifs begin to get to you."

His wife, Clare, added, "We figured all the bad behavior we saw was just a phase of growing up. It got to a point where we knew something was wrong but we didn't know what.

"It was easier to avoid fights than confront him," she continued.

So instead John and Clare held their concerns (and anger) inside, creating still more problems.

"We were always on the defensive," John said. "And I felt like a detective trying to discover what was wrong with my son."

"Everything was crazy," Clare explained. "Nothing made sense with our family. We protected him and trusted him and just contributed to the problem."

When their son went into treatment the O'Connor's felt even more insecure, and worried about the reactions of their family, friends and co-workers as it became clear their son was a drug abuser.

It was during treatment that the couple found out their son loved drugs more than he loved them. "That actually was the turning point in his recovery according to the people at the treatment center," Clare said.

Clare added that her own co-dependency reached its peak when her son went to treatment. "I couldn't let go. I wanted to pamper him instead of let him get on with the treatment he needed."

The couple became less defensive about the problem when they realized they weren't the only family facing substance abuse. "Until the treatment we really didn't think it happened to others," said John. "We felt alone with the problem."

Today there is a complete turnaround in family life for the O'Connor's. Their son is open, honest, loves to do things with his parents and sisters and works daily to stay away from chemicals and the entangling dependencies.

"We are once again a family," said Clare.

At Facevalue

By T.M. Smith

A Grinch in our midst

For the last couple weeks I have gone through a strange, but yearly ritual.

On Sunday morning, I throw off the covers, rip open my sash and run to the front door to grab the morning paper. Tearing past the news, comics and even sports pages I zero in on the TV listings.

Quickly, I rifle through each and every day looking for one special event of the season.

But so far, this search has ended in disappointment. Maybe next week I will find the target of my zaniness. Maybe next week the bigwig TV producers will find room for the show that will assure me the Christmas season has officially arrived.

Because, you see, The Holiday's do not arrive in full bloom around my house until one special show hits the airwaves. It is a show that gives me hope, encouragement and laughter. A true classic in its own right.

By now, I'm sure you're aware that the show I speak of, is of course "How the Grinch Stole Christmas"

This show marks the official start of Christmas to me -- and not a second sooner.

In fact, at the tender and impressionable age of 23, I watch all of the Christmas cartoons.

The only difference is that my egg nog tastes different now than when I was nine.

I've never really figured out why a person who has never even been to Who-ville, would act this way for a 30-minute animated cartoon written by a doctor who writes in rhyme -- but I do.

My only defense is that, at least my movie has not been banned or censored in our schools. (A shot I really couldn't resist.)

Maybe this Seuss classic stands in my mind because of my tendencies towards acting like the Grinch at times near Christmas. It gives me hope in times of need.

Until I see my annual showing of the green-skinned goon dressed like Santa, it becomes difficult to swallow all of commercial Christmas.

Each time I see that little guy, with his head not screwed on tight...and his shoes a little too tight -- I know there is hope for all the Grump-a-lumps in the world.

Here is the Grinch -- a guy who hates the Yuletide Season more than anyone -- and he finds room at the end for all the Whos down in Who-ville.

This little guy gets the strength of ten men, and his heart grows three sizes in one day.

So, I guess it isn't so hard for me to put up with mothers bearing strollers and crying babys, and using the baby buggys as battering rams in crowded malls. (I can only assume they couldn't find a babysitter)

And I guess I should understand when people forget to say a simple "thanks" when a door is opened for them, or "excuse me" when they throw a cross-body block while trying to get the last blender on sale.

After all it is Christmas time, and there is no place for me to turn into the Grinch.

So, I guess I'll just have to stay away from all the malls, the real-life Grinches and suicide shoppers and shop here in friendly Plymouth -- where I can cut roast beast for everyone.

Because, in the words of the Grinch "Maybe Christmas doesn't come from a store. Maybe Christmas -- perhaps -- means a little bit more."

Does City suck leaves?

EDITOR:

What happened to the D.P.W.'s leaf collection system?

Here it is the beginning of December, the leaves have gently wasted to the ground in bounteous heaps, we've had our first TWO snowfalls of the season and the leaves are still rotting in the streets (that is those that haven't blown back into our yards).

My grandmother is on the Senior Citizen's Home Chore Worker's list. Early this month, hordes of pink cheeked young people descended upon her address, raking their hearts out, at the taxpayer's expense.

Needless to say, over two weeks later and after two phone calls to the D.P.W. ("you're next on our list"), the leaves remained -- until today, when I found out that my grandmother (in her 70's and deserving of the chore services) had spent almost all day in the street with a broom and rake bagging 14 bags of trash. When I asked her why she just didn't leave the compost where it was she said "when the snow falls, the plow will just push it back on the sidewalk and those kids will have a real mess to shovel."

Unfortunately I feel she was probably right. I hate to see the chore workers' efforts and our tax dollars put to such waste. I only wish that the City's DPW was as motivated to keep Plymouth's streets as clean as my grandmother does!

While Hoben diddles with budgets, Devil plays

EDITOR:

Ms. (Diane) Daskalakis claims 700 unnamed followers. Unbeknownst and unsolicited by her, she can make that 701.

The very fabric of our community is being torn apart by devil worshipping, over sexed, amoral and immoral stepchildren of the dark.

You might say, "Ah, come on, now." I say, "Crawl out of your protective little shell and look around at your little world. Satan, his handmaidens and handmistresses are everywhere trying to get you and anything else they can lay their hot little breath on. And this is the real thing."

Like my minister says, "Who's paranoid now?"

Look what's happened to our community in the last few years. Such new businesses as FIREstone; Cinema 6 (a direct allusion to the antichrist, but missing a couple "6"s to confuse the uninitiated, shame on you Damien); Midas Muffler, obviously a reference to the diabolical power of Lucifer over a poor misguided, albeit greedy king who was hung up on gold; not to mention the Rainbow Shop, the death of Butterflies Bistro, Peter Rockwell's monster sculptures, the Ice Sculptures and the Balloon Festival, all references too obvious to mention.

Adding insult to perdition, did you happen to notice the predominant color in Plymouth's first-ever Thanksgiving parade? Need I say more? Just look at the color of Sant's clothes. And, by the way, if you move the "n" in "Santa" to the end of the word, well, it doesn't spell "Shirley Temple," baby.

Now let's look at our schools:

That dragon in the library was no mere oriental sign of good luck. I contend it was put up in the dark of night by Satan's cohorts to whisper in the ears of unsuspecting students. "Hey, watch 'Breakfast Club,'" or, "There's a lot of cool fire in 'Casablanca,'" or, "Casablanca" was really supposed to be named 'Casa Diablo'."

We'll never know how many cigarettes were smoked and how many games of Pac Man were played, and how many middle schoolers lied about their age to get into PG-13 movies at Cinema 6 because of that dragon.

Talk about trouble in River City, and it's spelled with a D. Unfortunately the same first letter as Ms. Daskalakis' name, which, of course, is only a coincidence.

The community, and perhaps even Ms. D. are probably not even aware of some of the hidden Satanistic practices in our school system. What would the sincere Christian have to say about the "catapult contest" in Canton's RED and white gym? Or, the study of Islam by the Senior's Humanities class?

Last time I looked, dear reader, Islam was not Christian. And God only knows what they're doing in auto shop and culinary arts. The Christian mind boggles.

At least we have an ex-Navy man in charge of security.

Did you ever wonder why every single student who seeks to graduate from our high school has to take swimming, when water has been a symbol for sex-in-all literature?

The Devil has been playing, while (Dr. John M.) Hoben and (Michael) Homes were just diddling around with budgets. Shame on you, boys. Maybe you were just taking the easy way out since the Devil doesn't belong to the union.

Until now we have ignored these manifestations of the Devil in all our communities. Look at the spread of AIDS, the pervasiveness of pornography, Bo's rotten Bowl record. Can we explain these away as mere coincidences? I think not.

What we need is more of Doug Flutie's "Hail Mary" passes and less teacher in-service.

It's time for concerned Christians to get off their holy premises and put Ms. D. on the School Board where she thinks she belongs, even if it takes the impeachment of any of our current members. They associate Christmas too much with Santa and not enough with the Little Drummer Boy.

Let's have a groundswell of support and get our holy number up to 705 or maybe 710, or 711.

If you're not interested, you can write some more letters to the editor. Expose Satan to the public, or we could just form another Citizen's Committee, or scrap the whole thing and have Gallagher in for the Senior Prom.

NAME WITHHELD

Canton's classy club welcome

Take a little walk with Eddie. Let him show you around the place and describe what he has in mind. Then, maybe you'll believe it this time.

Walk around with him at the Center Stage night club in Canton, and keep reminding yourself that others have come before him, complete with good intentions, but short of whatever it takes to keep the place alive and trouble-free.

Eddie Morelli is the newest name attached to Center Stage; or more recently Danceteria, and he's got some big plans for the club. He's talking Eddie Fisher and Connie Stevens and the types of names you see in Las Vegas or Atlantic City, but not in Canton, Michigan.

"Right now, the Premier Center (in Sterling Heights) is the only game in town," Morelli says. Listen to him tell you about Canton's great location -- it's proximity to Ann Arbor, Metro Airport, Detroit, and points north -- and try not to envision crowds of suburbanites packing the place for shows they don't have to drive miles to see.

A classy night club in Canton? Why not?

Eddie is more assertive than "Why not?" in his plans for success in Canton. He's run clubs before, and he's got connections with "the business" to get big name entertainment to Canton. His wife, Therese, will be the manager of the place and Morelli will be general manager.

The owner of the club, John Sassak, says the place is for sale, but there are no firm deals in the works right now. Sassak must feel a sense of relief in the signing of Morelli to a management contract that calls for a complete change of format.

The biggest change in format will be the change in clientele. Unless something is going on that I don't know about, crowds of teenagers will not be giving up weekend doings to see the likes of Pat Boone and Connie Stevens. Neighbors of Center Stage/Danceteria will appreciate that fact.

Sassak will appreciate that, too. He has had his share of problems with youth at Danceteria, most of whom are from outside The Plymouth-Canton Community, he says. "That's a tough age group to manage," he says. "If we

To The Point

By Dan Ness

had only Plymouth-Canton kids; it would be no problem at all."

The most appreciative group in Canton will probably be the township officials. One more than one occasion, the Board of Trustees has listened to plans for a regenerated night club on that spot, and have wondered aloud if the managers will be able to handle the problems associated with large crowds of adolescents.

The board has also seen high hopes brought down to earth by repeated police calls to the club.

A year ago, the board was listening to proposals by Sassak to stem the tide of complaints coming from nearby residents. Committees were formed, police took extra care in patrolling the Danceteria area, and in the end, there were still problems, although less than before. There was one incident, however, involving groups of youths fighting each other.

That's why the board -- cynical as it may be at this point -- should be pleased to hear Eddie Morelli's plans for the place. He'll be starting out with a celebrity benefit for local families just before Christmas. He's also talking about senior citizen discounts for the night club, and letting community groups use the club for special events.

This is not a roll-your-eyes-drum-your-fingers type of proposal Morelli has for the board.

After the problems this club has experienced in the past, however well-meaning the management was, Morelli's Canton debut will be welcomed.

And when was the last time you heard of a gang fight at a Pat Boone performance?

Newcomers: 'Thanks'

She gives time for needy

There is a special gift in some people that allows them to pull out every ounce of compassion and thoughtfulness inside of them and bring it to the surface almost every day of the year.

These people seem to live their lives unselfishly, in order to be able to help others, and make a small change in things that are less than positive.

Here in Plymouth there are many of these kinds of people. But few are recognized for their efforts.

Several weeks ago, however, there was at least one such person lauded for the time, energy and kindness she injected into the world -- Thora "Maudie" Alford.

Recently Alford was honored by the Washtenaw Council on Alcoholism, as the Volunteer of the Year for 1986. At a special dinner, Nov. 7 Alford was awarded for her "dedication, cheerfulness and commitment" to the organization she helped during the last year. Including the giving of her free time to help the council when and wherever needed.

But Alford does not stop her efforts with just one group.

For the past 40 years she has been an active member of the First Methodist Church in Plymouth, serving as secretary to the Administrative Council for 20 of those years, and is also a member of the Chapter BC, the P.E.O. Sisterhood, an educational philanthropic organization.

Alford came to Plymouth in the early 1940s, with her husband Art Alford -- who was the principal at Plymouth junior high for many years. After her husband's death she was able to put her two daughters through college, and she turned her home into a haven for college students.

Since her retirement in 1982, Alford has channeled her energy into volunteering her time saying she "was very surprised about the award, I'm very impressed with those people, they are all so caring."

Trading places: P-C students flip with French kids

Twenty students from France, in the Back-to-Back Foreign Exchange program, will be staying with host families from The Plymouth-Canton Community beginning March, 1987.

At the same time a group of community students will fly to France in June, 1987 and stay at the homes of other students in the program.

This is the second year Plymouth-Canton has been involved in the exchange program.

The local students heading to France include Alexis Bohlander, Mat Price, Tiffani Natalini, Andrea Ramsey, Julie Coyle, Suzanne Salo and Megan Barresi, from Allen; Michael Allison, Zack Loiselle, Doug Austin, from Bird; Matt Lee, Erin Skene, Amber Chadwick, Katie Garard, Megan Schidora, Katie Heid, from Smith; Kelly Kirkpatrick, from West Middle School; Kelly Rimmer, Margaret Hodenfield, from Farrand; and Marco Ezio DelPizzo, Shawn Brown, from New Morning School.

The teacher for the class is Randy Lee, while Anria DelPizzo, from New Morning, is the bi-lingual counselor.

In preparation for the trip, the students have been meeting once a week at Allen with their teacher and counselor for lessons in French, and French customs and culture.

Expenses are being paid by the parents of the families and host families are responsible for their visitors. The program, however, is seeking contributions for field trips and transportation.

CEP Perspective earns top honors

The CEP Perspective, the student newspaper for both Canton and Salem High Schools, was recently awarded the highest honor in its seven-year history by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association.

The Perspective received an overall medalist rating as well as three all-Columbian awards for coverage, writing and editing, and business.

The publication received a total of 948 points out of a possible 1,000 to achieve medalist status. To qualify as an all-Columbian, a newspaper must receive 95 per cent of the possible points in each individual category.

The awards place the Perspective in the top four per cent of high school newspapers in the country.

Among those responsible for the success of last year's newspaper are: Brian Crum, Gale Tang, Dawn Miller, Jennifer Benzie, Niki Waters, Laurel Becker, Kelly Sauter, Kate Downes, Angie Schlagheck, Julie Zasadny, Soo Jin Kwon, Karen Sendelbach, John Flower, Mike Zaretti and advisor Sue Welker.

WINNER OF THE WEEK

(Winner of the Week is selected by The Crier Editorial Staff without knowledge of the sponsor. Nominations for this honor may be submitted to The Crier Editorial Staff.)

Tellers at Community Federal Credit Union were able to spend Halloween night with their children, thanks to general manager George Lawton and his administrators. The credit union's top-level staffers took to the teller windows on that Friday night and let the tellers go home early to help with the trick-or-treating.

tell it to Phyllis

Thanksgiving is the beginning of the holiday season, a time of year when we get together with family and friends.

Last Thursday when we gathered at my mom's for the big turkey dinner, there were 19 of us. It's amazing how a house can grow to accommodate a number of people and it didn't even seem crowded.

I'll never understand how mom can organize a big meal for that many people. Maybe that's why I've never cooked a Thanksgiving dinner and she wins the honor every year.

Since my mom, a cousin, and both of my brothers all live in or near the Lansing area it's fairly easy for us to get a good size gang together. All of our kids (nine of them ranging in age from six to 19) have a great time together. In the evening following dinner, dessert and a couple shifts of washing dishes, we had three different card games going. My cousin, Edie and I were the big winners at our table (it's funny how some things never change -- we used to do the same thing back in our college days).

The whole weekend was a special time to see and talk to friends and relatives. My brother-in-law from New York was over for dinner one evening, some friends from Traverse City stopped by on Saturday, I talked to my aunt and uncle in Florida, and received a note from my aunt in California. These are the things that make the holiday season special.

Even having the kid home for part of the weekend was fun. Since all of her friends were home for the holiday, the phone rang constantly. I have to admit, I enjoy having a chance to say hi to her friends when they call.

After a nice, but long weekend, I was extremely thankful to hear that her roommate, Cheri was driving back to school so the kid could ride back with her.

By Sunday afternoon I had one of those sinus headaches and I wasn't in any kind of mood to deal with anyone or anything. As I drove the kid over to Cheri's house, we had an argument. I don't even remember what it was about, but I know it was something really stupid.

There we were stopped at a stop sign with me saying, "I don't care if you don't like me", and the kid looking at me with a smile and saying, "it's okay mom, I still like you". I sounded so dumb I had to laugh too.

However, I didn't laugh long. As I pulled in the driveway, I noticed we had company following us with blue flashing lights. Let me tell you how to impress your daughter's roommate and her parents.

After checking my license and registration, he let me off with a warning about coming to a complete stop at stop signs. After the argument I had just had with the kid, I was thankful I didn't have to try to explain to the nice officer that I did come to a complete stop.

As the girls piled all their stuff in the car and prepared for the drive back to school, both moms called out those always familiar words, "drive carefully". The returned smile said, "thanks, you were a great reminder."

BEAUTIFUL BALI

Bali is one of the Indonesian islands. It is located off the eastern end of Java, separated from that island by a narrow straight. Bali has long been famous for natural scenery, colorful festivals and dances, and the fact that women wear nothing above the waist.

The island is spectacularly beautiful, with the greenest green on earth. There is an east-west mountain chain, with the highest peak rising to 10,500 feet. Most of the peaks in this chain are of volcanic origin, and several are beautifully and almost perfectly coneshaped.

Along with these beautiful mountains, all jungle-covered, there are magnificently terraced rice fields, spice plantations, and vistas of green such as one does not see anywhere else in the world. There is music everywhere, and every village has its dancing group. There are also interesting sights to see on the island, including literally hundreds of Hindu temples. Tourist facilities and programs have also improved greatly in recent years.

Student pulls hoax; gunman poses as cop

BY DAN NESS

Canton police were involved in two bizarre, unrelated cases of falsified identification last week.

The first incident occurred Nov. 25, when a man posing as a Canton police narcotics officer pulled over a car with five passengers in it on Canton Center Road and forced them out at gunpoint, according to police reports.

The man pulled the car over on Canton Center Road just south of Warren at approximately 11 a.m., ran up to the car and pulled out a gun. He ordered the five occupants out of the car, told them to put their hands on the car, and searched them for weapons telling them he was a narcotics officer, according to police.

The man then searched the trunk and ransacked the interior of the car and photographed the car and the five occupants before driving away.

The gun was described as either a .357 or .44-magnum revolver with an eight-inch barrel and a silencer.

Canton police have a suspect, but no arrests have been made in the case.

Last Saturday, in what at first appeared to be a case of a missing psychiatric patient in need of help, turned out to be a college student pulling a hoax for a project.

Canton police reported that an officer noticed a young man sitting on a bench outside the Canton Police Department, and when asked, would not produce any identification or say his name. The youth would not answer questions put to him; and a "poorly typewritten" note he had read "Northville Regional . . . See Mr. Babcock . . . Mr. Babcock."

According to police, the youth was rocking back and forth and preoccupied with his hands, while waiting for the police to call Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital.

A Canton police service personnel officer brought the youth to Northville, and was instructed there to bring him first to the Hegira psychiatric center in Westland. In Westland, a staff psychiatrist questioned the man for "several hours," and determined that he should stay at the center for further examination.

When Canton police called back that night for an update on the youth, they were told that he had revealed that he was a Wayne State University student who was trying to get into the Northville facility for a project he was doing.

Hegira officials would not release the name of the student to police.

Trustee Robert Padget read a signed affidavit from his wife, Kay, at the Nov. 25 Board of Trustees meeting that stated a Community Crier story about a Nov. 16th police report contained "misinformation that was totally misleading."

What is Schools' mission?

BY KEN VOYLES

Administrators in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board are grappling with writing a district-wide mission statement outlining the underlying principles which best describe the district's purpose.

On Monday, the Board of Education took a brief look at feedback from district staff members arising from a rough draft mission statement sent out three weeks ago.

"Most of what they are saying is it's too long, too wordy," said district Superintendent John M. Hoben. "We need to condense it and keep it brief."

Hoben added that once a district-wide statement was in place individual schools could then adopt their own statement based on their unique circumstances.

"We'd like to get some agreement by February so we can have a mission statement," Hoben said. "Right now there is no consistent district statement."

Hoben said the Board needed to be involved since it had "final ownership" of any mission statement. He called such a statement the rudder of a ship, steering it along with the help of crew members.

"I think it should be really short," said Board member Jeannette Wines. "Then each building can embellish on that main purpose."

Board member Lester Walker said the statement should be "basic rather than explanatory."

Among the key elements which need to be in the statement, according to Hoben, are the ideas of excellence, quality, equity and involvement.

Student move delayed

The movement of any more ninth graders to Centennial Educational Park (CEP) will be delayed for the rest of this school year it was revealed Monday night at a Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education workshop.

Due to student population increases the district administration said it would delay moving more students to the two high schools from the remaining middle schools.

The first group of ninth graders were placed at CEP last school year from Central and Lowell. The other middle schools were to have been included in the next two to three years.

"When we started this we left our timetable open for reasons such as this," said Community Relations Director Richard Egli.

Further details on the ninth grade move will be forthcoming at the next regular meeting of the Board on Monday, Dec. 8, according to district Superintendent John M. Hoben.

Group formed to help young adult alcoholics

BY KEN VOYLES

Mike Johnson and Mike Laurette want to help young adults.

The pair -- both Plymouth residents -- have formed a Young Adult Alcoholics Anonymous (A.A.) support group which meets monthly on Thursday and Sunday nights at the Salvation Army and Plymouth Township Hall.

"We found the regular A.A. meetings were intimidating for young adults," said Johnson, 32, and a recovering alcoholic. "And the older people at those meetings just don't want to listen to the kids. It's like they don't want them there."

So Johnson began work with Laurette, a Salem High student and a recovering substance abuser, to organize a meeting designed for younger people as well as older individuals willing to support the young adults.

"We went to the schools and the city and got no help at all," said Johnson. "We went to Plymouth Township and Carl Berry said 'no problem.' He even suggested we use the Township Hall."

The group's first meeting took place two weeks ago and approximately 16 showed up, including an 82-year-old Plymouth resident who called herself a "recycled teenager."

"That's what we're all about," said the 17-year-old Laurette. "We want to get young people involved but we also want anyone interested in supporting young people."

The gatherings are currently listed under A.A. meetings, but the pair said they would change the name of the program if they have to. One of the main A.A. principles is to avoid publicity.

"We plan to be open about this," said Johnson. "But if we have to we'll switch affiliation."

"We would like to get the whole community involved," Laurette said. "The two of us can only do so much. The township and the Salvation Army have been very supportive. And so has Straight Inc."

Eventually the pair would like to hold meetings twice a month at each location. They also want to start a weekend hotline for young adults and may sponsor a "sober" New Year's Eve party.

"I think it's going to work," Johnson said.

"There are some people in this community who don't want to believe there is a problem," said Laurette. "We know there is and we want others to know also."

The pair hopes to reach those with a confirmed substance problem and anyone who thinks they may have been chemically dependent. They are also targeting those who don't understand the nature of what is going on.

"We have been there," said Johnson. "We want to help people come to grips with it. We are not ashamed and we have nothing to hide."

They just want to help.

Perspective on drug abuse Problem?

BY KEN VOYLES

Nearly 60 per cent of the students recently surveyed by CEP Perspective, the student newspaper for both Canton and Salem, believe drug abuse is a problem in today's society.

The 13-question survey represents 221 students chosen at random and includes grades nine through 12 at both Canton and Salem. It was printed in the Nov. 20 edition of the publication.

Fifty-six per cent of the students questioned said they believe today's society does indeed have a drug abuse problem. Another 16 per cent said they did not believe there is a drug problem and another 28 per cent felt there is "somewhat" of a problem.

Another 16 per cent of the students admitted to regular consumption of alcohol, while 54 per cent said they use it occasionally. Some 23 per cent have tried it and another eight per cent said they have never used alcohol.

As for marijuana or hashish use, 15 per cent of those surveyed said they use it regularly, while 23 per cent said they use it occasionally. Another 29 per cent have tried it at one time and 32 per cent said they have never used it.

Seventy-six per cent of the students said they have never used cocaine, while only seven per cent said they use it regularly.

Another 91 per cent of those questioned said they have never free-based cocaine or used crack and 64 per cent said they have never used a hallucinogenic drug such as LSD, PCP or mescaline.

Well over half of the students questioned said they do not believe music, television, movies, books or magazines "influence teens towards drugs."

The majority were also against mandatory drug testing in the workplace and drug testing in order to enter school.

Editors for the newspaper were unavailable for comment.

The Baker's Rack? Your nose knows

BY MARTY TUNGATE

You can smell the fresh baked goods clear across town, and that smell will lead you to Baker's Rack, located on Forest Street in Westchester Square.

The store has been in that location for seven years, according to owner Delores Padgett. Padgett has owned the establishment for one year.

"I love doing this, it's a lot of fun," Padgett said. Padgett is very involved with the business -- not only does she own it, but she spends up to 60 hours a week in the bakery.

"It's a lot of work, but it's worth it," Padgett added.

Since Padgett has taken over the store she claims business is getting better all the time.

"Things are really starting to pick-up around here," Padgett said.

Padgett, who has always wanted to start her own business, has made it a family affair. Both of Padgett's daughters work part-time at the bakery, as well as hold down other jobs of their own.

Padgett, who lives in Northville, is looking for things to pick up more and more as Christmas draws near.

"We bake almost everything in the store fresh every day," Padgett said.

So when that fresh smell of bread hits your nose out of that cold winter air on Forest Street, you'll know right where it's coming from -- The Baker's Rack.

New format

Therese and Eddie Morelli have taken over management duties at Center Stage in Canton. They are changing the format from youth-oriented dance music to Las Vegas-style entertainment. ## Manager wants big names at Center Stage

BY DAN NESS

The curtain has opened on the newest nightclub in Canton, and it happens to be in a familiar spot.

Danceteria (and before that, Center Stage) will now be Center Stage until further notice, and will be run by veteran Detroit area nightclub owner Eddie Morelli.

John Sassak, present owner of Danceteria on Ford Road, said he has signed a management agreement with Morelli to run the night spot with a new format. Sassak said he is looking to sell the nightclub, and Morelli is one of the interested parties.

"There's all kinds of tentative deals, but nothing is firm," Sassak said. "We're still looking."

Morelli, who has complete control over the new format, said he wants to make the nightclub like the Premier Center, in Sterling Heights. Entertainers such as Eddie Fischer, Connie Stevens and Brenda Lee may be coming to the new club, Morelli said.

"We are looking to change the format of the place 1,000 per cent," he said.

Morelli hopes to have a "big-name entertainer" open at the new club in the first week in March.

As Danceteria, the club attracted large numbers of adolescents which had caused some problems, including fights on the property and neighbors complaining about the behavior of the customers.

Sassak said the new format would solve any problems there had been with unruly crowds. "You don't have the alcohol problems with concert crowds."

Problems with youth going to Danceteria had been addressed through tougher security methods, Sassak said, but added "I just don't have the patience anymore. That's a tough age group to manage.

"Our office just can't run that the way it should be run," Sassak said.

Under the current format, new wave music is played on Friday nights and top-40 music is played on Saturday nights.

Under the new format, Morelli hopes to have top entertainers perform Thursdays through Sundays, with a big band night during the week also.

Morelli is also the owner of Omni Limo service in Southfield.

Prevent holiday crimes

BY DAN NESS

Canton merchants are hoping for a busy December and a prosperous holiday season.

Unfortunately, so are criminals.

To help prevent a prosperous holiday season for criminals, the Canton Police Department is beefing up its patrol in shopping areas during the holidays.

As part of that effort, the department will be using police officers on foot in certain shopping areas, according to Officer David Boljesic. "Basically, what we're going to do is give extra attention to shopping areas, effective immediately," Boljesic said.

Crimes such as purse snatching and car break-ins increase during the holiday shopping season, as shoppers typically carry more cash with them, and keep newly-purchased merchandise in their cars while shopping, Boljesic said.

The police department offers these tips for holiday shoppers:

- Don't carry large amounts of cash while shopping.

- Have parcels delivered to your home instead of picking them up at the store.

- Don't leave packages in your car while shopping. "We suggest putting packages in the trunk," Boljesic said. Better yet, bring the packages home.

- Never expose your money while shopping.

- Try to use 24-hour money machines only during the daylight hours, or bring a companion if at night.

- Keep all receipts for purchased items.

- Make sure you get the correct charge card back from the cashier, if you use one.

Boljesic said the department would increase the number of officers in patrol cars and on foot patrols between Dec. 18 - 26, while concentrating on shopping areas with the standard number of officers until the 18th.

Smoke clears in school buildings

BY KEN VOYLES

Smoking in school buildings may soon be a faux pas.

With the passing of Michigan Clean Indoor Air Act, P.A. 198 of 1986 smoking is to be prohibited in all public buildings beginning Jan. 1.

According to the law, smoking "is not allowed in public places, except in designated areas." It "establishes nonsmoking as the norm" in public buildings, offices, arenas, meeting houses, auditoriums, theaters, museums, concert halls, health clubs and all educational facilities.

Most private sector workplaces, however, will be exempt from the law.

Locally, the administration and Board of Education of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools is trying to formulate a policy before the New Year's deadline.

During a workshop on Monday the Board took what was basically a preliminary look at the type of policy, and the forms of "exceptions," which should be put in place in district schools, offices, athletic areas and even on its buses.

The district administration is developing a draft policy for the Board to look at either next week at the regular meeting on Monday, Dec. 8 or during the Dec. 22 gathering.

"My concern is we must come up with some kind of policy by our next meeting," said Superintendent John M. Hoben. "It needs to be in place by Jan. 1."

Hoben suggested the Board start with the premise of banning smoking from each building then build in exceptions, or locations where it remains permissible to smoke. Such a location might be a lounge area or a private one-person office.

"We wanted to get a kind of a feeling for it so we can come up with a policy," Hoben said. Currently there is no policy dealing with smoking in district facilities.

Board President E.J. McClendon expressed concern with developing a program, along with a policy, to help smokers — both students and staff — overcome the habit.

McClendon cited a Livonia School District program for students which sets up older students as an example for the younger ones. He said getting in the group, which demanded a no smoking contract, was now a "status" symbol for the students.

Board member Roland Thomas said the Board needed to "adopt a philosophy by the end of the year." He also stressed, though, the need for staff involvement to make any policy work.

At one point the formation of a committee was suggested, but the limited time frame rules that unlikely and no decision was made, or could have been, at the workshop session.

Community Relations Director Richard Egli has been doing much of the current work writing a policy statement for the Board to consider.

What the Clean Air Act says . . .

Essentially the Michigan Clean Indoor Air Act, P.A. 198 of 1986 states that an individual shall not smoke in a public place or at a meeting of a public body, except in a designated smoking area.

The act was passed this year by the Michigan legislature and established nonsmoking as the norm in all public places.

Smoking will only be permitted in designated area upon request such as a lounge, or a private, enclosed room or office. Smoking is prohibited in areas not designated "smoking permitted."

In rooms where smokers and nonsmokers work together, and in areas used by the general public that consist of a single room, a smoking permitted area may also be designated on some conditions.

If smoking is permitted in a public place, the local agency must develop a plan to separate the smokers and nonsmokers with the emphasis on special consideration for nonsmokers.

Besides voluntary compliance, posting of signs and high visibility will do part of the enforcement job. Violators may also be subject to a civil fine of not more than $100 for a first violation and not more than $500 for subsequent violations.

Cub Scouts cook winners at Miller

Canton Cub Scout Pack 854 held its annual father-son bake off last week, and crowned the winners at the weekly meeting at Miller Elementary School.

The rules of the contest include recipes made from scratch, and fathers and sons only allowed to participate. (Honest no moms were allowed within 10 feet of the kitchen)

The winners of the contest were: Steve and Michael McGuire for their Apple Pan Dowdy (Grand Prize winners); Chris and Chad Little for their Fruited Cherry Cheese (pies); Mike and Skip Ward for their Almond

Tea Loaf (bread); Eddie and Fred Markman for their Pumpkin Bars (cookies); Kevin and Jack Kopenski for their Cream Cheese Cake (cake); and in the Tiger Cub division Michael and Mike Fedirko won for their Yuletide Coffee Cake (special).

Fundraising goal is $25-50,000

Education Excellence Foundation begins here

BY KEN VOYLES

A new organization is striving to make an impact.

And, although not well known in The Plymouth-Canton Community, the Educational Excellence Foundation plans to carry the torch for improved educational opportunities for district students and teachers.

To do so the non-profit organization, founded earlier this year, is commencing a fund drive to raise $25,000 to $50,000.

"We are not very well known yet," said Foundation President Joseph Kordick, "but we are encouraged by the positive responses we have received. The district administration has been very helpful and we hope to get more formal input soon."

Kordick said the Foundation is seeking funds from residents wishing to support additional education projects beyond the scope the district's operating philosophy and budget.

Any funds raised this year, or next, will be used for scholarships, innovative classroom projects, special equipment, career exploration, and grants for teachers.

"We hope to raise the better part of the $25-50,000 by the end of the year," said Kordick, who added that the group has already received donations ranging from $50 to $1,000.

He added, however, that the group's long range plans are to secure most of its funding through wills, legacies, memorials and bequests from residents.

Donations for the current drive are being sought from local merchants and businesspeople as well as individual community residents.

"We hope to be self funding over time," Kordick said. "We are not the biggest thing to hit Plymouth but we are bringing in something new. We are established in the American philanthropic tradition of people helping people for the benefit of the community."

The organization is run by a nine-member board of trustees along with two ex-officio members from the district administration and Board of Education.

Besides cash contributions, the Foundation also welcomes support through stocks, trusts, real estate, estate planning, and pledges.

Kordick said the Foundation is not out to replace any of the traditional sources of funding, but seeks to provide additional resources to augment "critical areas" of programming.

Interested residents can get further information from Kordick at 453-5938. All contributions are tax deductible.

The 'Breakfast Club' back at CEP

film.

District Superintendent John M. Hoben originally banned the film by an executive order a week after Daskalakis filed her complaint. He then sent it to the committee on Oct. 27 following efforts by students, teachers and community residents to change what they felt was an arbitrary decision.

Daskalakis reacted to the committee's decision with some dismay.

"For a school system to set themselves up as superior to the whole country is dangerous," she said. "We were not taught this way and I don't think we should settle for our children being subjected to this profanity."

Daskalakis added that she appealed the committee's decision on Monday by sending a letter to Hoben. "With the holidays coming up I told him it could wait until January," she said.

"But I asked him not to allow the movie to be shown until the appeal."

She added that she has formed a Citizens for Better Education committee along with other concerned residents, and would be making a presentation to the public on Jan. 19 at Canton Calvary Assembly of God.

"These are very sad times that our schools have stooped so low as to show R-rated films," said Daskalakis. "And we shouldn't lose sight of the fact that 'The Breakfast Club' is R-rated."

Rock girls glide easily to district hoop crown

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

Dreams of state basketball glory are crystalizing in the minds of Plymouth-Canton Community residents these days as Salem's girls basketball squad moves one step closer to a Class A championship.

The Rocks overpowered Garden City, 72-29, last Wednesday to win the district crown at Westland John Glenn.

Salem's cagers, who beat John Glenn in the first round of district play and then knocked off Livonia Churchill, shut down the Cougars both offensively and defensively and came away with another fairly easy win.

The Rocks control-defense took its toll early in the first quarter as the Rocks allowed Garden City only two points. The score at the end of the quarter stood at 13-2, with Salem well in command.

Salem's offense then turned it on (with effect) in the second stanza scoring 18 points while holding the Cougars to just 11.

At the intermission the Rocks led 31-13.

Passing was one of the offensive reasons for Salem's dominance, according to head coach Fred Thomann, and at times it looked as if the Rocks' passes could penetrate even the most difficult defense.

"Passing-wise we moved the ball better tonight than we have all year," said a pleased Thomann.

The Rocks were also right on the spot shooting wise heavily outscoring the Cougars in the second half.

Dena Head led the offensive drive for the Rocks scoring 23 points, while Jessica Handley was next for the Rocks with 15 points. The Cougars' leading scorers in the game were Denise Kokowicz and Linda Lankford each contributing eight points.

"Dena being the fine player that she is moved the ball to the open spot for us," Thomann said, "and helped make the difference."

The third and fourth quarters weren't much different from the previous quarters with Salem controlling the game at both ends of the court.

At the end of the third quarter the score read 54-23. Then in the fourth period, Salem held the Cougars to just six points to end the game with a satisfying post-season victory.

"Our defensive intensity was excellent tonight. We didn't give them time to set up," Thomann continued. "I thought we played really well tonight."

The Rocks began regional play on Tuesday against Taylor Central. With a victory the squad could advance to the Class A regional finals tomorrow, Thursday (Dec. 4) at Gibraltar Carlson High.

Salem is currently 22-1 overall.

Size, experience favor Salem boys cagers

BY MARTY TUNGATE

This year the Salem's boys cage squad is big and has the experience to be a strong contender in the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) this season.

"We have a strong bunch of seniors this year," Salem head coach Bob Brodie said. The Rocks only lost three players last year to graduation, thus the setting the scene for perhaps a fine season from an experienced ball team.

"It will be a team effort this year," said Brodie. "Although the seniors will see most of the playing time this season, they all have earned it."

Seniors Bryan Kearis and Mike Hale, both two-time letter winners, will lead the squad as co-captains over the course of the year.

"We have a lot good leadership on this year's team, and it should help out the younger players," Brodie added. The Rock cagers are returning seven players from last season and their experience will aid the team, while the underclassmen will round out the team.

Last year the Rocks were 13-11 overall, winning a district championship. That's a feat Brodie would like to repeat.

"It would be great to repeat as district champions this year, and then move on and hopefully place in the state tournament later this season," Brodie said.

Salem will run a slow control offense this season to utilize its size. The cagers have two giants this season, Rick Taylor, a senior, who stands six feet seven inches, while Dave Collins, also a senior, stands one inch taller.

Brodie looks for big things from these two giants.

"We're going to try and use our height to our advantage this year and play a slowed down controlled offense," Brodie said. "But we can run

The team to beat for the Rocks this year is Westland John Glenn. "John Glenn is tough, but we can play on the same court with them, and I see no reason why we can't beat them," Brodie said.

The Rocks open their season on this Friday, Dec. 5 against Trenton. "That's always been a tough place to play," Brodie said. Then the Rocks will come home and play four straight on their own court.

"If we stay healthy, and everyone keeps up that great attitude, there is no telling how far we can go this year," Brodie concluded.

Rock swimmers work to repeat as WLAA champs

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Salem's boys swimming team has its work cut out for it if the usually strong squad plans to repeat as Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) conference champions and Lakes division winner.

"We have the team," head coach Chuck Olson said. "The kids can do well in the league if they really want it."

The 1985-86 campaign was a good one for the Rock tankers. They won the WLAA league crown last winter and finished with a 11-3 overall dual meet record.

"We had a strong team last year, and this team could be just as strong if they really work at it," Olson added.

The Rocks lost many of their team members to graduation last year and there will be some weaknesses, according to Olson, "but those weaknesses can be filled.

"These are a great bunch of kids, they really work hard," Olson added. "I see no reason why we should not contend for the conference title."

Salem returns a good group of seniors. Senior co-captain Don Harwood, also senior co-captain Phil Bocketti, plus co-captain John Kim will lead the way.

"These guys are really versatile, they can swim a lot of events," said Olson.

Salem's diving should be strong also. That contingent is led by seniors Kevin Tunish, Doug Soho, and Scott Fitzgerald. "They should add quite a bit to our overall scores in dual meets this season," Olson said.

The Rocks will also see the return of Rob Moore, who sat out all last season recovering from a car accident.

"Moore is a good long distance freestyle swimmer, and if he can recover from the accident he could play a large role in the success of our team," said the veteran coach.

The Rock tankers are a tight-knit group according to Olson. "They work very well together, they're always helping one-another out."

Olson talks of tradition a lot. He believes the boys can work hard and do as well as in previous years.

The Rocks have won the league title three out of the past four seasons. It's a winning tradition which will continue, says Olson.

Although Olson feels he has a strong team this year, he will have some competition. Livonia Stevenson is the top team picked to win the WLAA title. A lot of coach agree on that, including Olson.

"Stevenson will be tough, as they always are, but I see no reason why we can't beat them," Olson said. "We swim in a tough league and when that conference meet comes around it's almost like a "mini state" meet," Olson stated. "Our conference is with out doubt the toughest in the state.

"The boys are really committed to do well this season, and I'm sure they will. They have a good attitude; and if we stay free of injury we could have good year. Olson said.

The team is well disciplined. This comes about through good coaching and Olson has been noted for his coaching by his competitors for years. Olson also has a good staff to lend him support. Jim Shinn has been with the coach four years, and Olson also has some good assistants coming out to help the team, including Jim Mellice, and Renee Lakatos.

"They all will work real with the kids to help them improve overall," Olson added.

Canton cagers fight lack of size, credibility

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

Friday night is what Tom Niemi and his 12 Canton varsity boys' basketball players have been waiting for, a chance to redeem themselves after being knocked out of the first round of district play last season.

The Chiefs ended the 1985-86 season with a final record of 10-11.

The Chiefs lost three starting players to graduation, but have two starters back, Roger Trice (junior) and Tyrone Reeves (senior). They also have four strong bench players from last year returning: Todd Wood (senior), Mike LaSota (senior), Dave Foxworthy (junior), and Scott Meachum (senior). Jeff Anulewicz (junior), Mitch Fyke (junior), Brian Paupore (sophomore), Shawm Koteles (junior), Matt Littleton (junior), and Brad Carey (junior) moved up from the junior varsity team from last year.

Co-captains for this season will be Trice and LaSota.

Canton was known last year for its strong defense with Trice and Reeves pressuring the ball from the guard position. This season, it would seem that Canton will again be strong defensively with the return of Trice and Reeves to the starting line-up.

The question could now be -- how are the Chiefs going to be offensively this year?

"We're better offensively this year than we were last year," said Niemi. "We have some outstanding shooters, and our guards are very quick."

This year's Canton cage team gathers after a tough practice around their luck after last season's disappointing 10-11 last week for a group photo. The squad hopes to turn overall record. (Crier photo by Kelly Sauter)

The Chiefs do have one major weakness and that's their lack of height, but Niemi seems to feel that with their outside shooting and quickness the squad might be able to make up for it.

Tom Niemi will face an interesting situation Friday night (Dec. 5) when his squad will face Brighton, and that situation is that he will coach against Dan Chrisner. Chrisner played basketball under Niemi while he was coach at Livonia Franklin High School.

"I have a great deal of respect for Dan," said Niemi.

The matchup will be at Canton's gym, game time is set for 7:30 p.m.

Chiefs are biggest swim squad ever

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

If quantity were a major factor Canton's boys swimming team might be great this year. The Chiefs have 22 swimmers returning from last year's squad and 45 swimmers all together.

It's the school's biggest boys swimming roster ever.

Since it's not quantity, but the quality which counts, Canton's success is not assured.

The Chiefs will be looking to senior co-captains Dean Roberts and Steve Schwin to contribute team leadership both in the pool and out of the pool.

Seniors Jim Walker and Frank Wisnewski will also add much needed experience, according to coach Hooker Wellman.

Junior Keith Lorley will attempt to fill the spot vacated in 1986 by graduate, and state diving champion, Andy Flower.

Mike Lustig, also a junior, will be another key factor for Canton and could contribute heavily in the pool.

Sophomores Mike Helmstadter, Jeff Holman, Mark Levesque will be important ingredients in the equation as to whether the Chiefs will be successful this winter or not.

"All our sophomores are outstanding, multi-talented swimmers," said Wellman. "Also freshman Brice Anderson is going to be a multi-purpose swimmer for us."

Canton will be looking for a team effort to help it reach the goal of placing in the top six in the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA).

"We have a good team and we have some good strength," said Wellman. "We're looking for team depth to help us win dual meets."

"If we can place in the top six in the conference that would be really good," added the veteran tanker coach.

The Chiefs open their dual meet season tomorrow, Thursday (Dec. 4) against Milan at Milan's pool. Meet time is 7 p.m.

Lightning strikes

Team members of the Plymouth Lightning after finishing a perfect 8-0 season this past season.

Lightning is perfect

The Plymouth Lightning recently finished undefeated in the under 12 girls Red Division of the Western Suburban Soccer League with a perfect 8-0 record.

The squad also won the 12 girls Plymouth Cup to finish the fall season with a 10-0 mark.

The team members include Alyson Nouné, Suzie Perron, Adrienne Auten, Amanda Salin, Tina White, Julie Murphy, Kelly Reeves, Valerie Adzima, Courtney Thomas, Monica Morse, Danielle Yockey, Kristin Crain, Leanne Boughner and Kristina Tilly.

Nouné led the team in scoring with 20 goals this past season.

The squad's defense, on the other hand, only allowed five goals all year.

The squad is coached by Joe Barberio. He is assisted by Jenny Saul and Jenny Thomas.

Canton's Parks and Recreation Department is sponsoring its 2nd annual Used Sports Equipment Sale on Saturday, Dec. 6 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Community residents will be able to sell off their used or new sports--recreational equipment during the sale. Sellers can bring their equipment to the Township Administration building on Thursday, Dec. 4 between 5-9 p.m.

The equipment will then be tagged for sale on that Saturday. Prices are set by the individual sellers, who also get to keep their money, less 15 per cent to the Parks and Recreation.

Volunteers will be on hand to do the selling. Unsold items can be picked up after 2 p.m. that afternoon. Call 397-1000 for further details.

Houle stands out

Offensive lineman Dave Houle helped Michigan State University pile up 434 offensive yards in the school's 23-13 win over the Wisconsin Badgers on Nov. 22.

The Spartans, who finish the regular season at 6-5 and 4-4 in the Big Ten, averaged 396 yards per game in total offense during the 1986 season, the fifth best in MSU history.

Land of Confusion By Marty Tungate

Use your head, not drugs

Drugs. Are they a problem in high school sports?

Recently I worked with the rest of The Community Crier staff on a story about drug use in our schools, and I covered the sports end of it.

I talked to a number of players and coaches about a problem, that most feel really is not a problem!

I also feel there is no real problem here just as long as the athlete thinks before they drink!

I just graduated from high school last year, and as a person who was very active in sports and other school projects, I knew a lot of students. When you know a lot of students, you know of quite a few parties.

Granted, I did not attend Salem or Canton, but I feel most high schools are the same when it comes to parties.

Among athletes, I do not feel there is a real problem with drugs, even alcohol. But about 99.9 per cent of high school athletes take a drink at parties and I am not talking about Gatorade.

It's social. Everyone wants to be apart of what's happening at the party, and at nine out of ten parties there is drinking going on.

Is it wrong to have a drink or two at party? "Not if your 21," my dad says. But if your planning on driving then what difference does age make? Some will say experience.

Hell of a lot of good that will do when you turn 21, and go out with your friends and have a few, then try and drive home plastered after the first time you can legally drink. Where is the experience going to come then?

Your first night?

This is a touchy subject to talk, or write, about! If I say it's o.k. to have a drink or two at a party, my dad kills me, and my girlfriend's parents tell me to get lost, but if I say, no, its totally wrong to drink when you're not old enough, I get laughed at by friends and my girlfriend, and they'll think I'm a square.

This is the problem that most athletes (and other students) face when they go to a party after a game, or on the weekend.

Whether it's right or wrong, it's up to the athlete. If it starts to effect the player's performance then someone should do something, or offer help to the player in question.

But otherwise all that can be done to keep athletes from drinking is to inform them on the effects of alcohol, and hope they make the right decision whether to drink or not.

You can't stop drinking at parties, it's been that way for years and will continue to be so.

Whether I drink at parties is not the question. But how do I know what Im talking about? I have been there, friends of mine have died in alcohol related accidents.

All that can be said is use your head. If you have a game, do not come to the game with a hangover, and just do not drive if you feel you can't, or a friend tells you not to drive.

Never put yourself, or another person's life, in danger with stupid thinking or acting. That's what it comes down to.

Think before you drink!

Spiker tournament set for middle schools

There will be a post-season tournament for all five middle school volleyball teams this year.

The Salem volleyball team will host the single elimination event, slated for Dec. 6. Matches begin at 9 a.m. on that date.

The 'A' teams from East, West,

Central, Pioneer and Lowell Middle Schools will each play two out of three 15-point games in the single elimination setup.

Each team will earn points throughout the season in dual match play as the basis for the tournament rankings.

Tops among sports fans

Everywhere one looked last weekend at the Hilton's main ballroom sports memorabilia was as far as the eye could see. In the photo at left, framed pictures of World Champion Tigers were a well-visited display. At right, just a few of the hundreds of baseball cards to be had at the convention Saturday and Sunday. Trading cards are a favorite among most sports collectors and they were a hot item over the weekend. (Crier photos by Ken Voyles)

Sports fans converge on convention

Hundreds of sports fanatics from The Plymouth-Canton Community converged on the Plymouth Hilton last weekend for the first fall Sports Collector's Convention.

The two-day affair featured a wide variety of sports memorabilia, including an autographed photo of Ty Cobb, a 1986 Detroit Tigers World Champions pennant, posters, uniforms, autographed bats, batting helmets and box on box of baseball cards.

Former pitching stars Don Drysdale, Don Larsen and John VanderMeer were also on hand to sign autographs and relate stories about each of their careers.

Although primarily baseball memorabilia, the show also featured hockey, football and basketball collectibles from more than a 100 dealers from Michigan and 15 other states.

I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual Gloyr. Thank you for the love you've shown towards me and my loved ones.
