It's showtime!!

BY PAUL GARGARO

Put the T.V. Guide away, forget about the ones you hate on 'Dallas' and leave the VCR with someone who's just plain miserable by nature.

This weekend you have no excuses. The Oct O' Follies are in town and with them come a touch of big city glitz.

Well, almost.

"This is my second Follies," said Follies Co-Chairman Bill Baxter. "Last time I was a dancer and a singer and made a complete fool of myself -- I'll probably do it again this time. They've got me wearing a tutu."

The Oct O' Follies will be presented - tutus and all -- at 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday.

"In the Follies, we don't expect any real level of proficiency," said Follies Chairman Sandra Richards. "Even though it's not totally serious, it always seems to come together in the end."

As always, the onstage mechanics of the two-act Oct O' Follies will be in the hands of a director/choreographer from the Jerome Cargill Production Agency in New York. This year's professional is Paul Lubera. A theater veteran, Lubera travels across the country and directs an average of seven non-profit productions a year for the Cargill Agency.

"He's extremely well organized.

Enrollment figures surprising?

BY KEN VOYLES

Officials in the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools district are a little surprised by the most recent enrollment figures for the 1987-88 school year.

Enrollment is up slightly -- exactly 22 students -- this year, but the officials had anticipated a greater increase in the student population.

"We definitely anticipated more students," said Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business. "There's been a lot of growth in the community and we expected to see more new students than we have been getting."

The district administration projected a student count of 16,100, including approximately 400 adult education students. But as of Sept. 25 there were only 15,967 students, still a slight increase from last school year.

Fourth Friday figures were due Friday (Oct. 3) but the numbers were not available by press time. Those numbers will determine the district's state aid this year.

Most of the district's growth has been at the elementary school level, which is to be expected, said Hoedel. Projections for middle school and high school totals were "right on" he added.

The district projected 7,250 elementary students this year but only 7,122 had signed up by Sept. 25. It was also expected there would be 4,050 middle school students; the Sept. 25 count is 4,045.

The high school numbers were projected at 4,400, and as of Friday the total came to 4,400.

This year the district has 28 classrooms with 31 or more students,

Twp., schools want same property

BY KEN VOYLES

It appears that Plymouth Township wants to get its hands on a piece of prime property owned by the Plymouth Canton Community Schools.

The township put the property -- 17 acres adjacent to the Township Park -- back on the tax rolls in 1986 and the school district has been trying ever since to reverse the decision.

School property is not normally taxed. However, state laws do suggest local governments can put a piece of land on the tax rolls if it is not being used for any specific purpose.

"It's baffling," said Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business in the district. "I have no idea why we were denied tax exempt status."

The district bought the land in 1968, said Hoedel. "It's the only real land we have for further expansion in that area," he said. "It's also the most valuable land we have. Developers would give their right arm for it."

In the summer of 1986 the district received a tax statement from the township saying it was delinquent on nearly $2,000 in taxes.

The district requested it be taken off the rolls in March 1987, but the township Board of Review rejected the district's tax exempt claim and it stayed on the rolls.

When the district received another tax statement this year it reacted by contacting township Treasurer Mary Brooks. It also turned over information to its attorneys.

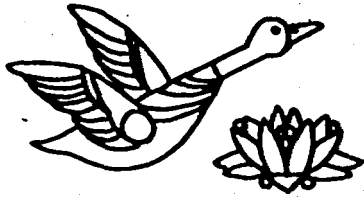

"Initially we thought it was an error," Hoedel said. "But now that it continues to creep up we've got to wonder."

Canton trash pickup rates to be hiked

Canton will be paying an additional $28,600 per year for waste disposal starting this month, pending rate increase approval by the Board of Trustees.

The Board of Trustees was notified by David Denski, of Canton Recycling, of the rate increase for rubbish disposal. Denski said the increase in disposal fees at BFI Arbor Hills Landfill in Salem Township was the reason for the rate hike.

Denski was charging the township $4.09 per house each month to collect the refuse and dump it at the BFI landfill. He is now requesting the rate be upped to $4.29 per house each month, according to John Spencer, Canton finance director.

The rate increase means that nearly 82 per cent of Canton's general fund millage is used for garbage collection, according to Spencer.

DNR, City disagree over dump

BY PAUL GARGARO

The state DNR's allegations that water from an abandoned landfill in Salem Township is contaminated are meeting with concerned opposition from the City of Plymouth.

The landfill, at Five Mile and Chubb roads, was owned by the City of Plymouth and used as a solid waste dump more than 20 years ago. Recently, the 40-acre landfill was examined by the DNR's environmental response department, which concluded that ground water from the site shows signs of contamination.

"We've done testing on the site," said Ronald Kooistra, of the DNR's environmental response department in Jackson. "One of the wells that we tested showed an elevated level of pH and chromium.

"We've asked them (Plymouth officials) to evaluate the problem and come up with a solution," said Kooistra. "Even though these places look totally deserted, they need continual attention and maintenance.

"As a generality," continued Kooistra, "I think that they have to really try and improve the cap and the drainage system.

While the dump site was in operation, the city operated it under the direction of the Washtenaw County Board of Health.

"As far as I know, we were always careful to keep contaminants out of that dump," said Joe Bida, the site

Denton borders 4 towns

Remnants

BY DAN NESS

It's hard not to feel a bit lonely when you spend some time in Denton.

Denton, which just extends into southwestern Canton, exists mainly in the minds of those who have lived long in the area and State of Michigan mapmakers. In a very real sense, Denton is southeastern Michigan's answer to the little town that time forgot.

Denton's history and present day existence.

Esther Smith pays her local taxes to Van Buren Township but is sent letters via the post office in Belleville. To the north, across Michigan Avenue, lies Canton. To the west, less than a mile away, is Ypsilanti Township.

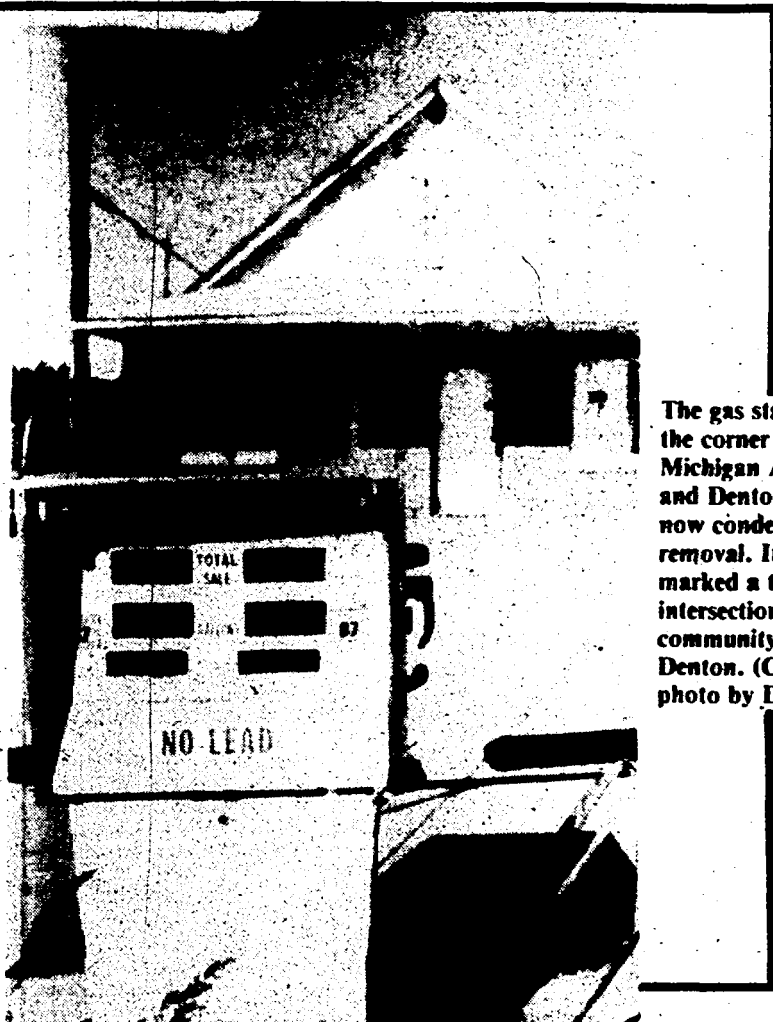

And somewhere in there is Denton. That's the irony facing the community today. Although Denton appeared on state road maps until very recently (with Canton conspicuously missing), the area in which it is located can be a confusion of boundaries. Where Canton ends and where Van Buren Township begins is not readily grasped by the passerby. The small plastic sign on the telephone pole greeting the visitor to Van Buren Township is easily overlooked while driving south on Denton Road towards Michigan Avenue.

"It had a post office, three grocery stores, an ice house, and the train

Please see page 27

On the other hand, it's very hard to forget Denton when you've lived there for 73 years. Esther Smith lives in the house that her great-great-grandfather built in 1871, across the street from the Ypsilanti Old Regular Baptist Church. To her, Denton is more real than Belleville and Van Buren, Ypsilanti and Canton townships put together, the municipalities that share in

EDITOR:

I would like to answer some of the points raised in Ken Voyles' nasty article about the student newspaper at Schoolcraft College.

First of all, he contends that the paper is not student-run. In fact, before I took the job of advisor, I was and still am a student at Schoolcraft as is the editor, reporters, photographers, ad sales, etc. The Globe advisor was a faculty member.

Second, Voyles points out that the lead article was written by a faculty member. In fairness to Dr. Nag, he did not submit the article as news, but as a column. (The Globe had columns written by non-students, too.) Since we had started the Connection from scratch during the summer and did not have a full staff, we used whatever we had to fill our first, albeit small, issue, including using photos of the staff barbecue, the only function that took place on campus before our paper went to press. The staff, after all, is a part of the college.

Third, the renaming of the paper was a sign of new beginnings. We have no illusions that we are going to earn any awards for quite a while, but that is not why we are in business. It was, perhaps, emphasized too much at the Globe. And, as for the editorial that stepped on poor Voyles' toes, our editor has as much right to voice his dislike of the Globe in his space as Voyles has to denigrate the Connection in his.

Fourth, and finally, since I was involved in the mechanical end of producing the Globe, I know exactly who had the biggest hand in designing, editing and making the decisions and it certainly wasn't the students.

I'm sorry Voyles vilified a group of hard working, eager-to-learn students, 98 percent of whom had never written a news story or pasted up a page before this fall. I, for one, am proud of them and nuts to Voyles!

County joins ranks of inconsiderate

It's not terribly unique to rail against those who dump their unwanted garbage on or near other people's property.

Everyone knows it's inconsiderate, lazy, stupid, and even illegal to dump garbage where there is no dump. Everyone knows that the ones who dump in the roads, ditches and yards of other people's neighborhoods are inconsiderate, lazy and stupid. What else is new?

Nevertheless, I went ahead and railed at the obvious one week last summer after an impromptu tour of a Canton neighborhood that had been victimized by the lazy, the inconsiderate and the stupid. A resident of that neighborhood on Lotz Road south of Ford Road showed me where garbage had accumulated in the ditches, old furniture had been abandoned in fields and large appliances left to rust on an old runway near Lotz Road.

After seeing the destruction the inconsiderate, the stupid, et al. had wrought, an illegal dumper buried alive under his/her own old appliances didn't seem harsh enough of a penalty for those who were caught.

Parents can take a stand

EDITOR:

I wish to use your editorial pages to try to reach the individuals involved in the following incident. You do a great service to the community with your editorials and we as a community should and do appreciate it. To parents in Plymouth:

On Thursday, Sept. 10 between 7:30 and 9:30 p.m., your child/children did $400 worth of damage to eight cars parked in a church parking lot on Penniman Avenue. Yes, it was only breaking off the hood ornaments on these eight cars, but each emblem has a price tag of $50.

Did you perhaps notice your child making key rings from them, and did you ask where they might have ob-

And that's the tough part. Catching them.

That's why it was satisfying to see that three dumpers/spillers were identified by the Canton police department last week. In one case, a man with a pickup truck load of ashes was seen by a resident near the William Holiday Park. When he departed, the load was gone, and the resident was on the phone to police with a license plate number. The plate was traced to a Dearborn Heights resident.

In another case, a Canton police officer came upon a car pulling a trailer that was stopped on Lilley Road north of Michigan Avenue. In the open trailer was a partial load of refuse. On the road behind the trailer was a pile of refuse that helped explain why the trailer only had a partial load.

The man, Clayton Sills, of Westland, explained to the officer that he was driving down the road when the back of the trailer fell apart and part of the load of rubbish fell out. The officer asked Sills why the rubbish was in a neat pile behind the trailer and why he had turned all of his lights out when it was after midnight.

Sills will get an opportunity to answer those questions Nov. 3 in 35th District Court. Our local judges will be all ears, I presume.

The last incident should sit well with Canton residents who thought that Wayne County government had forgotten about them.

A spilled mass of sewer sludge — mud and rocks included — resulted in two accidents at about the same time on Sept. 28. A Whitmore Lake man punctured his car's oil pan when he struck a large rock in the road from the spill. His car was towed away. A Taylor man wiped out on a motorcycle when he came upon the spilled sludge. Luckily, he was not seriously injured.

A caller to the Canton police identified the culprit as a Wayne County Drain Commission truck, No. 68 to be exact. An employe at Woodland Meadows landfill confirmed the fact that a truck fitting that description had delivered a load of sewer sludge at about the same time the accidents had occurred.

Even though the Office of the Drain Commissioner was abolished last year, it turns out that its trucks haven't been.

Keep your eyes open for illegal dumpers. Get their license plate numbers and call the police. Everyone's neighborhoods suffer from those who don't want to pay a few bucks to dump at landfills. When a few of the inconsiderate, the stupid and the lazy get caught, maybe more of their ilk will get the message.

And obviously in the case of Wayne County government, it takes more than abolishing the department to keep our local roads clean.

To the point

Maurie to Township ordinances: 'get decked'

The wanton lawlessness that started with the Plymouth Cruise has spread to Plymouth Township.

Will it spread south to Canton next?

Or will it pass north to the Northvilles?

Yes, now City of Plymouth folks can be relieved that the disregard for laws which plagued them these past two summers has moved on to the ritzy suburbs of the township.

Ridgewood Hills, a cluster of modest-to-high-priced Plymouth Township homes, is the current site of scofflaw activities. (Maybe things have come full circle from 1962-68 when Plymouth Cruising grew out of drag racing and "submarine-race watching" on the paved streets of the undeveloped Glenview Subdivision in the township.)

What form does this newest lawlessness take?

Building structures without permits!

Note the accompanying photographs.

All three photos were taken within 100 yards of each other in the wooded common area of Ridgewood Hills.

The township hasn't placed a dollar value on the un-licensed structures in Photos 1 and 2, but the structure in Photo 3 is termed "an enclosed deck" by the Plymouth Township Zoning Board of Appeals and an "enclosed sunroom" on the township building permit which values the addition at $18,000.

Whichever description applies, the fact is that the structure in Photo 3 was under construction BEFORE the ZBA gave approval for its five-foot, three-inch variance of distance from the rear yard lot line.

Some would argue that the owners of the three structures simply were not aware that the township requires construction to be supervised (and subsequently taxed) through the permit process.

It is important to note here that the skateboard enthusiasts pictured in Photo 1 are not implied here to be the owners nor builders of that structure, but were merely enjoying the facility when a Crier photographer wandered randomly through the woods. The Photo 1 structure's owner is unknown.

However, the owners of the structure shown in Photo 3 -- the enclosed deck or sunroom -- are known... they're Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurie Breen and Schoolcraft College Board Chairperson Mary Breen. (The photo was taken through the trees to obscure the back of the Breens' house to some degree so as not to unduly invade their personal privacy.)

Yes, the new deck-sunroom of these two community leaders was under construction before the required ZBA approval was given.

Breen supporters would simply argue that the ZBA approval was a foregone conclusion so they went ahead and got the workmen proceeding on the deck-sunroom. After all, when ZBA (and township board) member Andy Pruner showed up at the ZBA meeting, there could have been a little note in his packet telling him how to vote on Application No. 832 just like he gets notes in township board packets.

Breen detractors would argue that perhaps the two heads of local taxing units were trying to dodge the $46.80 in Plymouth Township annual taxes and the $21.60 Schoolcraft College annual taxes out of the total $511.38 annual tax bill an $18,000 deck-sunroom would yield.

Other Breen detractors say that Maurie is just reverting to his early ways as a Democrat and under the influence of alien spirits. They cite a mean-spirited arrogance on Maurie's part.

The popular theory in The Crier newsroom, however, is that anyone can make such an HONEST oversight -- even when they pass the laws in the first place. It probably isn't uncommon for folks to go out and spend $18,000 without thinking about all the necessary paperwork. (Crier reporters do that all the time -- in fact whenever they have $18,000 to spend at one time.)

Newsroom denizens carry this belief even though Maurie's secretary changed her story when the reporters were trying to ask the supervisor about his deck-sunroom. At first, she said, he was expected back this past Monday, but over the weekend his plans turned to "he'll be back on Oct. 13."

This unclarity of Maurie's schedule was probably just an oversight -- just like starting the deck-sunroom before the required permit was obtained.

Crier reporters feel differently however about the owners of the structures shown in Photo 1 and 2. These are clearcut examples of wanton lawlessness and should be prosecuted to the full extent of their disruption of life in ritzy Plymouth Township subdivisions.

Big decks-sunrooms, on the other hand, should be encouraged because of their net effect on the local economy (priced any wolmanized lumber lately?). Of course, the township requires permits for them, but, hey, what the heck?

That's not really lawlessness is it?

Murder convict escapee captured

BY KEN VOYLES

It was pretty clear to Harbor Springs police who picked up escaped murderer Ronald Hartwig that the former Plymouth man hadn't gone far in the north woods.

Hartwig escaped from Camp Pellston Correctional Facility (less than 15 miles from Harbor Springs) on Sept. 29, but surrendered to local police just outside of the town without incident on Saturday.

"He told the police he was walking back to camp," said Camp Pellston Supervisor Joe Hosey. "I guess he was cold and hungry."

"He must have been wandering around lost in the woods," said another Pellston officer.

The 39-year-old was not armed when arrested, said Hosey.

Hartwig was serving a sentence a second degree murder sentence for the 1981 bludgeoning death of Stacey A. Hurrelbrink, 21, at the Old Village Inn.

He was originally convicted of first degree murder, mentally ill, but the sentence was reduced to second degree and Hartwig qualified for a move to the minimum security facility.

RONALD HARTWIG

A first degree conviction carries a life sentence, but a second degree sentence is only for 13-35 years.

Hartwig is currently in the Emmett County Jail awaiting transfer to Jackson, said Hosey. He faces additional charges for the escape of one to five years and will probably return to maximum security.

Hosey described the country around the prison as heavily wooded, with rolling hills.

"We're out in the boondocks, though I hate to use that expression," he added. "We're not sure how he walked away originally. The camp is fenced but its open all day for work crews."

"But there is the opportunity to escape," Hosey said, "although when they do they usually head away from the area quickly."

Hartwig came to Pellston from Kinross Correctional Facility in the Upper Peninsula.

Hosey called Hartwig an "excellent" inmate before his escape attempt. "He was a good worker and had made a good adjustment," he said.

Hartwig's escape was the fourth "walkaway" at Pellston this year, said Hosey. There are 140 prisoners at the camp.

Immediately after the escape last Tuesday local police picked up his trail heading north, said Hosey, but lost it soon afterwards.

Hartwig would have been eligible for parole in 1990.

City parking resumes after summer

BY PAUL GARGARO

Non-residents will now be allowed to park on Plymouth's residential streets between 7 p.m. and 3 a.m., following a City Commission vote Monday night.

Ordinance 87-03, which was passed last spring in response to cruise-related problems, was retracted by a unanimous City Commission vote.

According to Paul Sincock, assistant to the city manager, more than 400 residents registered their automobiles with the city manager's office this summer. The level of participation in the program was a contributing factor in the success of the Main Street programs, Sincock said.

Residents will retain the option of reinstating the ordinance this spring if they wish to participate in the restricted parking program again.

"If 60 per cent of the residents on a block want the ordinance back," said Sincock "they can petition for it and they'll have it back."

For now, city officials agree that holiday parties and visiting would be largely hampered by the restrictions on parking space.

Twp. holds hearing on '88 budget

BY PAUL GARGARO

Plymouth Township residents will be given the opportunity to voice their opinions regarding the 1988 township budget proposal at the Oct. 13 board of trustees' meeting.

Township Supervisor Maurice Breen officially presented his budget proposal to the board of trustees during the Sept. 29 meeting. The trustees took the proposal under consideration and are in the process of working through what has been presented, said Township Clerk Esther Hulsing.

The original budget proposal included increases for additional manpower for the police and fire departments, and DPW. The proposed budget also calls for increased funding for the planning department to accommodate a paid intern, explained Hulsing.

The original proposal calls for funds that would enable the township to hire a records clerk and a full-time operator in the communications department, Hulsing said.

Township maintenance fees are presented in the budget as well as an increase in the labor relations fund, said Hulsing.

The cost of four new police patrol cars, if needed, has been covered in the original budget proposal as well as a better public address system for the township, said Mary Brooks, township clerk.

"Of course, we hope that the budget costs for '88 will be lower than the costs for '87," said Brooks. "Unfortunately prices continue to rise."

Confiscated house is sold

BY PAUL GARGARO

The Plymouth Police have found a home for the house that was confiscated from the owner of the house in April 1987. The house was sold for $10,000 to a local resident. The house was in poor condition and had been abandoned for some time. The sale was a success for the police and the community.

Schools earmark money from Bond Project

BY KEN VOYLES

Nearly two-thirds of the 1986 Bond Project money has been expended or committed already, according to information released by the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools at a recent Board of Education meeting.

Of the $14,150,000 earned in revenues, the district has spent or committed just over $9 million as of Sept. 15, said Ray Hoedel, associate superintendent for business.

The budget balance is $4.9 million.

The total bond proceeds are $13 million, but another $1.1 million will be gained through interest earnings, said Hoedel.

"Overall we're in pretty good shape when it comes to the bond budget," Hoedel told board members at the last regular meeting of that body on Sept. 28.

Work at Gallimore Elementary School and Pioneer Middle School are 100 per cent complete, while work at Central Middle School is close to completion at 98 per cent.

Work on the new elementary school -- Hoben Elementary -- is 30 per cent complete, leaving only the board building project and the storage building project left to be completed.

Hoedel said that of all the projects the new elementary school has come in most under-budget. He said he expects the school project to be completed for half a million less than anticipated.

There is $925,000 available for the board building project and another $200,000 for a storage facility, according to figures in a budget status report.

Target zeros in on Canton

Canton's Downtown Development Authority (DDA) District is close to getting its first anchor development north of Ford Road.

The Canton Board of Trustees was to have voted last night on a site plan for a Target store, to be located on the north side of Ford Road between Sheldon and Lilley roads. The store would be near the eastern boundary of the DDA district, an area planned as Canton's future downtown area.

Target, a chain of discount retail stores, is owned by Dayton-Hudson Corp. Dayton-Hudson plans to open six Target stores in the Detroit metro area this month, while the Canton store is awaiting construction.

The Canton Planning Commission approved the site plan for the store, which would sit on 8.28 acres of land, at its Sept. 28 meeting.

Fiegel kids find there's no bones about it

BY KEN VOYLES

Dinosaur bones have been discovered at Fiegel Elementary School.

Well, not exactly, but for Barb Overholt's second grade class at Fiegel they are as good as the real thing.

Last week Overholt gave her 27 students a special assignment: conduct an archaeological dig for dinosaur bones that had been secretly planted around the school's playground.

The students, with some help from their parents, quickly discovered finding the bones was a long and tedious task, but a rewarding one.

Using brushes and other tools similar to those used by paleontologists, the students turned up enough bones to reconstruct the ancient beast.

They then sorted through the bones by size and shape — the bones were actually cut pieces of cardboard from a kit one might find at a hobby shop — before assembling them into a full skeleton, which they classified as a Brontosaurus.

"It was a lot harder than they thought," Overholt said of the students' efforts to first discover the artifacts and then piece them together.

The students soon named their discovery "Boris the Brontosaurus" and put him on display in Fiegel's main hallway.

"Everyone should feel free to come and witness this amazing discovery," Overholt said. "Its free too."

Humming a song of Follies and fun

And a one, two, three, four, turn to the right, put your hands over your head. Good grief, how do you expect me to concentrate on what my feet are supposed to do and think about doing something different with my hands at the same time?

In case you haven't heard, it's follies time again. A time when the hams in The Plymouth-Canton Community have fun giving the rest of the community something to laugh about. In all fairness I should say that amongst all the non-talent there are a few shinning stars with some real talent (you won't have any trouble picking them out.)

Everywhere you go someone is humming a song, trying desperately to remember the words or dancing down the street sideways, trying to figure out how to turn to the right when you're on the wrong foot. Watch out Bill, there's a car coming!

I wonder how many kids go to the show anxious to see their mom or dad on stage, then walk out after the show pretending they don't know them. Then there are the parents who watch the show and question their contributions to society.

OK so you have to be a little crazy to be involved in the follies, but just remember there's a little crazyness in everyone (some of us are just more gifted in that area.) While some people couldn't learn a dance routine if they practiced everyday for a year, others have it down pat in two weeks — which simply means that some people have a bit more of a challenge.

You will recognize many names in the program, whether you connect those familiar names with the people on stage may be another story.

To all the stars in the show (back stage as well as on), especially those I set up, thanks for taking the time to become part of a fun community event. To everyone else in the community, thanks for being a good audience. We'll see you Friday and Saturday night.

Remember that's 8 p.m., Salem High School auditorium. Get your tickets at Mayflower Hotel, Beitner Jewelers, P.C.A.C. Office, and the Book Break.

We'll be looking for you . . . GALAPAGOS ISLANDS

If you're going to the west coast of South America, do take the side trip to the very special Galapagos Islands. The more than 300 islands are 625 miles off the coast of Ecuador. Walk in the footsteps of Darwin, where he discovered the theory of evolutionary change.

Tower Island is the dramatic bird island where birds of rare species live. On Albemarle, the largest island, the marine iguanas are so thick one can hardly see the rocks. Sea lions dash in and out among the pelicans, penguins, and flightless cormorants. Bartolome Island, with its famous Sullivan Bay, is a panorama of towering craters, volcanic heaps and swirls of lava flow. Majestic Pinnacle Rock looms above the stark landscape. Huge tortoises and many other unusual animals can be observed here that exist nowhere else in the world. Only six islands are inhabited, although the Galapagos cover a 20,000 square mile area.

Any traveler who claims to have seen everything and been everywhere will be thrilled by this excursion to an unusual land!

Over 30 years experience assures you of the finest travel service available. And, best of all, THERE IS NO CHARGE TO YOU FOR OUR SERVICES. We are reimbursed in commission fees by the airlines and hotels, ships and resorts that we book.

Oct O'Follies time

Still, he's very laid back and easy to work with," said Richards. "But once he hit town it was a 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. job for me."

"He's an outstanding director," said Baxter. "He's letting us have fun and enjoy one another's fellowship."

As Richards noted, the Follies are extremely demanding and time consuming for those involved. Despite the "hazards" of the job, the participants and organizers look upon it as a labor of love.

"I was at Farmer Jack's when they approached me to do this thing," said Richards, laughing. "I took it -- I guess because I have a pretty extensive background in the theater."

"This kind of an undertaking takes some talent, but mostly it takes a tremendous dedication," said Baxter. "We're all working for a tremendous cause. The proceeds go to the Arts Council Scholarships, so we are helping students understand art -- in a very simple form."

On Thursday evening, senior citizens in the community are offered a special $2 admission fee to watch the dress rehearsal. The City of Plymouth will be providing free double-decker bus service for seniors to and from the show at Salem High's auditorium. Senior's will also be given free programs minus the expensive covers.

Regular ticket prices will be $5 for balcony seats and $7 for reserved seats.

"We're selling the program for $1. In each program there will be a number for a raffle," said Richards. "Restaurants have been more than generous with meal donations for the raffle."

"We feel the price is justified because the proceeds are going to a good cause," continued Richards.

"Besides, the programs are so gaudy that no one will want to be seen without one."

The entire community has gotten into the Follies spirit, Baxter pointed out.

"We couldn't have done it without Dick Scott Buick for Lubera's free rental car or the Mayflower Hotel for the free lodging," said Baxter. "Fingerle Lumber also gave us free lumber for the sets and Jim Jabara let us use the Agape Church for set building. I also want to thank our cartoonist, Darrin Brege."

"Sharon Belobraidich handled the talent and did a wonderful job," added Richards. "The people who worked on this thing worked ver very hard."

"I really think that everyone enjoys this because they see their friends and they can relate," explained Richards. "We're having a lot of fun. I think."

Museum and Post Office resurrect the Past

The Plymouth Historical Museum has a collection of fine hand-made and machine-made lace on display this fall as a part of its Lacemaking Exhibit.

The exhibition is in conjunction with the U.S. Post Office and its issue of a Lace Stamp commemorating the art of lacemaking in this country.

The Plymouth exhibit not only focuses on examples of fine lace but also traces the history of lacemaking and illustrates the real effort that goes into the art of lacemaking.

The exhibit will be displayed during regular museum hours.

It includes the lace stamp, lace for babies, a replica of a dressmaker shop, a lacemaking shop, lace pillows, bobbins and bobbin winders.

Regular museum hours are 1-4 p.m. on Thursday, Saturday and Sunday.

Chorus plans new 'homecoming' performance

A homecoming...

That seems to be the theme for the Plymouth Community Chorus during the upcoming holiday season.

The Chorus will perform "A Christmas Homecoming" on three consecutive nights in December. All three concerts will be held at the Salem High auditorium. The dates are Dec. 11, 12 and 13, with the Friday and Saturday shows set for 8 p.m. and the Sunday performance at 4 p.m.

Tickets for the holiday shows are $5 for adults, $4 for children and senior citizens.

Then next year the group will perform "in remembrance of our founder" with a William Grimmer Memorial Concert on Sunday, March 6 at 4 p.m.

This time the Chorus will perform at Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, 160 Penniman Ave. in Plymouth. Selections will include Schubert, Mozart and Faure.

Tickets are all $4 for the performance.

Finally, the Chorus will present "From the Heart..." shows on May 14-15 at Salem High's auditorium. The Saturday show is at 8 p.m. and Sunday's performance is at 6 p.m. Tickets are the same price as the holiday shows.

Those interested in trying out for the Community Chorus can audition on Jan. 5 at Church of the Risen Christ. For further details about Chorus shows or becoming a member call the Chorus office at 455-4080.

Curtain call

PCAC offers it all, plus the kitchen sink

Whether it's winter, fall, spring or summer, the Plymouth Community Arts Council has an activity for you.

Although fall classes have already begun, the PCAC will be holding arts and crafts classes in the winter, spring and summer. Classes are offered in painting, beginning oil painting, sculpture, fine art theory, illuminated lettering, photography and basket making.

Together with the Center for Creative Studies, the PCAC will be offering additional in-depth courses in the arts. Courses will include calligraphy, watercolor painting and drawing.

For further information on course work and registration, call the PCAC office at 455-5260.

As always, the PCAC will be selling Christmas cards this year. The winner of this year's Christmas card contest was local artist Damaris Schulte. Schulte's 5-by-7-inch cards are watercolors of Kellogg Park at holiday time and are entitled "Christmas in Kellogg Park."

Christmas cards may be purchased at the PCAC office on Main Street, Frame Works, Armbruster Bootery, me and mr. jones, Petite Shop, Saks of Forest Place, and the Main Street Hair Co..

The PCAC's Art Rental Gallery is open every Wednesday, upstairs in the Dunning-Hough Library. Art works may be rented on a monthly basis and the cost is $4 or $5 depending on the size of the work. For details, call 459-0110.

The PCAC is also sponsoring the painting of a mural by students from The Plymouth-Canton Community in the children's section of the Dunning-Hough Library. Teacher Chris Darby will be organizing the effort, and plans to have the project completed by this spring.

Plans for the first annual PCAC Multi Media Art Competition and Exhibition, to coincide with the Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular Jan. 7-17, are in motion. The performance will be held at Growth Works and is being co-sponsored with Michigan National Bank.

The PCAC will be recognizing talented students again this year with a variety of prizes and scholarships. The Student Fine Arts Awards, for example, begin in February. Honors are given to high school students who will be competing in painting, writing, drama, dance, music and photography.

Other awards and scholarships include: the J.W. Hulce Award, presented in April; the Blue Lake Scholarship, presented in April; and the Margaret Wilson Award, also presented in April.

The Honors evening presents a chance for all of the awards and scholarship recipients to be recognized together. It is scheduled for May 2

The PCAC will also be giving Teacher Project Assistance Grants. Interested teachers are asked to submit proposals for art classes that they would want to teach by November. One of the proposals will be funded.

Art club members share a love of art

The Three Cities Art Club consists of artists at various stages of development, with members from Plymouth, Canton, Northville, Westland, Livonia, South Lyon and the surrounding areas.

The artists all share a love of art and the desire to learn more about their craft.

The group activities include shows such as the recent one during the Fall Festival, a spring, judged show, and participation in the summer "Art in the Park."

At the group's meetings there are art demonstrations, video tape presentations, critiques of art work and auctions of surplus art supplies.

The club meets in the Plymouth Township Hall meeting room, 42350 E. Ann Arbor Rd. at 7:30 p.m. on the first Monday of each month, September through May. Visitors and prospective members are welcome.

For further information call Dorothy Koliba, club president at 455-5159.

A tentative schedule for upcoming meetings:

Nov. 2 -- Demonstration of pastels by Audrey DiMarco of the VAAL club in Livonia.

December -- Christmas party for members.

Jan. 4 -- Art demonstration. Details to be announced.

Feb. 1 -- Auction of art supplies. Visitors welcome.

March 7 -- Critique by a professional in preparation for the group's spring, judged show.

April 4 -- Member's critique and discussion in connection with the show.

May 2 -- Video on portrait drawing by Hal Reed, followed by discussion.

June -- Club picnic.

Each month a theme is assigned for painting competition and a ribbon is awarded to the winner as determined by a vote.

Land: 'gold'

Hoedel said he didn't blame the township for wanting the land. "It's gold," he said. "They've made overtures in the past to buy it."

District attorneys will take up the issue with the township, said Hoedel, and if that doesn't work the district may petition the Wayne County Bureau of Taxation.

"I can't believe it's deliberate," said Richard Egli, the district's community relations spokesperson. "Its never happened before."

The district has other land in the township that remains off the tax rolls.

Hoedel said the district has never had the land appraised, but Wayne County Appraisal Company assessed the value of the land at approximately $100,000.

"To my knowledge it's not being used by the district," said John McLenaghan from Wayne County Appraisal, a private company in Canton.

McLanaghan said the land went on the tax rolls following a review of all vacant property in the township conducted in 1985 for the 1986 tax year.

"The law says, generally speaking, that the property must be used to be exempt. The property wasn't being used."

McLengahan said the schools' land and a piece of property owned by the City of Detroit were the only parcels put back on the tax rolls at the time.

"We were asked to look at all vacant parcels," McLengahan said. "I'm not sure, but it probably came from the supervisor."

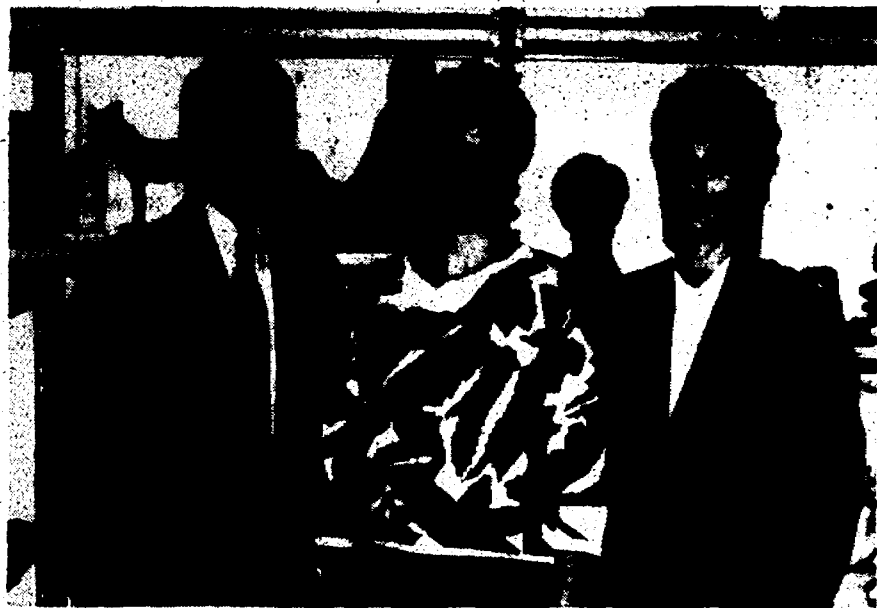

Township Supervisor Maurice Breen was unavailable for comment. His secretary said he was out of town and would return Monday. He did not, however, return a call from The Crier.

"We're on record to the district, and I fully support it as a planner, that the township sees the land as a potential asset to the park," Jim Anulewicz, township planner, said. "If indeed it's not being used by the district we would want first rights of acquisition to expand the park."

Anulewicz said the land includes an extensive beech forest area.

"If we did have the land we'd prefer no subdivisions in there," he said.

"We'd want to maintain it as open

PCAC gets boost

The Plymouth Community Arts Council has three new categories for business memberships: supporting, sponsoring and patron. space."

District Superintendent John M. Hoben told the Board of Education on Sept. 28 that it appeared "the township is trying to take it from us."

"If push comes to shove we'll pay it and keep the land," Hoben admitted.

The superintendent considers the land important for any future schools growth in that portion of The Plymouth Canton Community.

Denton 'like living in the country' stopped here . . . none of that now," Smith recalls of her community. "It was a real hometown. Back then, everyone knew everybody. Now, it's changed completely. We hardly know anybody."

Smith, a retired teacher for a Belleville school, remembers a Denton with a population of about 300, with most of that community made up of large families who had lived there for years and years. "It was a very related town," Smith quips.

The center of Denton was where Denton Road and the railroad tracks intersect — that's where the post office and ice house were located. "There was a big inn and store right next to the railroad tracks," says Dorothy West, Canton historian. The churches played an important role in the settling of Denton in the 1820s.

"We do have two churches," Smith points out. "I belong to the Methodist church." That church was part of a three-point charge sharing one Methodist minister with churches for two other early settlements — Cherry Hill and Sheldon, according to West. The parsonage for the tri-church was in Denton.

The forgotten sense of identity for Denton goes beyond the lack of signs welcoming visitors to Denton or the fact that Canton, not Denton, is now listed on state road maps. The apartment complex on the corner of Michigan Avenue and Denton Road has been around for a long time, but not many people there can tell you what it's name is.

Lynn Russell and her husband are the current managers for the six-apartment complex. Perhaps they've heard of a name for the old building? "No, I've never heard of one," Lynn shrugs. "Just 'the apartments on Michigan Avenue and Denton Road.'"

The Russells have lived in Denton for "a couple of years," but their residency has not cleared the confusion regarding the identity of the community in which they live. "Some people just call it Canton," Lynn says. "A lot of people call it 'the country' out here. If you have to call the police or fire department, you have to call Van Buren. I've got a cousin who lives down the road here (Denton Road), and she's in Canton."

For the most part, Lynn Russell enjoys living in what used to be Denton. "It's like living in the country," she says. "The only thing I got against it is the water — if it rains, it just stays out there."

Russell remembers stories about Denton from growing up in Ypsilanti; strange tales of mysterious happenings near a place she thinks was called 'the hangin' tree' and the story about "the light that used to follow people around. They said it was just a gas that came off the water. I haven't heard anything about it for a long time."

Stories about the hangin' tree are a little foggy now. "It was a tall tree, I remember that," she says. "You hear a lot of stories about it, but you don't know what's true and what's not."

New and old residents of Denton do not deny that their community is more memory than substance now. "It's not as important as it used to be," Russell says.

"I was at a place in Ypsilanti just the other day and I said I was from Denton, and they said, 'Where is that?'" Esther Smith says. Times have certainly changed in the years she has lived in Denton, she notes, starting with the closing of the train station more than 50 years ago.

"Trains still go by, but they wouldn't think of stopping here," she says. And what does the future hold for Denton? "Probably not much, because it's changed completely, the stores are all closed."

Still, Smith retains a sense of hometown pride in Denton, regardless of what others call that area near the intersection of Michigan Avenue and Denton Road.

"I've lived in Denton for 73 years," she says. "It's always been Denton to me."

A cornerstone of Denton

The Ypsilanti Old Regular Baptist Church of Jesus Christ occupies a site where the first church in Denton was built in the 1820s. That church, a Methodist church, was part of a triple charge ministry of Methodist churches that included Sheldon and Cherry Hill. (Crier photo by Dan Ness)

Getting down to business

Testing 1, 2, 3 -- call ETS pros

BY PAUL GARGARO

By now, you might be a little weary of hearing about how quickly The Plymouth-Canton Community is growing.

Growth has been obvious, and for the most part, well conceived.

Developers like R.A. DeMattia are signs of the times and their projects add a dimension and demand to and for local business.

Engineering & Testing Services, Inc. (ETS) is one such company which has risen to meet this new growth.

ETS, is a geotechnical engineering and building materials quality control service. The firm does soil borings to test for strength and compressibility and samples building materials such as concrete and structural steel during construction jobs.

ETS has been in business since 1978 and is headquartered in Indianapolis, IN. There is also a branch in Memphis, TN. They opened a regional office in Plymouth last July.

Before coming to ETS, David Bird worked as geotechnical engineer with a Livonia based engineering firm. He is now a principal with ETS and serves as the Plymouth office manager.

"I had known of ETS professionally for a number of years," said Bird. "When the opportunity arose to be a principal in the firm, I took it."

Bird lived in Plymouth for five years before the move to ETS. He and his wife have just built a home in Canton.

For Bird, Plymouth was an obvious location for an ETS office. "Plymouth is just well located. It's convenient," explained Bird. "Plus, we're (The Plymouth-Canton Community) on the western edge of Wayne County's expansion."

ETS provides its services mainly to industrial and commercial clients, but Bird notes that his company's services can be very beneficial for the residential contractor.

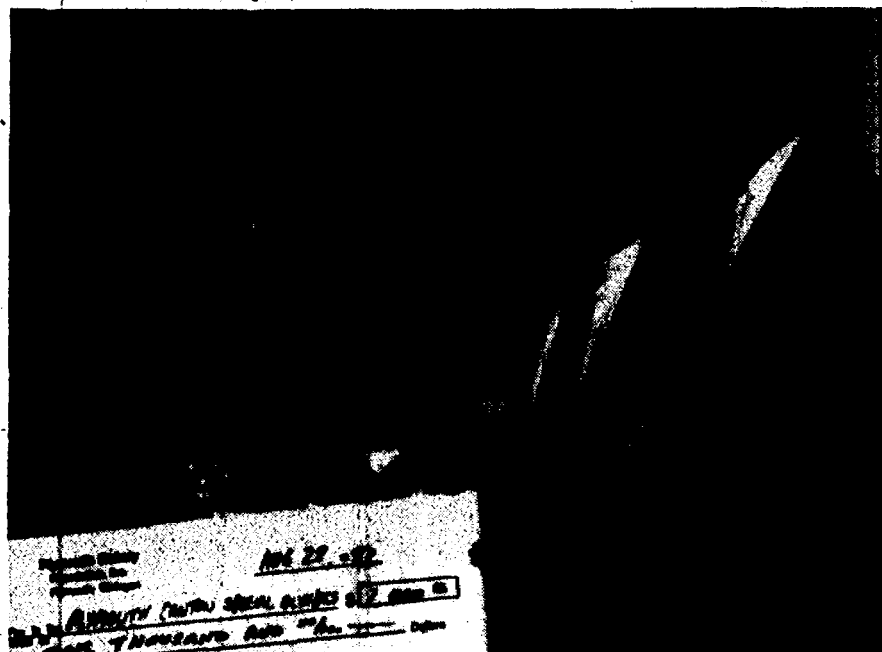

"On a lot of home construction sites where they're building on engineered fill or down near the water table, it would behoove the builder to have us do some soil testing," said Bird. "The preparation you put in prior to when you build your foundation has a great deal of impact on how it is going to perform in the future. You can avoid the risk of future soil settlement.

"In general, though, we don't do much residential consulting," said Bird. "Our fees are relatively low, but for individual home builders, they seem pretty high. Commercial clients are use to the fees."

Presently, ETS is doing work for the Eaton Estates development in Plymouth Township on North Territorial Road; the Van Dyne Crotty Co. in the Metro West Industrial Park in Plymouth Township; and out at Metro Airport where snack bars are being constructed on the concourses by the Stratten Company.

For Olympics

A smiling face. That's what the Rotarians got when they recently donated money to the Special Olympics.

Rotary group helps Special Olympics athletes

Athletes from the Plymouth-Canton Special Olympic Team will be sporting new uniforms this year supplied, in part, by a $1,000 gift from the Plymouth Rotary Foundation.

The P-C Special Olympic teams will be wearing red uniforms with white lettering at their competitions in a variety of sports such as track and field, softball, bowling, swimming, and winter olympic games.

Plymouth Rotary decided to buy uniforms after Karen Abraham addressed the club a year ago to explain the operation and goals of Special Olympics in the community.

The Plymouth Rotary Foundation is a non-profit, IRS-recognized agency which contributes money annually to civic projects and worthy groups like Special Olympics, a program for retarded youth.

Business People

Neil Kurth, of Plymouth, has been elected president of the Wayne County Independent Insurance Agents Association. Kurth is owner and president of Kurth Agencies, Inc. of Carden City.

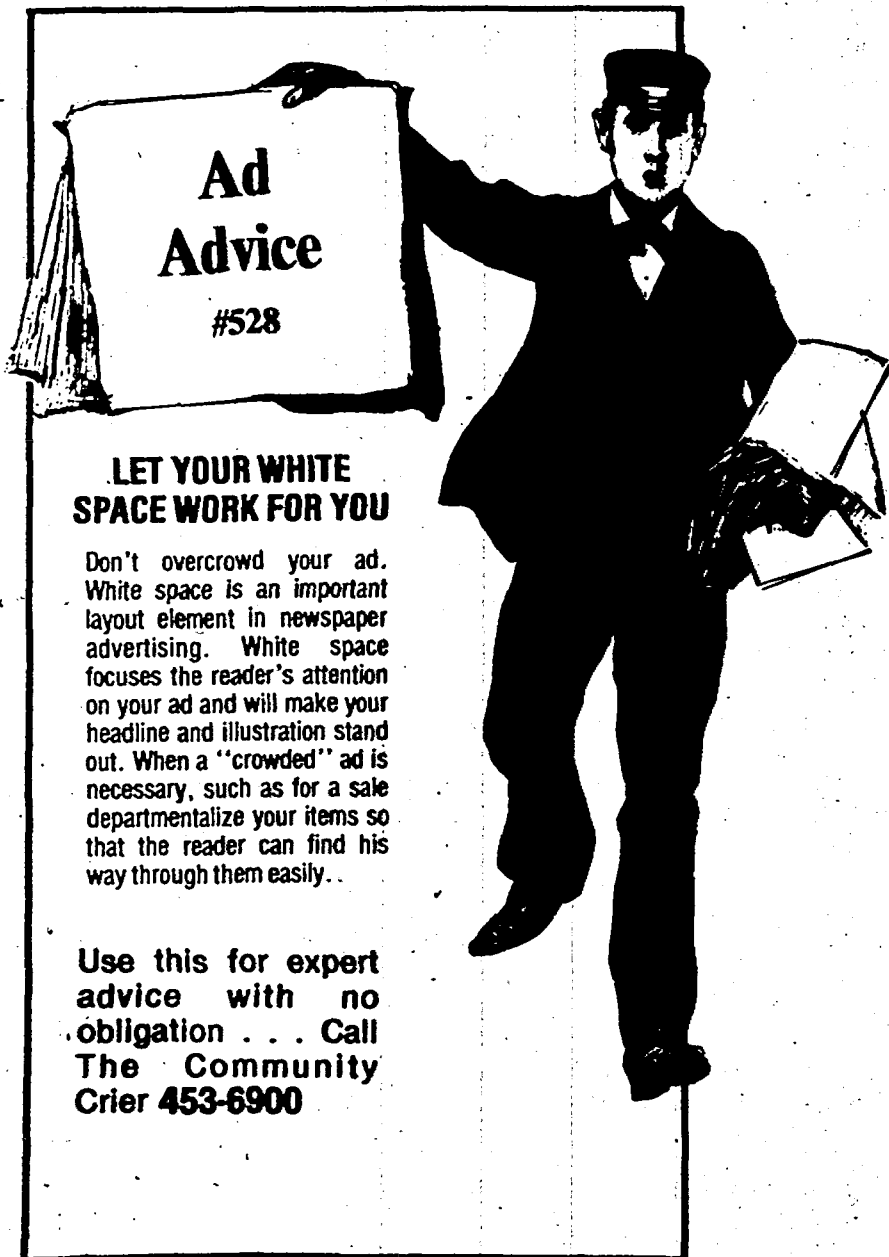

A graduate of Michigan State University, Kurth holds the professional designation of Chartered Property and Casualty Underwriter.

The W.B. Doner and Company recently promoted Rick Friday, of Plymouth, to senior vice president, group management supervisor. In this position, he is responsible for the Vlastic Foods, Inc., Michigan State Lottery, The Snacktime Company, and Brechteen accounts.

Prior to joining Doner in 1971, Friday was with Young and Rubicam as an account executive.

The following Plymouth residents have been added to the faculty/staff of Madonna College, Livonia: Carol Barker, assistant professor, nursing; and Gary Fischer, assistant professor, business administration.

Amy L. Armbruster, a resident of Plymouth has joined the professional staff of the international public accounting and consulting firm of Deloitte Haskins & Sells in Detroit. Armbruster is a recent graduate of John Carroll University.

The CEP Marching Band shows its stuff in formation recently. The band won the "Governor's Trophy" at a weekend tournament.

Marching Band flies high, wins Guv's trophy

The Centennial Educational Park Marching Band was awarded the Grand Championship Governor's Trophy at the 14th Annual Michigan Invitational Marching Band Tournament Sunday.

The competition, which is hosted by the Flushing High School Marching Band, was held at Atwood Stadium in Flint. Twenty bands from the state of Michigan participated in this year's tournament. The CEP Band was also awarded trophies for best band in Flight I, best percussion, best brass and winds, and best color guard.

According to CEP Band Director, James R. Griffith, this is the second year in a row that the band has received the Governor's Trophy and the fourth time since the marching band began competing in 1979.

On Saturday, Oct. 10, the band will travel to Terre Haute, IN, for a Bands of America Midwest Regional Competition. There will be 25 participating bands from Tennessee, Indiana, Kentucky, Illinois, and Michigan. Among the competing bands are four bands that were included in the top 12 bands in the nation last year.

The competition will be an all day event with both preliminary and final performances held at the Indiana State University Stadium.

More than 200 parents and booster friends from The Plymouth-Canton Community have made arrangements to attend the competition.

Then, on Saturday, Oct. 17, the band will participate in the Durand Invitational. The Michigan Competing Band Directors State Championship Show will be held in Plymouth on Oct. 24 and the band season will end on Nov. 14 at the Marching Bands of America National Competition at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Canton seeks recycling $$

BY DAN NESS

A Canton recycling center may be better equipped to the tune of $200,000 if a Clean Michigan Fund grant is approved by the state.

The township board was to have voted on a proposal last night to allow the township's Community and Economic Development department to write a grant request for the state money.

According to Kim Scherschligt, CED department deputy director, the grant would allow Canton to purchase a "waste recycler," a device that can accommodate even tree stumps in recycling. Scherschligt termed the $200,000 figure a "rough estimate."

The machine would be housed at a recycling center operated by Dave Denski and Ed Bretzlaff, of Canton Recycling, according to Scherschligt.

but it also has 147 classrooms with 27 or less students.

The average class size of the district's kindergartens through third grade is 23.31, which meets the commitment for the state incentive grant.

Last Monday the Board of Education directed the administration to study class sizes throughout the district following a presentation by Farrand Elementary School PTO members.

The Farrand parents expressed concern over the size of two first grade classes.

District Superintendent John M. Hoben said the district has "maintained the same ratios" of teacher to pupil this year despite the loss of operating revenue, due mainly to the Headlee Amendment and a loss of state aid.

Hawks trounce Canton gridder

BY MARTY TUNGATE

The score ended up 35-0.

That about says it all as the Canton Chiefs football squad was trounced by a strong Farmington Harrison Hawks team on Friday night.

The Chiefs went into the battle with the Hawks without starting nose guard senior Jerry French, who was injured in a pick-up touch football game, and running back Roger Trice, who left the game in the second quarter with a sprained ankle.

The Chiefs were also missing starting quarterback Neil Hubert, who was sidelined for disciplinary reasons, said Canton coach Bob Khoenle.

Still the Chiefs held the tough Harrison squad to only 14 points the first half.

But the Hawks defense did not yield throughout the game, and the Chiefs were unable to move the ball, while Harrison racked up 345 yards on the ground.

Needless to say it wasn't a good night for the Chiefs.

"The one thing that has worried me all year is the team's attitude. They really don't want to win, or something. It's really strange," Khoenle said prior to the contest.

The loss now drops the Chiefs to 2-3 overall, and 1-2 in the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) Western division.

Harrison raised their record to 3-0 in the Western division of WLAA.

"This could still be a good year for us, but the kids have to want it, and right now they don't," Khoenle added.

The Chiefs will now leave the comforts of home and battle the Livonia Franklin Patriots. Kickoff is slated for 1 p.m. on Saturday, Oct. 10.

Salem, Canton golf squads 9th, 10th, at WLAA

BY MARTY TUNGATE

The Salem and Canton boys golf squads got together with the rest of the golf teams from the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) for the conference meet Monday.

It was a meet that saw Salem finish ninth and Canton 10th.

The Rocks shot a 438 for 18 holes, while the Chiefs carded a 445 score.

Perennial state powerhouse Walled Lake Western won the meet, as, according to Salem coach Rick Wilson, "they ran away with it."

The Warriors shot a 393, and the only team that was even close to the Warriors was runner-up in the meet Livonia Churchill. The Chargers hit a 417.

"I don't know what happened to the guys today," Wilson said. "Call it what you want, the conditions, they choked, I don't know."

Steve Stricker, from Walled Lake Western, shot the best round of the day, as he notched a low score of 74, while two of his teammates scored 75 on the day.

Salem's top finisher was senior Chris Braidwood with an 84. Gregg Speaks scored a 86 for the Rocks.

Brian Fennelly notched a 87 for Salem and Dan Kruesher scored an 88. Matt Braun rounded out the top five for Salem with a 90 on the day.

The Rocks ended their season as co-champions of the Lakes division of the WLAA. They tied Farmington with a 4-1 mark in the division. They also had an 7-4 overall record in dual matches this year.

This is the second year in a row Salem ended up as co-champions.

"This was a good team. They exceeded my expectations for the season, but they just fell apart at conference meet, and now these kids will have to shoot the best scores of their seasons if they hope to qualify for the state meet," Wilson said.

Canton, which did not have the kind of season that Salem had, is still holding its head high, according to coach Fred Libbing.

"This is a great group of kids, they come out and work hard week after week, and it shows," Libbing said.

The Chiefs, who finished with a record of 0-5 in the Western division of the WLAA and 1-7 in dual meets overall may have had different season if not for a stroke here and a stroke there.

Canton lost four of its meets by one stroke, and lost to conference champion Walled Lake Western in a playoff. Both clubs shot low scores of 197 for nine holes.

"If we drop a stroke here or there we win a few more meets, and perhaps do better at the conference meet," Libbing added.

Shawn McFarlane led the Chiefs with a 87, followed by Rod Jesena with a 88 and Mike Toutant, who also shot a 88.

Canton girl harriers remain undefeated

BY JANET ARMSTRONG

The Salem girls cross-country team is on a roll. The Rocks have won their last three dual meets to bring their record to 3-2 so far this season.

The Rocks beat North Farmington, 17-40, in their most recent outing on Thursday.

Leading the Rocks was Jenny Sample, who finished first with a time of 21:29. Next to cross the line was Salem captain Kim Mishler, who finished with a time of 21:52.

Shannon Donnelly was third overall with an effort of 22:12. Traci Thomas and Beth Cunningham were next with times of 22:44 and 23:20, respectively.

"We've been consistent lately," said Salem coach John Gravin when asked how his team has fared so far this season.

Gravin added, "As long as we can avoid injury and illness we'll be alright."

The Rocks' next challenge will come from Westland John Glenn on Thursday, Oct. 8 and then the Ypsilanti Invitational on Saturday, Oct. 10.

Salem cross country pushes record to 3-2

BY MARTY TUNGATE

The Canton girls cross country team continues its assault on the cross country world, while remaining undefeated this year.

On Thursday, the Chiefs dropped the Northville Mustangs, 15-48.

The Chiefs captured the first five spots in the meet, with Lori Penland in first with a time of 20:49.

Lynda Schendel finished in second for the Chiefs in 21:22, while teammate Cindy Spessard finished just behind Schendel in 21:44.

Sherry Figurski took fourth place in the meet in 22:14, while Cathy McCabe rounded out the top five in 22:14.

The Chiefs are now 7-0, and are on top of the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) in the Western division.

Next on the Chief's hit list will be Farmington Harrison, who has been traditionally tough against Canton. The meet will take place at Cass Benton on Thursday, Oct. 8 at 4 p.m.

Kick team earns tough tie with Spartans

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Salem's boys soccer team came about a foot away from ending defending Class A state champion Livonia Stevenson's 63-game streak without a loss.

But a goal by Rock kicker Denny Reynolds was called back after the referee determined Salem senior co-captain Randy Balconi was off-side.

The heartbreaker ended in a 0-0 tie. "This is the second year in a row we've tied Stevenson. It's getting very frustrating," Salem coach Ken Johnson said after the disappointing tie.

The tie puts Salem in second place in the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) at 5-1-2 in the and 9-2-2 overall.

But there is a good omen to the tie. Last year when Salem's girls soccer squad tied defending state champion Livonia Churchill, the kickers from Salem were 9-2-2 overall. They then went on to go undefeated and capture the Class A state title.

So who knows.

The 100 yard freestyle saw Rock Jennifer Barr finish first in 1:04.18, while teammate Sarah Andrews finished first in the 500 yard freestyle in 6:15.71.

In the 100 yard backstroke saw Carie Vanderweele took first in 1:15.71.

The Salem relay teams also did well against the Vikings, as Heather Bunch, Erin Olson, Andrews and Dawn Shiek took the 200 medley relay in 2:08.22, while Bunch, Shiek, Anderson and Meszaros captured the 400 yard freestyle in 4:07.06.

With a win like this one would think the Rocks are on a roll, but according to head coach Chuck Olson the team is having its problems.

"We're struggling at our meets," Olson said. "Our times are better in practice than our meets."

Steelers face Flyers

The Plymouth Canton Steelers Junior League football team hosted the Romulus Flyers this past weekend at Central Middle School.

The Steelers brought in a win, a tie and a loss.

The junior varsity Steelers won their game 12-6. But it began with Romulus breaking away and scoring early in the first minutes of the game to lead 6-0.

The Steelers came back quickly and scored on a 25-yard run by Jason

Krueger, followed by another touchdown run from Steve Borke.

The varsity Steelers scored first and fast with Dan Burke running for two touchdowns to give the squad a 12-0 lead.

The Flyers came back, however, with a touchdown in the third quarter and another one with just two minutes left to play to tie it 12-12.

The freshmen Steelers fell 13-7 despite Ted Barker's touchdown and extra point.

Chief harriers on track

BY MARTY TUNGATE

Canton's boys cross country team got back into stride as they downed rival Northville, 23-33, Thursday.

Jay Swiecki finished second in the meet and first for the Chiefs, with a time of 17:35.

Al Byrnes finished third in the meet for Canton with a time of 17:44, while teammate Bob Bebee took fifth place for the Chief harriers in 17:55.

Matt Hall and Chris Way finished in the sixth and seventh spots for Canton. Hall took sixth in 18:13 and Way captured seventh in 18:15.

The Chiefs are now 5-1 overall, and looking stronger all of the time, according to coach Jim Hayes.

"We're looking real good right now and we're continuing to work hard," Hayes said.

Way, who finished seventh in the race, is probably Canton's most improved racer this year Hayes said.

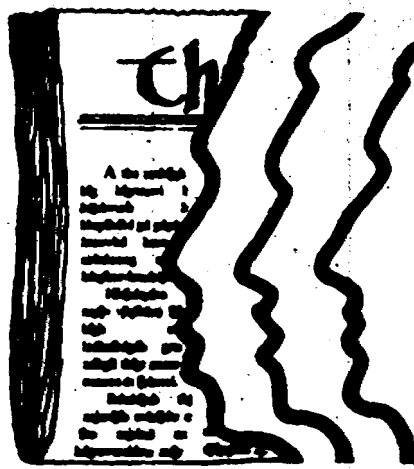

"Chris was a runner, and now he has become a racer. He's working very hard," Hayes added.

Tomorrow, Thursday, Oct. 8 the Chiefs will meet Farmington Harrison at Cass Benton. Race time is 4 p.m.

City: 'We don't want it to harm the environment'

PG. 37 THE COMMUNITY CRIER: October 7, 1987

 overseer for the City of Plymouth.
 "The county told us what we could and could not do.

"However, once the city saw fit to sub-contract the waste disposal out to Sheldon-Hayes," continued Bida, "it became unfeasible for Sheldon-Hayes to let us monitor what was going in."

At present, the city is working with Testing Engineers and Consultants, a private consulting firm from Troy, to draw up plans for the cleanup of the site. The city has also hired the services of an environmental law firm to look into the situation.

"The city closed the site nearly 20 years ago according to the standards for that time," said Ken West, engineer for the City of Plymouth. "The DNR now wants it to meet with the Act 641 closure requirements established in 1978.

"We're in the process of developing a closure plan that will be as economical as possible," West said. "We don't want it to harm the environment."

West estimated that cleanup costs could come close to $2 million.

Both West and Henry Graper, Plymouth's city manager, maintain that the DNR has failed to produce conclusive evidence to support their claims of contamination.

"I went up to Jackson to look over the data in their files," said West. "Their files don't contain any proof regarding what's been found."

"At this point, the DNR has very little to say about our landfill," said

Graper. "Yet, at any moment, they could say something that could prove to be very costly for the city."

West also notes that city officials remain concerned that what contaminants may have been found could possibly have seeped in from other landfills in the area.

"According to the DNR, we're guilty until we can prove ourselves innocent," said West. "Hopefully we can turn this negative into a positive. We might be able to turn the site into something like soccer fields."
