

A Cagney fan?

Yankee DOEdle Dandy

BY W. EDWARD WENDOVER
Moviegoers at the Penn Theatre's nostalgic first showing of James Cagney in "Yankee Doodle Dandy" on July 4th got an extra show when an uninvited patron crashed in.

A small doe burst through the third-from-left front door of the theater just as the movie was letting out, injuring one woman as the glass shattered startling patrons and employees.

"I was scared," said the injured Michelle Page, 28, of Detroit, "I didn't even see the deer coming. After the deer hit me, I had hair and blood all over me."
Just like the City of Plymouth Police officer, Ron Kaminski, who wrote the report, Page had trouble getting people to believe what happened.

Rescue was called to transport Page to

Computer glitches Twp. tax bills late

BY RANDY COBLE

Plymouth Township home and business owners who expected to see their local property tax bills in the mailbox this week are in for disappointment.

Plymouth Township Treasurer Mary Brooks said that the bills, normally mailed out July 1, will not be sent until Monday due to the township's new computer system.

"We've gone to a new computer system recently," Brooks said, "and we do have some glitches. Before we send the bills out, we are going over

City man dies in crash

BY RANDY COBLE

A City of Plymouth man died of injuries sustained early Friday morning in an accident under investigation by Plymouth Township Police.

Michael Cameron, 20, died at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia July 3 shortly after sustaining multiple injuries when the pickup truck he was in rolled over, said Sgt. Robert Antal, of the township police.

Also in the vehicle at the time of the accident was an 18-year-old Plymouth Township man, Jeremy Wagner. Police said he received minor injuries.

Antal said that the 1986 Ford F-150 pickup was traveling southbound on Ridge Road south of North Territorial Road "when for some as-yet undetermined reason it swerved to the right, went up the shoulder of the road, and as it came back down, rolled once."

He added that the victim had been thrown from the vehicle at some point during the accident.

"Cameron was found in the roadway, face up," he continued, "and had some vital signs at the scene. He was transported to St. Mary, where he was pronounced dead."

Cameron, a 1990 Salem High School graduate, worked as a plumbing assistant with his father's company, Cameron Plumbing of Plymouth. He is survived

Thomas again

BY MIKE McGLINNEN

It is the third time around for Roland Thomas, the new president of the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education during the 1992-93 school year.

The board unanimously elected Thomas to the position at an organizational meeting Monday. He previously acted as president for two consecutive terms, in 1984-85 and 1985-86.

Thomas welcomed new board member Jack Farrow, his first action as president, before the remaining officers were elected.

The board also elected Carl Battishill vice-president; 1991-92 president David Arley secretary for 1992-93; and Dean Swartzwelter remained as treasurer.

Talks enter second year

City, Twp. return fire over services

BY RANDY COBLE

Plymouth city and township officials have been trading potshots in recent weeks over the long on-going negotiations over the joint services issue.

The two municipalities have engaged in talks for well over a year on the possible combination of city/township services in police, emergency service dispatch and fire areas.

The dispatch and police talks have collapsed due to problems related to union contracts, equipment costs and the method of sharing operating expenses for a joint system.

While fire service negotiations are still ongoing, similar problems plague those talks as well.

In a letter to the editor that appeared in The Crier's May 17 issue, Plymouth City Commissioner William McAninch said that Plymouth Township Supervisor Gerald Law "at no time wanted or intended to reach an agreement with the city."

"Perhaps when the lame duck supervisor leaves," he said, "the new township board will give first consideration to township public safety and its fiscal impact on taxpayers, rather than personal ego and politics."

Plymouth City Manager Steven Walters said that while he did not want to speculate on Law's motives, his actions regarding joint services "had that practical effect.

"He took positions that were declared non-negotiable," Walters said. "And he knew where we stood on those issues as well. It was unreasonable to an extent.

Law did not respond to numerous phone calls from The Crier.

McAninch said that joint services negotiations "are at a standstill now, and I'm not optimistic that things will move soon."

"If whomever the new supervisor is has an open mind," he said, "there's hope, however."

Township Chief Building Official Charles McIlhargey, who is one of four Republican candidates facing each other in the Aug. 4 primary for supervisor (Law has decided not to run for re-election), launched a mild salvo of his own recently.

In a letter to Walters on the joint services issue, McIlhargey said that he was "disappointed that you have chosen to politicize and trivialize the current joint service dialogue by appealing to (supervisor) candidates, and by communicating with the media, but not with the township."

City officials have said that they have discussed the issue with the candidates.

Walters said in response that other candidates for supervisor had made "a positive response. They more or less said, 'thanks for the information.' It wasn't done to subvert the situation. I don't know where he's coming from."

He added that the city was prepared "to meet with current township officials at any time."

In a related issue, Walters said that he had concerns over a recent letter from Law to him about potential joint city/township use of meters to measure sewer flows as part of a certification program for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

In a letter dated June 5, which Walters said he did not receive until June 15, Law said that "this item must move forward immediately and be acted upon by June 16."

Walters said that Law "did not explain why the letter was delayed, nor why June 16 was set.

"We're not going to roll over and play dead because someone sets a deadline," Walters added.

City easement grant makes full circle

BY ROBERT PARKER

The City of Plymouth Commission admitted Monday night that it made a mistake when it voted to rescind a resolution that granted an easement across city property to an office building on Harvey Street.

After some heated comments about the issue, the commission voted Monday to grant the easement that was originally negotiated by the city and Harvey property owners Michael and Mary Gladchun to allow for the construction of a driveway.

The commission split over a 4-2 vote June 15 to rescind its granting of the easement, which is adjacent to the south side of the Harvey site.

Prior to that vote, the commission had originally voted, in February, to grant an easement for the driveway, with the provision that the owner reach an agreement with the city to share the use of the driveway easement. All commission members voted to grant the easement except Dennis Shrewsbury, and Jerry Vorva who was not present.

City Manager Steven Walters said yesterday that there are some legal questions that still need to be answered by the city attorney regarding the granting of the easement.

"If the city commission, for some reason, was not able to legally grant the easement, then the mayor and clerk's signing of the agreement (in April) may not be valid," Walters said.

Wilfred N. Brunk, the attorney for property owners, addressed the commission Monday and said that his clients have already spent a "significant amount of money" to begin construction on the easement in relation to the original site plan.

In addition, Brunk said that a building permit has already been issued.

Brunk questioned the commission's legal right to rescind an agreement in which the implementation of it has already started.

Funds for classroom construction

Schoolcraft gets $3.2 million

BY RANDY COBLE

Schoolcraft College has received a multi-million dollar allotment from the state for construction of its newest classroom building.

Mary Breen, a member of the college's governing board of trustees, said that Schoolcraft will get $3.2 million from the State of Michigan's Capital Outlay for Higher Education fund.

The school is only one of six colleges in the state to qualify for program monies, Breen said.

Both houses of the state legislature approved the measure late last month, with the final word coming on June 25.

Governor John Engler was scheduled to sign the bill July 1, Breen indicated, but had not as of last week. "We fully expect him to shortly, though," Breen added.

The state funds will cover half of the total cost of the new building, Breen said, which will be "primarily classrooms, with some student services space."

The remaining $3.2 million will come from a special fund the college maintains, Breen said. Several years ago the college began leasing 16 of the 130 acres it owns, the 16-acre parcel near the Seven Mile-1-275 intersection.

Proceeds from the leasing agreement, Breen said, along with a portion of rental fees those who lease the property charge, "go into a kitty we maintain strictly for building funds," Breen said.

The lease agreement is for 70 years, Breen noted, but said that the move was a prudent one. "We'll never develop all 130 acres," she said, "and we had a real opportunity here. It's a gold mine of valuable property there."

Some will be televised P-C-N voters can catch candidates at forums

BY RANDY COBLE

Who's who this election season may get a little easier in the coming weeks.

To that end the League of Women Voters (LWV) in Plymouth-Canton-Northville is sponsoring a series of candidates' forums to provide voters the chance to learn about the candidates for local and state offices on the ballot in the Aug. 4 primary election.

The forums will last about 90 minutes, and will be moderated by a League member.

Omnicom Cablevision will videotape the forums in Plymouth and Northville townships for later presentation. Dates will be announced soon. Canton's event will not be televised.

A forum for Plymouth Township candidates will be held Wednesday, July 22, at 7:30 p.m. at the township clerk's building at 42356 Ann Arbor Rd.

An exclusively Republican field of candidates will duke it out in their respective races. The winners Aug. 4 face no Democratic opposition in the Nov. 3 general election. Independent candidates have until July 16 to file, but none have as yet.

Certified candidates for election to township offices include trustee (seven candidates for four open seats), township clerk (two candidates), township supervisor (four candidates) and current Treasurer Mary Brooks running unopposed.

In a related development, township supervisor candidate Stephen Boak has invited the other three candidates to a special televised debate.

Boak said that he mailed the invitations to the three other candidates on Monday. The debate is slated for Tuesday, July 21, from 7:30-9 p.m. It will be broadcast live on channel 15 from Omnicom's studios in Plymouth. A list of issues and a moderator has yet to have been selected, Boak said.

Canton voters will have a chance to speak with candidates for township offices, and the contenders for the two state house of representatives districts that encompass the township.

The "candidates' fair," as the League has dubbed the event, will be held Wednesday, July 22, at 8 a.m. at the Canton Public Library. The library is located at 1200 S. Canton Center Road.

It will involve candidates sitting at tables, and voters will have the opportunity to talk with any and all. There will be no forum at the fair.

Supervisor Tom Yack is running unopposed, but will not be able to attend.

Two candidates are facing each other for the office of township clerk, and three for treasurer, including two Republicans in the August primary. Also, six Republican candidates will be on the primary ballot, competing for township trustee spots on the November ballot.

In the 21st State House race, two GOP candidates will battle to face the Democratic incumbent this November.

Two Republicans will face off for the right to take on the lone Democratic candidate after Aug. 4 in the 18th State House contest.

Officials of the Canton Chamber of Commerce said that they have not yet heard from all the candidates on which of them can and cannot attend.

Northville Township voters will have the chance to listen to candidates for their township's offices Tuesday, July 21, at 7:30 p.m. at township hall, located at 41600 Six Mile Rd.

The League of Women Voters is a national, non-partisan organization. It works to obtain and distribute information to the public on candidates for elected office and their views on pertinent issues.

Mural at center of PO debate

Just when you thought the Penniman post office deal was signed, sealed and delivered, another "hang-up" has delayed negotiations with the City of Plymouth.

It appears the 57-year-old mural hanging on the west wall of the Penniman Avenue post office is drawing more attention than a few casual glances from postal customers.

The postal service is deciding what it wants to do with the historic mural, which is considered a federal work of art.

Painted by Carlos Lopez for the U.S. Treasury Department in 1935, the mural depicts the arrival of a stage coach "bearing the mail and the news from the outside world."

In addition, there are three panels bordering the mural at the bottom.

Residents will resolve Twp. election

Democracy at mercy of politics

Politics would seem to be warping democracy in Plymouth Township.

On May 12, Plymouth Township Supervisor Gerald Law requested a township ethics panel (which is the board itself) be convened to investigate the actions of Trustee John Stewart, one of four candidates for the job Law has chosen to leave.

The two have frequently been on edge during Law's tenure, all the more so since Stewart declared himself a candidate this year for the supervisor's job.

Law said he had received complaints that Stewart had violated the township's ethics policy by holding fund raiser on May 8 at the Pavilion in township park.

Saying it was his job as supervisor to pass these along to the board, Law requested the ethics panel to convene.

Claiming that the event was more about fun than funds, Stewart called the allegations baseless.

The board voted to convene the panel and find out for themselves. Law set the date of the hearing for May 28, where he said evidence and witnesses attesting to Stewart's violations would be presented.

He neglected to inform Stewart of the date until the day before it was to take place.

Just six hours before the hearing, Law canceled it, saying he hadn't put together all the information he needed.

Now, as Yogi Berra said, it's deja vu all over again.

Law informed Township Clerk Esther Hulsing last week of the new (July 8) date for the hearing. Some other members

Unabridged . . .

By Robert Parker

According to Plymouth City Manager Steven Walters, the postal service is negotiating how it wants to preserve the mural.

That is, will the city have to maintain it, or will it somehow remain under federal control?

Walters said there is a national committee that decides issues involving federal works of art.

It looks like the Penniman mural controversy is in committee right now.

Committee members are probably furiously debating about the future of the mural. "I think we should preserve this mural in ... in ... what city is it in anyway guys?"

Hopefully the problem will be resolved as quickly as possible.

The city would probably not have any problems keeping the mural intact.

But, if it decides to sell the building to a private owner, the mural may be doomed.

Lopez probably had no idea that his mural would become such an important matter to the government.

Since you asked . . .

by Randy Coble

of the board did not find out about it until Friday.

Left in the dark, however, was Stewart, who said that as of Monday afternoon, Law had not notified him of the hearing by telephone or mail.

Which might be just as well, since Hulsing decided to cancel the whole shebang on Monday due to the request of Stewart's lawyer.

Stewart himself said that Law was trying to throw a monkey wrench into his campaign by spinning out the threat of the hearings during the months leading up to the Aug. 4 primary.

He claimed Law was trying to aid the candidacy of Chief Township Building Official Charles McIlhargey at Stewart's expense.

Law did not respond to a number of Crier phone calls.

Both Law and McIlhargey have long been associated with the political machine of Wayne County Commissioner and former Supervisor Maurice Breen.

Some speculate that when Law decided not to run, McIlhargey became the new fair-haired stepchild of the Breen clique.

It's harsh to say that Law, as part of such a Machiavellian plan, is purposely delaying the hearings to injure Stewart.

But the way he's handled it gives many that impression.

First things first -- if he had enough evidence to call for the hearings, what else does Law need to find to actually hold them? And just how long is it going to take?

In terms of scheduling, he's had two months to find a date convenient to panel members and witnesses -- what's the problem?

The real problem is democracy -- that process whereby the people of the township will select their supervisor.

That decision ain't up to Stewart or Law or Breen or the media. It is the sacred right of the people to choose their elected representatives in our system.

What's been going on with the ethics hearings -- whether accident or design -- distorts this process. The public has been hearing about this for two months, with no final word forthcoming.

Law must now, in effect, fish or cut bait. Hold the hearings now, or publicly bag the whole thing.

Leaving allegations unresolved merely damages the chances -- and the right -- of the people to make an informed and intelligent decision in the voting booth.

Politicians do not interfere with Farmer's Market

EDITOR:

This letter is in response to the article about candidates who have been attending the Plymouth Farmer's Market recently, and to attempt to correct what I contend are some incorrect statements by the Plymouth Chamber of Commerce employe who was recently quoted in your paper.

As you know, I was at the Farmer's Market almost every Saturday, this summer, and I have only missed one Saturday so far this year. During that time, I have talked with hundreds and hundreds of local residents and visitors from other areas.

In addition, I have observed the behavior this year of several candidates for political office who are there handing out literature and talking to people.

Not once have I witnessed any candidate interfere with or accost or harass any citizen.

To the contrary, I have witnessed the person who was quoted in your story on three separate occasions verbally assault candidates who were present, and attempt to make them leave the area.

However, I have noticed that this person only has harassed candidates whose political views are different from his. I have seen him personally escort two candidates through the market, introduce them to other merchants and give them coffee, and show them places to stand to hand out literature or talk to citizens.

It is interesting to note that in this age of "politician-bashing," when the citizens and voters complain that their leaders don't listen to them and are unresponsive to their needs, we now have several candidates for political office who are willing to give their time and energy to stand in a public place and talk and listen to the citizens.

I say "hooray" for those candidates, and "hooray" for the citizens who take the time to talk and air their grievances. That is the essence of liberty and political freedom.

I challenge that person who gave you the erroneous information in your story to produce one citizen who has a legitimate complaint of being harassed by any of the candidates at the Gathering. For everyone he gets, I'll get 10 citizens who are happy to have the opportunity to speak with candidates and politicians face-to-face, instead of hiding in their plush downtown or Lansing offices, making backroom deals out of the light of public scrutiny.

I will be at the Gathering next Saturday, and any Saturday I want to and I hope that the other candidates for public office will follow my lead, and continue to be available to the citizens now, and after their elections.

God save our Constitution and our right to freedom of speech and freedom of assembly, and protect us from those who would restrict our freedom because they don't like what we say. Perhaps we should post a copy of Constitution on the wall of the Gathering just to remind us of the freedom it gives to us, a free people.

Words were twisted

Hilltop meeting was cordial

EDITOR:

With all the controversy appearing in both local papers concerning Hilltop Golf Course, John Jawor and John Stewart, I would like to express my views.

I was asked by Stewart to meet with him, Jawor and Jawor's attorney May 15. The meeting was very cordial, informative, and non-controversial. We sat together for an hour over coffee and discussed the future of the golf course.

Jawor was very enthused about the possibility of a new clubhouse, a driving range, and a ladies (LPGA) tournament. At no time did Stewart try to take (or grab) the credit for any of these improvements. It was obvious that Stewart was there to listen and learn.

After the meeting Jawor offered one of his carts so Stewart and I could take a short tour of the course. As any golfers can see it is one of the better courses in the whole area, and Jawor should be commended for its excellent condition.

The worst feature is the clubhouse. It is probably one of the worst in the area and I can believe that Jawor is ashamed of it.

The meeting ended on a very positive and friendly note. In our conversation later Stewart said nothing derogatory about Jawor but he could see a lot of possibilities with the course and its value to the residents.

It is unfortunate that later on words got twisted around, as it made both Jawor and Stewart look bad. They both are very sincere, dedicated men and should be judged in that light.

Tax plan punishes area

EDITOR:

It is hard to believe that the governor and the state legislature of Michigan could possibly come up with a more ridiculous school finance plan than tax base sharing where a community is required to share its own property taxes with other communities (Robin Hood plan).

The residents and government of Canton have worked very hard to establish a safe, pleasant community which is attractive to residential and business property owners. The Plymouth-Canton School system is a good school system which is also cost efficient.

Now the State of Michigan wants to take away the property tax dollars, which belong to the people of the Plymouth-Canton School District, and transfer this money to other school districts where this money could very well be completely wasted.

What upsets me is that Mr. Kosteva, the state representative from Canton, has voted for this totally unfair tax sharing plan. Maybe Mr. Kosteva does not think the residents of Canton are paying enough taxes, or maybe the Plymouth-Canton Schools should be punished for some reason.

As far as I know, Mr. Kosteva was the only state representative from western Wayne County, whose district is losing money, to vote for this tax-sharing plan.

Right now, it seems the court system is the only hope we have to stop this ridiculous, unfair plan, since it is now tied up in the court system. Remember, a community is only as good as its school system, so in the next election, I will be sure to vote for a state representative who will vote to keep Canton's property taxes in Canton.

Remains in operation

Mayflower restructuring plan due this month

BY ROBERT PARKER

Intense competition and a reduction in hotel and room service has forced the Mayflower Hotel into a fiscal nightmare.

Hotel owners R. Scott and Randy Lorenz and Creon Smith are currently developing a reorganization and restructuring plan that must be submitted to Federal Bankruptcy Court.

Smith said a due date on the plan has been tentatively set for the end of July but the possibility of a further extension remains.

He declined to comment further on the reorganization plan saying that it would not be made public until it was presented in court.

The owners of the more than 50-year-old hotel, who filed for bankruptcy protection under Chapter 11 in January, are trying to renegotiate approximately $3.5 million of debt with Heritage Savings Bank of Taylor.

The hotel has remained in operation while attorneys have been negotiating with the bank.

The bankruptcy filing did not affect the Mayflower Meeting House or the operation of the Roundtable Club, which are owned separately.

In 1987, a loan was made for $3 million to the 75-room hotel and in 1988, additional funds, in the amount of $380,000 were lent for the purpose of improvements to the hotel.

Both loans were more than 90 days past due as of June 30, 1991, according to Heritage Bank's 1991 annual report.

New City marketing plan

BY KEN VOYLES

Plymouth's new marketing campaign, tailored to bring more businesses to the city, will be unveiled July 22.

The public meeting will be held at 8 a.m. in the Mayflower Meeting House and include representatives of the marketing company Doyle Marketing, of Southfield, as well as the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce, the Plymouth DDA and the city.

Fran Toney, executive director of the Plymouth Chamber, said the new marketing plan will both promote local McAuley Arbor Health Center, where she was given six stitches in her left arm.

"The city fireman said I got hit by a deer," Page recounted.

"A beer?" asked the Huron Valley Ambulance medic.

"No a D-E-E-R," said the fireman.

Page said, "They all started laughing."

Although the postal worker said of her injury, "It isn't funny," even she laughed while recounting the incident Monday. "It was just like a movie."

When the deer crashed in, Plymouth's

Dr. William Covington was sitting in the theater lobby munching popcorn, having uncharacteristically arrived early for the second show. "It was pretty exciting I'll tell you," the dentist said.

Finding itself inside the lobby, the deer ran into the theater where several startled moviegoers tried to trap it. It butted one woman in the theater, according to a Penn employee.

Finally a patron ran to open the theater's back door, and the deer escaped into the parking lot next to the Gathering. Plymouth Sgt. Wayne Carroll last saw the wounded deer heading into Hines Park near River Oaks Drive.

After Kaminski left Page at the emergency room, he stopped to report the unusual incident to the newspaper.

"No, really..." he said several times as he told the story.

This was the second recent deer story in downtown Plymouth. Two years ago a larger deer smashed in the rear door of NBD on Fleet Street before eluding capture.

by his father, grandparents and two brothers. Funeral services were held Monday.

Antal said that police are currently investigating the matter to determine the cause of the accident and any possible contributing factors, such as the use of alcohol.

Monies in the fund currently total $2.7 million, Breen said, and will likely hit $2.7 million by the end of this year. The remaining $500,000 needed to cover the cost of the new construction project will come out of 1993 lease proceeds, she said.

"We will not sell bonds, or anything of that nature," Breen said.

Groundbreaking was expected to be in the spring of 1993, Breen said, and the building will be ready for use for winter 1994 classes, "possibly the fall of 1993 if we get lucky," she added.

Breen said she gave much of the credit for the college's success in getting the state money to Robert Law, a partner in the Plymouth firm formerly called Law, Hemming, Essad & Polaczyk.

The firm last month took on board two new partners, and is now called Sills, Hemming, Law, Essad, Polaczyk & Gillary.

"Bob Law has spent over two years working on the state for this money," Breen said. "We need it here. Last year, we had a total of over 25,000 students at Schoolcraft."

Breen said she was pleased with good news. "With the all the negatives out there in our economy," she said, "it was nice to see everyone come together and help the college get this grant. We all did our part - it was a family deal all the way."

Twp. ethics hearing on schedule

BY RANDY COBLE
AND ROBERT PARKER

Late yesterday Plymouth Township officials finally agreed to convene an ethics hearing to discuss allegations of misconduct by Trustee John Stewart.

Last week Plymouth Township Supervisor Gerald Law had set aside this evening (July 8) for the hearing, but on Monday it looked like for the second time in as many months that it would not take place after all.

Township Clerk Esther Hulsing, who on Monday canceled tonight's hearing after being unable to contact Law and after receiving a letter from Stewart's attorney requesting a delay, said late Tuesday that the hearing was indeed on.

"The ethics committee will receive the complaints against John Stewart and authorize an agent to determine the validity of the complaint," said Hulsing, at a 7 p.m. meeting tonight.

Hulsing added, "No action will be taken until the complaints are investigated and a report will be brought back to the committee for consideration.

"At that time another meeting will be held," she said.

Stewart, through his attorney, had requested a delay because he said Law had not informed him of the meeting date, either by phone or mail, as of Monday afternoon.

Law was not in his office Friday and did not return phone calls from The Crier by press delay, but Hulsing said late yesterday that she was "finally" able to get in touch with Law about the hearing.

Stewart said that the first he had heard of the matter was on Thursday when contacted about the hearing by a reporter.

"This is terrible. It's leaving me to twist in the wind," he said. "This is not constitutional.

"I would like to have some notice on this."

Law originally called for the hearing to be held May 28. That day at noon, Law canceled it, saying the necessary information and residents who would testify were not ready.

Stewart said that Law did not inform him of the date of the hearing, and that he learned he would face the panel May 28 by reading a May 27 Crier article on the subject.

Hulsing said she originally received word of the hearing last Tuesday.

Treasurer Mary Brooks said Thursday that she had "received a communique on June 30 from Gerry Law to the effect that the ethics committee would meet on July 8."

Trustee Smith Horton said that he had received the notice "towards the end of last week."

Trustee Ron Griffith said he received the notice after Thursday afternoon.

"I'd like to see this handled in a better fashion. If we're going to have this thing, then let's do it properly," Horton said.

Appointed supervisor by Maurice Breen last year, who left the job to become Wayne County commissioner, Law has engaged in a war of words with Stewart on several occasions, especially since Stewart announced his candidacy for Law's job. Law decided not to run for reelection just before the May 12 filing deadline.

Stewart, who is an attorney himself, retained Dearborn Heights lawyer Ronald Karp to represent him in the affair.

Easement embarrassment

He said the commission's original decision to grant the easement was granting the right of approval to someone not on the commission.

According to Walters, the Commission was unaware at its June 15 meeting that the easement had been completely executed.

"It was just a stupid mistake," he said, referring to city administration's failure to inform the commission that construction of the easement had began.

Commissioner William McAninch questioned how the situation was handled by city officials.

"I raised questions concerning this matter," he said. "I think the city manager, city attorney and city engineer made a mistake."

McAninch went on to say that the commission should have further discussed turning over city property for the purpose of development.

"The fact that the planning commission recommended it is not adequate enough," he said.

Other commissioners agreed that there was a problem.

"In February, we (commission) goofed for not asking to see potential problems," Commissioner John Vos III said.

Shrewsbury agreed and said essentially, the commission approved something that granted its authority to someone else.

Tax bills need to be checked

them here at the Treasurer's office to detect any errors. With 10,000 bills to check, it takes a bit of time."

Brooks said the property tax tabs were fully correct in their amounts -- the problem is in the computer's addressing.

"We want them to be correct," said Brooks. "There are some where there is a question over who to send it to, the homeowner or the homeowner's mortgage company."

The township normally sends out the tax bills on July 1 and Nov. 30 each year. The July bill covers the assessment for Schoolcraft College and one-half of the assessment for the Plymouth-Canton Community Schools. In November, monies from the bills will go to Plymouth-Canton Schools' remaining assessment.

Brooks said that the summer bills must be paid by Sept. 14. She said that if the two-week delay in sending them out caused problems in getting them back on time, she will ask the township's board of trustees to extend the September deadline at its July 21 meeting.

Fall Fest '92 shorter, fewer meals, this year

BY KEN VOYLES

This year's 37th annual Fall Festival in Plymouth promises to be different than in years past.

Besides being only three days long this year as compared with four in the past, the event will feature just two main meals.

Using the theme from last year -- "America's Small Town Fair" -- this year's festival runs Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 11-13.

It features the famous Rotary chicken barbeque on Sunday along with the pancake breakfast put on Saturday morning by the Kiwanis Club.

Other main meals, normally held on Friday and Saturday evenings, will not be featured this time around, said organizers.

Some new additions to the festival this year include the Lions Club selling "fun" food, such as funnel cakes; the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Saints selling coffee and doughnuts; and a "Church Cooperative" between the Salvation Army, Lake Pointe Bible Chapel, First Baptist, Main Street Baptist and Calvary Baptist churches offering scientific demonstrations and videos.

Bingo, which has been held Thursday evenings, will be moved to Friday, said Joe Bida, publicity coordinator for the festival.

Bida said tentative plans calls for closing downtown Plymouth streets at 3 p.m. Thursday (instead of Wednesday) so that the groups operating the record 27 booths will be able to open Friday morning.

Also new this year will be a karaoke night in the bandshell Friday and Saturday and sponsored by Holly's restaurant.

Something else new this year, said Bida, will be extra performances by the best high school marching band in the country -- CEP's Marching Band featuring Salem and Canton students -- Friday and Saturday under the tent in front of Central Middle School.

The band will perform a "variety" show, he said. The shows will be free, but band members will also be trying to raise funds for their 1992 season.

"This year the festival will probably be a little different than we've had," said Bida. "There will be less food to give the booths a better chance to make money."

Another change this year is the loss of seven student groups from CEP, said Bida. Only three school groups plans to participate. There will, for example, be no dunk tank this year.

"We're also changing the look of the festival this year," Bida said. "We negotiated a deal with Mister Rubbish so there won't be any big rubbish containers on the main festival grounds."

Still planned this year will be the annual pet show, the PCAC craft show, the produce tent and the Plymouth Symphony League antique mart.

"I'm glad we're going to three days," said Bida. "It makes the merchants in town happier and the people coming to festival will find stuff to do. In the past people have come in to town, say on Thursday, and nothing is set up."

Bida said the festival board, which meets again Aug. 5 in the Plymouth Township Annex, is still trying to line up monetary support from local merchants.

Bida added that the city has reduced its support of the festival by nearly $3,000.

'Top Gun' aims straight for home

BY ROBERT PARKER

The display area at Detroit's Willow Run Airport was packed with people gasping at the inspiring view of military air power.

First in the row, Marine Corps Capt. Barry Moore, nicknamed Spook, sat confidently on the wing of his F-18 fighter jet, answering questions from the crowd about his plane.

His gaze frequently shifted to the sky above, hoping to catch a glimpse of one of the performing planes.

This past weekend marked the first time in five years that Moore, 27, who grew up in Plymouth, visited Michigan with his aircraft.

Only a decade earlier, it was he, as a young man, asking the questions about the planes.

Now it was his turn to inspire other kids.

Although he didn't perform in the 1992 Detroit Willow Run Air Show, Moore made a fly-by departure Sunday and showed off some of his maneuvers before returning to his station in Beaufort, SC.

"It brought tears to my eyes to see him fly that plane," said Moore's mother Patricia.

The principal of Central Middle School, in the City of Plymouth, she said it wasn't very long ago when he was dreaming about flying planes.

"I know how excited he was to be at the air show," she said. "I remember taking him to air shows to talk with the pilots."

The weekend air show attracted more than 80,000 people to the two-day event, which featured a fly-by of the famous Stealth Fighter used in Desert Storm in 1991.

Moore, 27, has been in the Marine Corps for five years.

Currently, he is a member of Marine Fighter Attack Squadron 451 -- the Warlords.

His training included two years of flight school plus about eight months in the Hornet Squadron.

"It was the hardest thing he had ever done in his life," Patricia Moore said about her son's training. "There was an incredible amount of mental work as well as physical."

Moore said the F-18 is a multi-role fighter plane capable of air-to-air combat, air-to-ground attack and troop support.

The jet, a single-seat fighter, can carry a variety of weapons including heatseeking Sidewinder missiles, radar-guided Sparrow missiles and it is equipped with a 20-millimeter cannon.

Top speed of the F-18 is Mach 1.8, which is just under 1,200 miles per hour.

Moore, who is the only unmarried pilot in his squadron, said he has not made a decision about his future.

"As you get older, the amount of fun you get to have decreases," Moore said. "You tend to move from flying the planes to sitting behind a desk."

He said he would like to stay in the reserves after the Marine Corps.

City seeks computer system bids

BY ROBERT PARKER

The City of Plymouth is in the market for a new computer network with a price tag targeted at $60,000 to $100,000.

City Commissioners agreed Monday to begin to accept bids for computer software which are due Aug. 3.

The city intends to implement a new computer network system for all city operations, including new hardware and software.

About two thirds of the projected cost will go towards hardware with the remaining cost covering software, said City Manager Steven Walters.

There could be additional costs involving yearly maintenance and user training, he said.

The city is paying approximately $40,000 a year for the on-going maintenance of its current computer system, which includes on-line charges, programmers costs and general maintenance.

businesses as well as the city in an effort to bring in new businesses.

"I think this is one of the most exciting things happening in the business community in Plymouth in a long, long time," said Toney. "This is a joint effort between the DDA, the chamber and the merchants."

The Plymouth DDA is footing much of the bill for the marketing plan, said Toney, but the chamber must also raise $60,000 to make it work.

The program, she added, is open to all members of the chamber for an investment of $50 a month or $600 a year. It includes radio and newspaper advertising, direct mail and public relations to create an awareness of the products and services offered in Plymouth.

The campaign centers on a theme of "Discover the Exciting Worlds of Plymouth."

Toney said the chamber has had downtown business promotion plans in the past by pooling the resources of the its members.

"We want everyone to get excited and to get involved," she added.

Toney said the meeting is open to all "who can benefit." For more information or to reserve a space call 453-1540.

"We didn't have one last year but this year we decided to do it again," she said. "This all stemmed from the negative publicity we were getting when the shops were closing up and the hard economic times.

Musical event starts Aug. 7

The musical theme for this year's 2nd Annual Plymouth Music Celebration will be as diverse as its goal -- to incorporate regional and national talent into a program loaded with folk, new age jazz, contemporary jazz, country, classical and blues music.

The event, scheduled to take place Aug. 7-9 in Kellogg Park, will feature folk, new-age jazz, country, classical and blues.

The festival also incorporates displays, culinary events, along with entertainment for children and families.

The proposed schedule of events is as follows:

Friday, Aug. 7, free "Blues in the Park" concert in Kellogg Park and a "Taste Fest" in the Gathering (admission charge) from 5-9 p.m.

Saturday, Aug. 8, free children's program with live children's theatre, songs, musicians, clowns, crafts, balloons and face painting from noon to 4 p.m. and a free concert in Kellogg Park along with a family Italian dinner in the Gathering (admission) from 5-9 p.m.

Sunday, Aug. 9, free country-music concert in Kellogg Park from 1-5 p.m. and an old fashion ice-cream social all day in the park.

A portion of the proceeds from the event will go to the Plymouth community, with the hopes of eventually establishing a scholarship fund for talented local musical students.

The celebration is presented by Watts-UP Inc., producers of the Downtown Hoedown, the Detroit Blues Festival and the Grand Prix Jam. It is being presented in conjunction with the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce.

Twp. trustee ethics hearing on, off . . . on?

Karp, in a letter to township Clerk Esther Hulsing, requested the hearing be delayed because he could not attend.

Public notice of the hearing was posted at township hall on Thursday, Hulsing said, but Law was responsible for mailing a notice to board members and Stewart. On Tuesday, Hulsing said the meeting had again been posted for tonight.

Karp expressed dismay that Stewart was given little notice of the hearing date. "The lack of timely notice creates the impression that a meeting has been secretly planned with the design for the last minute notice."

Hulsing received the letter Monday. She said that she "could not get in touch" with Law about the matter, and that she was unaware Stewart had not yet received a letter informing him of the date. Because of that, Hulsing said Monday, she decided to adjourn the July 8 hearing.

When asked what the new date of hearing would be, Hulsing said, "I'll leave the ball in his (Law's) glove."

"His office is handling this entire matter," she said. "It's up to him."

Stewart, on the board since 1988, will face off against fellow GOP contenders Kathleen Keen-McCarthy, Stephen Boak and township Chief Building Official Charles McIlhargey in the Aug. 4 primary ballot.

The winner of the primary will face no Democratic opposition in the November 3 general election, as no Democrat filed for the supervisor's race.

Independents have until July 16 to file for the general election. No independent candidates had filed as of Monday.

If Stewart fails in his bid to become supervisor, he will not retain his seat on the board.

At the board's May 12 meeting, Law asked the board to agree to convene itself as the township's ethics panel (which is the procedure outlined by the ethics policy adopted in 1989) to consider what

Law said were allegations by residents that Stewart misused township property.

The ethics policy, for which both Law and Stewart voted, states that public officials cannot use the municipality's personnel, resources or property "for personal gain or benefit."

On May 8, Stewart held what his campaign literature referred to as a "birthday party fun(d) raiser" to be held at the township park Pavilion.

Tech bids raise concern

BY MIKE MCGLINNEN

The Plymouth-Canton Community Schools Board of Education awarded Michigan Bell Communications a $7.7 million media retrieval bid despite charges by another bidder that Michigan Bell had an unfair advantage in their role as consultant to the project.

Representatives of Livonia's Sound Engineering made the charges at the June 29 school board meeting, where the contract was approved by a 7-0 vote.

The school system allowed 10 days for bids to be prepared and only received the proposals from Michigan Bell and Sound Engineering. Michigan Bell's bid was $7,797,364 and Sound Engineering's $10,756,789, which was reduced to $8,407,489 when bid clarifications permitting comparison to the low bidder were taken into account.

The Dynacom system selected for the retrieval bid will allow teachers to access numerous information systems (laser

Main St. Taco Bell is on the move

BY MIKE McGLINNEN

A Plymouth institution will be leaving Main Street soon, as the city's original Taco Bell will move to Ann Arbor Road in two weeks.

The new facility is more modern than the previous one and features a drive thru window, improved kitchen facilities, and more parking, said Mary Zigman, general manager of both Plymouth Taco Bells.

The old store will close after business hours July 19 and the new store will open the next day.

Litigation in progress with Kemper

Roney moves into City

BY ROBERT PARKER

After losing six account executives to one of its competitors, a local brokerage firm has taken legal action.

Kemper Securities, in downtown City of Plymouth, applied to Wayne County Circuit Court last month for a temporary restraining order to prevent its former employees from soliciting or servicing their clients.

After a hearing, the court denied Kemper's application.

The defecting employees have joined Detroit-based Roney & Co., who recently opened an office in downtown Plymouth.

Duane Billmeyer, of Roney & Co., denied that the account executives did anything illegal.

"Account-executive mobility is a fact of life in this business today," he said. "Clients typically desire to be serviced by their current account executives, regardless of which brokerage house they are with."

Ellen Resnick, vice president of corporate communications for Kemper, said that the company is continuing to pursue the litigation.

"There are two sides to every story," she said. "We choose to tell our side in court."

Resnick denied to comment further on the lawsuit, but clarified that Kemper will continue to operate in Plymouth.

"We have no plans to leave," Resnick said.

Craig Fleming, one of the account executives who recently joined Roney & Co. said, "we are very excited about this move, which is in everyone's best interest."

Roney & Co. has 26 regional offices throughout Michigan, Ohio and Indiana.

Getting down to business

The years of cruising in Plymouth did not influence the decision to move, Zigman said.

"I like the kids -- that had nothing to do with it at all. I have been telling the kids to make sure they come down to the new store," said Zigman.

The old location has been open for nearly 20 years, and the time has come to upgrade the facility to meet the increased popularity of the chain over the last several years, Zigman said.

Plymouth Industrial Center owner cleans site

BY ROBERT PARKER

When David Kahan bought the more than 50-year-old Plymouth Industrial Center, (PIC) two years ago, he knew his work was cut out for him.

The 79-acre center, located in Plymouth Township on Eckles Road, was run down and in need of renovation.

Some of the buildings on the site housed factories that produced munitions during World War II.

More than 20 years ago, companies like Evans Products used toxic chemicals -- mainly cleaning solvents -- in their day-to-day operations. As a result, the park has some ground-water contamination.

The Plymouth Township Board of Trustees recently granted a 12-year tax abatement for a 268,000 square foot building in the PIC.

Dennis Walker, who has been the PIC's general manager for 12 years, said during the 50s and 60s, companies in the park dug trenches that were used to dispose of its daily waste -- including chemicals. This was a common practice.

Walker said a pumping system, which is being used to remove the contamination, has been in operation for two years.

The remediation system utilizes five wells located in strategic parts of the park -- three at the front and two in the rear -- and a three-stage filter with activated carbon to clean the water.

Monitored by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR), the system injects the water into the storm sewers after it has been purified.

Getting rid of a hidden problem like ground-water contamination may have been his biggest obstacle, but it is only a part of Kahan's efforts to clean up the park.

Kahan said he is trying to change the tenancy of the PIC from public warehousing to more smaller-type operations like the fabric company, small restaurant and snack bar, the Better Made Company, Gasport Construction and a limousine service that work out of the park.

In addition, Kahan said some obsolete buildings are scheduled to be demolished to make space for parking and landscaping Designated as a rehabilitation district by Plymouth Township in September 1991, the site is currently at 83 per cent occupancy.

"In the long run, this will be good for the township," Kahan said. "It will allow us to attract tenants."

The building, which has been completely renovated -- including a new facade and sprinkler system -- is home to Olin Chemical, a Fortune 500 company.

Township Treasurer, Mary Brooks, was the only board member to vote against the tax abatement.

"I do not like tax abatements," she said. "It takes money away from the schools and the library."

"If people want to be here (in Plymouth Township), we have everything to offer."

Subsequently, the Plymouth District Library Board voted to oppose the granting of a tax abatement.

The board submitted its vote to the Plymouth Township Board of Trustees urging that it not grant the tax abatement.

According to Library Board President Stephen Harper, the board feels "this type of preferential treatment can lead to abuse and erodes the tax base in favor of special interests at the expense of other taxpayers."

Kahan said that the tax abatement will help obtain new tenants in a sluggish real estate market.

In addition, he hopes that his renovations and an upsurge in the economy will help to attract new companies into the park.

PIC is one of the 10 largest taxpayers in Plymouth Township.

Schools debate tech bid package

discs, video recorders, interactive compact discs or still video discs) for display on video monitors within classrooms.

All the source devices will be in a central location at the schools and the teacher controls what is shown in a classroom with a remote control device.

The bid is based on placing the system into all 588 classrooms of the school district.

The specifications included the right of the district to limit the quantities purchased within 90 days of the acceptance of the bid, considering the district budget problems. Any reduction in quantity will not affect the direction that all rooms will be wired for the media retrieval with installation awaiting additional funding.

"We have concerns with the way the bids were handled. The bid process was not proper. The consultant is being allowed to bid as a vendor -- this was set up only for Michigan Bell to win the contract," said Barry Gilbert, systems consultant for Sound Engineering.

"The short time period (10 days) is designed to deter one from preparing a bid in time. We could have saved Plymouth-Canton money if we were allowed enough time," Gilbert said.

Board members believed the process provided enough time for bids to be tendered, and the issue involved only price, rather than any indiscretion.

"These are two quality systems and two quality companies -- this is just a bid issue," said Dean Swartzwelder, board treasurer.

"Both systems meet the specifications of the bid and the request for it. It would be out of place to walk through the pros and cons of each system. They both meet what we want," said Dave Rodwell, Plymouth-Canton administrative assistant for research and data processing.

Board President David Artley also believed the bidding worked out adequately.

"I think the process went okay. We just went with the lowest bidder. It could have been longer than eight to ten days but the fact remains that both companies put in workable bids in that time period," Artley said.

"To sit down after the fact and pick apart the bids -- I'm not sure that is how the process is supposed to work. To start picking apart afterward is a little unfair," he added.

Artley said that the school district and Barton Malow asked for the short time period for the bids in order to get started on the implementation of the project as soon as possible.

"I think we did what was best for the school district but I don't agree with how it was done," said Jack Farrow, recently elected school board trustee, who had not yet taken his board seat when this issue came before the board.

"We've never seen a case where a consultant writes the specifications and then evaluates them. That's like telling to a Ford dealer you want to buy a car -- what's he going to sell you? A Ford, of course," Gilbert said.

Gilbert explained that systems used by Sound Engineering in other districts do what the Plymouth-Canton district wants, they just do it differently than specified by Michigan Bell.

"If had to sum this up, I would say that equivalent specifications do not mean equivalent functions," Gilbert said.

Shows satisfy childhood dreams

Elite equestrians display horse sense

BY ANNE SULLIVAN

Horse competition is a mixture of athletics, a love of animals and history, and for those born in the 20th century who may feel they missed something, an opportunity to experience a way of life enjoyed long ago.

The Michigan All-Morgan Horse Show opens today at the Michigan State Fairgrounds in Detroit and runs through Saturday.

Morgan horses from across the USA and Canada will be showcased in what is billed as Michigan's largest All-Morgan show and one of the largest in the Midwest.

While many competitors will drive miles to get there, crossing state lines and international borders, several local competitors will also be involved.

Gina Hyatt, of Plymouth Township, is living a childhood dream she never outgrew.

"My mother swears the first word out of my mouth was horse," said Hyatt, who will be showing her Morgan horses this week at the Michigan State Fairgrounds on Eight Mile Road and Woodward Avenue.

Several riders, drivers and trainers from Plymouth-Canton-Northville will also be participating. Hyatt is one of three Plymouth women competing in the All-Morgan show, who board, train, ride and/or drive horses at Showcase Stables in South Lyons.

As a child growing up in the Chicago suburbs, Hyatt fell in love with horses. Today she favors the Morgan breed because they "have a sparkle other horses don't have."

As an adolescent, she approached her parents about taking riding lessons. They were delighted by the idea according to Hyatt.

"My mother thought if I was at the stables with the horses, I wouldn't be out getting in trouble with boys."

Mom's theory worked. Hyatt spent her high school years at the stables and wasn't interested in dating boys until she was in college. Horses were her passion then, and today are a passion she shares with her husband Logan.

From Showcase, Hyatt's Darvale Commando (aka Mandy) will be promoted by trainers Michael Slomkowski and his wife, Ann, who also teaches geometry at Plymouth Salem High.

The Hyatts will also be showing horses from their stables in Plymouth.

When asked what keeps her in the horse business, which she said is a lot of hard work, Hyatt shrugged and said she loves horses.

Although there are awards and small cash prizes can be won at some shows, Hyatt insists that's not why she shows horses.

"It's seeing a good horse," said Hyatt of what she likes about horse shows. "It's like having a child who accomplishes something, you're very proud."

The Hyatts have two mares at their Plymouth stable and are interested in breeding. The shows can provide a market.

One of the more favorable elements of the sport is it attracts people of all ages. Children as young as four can compete, along with adults.

More than 300 entrants will be competing in 180 events during the four-day show at the State Fairgrounds.

There is competition in a host of events including English and Western style riding, jumping, speed, pleasure driving (pulling a two-wheel or four-wheel cart), equitation (horsemanship) and many others.

Each event is further broken down by the age of the rider or presenter, and the experience level of the horse or person in the event, providing fair competition in all events.

In addition to mastering the skills of the various events, competitors also must dress in the style of riding they are competing.

In some competitions, riders are evaluated on the authenticity of their costumes.

In Hunt Seat, a pin is worn on the collar of the costume. During a fox hunt or steeple chase, the pin would be used to stitch a wound acquired on the hunt or sew on a button, according to CJM assistant trainer Melinda Pilkievicz.

If a rider was injured or clothing was torn, a hair from the horse's tail would be plucked and used to stitch it. And in some competitions, judges look for all the details.

A seasoned rider is a novice if a switch is made to a driving event.

Two months ago Judy Thomas, of Plymouth, started driving lessons. She will be competing in English Pleasure Driving with Hi Fidelity TLC (aka Fuzzy) in the All-Morgan Show this week.

This is a new class for Thomas who is very excited about the upcoming event. Although Thomas is a driving novice, Fuzzy is no stranger to this competition. Currently, Thomas and trainer Slomkowski are working on getting horse and driver to communicate.

All of Thomas' experiences have not been positive on a horse.

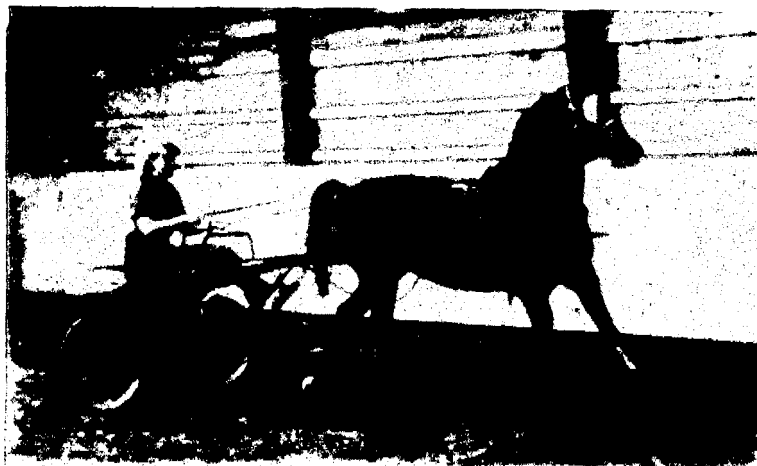

"I started in Western (style riding on a Quarter horse)," said Thomas. "When I came here I was quite afraid. I'd been kicked off before, the horse was too much for me."

Now she rides English Style Hunt Seat on a Morgan (which is the style used by the British in fox hunts).

Thomas has learned a lot about horse competition. Last year she was riding in a show, and lost one of her stirrups. She got off the horse and put the stirrup back on.

Fortunately for Thomas, the event strictly evaluated the horse. Her lessons the following week were without stirrups, and trainer Slomkowski made it clear to her that she is not to get off the horse during a show.

Cindy Schwall of Plymouth, a 1983 Salem High grad, will be competing in Pleasure Driving and English Pleasure Riding. Schwall has a decade of experience riding horses and has been showing for four years.

She will be riding and driving GVF Night Shift (aka Scotty), a five-year-old Morgan she purchased in Sept. 1990. Both are experienced in competition, although this will only be Scotty's second show under a harness.

Two days after purchasing Scotty, Schwall entered him in the Buckeye Challenge and won the Junior Park Saddle Competition. One month later Scotty went to the World Championship in Oklahoma and placed third in the world in the Ladies Park Saddle competition.

Nine horses from CJM Stables in Northville will be going to the show, including a yearling, Sugar, who will be presented in-hand by trainer Jeff Whetherly and assistant trainer Plikiewicz.

CJM has a host of youth competitors from Northville in the show this year.

Katie Mair, 17, of Northville will be showing CJM's Perfection in the Junior Exhibitor English Pleasure competition.

Mair placed in the top 10 in the World Championship last year in Western Pleasure and Hunt Seat.

Mair was a dream come true for Whetherly. She and Perfection are a perfect match.

"The hardest thing for a trainer is to match horses and rider real well," said Whetherly. "With Katie it happened. Katie is an incredible rider."

Mair has been around horses all her life. She started showing at age four in Lead Line and has moved through many of the events, including Saddle Seat at age 7. By 10 she was competing in Hunt, Saddle and Western Seat competitions. She has no plans on returning from the sport.

Traveling Trophy (aka Trophy) will debut with a new rider, Jenny Cooley, of Northville. Trophy placed in the top 10 in 1991 Equitation at the Worlds in Oklahoma.
